Cuba Opens New Trials In Quiet Air

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Says Castro, 16A

Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

By Herald Wire Services

HAVANA, Cuba — The Havana war crimes trials reopened Monday night in a small, decorous courtroom setting in striking contrast to the noisy, spectacular first trial scene in the Sports Palace last week. Also, TV and radio coverage now are banned.

The change was ordered by the Castro revolutionary regime after a deluge of foreign criticism over the circus character imparted by the 30,000 loud spectators at the first trial. It ended last Friday at dawn in a verdict of death for ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco for murder and other crimes against Castro rebels fighting the regime of ex-Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The first defendant at the resumed trials was a 15-year Cuban army veteran, ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon, 38, who like Blanco was charged with assassination, homicide and robbery.

He pleaded not guilty on all counts.

A hitch developed at the outset late Monday afternoon when it turned out that someone had neglected to summon Morejon from La Cabana Fortress, about six miles from the courtroom, and the trial was recessed nearly two hours while he was brought to court.

The 200-seat Hall of Justice in the Superior War Court building at the edge of Camp Libertad (formerly Camp Columbia) was packed with witnesses, reporters and a few persons carrying special permits.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment —words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled 'stool pigeons' and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Batista claims history will show that he did more for

Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE

Herald Managing Editor

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

PERON

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrant comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawk-nosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment?" said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

AFL-CIO Battle Is Bared

Craft Unions Dissatisfied

By DOM BONAFEDE

Herald Staff Writer

A clash within a strong faction of the AFL-CIO, which could change the face of the American labor movement, is being fought out behind closed doors at Miami Beach, The Herald learned Monday.

The closed conference has drawn AFL-CIO President George Meany, who admitted he met Monday with the group in what apparently is a high-level attempt to stave off a major breach.

Leaders of 18 craft unions belonging to the Building Trades Department opened a week-long conference at the Singapore Hotel to chart the group's future course.

For the past several months a below-the-surface dispute between AFL-CIO craft unions and industrial unions have been waged over jurisdictional rights.

On the craft union side, some factions of the Building Trades Department have hinted at seceding and joining Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters Union.

On the other side stand such labor giants as Walter Reuther, of the Automobile Workers Union, and Dave McDonald, of the Steelworkers Union.

Meany, who insists he is here on vacation, admitted to The Herald he attended the building trades opening sessions.

All of the union heads, including Richard J. Gray, Building Trades president, are tight-lipped about the major huddle.

"I refuse to talk to the press except to admit that Meany sat in on our meetings," declared Gray.

Gray, longtime president of the group, is expected to resign to make way for a younger leader who will press the fight against the industrial unions.

Craft unions, composed of skilled workmen, and industrial unions, which include complete industries, find themselves in dispute over which side has the right to organize particular plants.

The problem is becoming more acute as the age of technology advances.

Many labor experts have called the current squabble the most serious threat to the unity of the AFL-CIO since 1935 when the CIO was organized after a labor revolt.

There is also talk that the Metal Trades Department, made up of 20 craft unions, will merge with the building trades group.

Together the two outfits number more than three million union members.

Attending the meetings is Maurice Hutcheson, president of the 850,000-member Carpenters Union.

Hutcheson, who has been under fire for refusing to tell Senate investigators how he spent union funds, is out of grace with the AFL-CIO Executive Committee.

Hutcheson has indicated he may take his powerful union and walk across the street to Hoffa's Teamsters if the AFL-CIO executive committee is rough on him when he appears before it in San Juan, Puerto Rico, next month.

Should Hutcheson pull out of the AFL-CIO, other disgruntled craft unions might follow suit.

Onslaught of Piercing Cold Hampers Flood Recovery

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather - caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

In Milwaukee, where two men died of heart attacks shoveling snow, the January depth was 24.3 inches — the most since 1951.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sun and a Gentle Wind

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Miami has a brighter outlook for today and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

Mikoyan's Visit Paved The Way, Red Chief Believes

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour by his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovietskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Gypsies Pray for Prince, 6

By JOY REESE SHAW

Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old Gypsy prince fought for life and a throne Monday while tribesmen from all over the south chanted and prayed on the hospital lawn outside.

As the rythmic cries died away, little Larry Mitchell returned to consciousness after a hit-and-run accident — and skull surgery.

Outside his room, the aged king of the gypsies Steve Mitchell—Larry's 87-year-old grandfather—kept a tense and silent vigil.

On the hospital grounds grief turned to hope and even joy as gaily-clad gypsies awaited the child's fate.

They are from the 800-member Russian Gypsy tribe.

"The man hit him and didn't even stop," a soft-voiced woman explained. "But God will punish him. God knows and he will punish."

A stout woman with heavy necklaces and dangling earrings nodded quick agreement.

"We will stay," she said "until he is out of the hospital."

The tiny, dark-haired lad was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, by playmates.

Police and hospital spokesmen theorized he could have suffered lacerations and skull fracture in a hard fall, but he

West Offers Half of Jobs At A-Test Posts to Reds

Russians Still Hold Back on Global Control

GENEVA —(AP)— The Western powers Monday offered Russia the right to fill half the jobs in all nuclear test control posts set up on U.S. and British territory.

In return, the American and British delegations asked for the same concession by the Soviet Union and Moscow's acceptance of the basic concept of international control. The proposal was made at the three-power conference on suspension of nuclear tests.

The Western proposal means that nationals of any country should not be the watchdogs to determine whether their own government has violated a ban on tests.

The Russians, who have been demanding that control posts in their own territory be staffed by Russians, modified their proposals somewhat. They suggested that each station should have "four or five foreign controllers" rather than one or two as they previously had proposed.

But the Western powers said the Russians still held back on true international control — a point on which the American and British delegations say they never will compromise.

British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore presented what was called "tables illustrating the international staffing of control posts."

British delegation sources said the Western plan was so iron-clad that it was difficult for Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin to refute it. They added that if Moscow ultimately turns down the Western plan, it will be difficult for Soviet representatives to defend such action in the U. N.

The control system would work this way in a typical post in the U. S. or Britain: The staff named by the top administrator of the system would consist of half Soviet citizens and half citizens of other countries such as Sweden, Switzerland or India.

The administrator himself would be elected with the unanimous approval of the three atomic powers.

Four More Years of Draft Loom

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Charles C. Finucane said Monday a four-year extension of the draft is absolutely essential to keep the nation's military strength geared to cold-war needs.

He estimated the armed forces would fall 700,000 to 800,000 men below their required strengths if the draft were allowed to lapse.

Finucane testified as the House Armed Services Committee took up the question of extending the Draft Act, now scheduled to die June 30.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) forecast swift committee approval of the proposal. He said the act is indispensable to U. S. security.

Vinson also announced he would question Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy about an administration decision to cut the Army to 870,000 men despite a congressional finding that its strength should be maintained at 900,000.

Vinson said the action might force Congress to "take a mandatory position" on Army strength.

Two dissents to the administration's draft proposals came from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Council Against Conscription.

The chamber urged a two-year instead of a four-year extension and sought an amendment which would put more draftees in the 18½-to-21½ age group. It contended younger men "make more efficient, enthusiastic soldiers."

The Council urged Congress to let the act die. In an appeal signed by churchmen, educators and others, it said Space Age weapons make even a standby selective service law of questionable value.

The administration's measure would extend to July 1, 1963, the drafting of eligible men between the ages of 18½ and 26 for two years service. It also would continue until the same date the draft of doctors and dentists up to the age of 35.

Bartender Dies as Car Hits Truck

By ELVALEE SWIFT
Herald Staff Writer

A 40-year-old part-time bartender, hurrying home, along near-empty Biscayne Blvd. early Monday, was killed when he rammed his convertible into the back of a stopped dairy truck.

Alex Joseph Mottle, of 305 NW 102nd St., became Dade's 14th traffic fatality this year.

Mottle, customer relations agent for his brother, Ralph C. Mottle Jr., who is in the gas business, started working part-time about four months ago in the Formosa Restaurant at S. Dixie Hwy. and Red Rd. in South Miami.

Police said Mottle was heading north when his car hit a Land 'O Sun dairy truck at Biscayne Blvd. and 76th Street.

The truck, driven by Bobby J. Caulder, 30, was stopped at a stoplight. The impact knocked it 100 feet, police said.

Mottle, who came here five years ago from Chicago, is survived by his Miami brother and his parents, another brother and two sisters in Chicago. Services will be in Chicago.

Roland Cover, 42, of 232 NE 16th St., who reportedly died of injuries suffered in a traffic accident, died of a heart attack, the medical examiner's office said Monday.

Gypsies Await Fate Of Little Prince

appeared to have been victim of an auto accident.

The child-prince was rushed to North Shore Hospital. As if by magic, word swept the South.

Caravans of gypsies converged on the hospital lawn, praying and chanting. There were some 100 of them.

They were orderly and polite, but grief-stricken as they moaned their sorrowful songs.

Only when a doctor finally spoke to them and told them Larry was improved were most of them willing to go, leaving a smaller group to keep watch.

By Monday, some had come from as far away as Texas and North Carolina.

"Our tribe reaches as far as Indiana," one handsome, mustached man explained. He lay propped on an elbow, thoughtfully chewing a blade of grass.

Around him some 30 others sat cross-legged, talking in low tones. Still others slept or rested in late model cars.

Sometimes they spoke in an unknown tongue — probably Romany, the Indo-Iranian language. Partially East Indian in origin, gypsies are descendants of people who migrated from India centuries ago.

Some are Catholic — some Greek Orthodox.

"But whatever, if you lift a prayer together, He hears," said a woman sweetly.

There were varying stories on the sick lad's royal standing—but that he was royalty there was no doubt—grandson of King Steve Mitchell—"the old and wise one."

One account had it that the elderly king had 10 children but no male heirs. Another that all the king's 10 children were males — with little Larry's father the eldest.

Children danced on the sidewalk. There was light laughter. The hospital's soft-drink machine got heavy business. And there was coming and going to a nearby restaurant for food.

Though still in critical condition, the prince was better.

Hawaii Renews Battle

Statehood Vote Seen by Easter

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House might vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has earned the right to fair and equal treatment with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists." He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government."

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Mass. pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood as quickly as possible after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the rules committee.

Hawaii statehood supporters said fast action by the O'Brien group will allow time to force action on the measure if the rules committee attempts to block it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has yet to give a firm commitment for Senate action. But Senate leaders have indicated they also favor speed.

Supporters of Hawaiian statehood stepped aside last year to let the Alaskan bill ease through alone under a gentlemen's agreement which would give Hawaii the nod this year.

Reps. James A. Haley (D., Fla.) and Walter Rogers (D., Tex.) — both Hawaii statehood foes — were the only ones to challenge Seaton Monday. They suggested that Hawaiian statehood would open the door to requests for similar offshore areas.

Haley objected to including a recent subcommittee report in the record until he had read it, and he asked that Seaton be recalled for further questioning at another committee meeting.

"I realize the practical situation," he said, "but I think the chairman could move just a little slower here."

Rogers questioned Seaton about the possible subsequent admission of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other U.S. possessions.

Seaton said that in his mind no other American flag area is presently qualified, and he said he is not aware of any desire for statehood on the part of their residents.

Soviet Subs Can't Top Us Boat for Boat, Navy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Navy is satisified that Russia's submarines cannot match the performance of American subs "boat for boat."

But the great and growing number of submarines that Russia could throw into action worries the Navy considerably.

This two-sided picture was given to the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations. They testified in a closed briefing session.

Part of the testimony was made public. It included the appraisal of the submarine situation and a discussion of the Navy's growing nuclear power. Burke especially sounded alarmed about the Red subs.

Gates said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with a nuclear punch, both from Polaris submarines able to launch missiles from under water and from carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

Nancy Holds Her Own

Guild's Rigoletto Proves a Success

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music and Art Editor

A Music Review

Miami Opera Guild presented an excellent and moving "Rigoletto" in Dade County Auditorium Monday night — the first of three performances of the initial opera of the season. The others are scheduled for Wednesday evening in Miami Beach auditorium, and Saturday evening back in Dade County auditorium.

For this opera the Guild had on stage two of the finest Italian singers of this era—Giuseppe Taddei as Rigoletto and Flaviano Labo as the Duke of Mantua. Both are veterans of La Scala Opera.

Matched against them was Miami's own little lyric soprano Nancy Firszt (billed as Patricia Cali) who had been flown from Milan, where she has been singing for six years, as a last-minute replacement for the ailing German coloratura Erika Koeth.

Nancy, who is a lirico leggiero — or light lyric soprano —not a coloratura, held her own splendidly, and sang the Gilda role with clarity, accuracy, and sweetness. Her voice is especially warm and affecting in its middle register.

Though she was a little nervous throughout the second act, the young singer collected her forces and did her best singing in the third act, in the final duet where she and Rigoletto console one another and plan for their future.

Her "Cara Nome" in the second act was beautifully done, though just perhaps a shade too carefully. All her singing in the third act, however, was "in the vein", well-controlled, and lovely to hear. She got a big hand from "the home folks."

Both Taddei and Labo have in their voices an unusual proportion of sweetness and real beauty for such big instruments, and they comprise a superb team for this particular opera.

All of Taddei's arias, particularly the "Cortigiani" and "Parisiamo," were magnificent, and he just about walked away with the acting honors, since this seems to be a "natural" role for him.

Labo, who gets his principal arias in this opera at the beginning of acts, had to contend with several hundred people returning from intermission during his "Ella mi fu rapita" at the opening of Act Three.

Some of his most beautiful singing of the evening was done in this, which many could not appreciate because of the rustle of silk and satin. His "Questa o quella" at the beginning of Act One also was splendidly sung.

Two seasoned singers from the Metropolitan Opera carried the other principal roles — Thelma Altman as an intriguing little Maddalena and Norman Scott as Sparafucile. The singing of both was well-turned and most effective. Scott, however, remains a somewhat gentlemanly killer.

Another Miamian, still a student at University turned in a surprisingly mature and strong performance as Monterone. Though only about 20, James McCormick was a noble figure as the wronged courtier, and his voice, both big and attractive, rang out splendidly.

Young McCormick's sister, Veronica, also did her hometown proud in the smaller role of Giovanna, which she handled with a good deal of flair, both vocally and by way of acting ability.

Other roles sung by local singers were those of Marullo, sung by George Gibson; Borsa, Gregory O'Berry; Count Ceprano, Tom Winston; Countess Ceprano, Irene Patty Swartz; an usher, Patrick Mathews; and a page, Gloria Traitz.

All sang very well and showed a good deal of stage presence and operatic know-how.

The general chorus was in as fine voice as ever — perhaps better — and actually we believe that the male chorus, though too large for effective stage manipulation, sang with more finesse than in any previous opera.

Its work in the abduction scene — though this was just where its numbers loomed too large — was really admirable.

Conductor Emerson Buckley kept up a fine, even exciting pace, throughout the score, though now and again he covered the singers, particularly during the second half of the first act.

The sets, freshly built for this performance, were about as good examples of realistic scenery as can be seen in opera.

Some of the small roles will be carried by other local singers during the two further performances.

National Summary

Warm air flowed over the south to raise temperatures to the 60s from east Texas to North Carolina by midday while cold winds probed deep into the country to extend freezing weather from Oklahoma across the mid Mississippi Valley to the mid Atlantic states.

Light snowfall over the plains reached scattered areas in the Mississippi Valley but the southern fringe of the cold mound developed freezing drizzle through Oklahoma and southern Kansas into Missouri and along the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

The cold air will continue to crowd southward through the eastern and central states with freezing temperatures into Virginia and southern Appalachians and into the northern sections of the Gulf states on Tuesday morning.

Rain will precede north winds into the southeastern states with freezing spreading more ice in a band from Arkansas to the Chesapeake Bay area.

The bulk of the cold air spread from the Great Lakes to the northern Rockies, will give 20 below readings in northern Minnesota and zeros into northern Iowa.

Teenage Hungarian Refugee Student Puts $64 Question to Red Diplomat

BOISE, Idaho —(AP)— Ever wanted to ask a Russian diplomat something like this?—

"If the people behind the Iron Curtain are so satisfied with communism, why are the frontiers of those countries mined?"

A pretty teenager put it to M. P. Fedorin, as the first secretary to the Soviet embassy in Washington, D. C., took part in a world affairs panel here.

The questioner, 18-year-old Sari Hargittay, identified herself as a Boise Junior College student who fled Hungary after the unsuccessful 1956 revolt.

What did Fedorin say?

He objected to the phrase, "Iron Curtain," then blandly launched into a brief discussion of the Soviet Union's relations with its satellites.

When panel moderator Boyd A. Martin of University of Idaho then asked if there were any more questions, there were cries of:

"No. No."

"Make him answer hers."

"Answer her question."

"I don't know why the borders are mined," Fedorin said at length.

"You're afraid!" Miss Hargittay cried.

"If I were afraid I wouldn't be here," Fedorin said calmly.

Collins Group Says No New Gas Tax Is Needed

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins' committee studying road rights-of-way costs said Monday it had agreed the State Road Department can assume responsibility for buying right-of-way for primary roads without increasing the seven cents a gallon gasoline tax.

Joe Grotegut
. . . meet primary needs

President Eisenhower has recommended a one and one-half cent federal tax increase on gasoline. Both Gov. Collins and Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut have expressed opposition to this increase.

Committee Chairman Rep. John Mathews Jr. of Jacksonville, also revealed plans to try to curb speculators who buy up and build places of business on prospectively valuable road right-of-way.

Mathews said this could be done by repealing a law which allows property owners damages over and above "a fair and just price for the land," for estimated loss of business if they have been operating on the site for five years.

This could also be accomplished, Mathews said, in the opinion of the committee, by finding ways to step up construction and avoid long delays in building after road routes have been designated, particularly in large urban centers like Miami and Jacksonville.

The Duval County representative said the committee has not worked out formal proposals for rights-of-way procedures "but we believe a re-examination of present Road Department policy will enable the state to pay costs of rights-of-way out of primary road funds."

Under a long-standing Road Department policy, counties have been required to buy rights-of-way out of secondary gasoline tax money.

The state's big counties don't have enough secondary money to meet the demands for right-of-way and maintain their county road systems.

Mathews said the committee's proposal would not conflict with Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut's recommendation the Legislature permit counties to impose a local one-cent a gallon tax to provide additional funds for strictly county programs.

State road officials have stuck to the policy of requiring counties to buy right-of-way on grounds all primary funds are needed for actual road construction.

"This committee hopes to come up with some recommendations," Mathews said, "that will not only enable the state to buy right-of-way, but find more money available for primary construction without any increase in the gasoline tax."

Two cents of the seven cents a gallon tax now is distributed to counties under an antiquated constitutional formula, based on road mileage and land area with population increases having only a slight influence. A third cent is distributed on pretty much the same formula.

Mathews said he sees little chance for any change in the constitutional formula, but the committee's recommendations should result in more effective use of primary funds and, at the same time, give relief to counties hard-pressed for local road money.

Schools What We Make Them, He Says

Stevenson Blames People For Any Education Slump

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said Monday that the American people themselves must shoulder the blame for the ills of public education in this country.

STEVENSON

"If the community wants driver education or bachelor cooking instead of Latin and mathematics, it will get it," he told the annual convention of the National School Boards Association. "And if the colleges give scholarships to boys with coordinated bodies rather than with coordinated minds, what will a student value?"

The titular head of the Democratic Party reminded the school board members from across the nation that "students and their families are reluctant to borrow for education. They will buy TV's, autos, washing machines, even travel, on time and credit, but not education for their children. Is it less necessary?"

He said "improvement is imperative," despite "the anti-intellectualism of so many communities, the inertia of so many pupils and the poverty of so many school districts."

Stevenson rapped the nation's schools of education and teachers' colleges for what he said was living in isolation from the sources of intellectual ferment in the great universities.

"There has been too much emphasis," he said, "on how to teach a child, rather than what to teach him . . . The emphasis must be restored to teaching teachers the solid content of history, science, English, etc., instead of the techniques of teaching."

He said, "Personally, I doubt if we ever again have enough teachers, let alone enough good ones. We will have to have more recourse to the new techniques of teaching by film and television. Happily, the American teacher, no longer dependent on the printed page, can now draw from a vast library of remarkable educational films to open the doors of a child's mind."

"The spurt that Sputnik gave American education is dying down," Stevenson said.

"I think it is time we, all of us," he said, "asked ourselves some searching questions about our values, about the kind of people we really are.

"If our freedom means ease alone, if it means shirking the hard disciplines of learning, if it means evading the rigors and rewards of creative activity, if it means more expenditure on advertising than education, if it means in the schools the steady cult of the trivial and the mediocre, if it means — worst of all — indifference or even contempt for all but athletic excellence, we may keep for a time the form of free society, but its spirit will be dead."

Fishermen Returned

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — Twelve fishermen held prisoner in Guatemala since New Year's Eve have returned to Mexico after paying $75 fines.

This was the latest development since Mexico broke relations after Guatemala rejected three Mexican protest notes over the strafing of Mexican fishing boats Dec. 31 off Guatemala's Pacific coastline.

Three Mexicans were killed, 14 injured and several captured. The captured Fishermen had been held in a Guatemalan jail since that time.

Inside Russia It's Not All Peachy

Some News Will Be Made

WESTERN students of Russia and communism will have a weather eye on today's "extraordinary" Twenty-First Congress of the Russian Communist Party, meeting in Moscow.

The Congress is a non-governmental body, but since the difference between the Soviet government and the Communist Party is the difference between sixes and half-dozens, whatever emerges will have an official imprint.

In fact, as a 2,400-member cheering section for the Presidium, the Congress is expected to rubber-stamp decisions made higher up. The last "extraordinary" Congress was convened as long ago as 1918 by Lenin to ratify the Treaty of Brest-Litovsk, though the regular ones meet periodically.

But some news doubtless will be made. Some will be made, perhaps, by Anastas Mikoyan, who came, saw but didn't conquer. Or by Khrushchev on Berlin.

Or, conceivably, by some grumbling over the state of the Soviet economy.

●

ALL is not in apple-pie order in the Soviet Union.

Some evidence coming to light suggests that dire predictions of Soviet industrial ascendancy may not prove to be accurate.

For instance, the Congress is expected to approve Comrade Khrushchev's new Seven Year Plan. This is a scheme which succeeds the sixth Five Year Plan, dumped in 1957 after — so to speak — things were not going according to plan.

The industrial targets of the sixth plan in fact were never achieved. In a revealing piece of research, the Soviet Affairs Analysis Service finds that "planned rates of increase in the main branches of heavy industry were not met during the first two years of the present five-year plan . . . would not be met in 1958 either." The Analysis Service, staffed by refugees from Communist Russia, carefully combs and sifts the Soviet press and appears reasonably objective in its conclusions. On heavy industry it came up with this table:

Steel	4.6 million	3.3	2.6
Pig Iron	3.9 tons	2.5	2.1
Rolled Iron	3.6	2.5	2.5
Coal	40.6	28.0	26.0
Electricity	30.6 Mil Kwh	21.9	21.0

Figures for 1957 are omitted for space considerations. Actually, they show a poorer rate of achievement under the abortive sixth Five Year Plan than in 1956.

Goals, then, are industrially short. They appear to be short also in agriculture.

THE great debate in Russia today is over the want of consumer goods and the demands made upon national productivity by heavy industry. But heavy industry isn't doing so well.

Perhaps this was one reason for Mr. Mikoyan's visit to the United States in quest of credits for the purchase of articles Russia sorely needs. As everyone knows, he went away with empty hands and angry growls.

Thus the Congress meeting today may produce some international excitement. For the Red Heaven is hurting.

One Way To Get The Causeway

A NEW thought has been injected into the problem of opening to development the last stretch of raw oceanfront here. This is on the Upper Keys — Elliott, Old Rhodes, Sands, Arsenicker and smaller islands off the south end of Dade County.

This potential resort area is now isolated for lack of a causeway from the mainland.

Up to now, plans for such a viaduct have faltered because engineers say it would cost more than could be earned by tolls.

The new suggestion is that landowners on the islands might form a special tax district and tax themselves to pay all or part of the expense of building a causeway. They won't be the only beneficiaries, if the bridge is built right to provide miles of new public beach, but their interest is substantial.

The possibility deserves to be explored thoroughly along with any others which may hasten the development of these islands. It will be a boon to the whole county. It can be done by far-sighted, original thinking of the kind exemplified by the new idea.

Gasoline Taxes -- A Battleground

SUPPORT for President Eisenhower's proposal to raise federal gasoline taxes from 3 to 4½ cents a gallon — if there ever was any — is rapidly vanishing.

The latest group to come out in opposition is a powerful one. Gov. Price Daniel of Texas reports that 29 other governors have joined him in a frontal assault on the proposal.

Motorists who would pay the bill can take little consolation in the solicitude of the governors, who want the tax left for state purposes.

Many states are considering a raise in their gas taxes this year if they didn't raise them last year. This number includes Florida, where the additional tax would be optional on a county or district basis to provide local funds for rights-of-way or local needs such as expressways.

GOVERNOR DANIEL in his blast at the administration proposal raised an interesting point — that federal highway use taxes are being diverted to other purposes. So far as the Interstate Highway Program is concerned, the opposite is true.

When the act was passed in 1955 it contained a pay-as-you-go feature. Gas taxes must be in the treasury before they could be apportioned. As the program slowly got under way, costs soared — they were up 27 per cent over original estimates last week. But as a recession cure and to keep the work moving, Congress dropped the pay-now provision last year and since then the road funds have been supplemented from general funds.

This was behind the President's request for higher gas taxes. It was a difficult choice between seeing the program bog down or letting it become an increasing drain on the treasury. Mr. Eisenhower's decision was in keeping with his overall approach to balancing the budget.

IT IS hard, however, on the motorist. Florida drivers, now paying 10 cents tax on every gallon of gas, could look forward soon to paying 12½ cents. Drivers in other states pay proportionately. And that's not all. Motorists who use turnpikes, where the tolls average 1½ cents a mile, are paying the equivalent of 22 cents a gallon on gas — at an average use of 15 miles a gallon — for the privilege of using these highways.

That is carrying the principle of use tax rather far. A good case can be made for the charge of unfairness to the motoring public. But what are the alternatives?

With the gas tax proposal coming increasingly under fire, other suggestions for financing the inflationary rise in costs of the Interstate Highway Program are gaining ground. These include:

Place the burden of rising costs on the general treasury, which would unbalance the budget.

Find some new form of taxation to ease the burden on gasoline.

Issue bonds to spread costs over 15 to 20 years.

Slow down the program so that present income will pay the way.

Somewhere among these suggestions Congress will be looking for a way to get around the President's proposal to raise gas taxes.

A Special Night At The Opera

NO OTHER city in Florida, and few in the country, can claim the distinction enjoyed by Greater Miami last night.

The occasion was the first night of this city's yearly opera season, always gala. What made it very special was that the star was a young woman born and reared in Miami who has made a success in opera abroad and was giving her first performance in her home town.

To European opera fans, she is Patricia Cali, and that was the name on the program for the soprano singing the role of Gilda in "Rigoletto." Many in the audience knew her as Nancy Firszt, native Miamian, educated at Miami High School and the University of Miami.

By either name, Miamians can be proud of her. Her home-coming helps tell the world that this city is not only an enthusiastic patron of the arts but a contributor to their advancement.

All Three Are Right Here

COMPTROLLER Ray E. Green has been analyzing state sales tax returns for another forecast of what Florida may take in during the next two budget years.

The picture seems to shade from gloomy to bright — from tourist slumps here and there to substantial economic growth over the state. His study pinpoints the effect of industrial expansion.

"The tax returns from Hillsborough (Tampa), Orange (Orlando) and Duval (Jacksonville) Counties are very encouraging," Mr. Green finds.

All three have been wooing and getting new industrial plants. They loom large in the economy of those areas on a base that is solid.

●

INDUSTRY needs power and water. We have the water, as Mr. Green points out, although "it is sometimes hard to get at."

Now the power is coming and it won't be hard to get at along the East Coast where conditions are ideal for industrial expansion. The huge pipeline of the Houston Corporation and its subsidiaries is snaking steadily across and down the peninsula. Natural gas from the Texas fields will be flowing through it by midsummer at a rate of 282 million cubic feet a day.

Already Houston has plans for expansion to raise the capacity to 441 million cubic feet a day.

Industries are watching the pipeline for site locations. Others can be attracted by climate, water and power. Few areas can offer all three. We can.

How Would You Like These Hot Seats?

George McSherry
. . . hunting season

O. W. Campbell
. . . never closes

By JEANNE BELLAMY
Herald Editorial Writer

HOW WOULD you like to swap places with Hump Campbell or George McSherry? They hold the biggest jobs in local government.

But don't jump too fast into their shoes. You might be better off as the sideshow character who sticks his head through a canvas as a target for baseballs.

At least the human bull's-eye can see what's coming and duck. Campbell and McSherry get it mostly from the side and from the rear.

* * *

Bellamy

BASEBALLS aren't used in the game of "hit Campbell" or "hit McSherry." Instead, the weapons are a sort of invisible, poison - tipped dart with a built-in mechanism that propels the missile over a crooked course to its target.

Hits are frequent. Up to now, Campbell and McSherry probably are tied for the local championship as political dartboards.

Why are they on the receiving end of so many potshots? It isn't just because County Manager O. W. Campbell is the $35,000-a-year administrator of Metropolitan Government, or because McSherry is earning $30,000 a year as director of the Dade County Port Authority.

That's only part of it. For the rest, you have to glance back nearly three years.

* * *

REMEMBER the primaries to nominate county commissioners in May, 1956? At that time, county commissioners here governed little but territory outside city limits. They doubled as members of the Port Authority, in charge of Miami International Airport, Venetian Causeway and so on.

Four of the five incumbents ran for re-election. The fifth withdrew, opening a scramble for his seat.

All four incumbents were defeated, along with eight other candidates. Five brand-new men took over in a clean sweep.

Each of the dozen losers had supporters, of course. They strongly disapproved of the outcome. Because their candidates didn't win, they were full of dire forebodings.

* * *

THE PORT Authority director under the old regime quit before the new commission took office in January, 1957. Finding a replacement became the first major order of business for the five new commissioners.

Dart-throwers got busy. They predicted the post would go to some political hack. Individuals who might fill that description were among the 47 applicants.

But the commissioners made a nationwide search, then chose McSherry, an engineer with long airport experience, including eight years as manager of New York's huge Idlewild Airport.

* * *

McSHERRY stepped into the midst of a multi-million-dollar expansion program at Miami International Airport. He found the new terminal then being built already too small for growing air traffic here. Plans were revised, and a consumer service building added to house concessions.

Two hundred bidders vied for the 20 concessions. For each one awarded, there were nine disappointed — and in some cases disgruntled — applicants.

During this period, too, airline officials found out that McSherry wore no ring in his nose to be led around by. Some of them joined the anti-McSherry underground.

* * *

THREE MONTHS after McSherry's appointment, the county commissioners were persuaded to set up a Citizens Aviation Advisory Committee. Of its 11 members, five — including the chairman and vice chairman — turned out to be men who had applied for McSherry's job but didn't get it.

Their method of "advising" McSherry has ranged from snooping to calling him on the carpet to going over his head to the commissioners.

See why McSherry's job is no bed of roses?

* * *

SO MAYBE you'd rather be County Manager Campbell. Ha! You'd need a hide tougher than an alligator's.

Slings and arrows aimed at Campbell were flying before he came here from San Diego, Calif., and there's no sign of a let-up.

His job was created by the Home Rule Charter, ratified by the voters here May 21, 1957. That was less than five months after the five new county commissioners moved into the courthouse. They were designated by the charter as the initial directors of Metropolitan Government, with countywide lawmaking powers. Selecting Metro's first chief executive was up to them.

* * *

THEIR DETRACTORS were sure they'd pick some shopworn local politician. Instead, they started with the 10 outstanding city managers in the country, as listed by the impartial Dade County Research Foundation.

They narrowed the field to Campbell, L. P. Cookingham of Kansas City and two local men, Miami's City Manager E. A. Evans and Ira W. Willard, then city manager of Coral Gables, now a banking executive.

By a 3-to-2 vote, the commissioners chose Campbell.

* * *

EVANS became generalissimo of a drive to cut the heart out of the charter by making the 26 municipalities here untouchable to Metro. City officials banded together in the Dade County League of Municipalities to seek a charter amendment to that end.

Their campaign centered on accusing the commissioners and Campbell of going too fast toward making Metro work.

At the same time, candidates were emerging for six additional seats on the Metro commission. The charter specified that these should be filled in September, 1958.

The anti-Metro forces wooed these candidates. Some campaigned for limiting Metro to unincorporated areas, making it little more than a 27th municipality.

* * *

MEANTIME, Campbell was on shaky ground. The five men who had appointed him, with only three affirmative votes, were about to be outnumbered by six newcomers. Campbell walked warily. He limited himself almost entirely to streamlining the county government's internal organization.

The anti-Metro charter amendment was resoundingly defeated last Sept. 30. On the same day, voters elected the six new commissioners. They took office Oct. 14.

All but one of the six were avowedly pro-Metro, but several had criticized decisions of the five commissioners already on duty, and all had been subjected to anti-Metro arguments.

* * *

ACTING like the proverbial new broom, the six set out to review nearly everything done by the five. They have said nothing, aloud, about Campbell, but Evans is still standing in the wings and at least one courthouse figure who wasn't in the running originally seems to be waging guerrilla warfare for the county manager's job.

Still think you'd like to swap places with Campbell or McSherry? If so, be sure of one thing: anything you do will be criticized by somebody, and if you do nothing, you'll get hit from all sides.

Voice Of The People

And Speaking Of Targets--!

Editor The Herald: A few days ago, an eloquent, aggressive, unannounced but hard-running candidate for governor in 1960, presented Dade Countians some scintillating samples of his campaign oratory.

This orotund orator has cleverly selected an ideal "whipping boy," the U.S. Supreme Court. Since the court can't retaliate, he is entirely safe in assailing it. He makes only a few voters mad by assailing the nation's highest court. Its members can't vote against him. So he runs no risk at all in railing against this imaginary ogre.

This forensic fighter is so versatile that he can wage political war on two fronts at the same time. Shortly before hurling his mouth missile at the country's top tribunal from the launching pad of a local civic club, this flaming fulminator fired a verbal volley at U.S. Attorney General William P. Rogers, accusing him of inciting colored citizens to vote. This scholarly rhetorician then demanded that Mr. Rogers resign without delay.

At this writing, Rogers still is stubbornly sticking to his high post, but it is not known how long the besieged official can survive the bombardment of Florida's fiery fusileer.

Floridians may expect to be regularly regaled from now until the 1960 election by rhetorical rockets from this political gladiator.

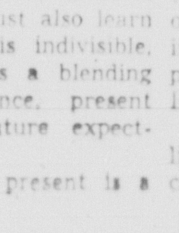
OVER 40

Strictly Personal

All Is Past, Present, Future

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS



Harris

THE PEOPLE who insist that one must "live for the present" are as foolish and lopsided as the people who live wistfully in the past or the people who live hopefully in the future.

Time is seamless. Past, present and future are woven into the same fabric. The present is continually disappearing into the past, before we can grasp it. And, in a real sense, the future never comes.

Time and space are part of the same continuum, Einstein taught us. We must also learn that time itself is indivisible, that every act is a blending of past experience, present situation, and future expectancy.

Living for the present is a senseless philosophy. The man who most perfectly lives for the present is the criminal: he forgets the prison sentence of the past, and he ignores the probable prison sentence of the future. He lives from "score" to "score."

* * *

WE MUST not look behind too much, we must not look ahead too far, and we must not fix our gaze too steadily on the immediate. Each of these angles of vision has its own particular dangers.

What is necessary, it seems to me, is a delicate combination of the three. Those who focus on the past become apathetic; those who peer exclusively into the future become unrealistic; those who live on a day-to-day basis become incapable of learning from the past and incapable of controlling the future.

The mind likes to break up life into categories — but these categories are illusions. For instance, we think the past is behind us, but it is not; it is very much with us, very much alive, very much a part of everything we do now.

We think the future lies ahead, but its seed is contained in the present. There is no sharp break between the two: the lie we tell today can send us sprawling a year from now; the way we treat our infant determines the way he treats us when he reaches adolescence.

* * *

LIFE IS a flow, a stream. The current is everywhere . . . Like mariners, we must learn the shoals, the rocks, the rapids. No man can navigate only from wave to wave, for the waves are part of a ceaseless pattern in time.

Live for the present? It is impossible; and if it were possible, it would be fatal. To live for the present is the surest way of forfeiting the future to barbarism and bestiality.

Behind The Front Page

County Operating In Four Orbits

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

MY VISITOR said that he, too, had made some observations about the Metro commission.

His business brings him to many of their meetings.

"They're still in the speech-making stage," he said.

"I get the impression that some of them think a new campaign is coming up within a month or so, and they're getting ready for it.

Pennekamp

"Of course, that isn't it; what's happening is that the newer members haven't all come out of the high and airy atmosphere of political pledging and promising to grapple with the realities."

* * *

THERE ARE at least three orbits, he continued, maybe four.

One is that in which the county manager is circulating.

A second is that one in which the adherents of the old and more experienced commissioners are moving, with one or two of the newer men joining them.

A third is that in which the newer men are operating.

Then, too, there is one in which the whole commission operates sometimes.

* * *

HE SAID he could observe no cordiality between the county manager, O. W. Campbell, and the commissioners, but put that down as a personality matter.

"The county manager," he said, "just isn't a hail fellow well met, and the commissioners all have the flair of politicians to some degree."

Were he asked to describe the commission and the manager in one word, he said it would be:

Campbell — details.

Commission — flashy.

"Things could get started, and done," he concluded, "if the two conditions found a half-way meeting place."

* * *

Reserved

FOLKS WHO occasionally must go to Tallahassee on business at the capitol will say a hearty "amen" to the comment of Sen. John Rawls of Marianna:

There seems to be a reserved parking place for everyone but the taxpayer who's footing the bill.

A check by The Tallahassee Democrat revealed that only 14 places are available to visitors in the wide open spaces of Capitol Center, and these will go "official" when the Legislature meets in April.

All but the 14 are guarded by signs reading: "Reserved for State Employes. Police Enforced."

The newspaper suggests that all spaces be metered "to cut down the occupancy or at least recover some of the purchase price of the land."

All of which is interesting, but, if you're driving to Tallahassee to go to the capitol I suggest that you walk from your hotel to the capitol, or take a taxi.

Track Removals

ST. PETERSBURG — Seaboard Air Line Railroad will start to move its tracks out of downtown April 15, completing the job within 120 days.

Lakeland — The city is negotiating with three local banks which have offered a financing arrangement under which the downtown tracks of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad will be relocated. The program involves an exchange and sale of lands.

Miami — Relocation of the bisecting Florida East Coast Railroad tracks from downtown is awaiting the slow processes of terminating litigation in the Interstate Commerce Commission and the courts.

It could terminate in June or July, but the best guess is the end of 1959.

The litigation hinged on a fight for control of the technically bankrupt but highly solvent FEC, between the duPont interests and the ACL, which ended when W. Thomas Rice, president of ACL, withdrew several months ago.

Europe Looking to Moscow

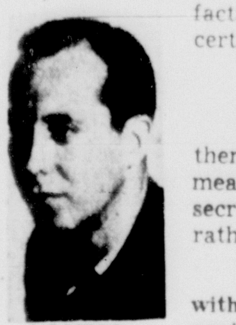
What's Behind Khrushchev Timing of Berlin Problem?

By DAVID M. NICHOL

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN, GERMANY — Europe's eyes are turning this week from Washington to Moscow for some hint of what comes next.

Fifteen hundred delegates and visitors assembling for the 21st Communist Party Congress which opens today will be occupied primarily with domestic problems.



NICHOL

But out of the discussions and from studies of appointments may come clues to these two vital questions:

—What prompted party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev to choose this particular period to boil up the present crisis over West Berlin?

—How much opposition is there internally to Khrushchev's personal plans and leadership?

★ ★ ★

THE TWO QUESTIONS may be more closely related than at first appears. Soviet foreign policy like the visible portion of an iceberg very often reflects some massive and largely hidden domestic consideration.

Most experts here are convinced the party congress itself will produce no uneasy moments for the Kremlin premier.

By manipulating party machinery down to the lowest levels, Khrushchev has packed the congress delegations with friends and supporters who will applaud but never criticize the rosy goals he has set for the new seven-year plan.

★ ★ ★

NOR IS THERE MUCH doubt that this is Khrushchev's show. Vice Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan may talk himself hoarse about "collective leadership."

A much better guide is a lengthy Pravda editorial about the conference plans.

Except for Khrushchev not one living Soviet citizen is mentioned favorably in six columns of nearly solid type as it is reproduced in the East Berlin party press.

Marx and Lenin are quoted in support of Khrushchev's program.

At the same time there is a mighty blast against the "anti-party group of Malenkov, Kaganovich, Molotov, Bulganin and Hepilov," in that order, and it is this which alarms some Soviet citizens.

Western visitors report almost no "opposition" to Khrushchev but eastern Europeans who sometimes see different facts and are more alert to subterranean intrigues are less certain.

★ ★ ★

IF THIS OPPOSITION is considerable in a hidden fashion then Khrushchev may find it necessary to take drastic measures. Replacement of Gen. Ivon Serov as chief of the secret police by a party functionary has increased this concern rather than diminished it.

There has also been more frequent reference recently within the Soviet Union to the necessity for "watchfulness against internal enemies."

These things send cold shivers down millions of Soviet backs for they recall too vividly the early stages of former purges.

★ ★ ★

SIZABLE INTERNAL opposition — if it exists — might also explain the timing of the Berlin crisis. More than one would be dictator in the past has used external "threats" to justify his domestic repressions.

There have also been at least indirect suggestions in talk of Mikoyan and others that the West would do well to give way to some of Khrushchev's demands in order to bolster Khrushchev's position domestically.

In this particular argument Khrushchev is portrayed as "moderate" with the warning that his successors probably would be worse and more intractable.

Weekend reports from Warsaw seem to confirm the existence of some form of "opposition." Polish Stalinists dethroned in the October upheavals in 1958 are said again to be active in preparations for the Polish party congress now scheduled in March.

Stork Meets Challenge Of Fast Flying Planes

By FRED SPARKS

I DO NOT INTEND to have a baby but I have always been fascinated at the inconvenient times and places chosen by mothers. One mother, for example, delayed America's revolution.

She made the British, in a gallant act we did not publicize at the time, stop shelling General Washington's army during the Battle for Long Island. General Braddock had learned the woman, residing in the line of fire, was having a premature six-pound boy.

Babies have been born in covered wagons during Indian raids, in the balconies of movie houses during double features, and in Madison Square Garden during a speech by Adlai Stevenson.

Recently, two Japanese ladies issued in different planes while the aircraft circled Tokyo airfield in a fog at the same time.

An Arabian liner made an emergency desert landing to allow an Egyptian woman to deliver without fear of air-pockets.

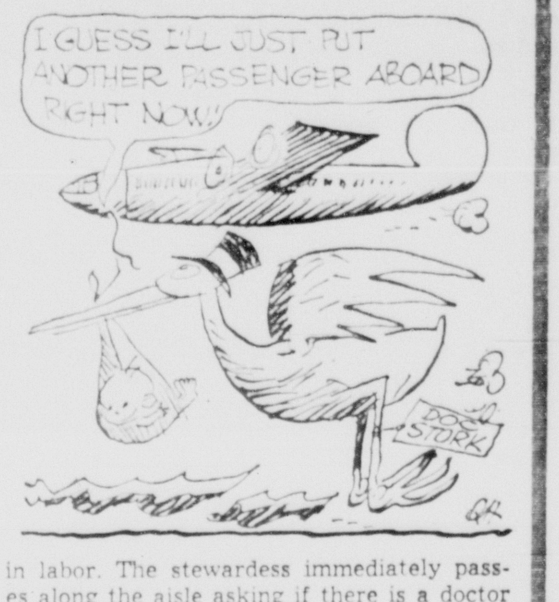
Interrupting scheduled flights is expensive.

It costs as much to reroute a jetliner with 112 aboard as it would to establish a trust fund for the new-born citizen fat enough to permit him to retire before reaching the age of one hour.

And what if the transport is hours from a strip, in mid-ocean? I took this problem up with Eva Mazur, Pan American's head nurse.

"We are as capable of delivering a baby in flight as a nurse in any home," said Miss Mazur with determination.

She reconstructed a typical case history: A man rings his bell and says his wife is in labor. The stewardess immediately passes along the aisle asking if there is a doctor in the house.



I GUESS I'LL JUST PUT ANOTHER PASSENGER ABOARD RIGHT NOW!
DOC STORK

If not, she and perhaps the flight engineer—both delivery trained—take charge. If there are no berths or extra seats a "gypsy" bed of several blankets is spread on the floor at one end, curtained by other blankets.

The expectant father is led to a distant seat where he is presented with an oversized drink on the company.

Soon hot water is boiling and the emergency delivery kit is unwrapped. It has all the needed instruments and bandages.

Yes, expectant couples can now plan their vacations by air without watching too closely the calendar.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Mitchell Keeps 2 GOP Tops From Endorsing Labor Bill

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Spurning appeals for a bipartisan labor reform bill, Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell brought pressure on Republican senators behind the scenes to keep their names off the bill introduced last week by Sens. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts and Sam Ervin of North Carolina, both Democrats.

PEARSON

Earlier, Kennedy had invited Mitchell to cooperate in writing a labor reform bill that would keep it out of politics. Back from the Secretary came this blunt ultimatum: "There will be no moratorium on politics."

Caught in the middle was Sen. John Cooper, Kentucky Republican, who had already promised to join Kennedy in sponsoring the bill. Sen. Clifford Case, New Jersey Republican, had also expressed interest in it.

Then Mitchell stepped in. He high-pressured the gentle Cooper, sent an emmissary around to see Case. Both bowed to the political ultimatum from the Labor Department.

Cooper explained apologetically that he was still free to vote for the Kennedy bill. Case suggested that the bill be stripped of everything but anti-racketeering reforms. Amendments to the Taft-Hartley Law should be handled in separate legislation, he said.

The tousle-haired senator from Massachusetts hustled up a southern Democrat to cosponsor the bill. They introduced virtually the same bill that passed the Senate last year 88 to 1.

The lone senator who voted against it, Nevada's right-wing George Malone, was defeated for re-election. But it will encounter more GOP obstacles this year, rolled in its path by no less than the Secretary of Labor.

THERE'S BEEN A LOT of talk through the years about women's rights, very little about the rights of a congresswoman's husband.

However, this problem is always difficult. He faces the prospect of staying home, which is lonesome; or coming to Washington to help around his wife's office, in which case he feels awkward, out of place, and is sometimes accused of nepotism.

Nevertheless, women have their place in Congress, and that place should not be reserved solely for widows and spinsters.

The only two women who have served for any length of time in the Senate, it is true, have been widows — Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Mrs. Hattie Caraway of Arkansas — both distinguished additions to the Senate.

But married women certainly should not be barred simply because their husbands would be unhappy in Washington.

It's with this background in mind that you have to view the case of the most controversial husband ever to have a wife in Congress — Andy Knutson of Minnesota. His wife Coya has just been defeated — largely thanks to lonesome Andy.

Mrs. Knutson was a fine member of Congress.

Meanwhile Andy was left out in the cold. Coya didn't mean to leave him out. But Congress is a busy place, Washington a busy city. So Andy fell into the hands of his wife's enemies.

Andy Knutson has now written this reporter a letter which spells out some of his anguish, some of his regrets. It's a human document about a human situation. The essential portions are printed herewith:

"If you ever write anything about me in the future don't make it too rough on me. I know that I caused Coya a lot of trouble, and I'm really sorry, but the things those people kept telling me got me all worked up so I couldn't even see straight.

"Then that guy from the press club told me to get Fitzgerald as my lawyer, and that is when the fireworks really started. I really got roped in with that guy.

"The more I think about some of the dirty mean things they spread about my wife just to get her beat in the election, the sicker I feel. I hope some day everybody will know the truth behind all this.

"When the committee told me I had to get in front of them and tell them what I knew or else they would subpena me. I had to tell the truth. I did the best I could. Nobody likes to be a squealer.

"I hope when I get back to Oklee people will let me alone. The people in Oklee know both Coya and me, and they know that Coya is a good woman. Oklee went for Coya in the election. I don't think anybody in Oklee will believe any more lies about Coya. I hope she gets back to Congress some day. This here is one letter I wrote myself.

QUESTION: Is the man with the aces up his sleeve a card SHARP or SHARK.—O.C.B.

ANSWER: A card SHARK.

There is a standard word SHARPER and a slang word SHARPIE.

One would naturally assume that the social parasite was named after the greedy fish. But the reverse seems more likely. The first shark (fish) that the English people knew about was exhibited in London in 1569 and aroused great interest. It had been brought home from a voyage by some sailors who called it a SHARK after card sharks, because—presumably—that was the only thing they knew to be equally hungry for suckers.

Rogues, such as dice and card-sharpers, usually have a marked aversion to work. SHARK is related to SHIRK, the two words being merely examples of the vowel change that we find differentiating the American and English pronunciations of CLERK and DERBY.

Big Contest For French

PARIS — (AP) — The Paris newspaper L'Aurore is sponsoring a contest which offers as first prize a "dream year," during which the paper pays for just about everything for the winner—including income tax.

The prize also includes a car with all operating expenses for the year, a month's vacation, wardrobes for the whole family, household appliances and rent, gas, fuel and electric bills for the year.

The contest: 42 picture puzzles to solve. Sample: A picture of Brigitte Bardot holding a vase on her head; which has the smaller waist, Brigitte or the vase?

The Assault on Privacy Continues

'Call Girls' Show Just Part of Period

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

MONTHS AGO, I read an article by Anthony Harrigan of the "Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier" on surrender of privacy which was both true and interesting. He wrote:

SOKOLSKY

". . . The radio and television, the giant metropolitan newspapers which consider all human experience their province, the nationally-syndicated columns, the mass circulation magazines that emphasize 'inside' news of people, industry and government-inspired questionnaires and polls that probe areas of life considered private not long ago, credit bureaus and private detective organizations, wiretappers and security personnel reports—all these institutions, inventions, and developments have been employed in an assault on the walls raised to shield citizens from the public gaze."

And now we have this extraordinary picture of CBS putting on a show to describe the doings of the urban creature generally referred to as the "Call Girl."

Edward R. Murrow, who reads broadcasts for Columbia, was the narrator, which in radio and television parlance usually means that the script was prepared in the word factory of this network by a team of often anonymous and sometimes accredited researchers and writers.

★ ★ ★

THE SUM and substance of the broadcast was that vice is a business, well-organized, efficiently managed and designed to get business for companies which employ ladies of the night for the purpose. As show business this broadcast may have had some value, just as a strip-tease has value for the vulgar. As an accurate presentation of data, I doubt whether much stated on that broadcast could be established in a court of law.

"Call Girls" are women, ranging from the age of perhaps 17 to 40 or so, who make themselves available to meandering men for a consideration, ranging from $50 a visit upwards to a diamond or a mink.

Some "Call Girls" are prostitutes; some are conversationalists who keep an old man from falling asleep over his soup.

Some of them end their days in poverty; some marry into the European nobility or men of wealth in this country, are received in Cafe Society and have their pictures printed in newspapers and magazines.

In a word, some of them, having found a way to security, turn up their noses on their own past and at those who pursue the same course.

THAT THE business is immoral is obvious, but our society has tended in the direction of looseness since the 1920's and has not improved during the current Era of Abundance.

The income tax which forces businessmen to pad their expense accounts if they are to be saved from the tax collector encourages excesses of all kinds, particularly eating, drinking, and hilarious parties after conventions and meetings.

The psychologists and sociologists may philosophize all they want to about why an educated, well-reared girl will enter upon such a profession but if they did not live in ivory towers, if they associated with human beings instead of statistics, they would discover that in a materialistic period, when morals and manners are loose, diamonds and mink coats become unduly attractive and as long as no religious scruples impede the desire to get something in the easiest way, there will be some who will get it that way.

How much difference there is between a "Call Girl" and a woman who has four or five husbands in rotation, I do not know.

In a word, the "Call Girl" is a product of lack of religion, lack of respect, lack of decorum which appear early in life in this country, where a child will answer when a parent objects, let us say, to a costume of blue jeans and dirty white socks, "I must live my own life."

★ ★ ★

"CALL GIRLS" are the feminine counterpart of the money bootlegger, the fellow who becomes a millionaire by tax evasion and tax avoidance, the banker and manufacturer who sells the assets of his country to its enemy, the politician who plays footsies with American Communists, the labor leader who organizes a strike which further accelerates the inflation and thereby robs the worker of his wages.

It is a period of moral degeneration and the "Call Girl" is a characteristic of the age. A proper news account would provide names, dates and places. Great reporters never claim immunity from responsibility for the truth.

Party Congress Today May Hear First

Mikoyan's Report to Soviet Awaited

By PETER LISAGOR

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials will be watching Moscow this week for signs of how Anastas I. Mikoyan sizes up America for his home folks.

The Soviet deputy premier is almost certain to make a long report of his American visit to the extraordinary session of the Soviet Communist Party Congress today.

LISAGOR

If Mikoyan's impressions of this country augur changes in Kremlin policy, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might drop a few hints to the 1,000 or more delegates assembled to get the word.

Although the congress was called to rubber stamp Khrushchev's new seven-year economic plan to catch up with the United States, it is Khrushchev's habit at these party shindigs to give long dissertations of the state of the world.

★ ★ ★

OFFICIALS HERE ALREADY have a good bead on the essentials of the economic plan, designed to narrow the production gap between the United States and the Soviet Union in a frenzy of economic growth.

The plan puts major emphasis on capital goods and minimizes consumer goods. The Soviet goal by 1965 is an increase in national income of 7 per cent a year, compared with the current U.S. growth rate of 3 per cent.

If Mikoyan gives an honest account of the American supermarkets, department stores and factories he visited, his Russian listeners may have some private doubts about the new Soviet plan.

But they're not likely to express them in the Soviet-style debate of the party congress.

BY SOVIET STANDARDS, the party congresses are open affairs. Texts of the speeches of the party chiefs usually are circulated fairly promptly, a notable exception being the denunciation of Stalin by Khrushchev at the 20th party congress in February, 1956.

For that Comrade Khrushchev closed all doors and laid the ghost of Stalin in what he thought was secrecy. But the speech leaked out to the world eventually.

The central committee and the presidium shape Soviet policy in the privacy of the Kremlin, and months, even years, may elapse before the design is fully apparent on the outside.

THERE IS SOME confidence here that Mikoyan's view of the United States was sharply altered by his trip. He was here in 1936, and even he admitted that the changes were impressive.

But what intrigues officials here is whether he truly believes, as he indicated while here, that the American people and the business community want peace while government officials persist in the cold war.

They believe this is a misguided impression and tried hard to disabuse him of it. They're almost anxious to see how he finally comes out.

Because of their emphasis on heavy industry in the new economic plan, the Russians have thrown up a tempting promise to Soviet workers in the form of a shorter work week, higher minimum wages and higher pensions.

By 1960 they promise a 41-hour-week, by 1962 a 40-hour stint. They hope to be moving toward a 35-hour week after 1964.

Their goal in steel production by 1965 is more than 85 per cent of the 1957 steel production in this country. The estimate is that they produce about half of the 1957 American output now.

Fanfani, Italian Cabinet Resign As Rifts in Parties Fail to Heal

FANFANI

GARCIA

World News

ROME —(UPI)— Pro-Western Premier Amintore Fanfani and his six-month-old coalition Cabinet resigned Monday, precipitating a major political crisis that may take days and even weeks to heal.

Fanfani took the decision after weeks of pleading failed to end the split in his own Christian Democratic Party and in that of his coalition partner, the Social Democrats.

President Giovanni Gronchi began setting up political appointments for Wednesday when Gronchi will try to select a new premier.

The political rifts are so deep and the Christian Democrats so weakened in the last general elections that new elections may be necessary before a stable government can be formed.

War on Graft, Filipinos Told

MANILA —(AP)— President Carlos P. Garcia called on the entire Philippine nation Monday to join a war on graft and corruption, which he termed "a cancer gnawing at our national entrails."

In a state of the nation address to the joint opening session of Congress, the President stressed his policy of seeking closer ties with other Asian countries is not a threat to special relations with the U.S., "our staunchest friend and ally."

The president proposed an anti-graft court, which would be above influence, and new powers for the auditor general to block suspected illegal government deals.

Congo Reins Are Tightened

MATADI, Belgian Congo—(UPI) — European residents began buying revolvers Monday and police blanketed the area with strict control in the wake of a surprise demonstration by Africans demanding independence from Belgium.

Two Africans and one European police officer were hospitalized following a riot Sunday by nearly 1,000 persons, led by members of the Abako political movement which sparked the Leopoldville riots three weeks ago.

The port population returned calmly but uneasily to work Monday. All Africans entering the European section of the city or the dock area had their identity cards checked.

Japanese Talk Of Red Trade

TOKYO —(AP)— Japan's parliament opened a 115-day session Monday amid talk of restoring trade with Communist China through government negotiations—a clear-cut change in policy.

Emperor Hirohito in an opening message delivered in person, urged the lawmakers to bring more prosperity to Japan and raise its prestige in the world. The issue of restoring Red China trade was broken off last May after a dispute over Japan's refusal to authorize flying of the Chinese flag at a proposed trade mission here.

Nikita Shines Up to Finland

HELSINKI —(AP)— President Urho Kekkonen says Soviet Premier Khrushchev told him "I only want one thing, good and friendly relations with Finland."

Kekkonen relayed Khrushchev's remark after his return from talks with the Soviet leader in Leningrad.

The Finnish president said the Russians had "asked nothing which could harm our good relations with the West and our ties with the other Nordic countries . . ."

Finland, he added, was not asked to give up anything which it felt of national and ideological importance.

The liner, to cost about 21 million dollars, will have accommodations for 200 first-class passengers and about 860 tourist-class passengers. It is due to be launched early in 1960.

Germany Has More Smallpox

HEIDELBERG —(UPI)— A new outbreak of smallpox was reported in this ancient university town Monday.

Officials said last week that it looked like an outbreak of the disease was finally ended. But a 57-year-old woman patient at the university surgical clinic and a woman assistant at the Ludolf Krehl Clinic have come down with the disease.

Hula Hoops Spark Riots

WARSAW, Poland — (AP) — A twirling, twisting crowd, mostly pretty young girls, wrecked a toy shop in the university town of Torun in a scrap for a limited supply of hula hoops.

Surveying his wrecked counters and smashed toys, the manager of "The House of the Child" said the next time he got a shipment of hula hoops he would demand police protection.

Seeks Good Will in Race Relations

Collins: There Is A 'Middle-Ground'

DAYTONA BEACH—(UPI)—Gov. LeRoy Collins Monday called for a "constructive" solution to the race dilemma and criticized persons who would abolish public schools rather than submit to some integration.

Collins said he is convinced there is a "middle-ground" where Floridians can progress toward good will in race relations and "the goals of equality which Christianity and free men everywhere and of every race and creed espouse."

"Patience and understanding and, above all, constructive work will bring the solution," he told civic and business leaders at a joint meeting of civic clubs here.

He called "pettiness" one of the greatest stumbling blocks to constructive solutions.

"In our state," Collins said, "some legislators are unabashed about moving to aid their individual county interests even when, in the process, admittedly they do serious injury to the state interest."

The race issue will never be resolved by "big voices and little minds," he said.

A moderate on the race issue, Collins called it "tragic" that there are those in Florida who, because of emotionalism, timidity, crass indifference or political advantage, are willing to abolish public schools.

"Ignorance is the greatest enemy known to human progress," he declared, pointing out that in areas where schooling declines, so do the incomes and productive capacity of the citizens.

"All of our freedoms draw their strength and endurance from mass education and mass morality."

Beggar 'Takes' Clerics With Unusual Gimmick

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN — The beggar with the most unusual gimmick of the postwar period in Germany has been sentenced to one year in jail by a jury court in Munich.

Helmuth Schirmer, 29, decided that the best way he could collect money from trusting clergymen was to pass himself off as a former lieutenant general in the security office of the SS, the worst and most vicious of Himmler's police.

Schirmer's tale was that he had tried to do his best for the Jews and the churchmen in the concentration camps and that he now was a convinced Christian. But in spite of this he couldn't find work.

Could he, please, have a small loan?

He seems to have averaged about 50 marks, or some $12 a touch, until the clergymen checked the address Shirmer had given and found there wasn't such a place.

Schirmer's sentence was for "fraud." Had he been a genuine ex-Himmler general, presumably, there would have been no case. It was his ninth such sentence.

TASTE THE GREATNESS
...of James Crow's masterpiece

SEN. HENRY CLAY thought so highly of JAMES CROW'S whiskey he ordered it by the barrel. (Reported in a newspaper of the 1800's).

The day Dr. James Crow perfected his bourbon, a masterpiece was born. Here, at last, was a real bourbon... a bourbon fit for the taste of men who made a nation great.

In our time, there is still no near rival to Old Crow. It is America's preferred bourbon. Try its light mild, mellow Kentucky flavor—and enjoy the perfect bourbon.

My Answer

Sin Is Condition Of Man's Heart

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Will you explain the verses in Matthew 18:8-9 where Jesus said that if your hand offends thee, cut it off, or if your eye offends thee, pluck it out? I have often wondered why He would say that, because I don't see how such action would solve any problem.

ANSWER: Our Lord had many ways of teaching. Sometimes He spoke in parables, sometimes He employed the dialectic method, and sometimes He would teach truth by mentioning the impossible.

GRAHAM

Anyone would know, when listening to a statement such as the one mentioned, that a person with sinful tendencies would never eliminate them by cutting off a part of the body. If sin can be localized, then it would be well to do it that way.

But sin is a condition of man's heart. Even when there is no outward appearance of sin, a person may have a very wicked heart. His desires may be totally evil, but lacking either courage or opportunity he may outwardly avoid outbroken wickedness.

The Bible says that, "A man's heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." (Jeremiah 17:9) That is why God must give a new heart to the wicked, and in so doing, make them disposed to do good and not evil.

God said, "I will take the stony heart out of the flesh and will give them a heart of flesh that they may walk in my statutes." (Ezekiel 11:19-20).

Family Tracer Lacks One

Eighty-year-old Robert L. Brownfield Jr., who spent his life tracing other people's ancestors, kept his own life so closely guarded that when he died not even his friends were sure of his first name.

Mr. Brownfield, a genealogist, or family-tree tracer, will be bured at 3 p.m. today in Flagler Memorial Park, with none of his family present. Riverside Flagler Street Chapel will be in charge.

He came to Miami 27 years ago, but nobody seems to know where he came from. It was 25 years ago that he moved into the Biscayne Plaza Hotel here.

He kept to himself, nodding to his neighbors, friendly with the hotel clerks, eating alone, always at work on family tree research.

He became ill in the night recently. He got up and started for the telephone, but died before he could ask for help. His body was found three days later.

Searching clues to his background, officials questioned other hotel residents.

One thought he remembered Brownfield talking once about being president of a bank in Pennsylvania. Another, who had lived in the hotel as long as Mr. Brownfield had, did not even know the man's first name.

Brownfield's desk was cluttered with papers—full of clues about other people's backgrounds, but not his own.

Ex-Alabama Judge Spared Jail Term

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(UPI)— A federal judge refused Monday to jail an Alabama official, an old friend who shouted defiance at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, saying he was only trying to create an impression of being defiant.

Actually, District Judge Frank M. Johnson said, the defendant in contempt proceedings — former Circuit Judge George C. Wallace — helped civil rights agents.

Johnson said that "judicially" he did not know why Wallace resorted to "devious means" in attempting to "give the impression that he was defying this court's order . . ."

Wallace claimed the conflict was a test of state vs. federal authority. He said he had been willing to "risk my freedom" in the test.

"These characters from the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall — they were defied and backed down," Wallace said.

But Johnson said that while Wallace, a former schoolmate, used "devious means" in throwing up a smokescreen around efforts to inspect voter records, his actions did not constitute defiance or disobedience.

In Americus, Ga., meanwhile, another federal judge told attorneys for the Justice Department and the Terrell County, (Ga.) board of registrars to submit written briefs in another civil rights case.

The Georgia litigation is the first voter discrimination suit to be filed under the civil rights legislation.

The Georgia county registrars attorneys argued against the constitutionality of the act Monday before Judge T. Hoyt Davis.

Harrison Glad to Be Alive, But Police More Curious

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

While police tried vainly Monday to find the 110 lost days in the life of James E. Harrison, one man alone had no interest in the mystery.

The man: James E. Harrison.

"Don't get me wrong, I'm going to help the police all I can," Harrison said Monday. "It's enough for me to know that I'm alive and I'm home — what I need now is a little rest."

But for police from coast to coast there could be no rest in the bizarre Harrison case.

Between the time he vanished from Titusville on Oct. 7 and his reappearance in Phoenix, Ariz., Friday, police had recovered his blood-spattered station wagon in Jacksonville — and a California convict had admitted Harrison's murder.

But Harrison's sudden return —without a scratch on his body —changed killer Roy V. Olsen's mind and he repudiated the confession.

If Harrison wasn't murdered, who was? And why?

For the time being, at least, James E. Harrison couldn't care less.

Monday, he sat in the home of his mother, Mrs. Harley Kearney, at 11275 SW 43rd Lane, answering a constant flow of telephone calls. Across the room sat his petite wife, Jeannie.

"We never gave up hope," said Mrs. Harrison.

"Yeah, they never gave up hope," joked Harrison, "they just sold my business, sold my house, even sold my clothes."

Harrison said he doubted that he would try to reopen his Titusville window business again. "I don't want to go through all that strain again—not right away."

Maybe later, he said, he'd seek psychiatric aid in recovering the 110 missing days.

Doctors said Monday that amnesia victims can retrace lost time through hypnotism or "truth" drugs.

He says he remembers nothing that happened after that until he came to in Phoenix, with 67 cents in his pocket.

Since he was found, only a 15-minute walk away from Phoenix's inter-city bus station, police speculated that he had been in town only a short while — perhaps only minutes.

Monday, J. C. Patrick, chief investigator of the Duval sheriff's office, said he hopes to bring Harrison to Jacksonville later this week to look for the spot where he blacked out.

What is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as the "Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astonishing Booklet which is a great step forward toward the answer to this question. The search for clues led to a prolonged study of all the great religions of the world, until at last a surprising new light was thrown upon the entire subject of prayer.

In this new light, even the well known Lord's Prayer acquires astonishing new meanings. Hidden between the lines are deep significances and wonderful truths that do not appear in the words alone. The free booklet points these out and is entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer."

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement of power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise. These strange methods were found in the Far East, where in ancient times all the great religions and philosophies of the world originated.

He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats.

He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition as a leading geographer and map-maker of the Far East.

He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the wisest mystics he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants many others to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

For your free copy of the amazing free booklet entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer," together with other free literature regarding this remarkable system, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 So. Hobart Blvd., Dept. 127R, Los Angeles 4, California. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Nikita Plays Santa to Zoo; The Gift: Siberian Wolves

By Herald Wire Services

NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV, "the good uncle," has added a West German zoo to the growing list of his charities.

Spurred perhaps by the exotic nature of the Soviet Premier's gifts to his admirers, a citizen of Rheydt, on the western fringes of the Ruhr, wrote to the Kremlin that an important exhibit was missing from the city's zoo collection.

In due course things began to happen in various places. The Soviet embassy in East Berlin notified the zoo it had a present. The Soviet embassy in Bonn confirmed it. Now the shipment has arrived in Bonn.

The gift package — two Siberian wolves. The cautious are wondering if there is some symbolism involved.

Alaska Senate Elects Eskimo

THE PRESIDENT of the first Alaska senate will be an Eskimo, William E. Beltz, 46, of Unalakleet.

The choice was made in Juneau Monday in a caucus of Democrats, who have strong majorities in both houses of the Alaska legislature. The legislature opens its first session today.

A motion to make the nomination of Beltz unanimous came from the only other contender for the post, Frank Peratrovich, an Indian from Klawock.

Beltz, a carpenter by trade, and Peratrovich are both veterans of former territorial legislatures.

Film Firm Sues Britain's Diana

AN ITALIAN film company has sued British star Diana Dors for interrupting her performance in the film "Il Palio Di Siena," court sources said Monday.

Judge G. Falco of the first civil section of the Rome tribunal set the first hearing for March 15.

The Ge. Si. film company did not announce the amount of its damage claims lodged jointly against Miss Dors and the Hubaix Co. of Vaduz, Liechtenstein, which holds exclusive rights on the bosomy blonde actress.

The Italian company said the Hubaix firm contracted May 28, 1957, to let Miss Dors perform in the film "Il Palio Di Siena," based on Siena's famed medieval horse race.

The actress started work regularly, but on Aug. 14, 1958, abandoned the shootings of the film and left for London. She later explained that she did so to see a London doctor about a skin ailment.

Young Haymes' Attacker Sought

NEW YORK police sought today a teen-age schoolboy who allegedly stabbed the 16-year-old son of crooner Dick Haymes in an argument over a girl both had been dating.

Authorities learned of the stabbing when Haymes, former husband of movie star Rita Hayworth, brought his son Dick Jr., 16, to St. Clare's Hospital for treatment Sunday afternoon. The hospital said it took five stitches to close the wound in young Haymes' right forearm.

Police said the youth identified his assailant as Alan Clarke, a classmate at a private school. He said Clarke came from New Jersey, where he has been visiting an aunt, to "have it out" about the girl. He said the argument began at the Haymes' Park Ave. apartment and continued at the midtown apartment of Clarke's parents.

The youth is the eldest of three children born to actress Joanne Dru, Haymes' first wife. He has been living with the crooner and his fifth wife, the former Ann Makris, 21.

'I Shall Never Make A Soldier,' He Sobbed

NETLEY, England — (UPI) — Rock 'n' roll rifleman Terry Dene may end his Army career before he really gets started. Nerves.

Dene, 20, a guitar-playing, hip-wiggling singer of television and stage renown, was drafted into the Army last Thursday with a fanfare of publicity.

On Saturday, during a conversation with a sergeant, he broke down and sobbed, "I shall never make a soldier."

He was rushed to the hospital with what the Army called a nervous breakdown. Word today was that he might be mustered out shortly.

A hospital spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name, said Army psychiatrists described Dene as an "immature personality."

"A soldier with this kind of diagnosis, "the spokesman said, "is usually discharged within two weeks."

But the hospital commandant, Col. John McGhie, said "There's very little wrong with the boy. I shan't keep him in bed more than three or four days. It's only a minor case of nerves."

At the time he was drafted he was making $1,000 a week. As a recruit, he is paid $4.20 a week.

Climbers Eye Soviet Peaks

TOKYO — (AP) — A group of Japanese mountain climbers hopes to challenge two snow-capped peaks on the Soviet Union's Kamchatka Peninsula—if the Russians approve.

The peaks are Klyuchevskaya at 15,912 feet and Kronotskaya, 12,238 feet. Tentative plans call for the expedition in June.

'Professional Gossips'

Cardinal Cushing Raps Marie, Columnists

BOSTON — (UPI) — Richard Cardinal Cushing Monday hit out at "malicious" gossip columnists and stated he thought Marie Torre's action in going to prison "ill-advised."

The cardinal, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, gave the sermon at the sixth annual journalists' mass here.

Miss Torre, a columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, recently completed a 10-day jail term, imposed when she refused to tell a judge the source of an item carried in her column about Singer Judy Garland.

"I suppose it is natural to feel a certain sense of chivalry in her regard," the cardinal said, "she suffered, according to her claims, in order to protect the position of another.

"From this point of view, even if her action was ill-advised," he added, "she has demonstrated a certain strength of character. There are added circumstances, of course, which color the incident and all of them are important for those who wish to make a judgment in her regard."

The cardinal said that, for several decades, "we have had growing up in the newspaper world a batch of writers who must be termed 'professional gossips.'

TORRE

CUSHING

The cardinal said there are some columnists who "show good taste and restraint in discussing the lives of celebrities."

But, he said, "I also know that there are some who handle the lives of their neighbors with no sense of values at all and with no respect for reputations. In little staccato lines they feed the hungry public the evil food of malicious gossip; they quietly destroy their subjects and just as quietly poison their readers."

"There are many things," he said, "that are not public property; we just do not have the right to know everything about everybody."

In this week's Post, U. S. scientists reveal the shocking reasons why:

Red science is making us a second-class power!

"At their present rate of progress, the Soviet bloc could capture the whole world without firing a shot," says a leading U. S. scientist.

In this exclusive Saturday Evening Post report, you'll learn how Sputniks and Luniks are just part of the alarming picture. How the Reds have also built the world's biggest atom smasher, the world's biggest telescope, the first atomic airplane, the first atomic ship. How they're forging ahead on almost every front. And how they're training new scientists—dozens to our every one—and of the fierce, almost frightening patriotism that spurs them on.

ROSSANO BRAZZI— why he wants revenge on Hollywood

The smoldering star of "South Pacific" is an ex-boxing champ, ex-lawyer, one-time leader of Italy's Underground. Yet he still smarts at the "deal" Hollywood once gave him . . . and he's out to get even! "Rossano's Revenge" is the inside story.

Biggest "tightwad" in Congress

Officials cringe when he goes after them. He even made Chief Justice Warren cry "uncle"! Meet Brooklyn's Congressman Rooney, tightfisted watchdog of the public purse (except, of course, for a few projects dear to his heart). Read "The Man Who Frightens Bureaucrats."

Czechs Act Just Like Kids

Look Wistfully At Free World

Here is another report from the Iron Curtain by a Herald reporter just back from Russia and the satellite countries. This one was written in Prague.

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

West Europe and freedom is only a half-hour's flying time from Prague. It might as well be a million miles.

McDERMOTT

That thought struck me as I watched the wistful faces of Czechs clustered around the KLM Royal Dutch Airline office here on the broad avenue Vaclavski Namesti.

KLM and numerous other Western and satellite airlines fly out of Prague, Warsaw, Budapest and even Moscow to the brightly lighted capitals of the West. But few of their seats are occupied by natives with one-way tickets.

Getting past the Iron Curtain is becoming harder and harder for oppressed peoples who want their freedoms back.

Outwardly the Czechs appear to accept Communist domination docilely. Maybe it is because in the last half-century they have wearied of trying to wage an uphill battle against always superior forces.

It's different in Poland. The fiery Poles are still resisting.

And in Russia the average citizen has never known the freedom of democracy.

Unlike his discontented satellite neighbors who once knew independence, Ivan seems to be satisfied that conditions in the USSR are improving.

But those wistful Czechs. As they stared into the KLM display window they seemed to be visualizing themselves sitting on Rio's Copacabana Beach shown in posters or strolling across the tulip fields in Holland, pictured in another.

Words Now Batista's Weapons

Cuba than any previous leader.

He said that when he took over the government in 1952, "I found a great crisis.

"My accomplishments in the last seven years have been many. I hope they will be continued," Batista said.

Then he rolled out his facts and figures:

Establishment of 600 million dollars in new industries; construction of 11,000 miles of farm roads and 5,000 miles of public streets; awarding of 60 million dollars in new construction contracts each year; encouragement of construction of a number of luxury hotels and gambling casinos.

He went on to list: three underwater tunnels that opened new areas for development; six new arterial highways leading out of Havana eastward, where one formerly existed; built more than 25 hospitals; reestablished the TB sanatorium; erected many rural schools, and established a loan agency — "similar to your FHA, which increased by 20 per cent the number of home and land owners in Cuba."

His foes charge his projects were graft-laden.

Batista said he was especially gratified over solving the surplus sugar problem he "inherited in 1952.

"I found the country had produced seven million tons of sugar — two million tons more than were marketable," Batista explained.

With a giant loan from Cuban banks, he said, the government bought the surplus and within four years had sold it — above the regular quota — principally to England, Japan, France and Russia, he said.

"I saved Cuba from an economic disaster by so doing," Batista emphasized.

And so the man who dominated Cuba for more than 20 years, sat back in his exile headquarters, seemingly bothered that the world might never recognize what he considers his major achievements.

The headlines he would get from this interview might be among the last for some time to come.

But Batista isn't one to stay out of the limelight for long.

He knows the world watches with interest his next step.

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Castro Says

CARACAS, Venezuela —(UPI)— Fidel Castro said here that Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, who has been sentenced to death for his Batista activities, must be executed.

"He is one of the worst war criminals and if he is not shot, no one else could be executed," Castro said.

Sosa Blanco was condemned to death in a jam-packed sports arena trial last week, but he said he will exercise his right under the "rebel law code" and appeal his sentence to a superior war council. The council consists of Maj. Juan Almeida and four other officers.

The appeal will be heard today.

Hill People Take Over

Golly, Things Have Changed At Havana's Swanky Hotels!

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — There's been a big change in the attitude of employes at Havana's fancy hotels. Where they once looked down on all but the heaviest tippers, they now are happy to see anyone and everyone.

There are some socialites who would faint at the sights now common in "their" hotel lobbies.

Besides the gunslingers and aged women who once wouldn't be permitted on the premises, there now are barefoot farmers, almost pantless children, and families "picnicking" around the plush fountains.

The luxurious and well-manicured gardens and grounds of the Hotel Nacional, an old favorite of American tourists, look these evenings like a small town plaza on Saturday night.

The hill people have taken over and are the guests of the management pending their testimony at the war crimes trials.

And the hotels themselves admit "they're damn good guests."

Many, in fact, insist on making their own beds each morning and cleaning the rooms "to help."

* * *

Standing Start Far from Easy

IMAGINE, IF YOU CAN, some giant American corporation such as General Electric or American Telephone and Telegraph losing every one of its top executives and managers, right down to the work gang foremen.

And try to imagine that company attempting to get reorganized overnight — or in one week, or one month.

Then you have some idea of the labor pains which the new Cuban government is experiencing as it tries to set up, quickly and efficiently, a working democratic regime.

At the moment, not even the new boss knows where to find the pencils.

* * *

Protection Pay One Casualty

ONE SMALL bar owner in downtown Havana figures the new government will save him between $2,400 and $3,000 a year in protection payoffs and liquor bills.

He paid a flat $100 monthly to the precinct's subcaptain, and gave away more than $100 a month in free drinks to traffic police, tourist police, special agents and minor political wheels.

New Cuban laws say no liquor may be sold to any man in uniform, any man who is carrying a gun, or anyone the bartender believes may be carrying arms.

* * *

Papers Popular; No Censorship

NEWSPAPERS are having their greatest sales in Cuban history. People are buying again, because with a free press they know there is something besides government handouts in the news.

He'd Ban Pay TV

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. John D. Dingell (D., Mich.) says he will introduce a bill to outlaw subscription or pay television.

5 Nations Reaffirm Pact Ties

KARACHI, Pakistan — (AP) — The U. S. Pakistan, Britain, Iran and Turkey pledged Monday to maintain and strengthen the Baghdad Pack despite the apparent defection of Iraq.

The pledges were made at the opening of the pact's semiannual ministerial council meeting in Karachi.

Iraq is still a member of the pact formed four years ago as a defensive alliance against Communist aggression, but the revolutionary forces which overthrew King Faisal's pro-Western regime last July have boycotted the alliance.

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan told the opening session that the organization could continue to be a powerful alliance despite Iraq's absence.

"The regional members of the pact still represent a large strategic area of land contiguous from Turkey to Pakistan, containing some of the finest manpower in Asia and the disposition of valuable resources," he said.

In a message to the council President Eisenhower said he had followed the progress of the organization with deep personal interest since its inception.

"The U.S.," the President said, "believes the instrumentalities which the member governments have created to carry out the pact's purpose are making an important contribution to world peace. We are glad to be participating in these activities."

The U.S. has never become a full member of the pact, which was conceived by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. But it has joined the military, economic, and antisubversion committees and is concidered a member in everything but name.

A 17-member U. S. delegation is attending the meeting.

Officers Installed

Richard E. Flynn was installed as new president of the Tamiami Kiwanis Club. Other officers are A. L. Morrison and John Basie, vice presidents; Charles Rigl, treasurer, and Leo A. Furlong Jr., secretary.

Senate Pondering Probe Into 'Sex in Business'

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee disclosed Monday it was looking into recent reports that some large corporations are using "call girls" to entertain customers and clients.

But Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee has not undertaken a full-scale investigation of sex-in-business, as has been demanded by some labor union leaders.

Chairman Al J. Hayes of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee made the demand shortly after CBS Commentator Edward R. Murrow reported last Monday that the use of prostitutes is common in the nation's business community.

Hayes said he believed "these shocking revelations properly come within the purview of the (rackets) committee" and that he hopes it would investigate immediately.

Kennedy told newsmen about the preliminary inquiry during a briefing on the opening today of the committee's first inquiry of its third year of operations. James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union again will be prime target of the committee's 1959 investigations.

In New York, meanwhile, the National Association of Manufacturers charged that the Murrow program was largely a hoax designed to divert the public's attention from labor racketeering.

The group said in its official publication, "The NAM News," that Murrow "sought diligently to implant in the minds of his listeners that American business and industry, habitually and as a matter of policy, employ prostitutes to help put across big deals."

Man Slain As Band Blares On

Birdland Partner Victim of Knifing

NEW YORK —(UPI)— A part-owner of Birdland was stabbed to death at the bar of that Broadway jazz emporium early Monday as a solo sax wailed "I'm Through With Love."

More than 100 customers, many of them name musicians, were in the establishment.

Zachariah Irving Levy, 36, apparently was slain by a customer described by a hat check girl as "a hopped-up jazz enthusiast" accompanied by "a Broadway chorus girl type" date.

They fled as the band played on over a scream and a crashing tray of glasses.

"I had just started my alto sax when we heard a fight start near the bar," said Hal McKuzick of Urbie Green's orchestra. "We could hear shouting and scuffling but the bandstand lights were in our eyes and we couldn't see more than a yard in front of us.

"As the scuffle continued, we went into our finale — 'Cherokee,' a real wild arrangement.

"A woman yelled. Some glasses crashed. We finished the number, left the stand and learned Irving was dead.

"He was the nicest guy in Birdland."

Witnesses said Levy had been drawn into an argument at the bar with the young couple and a heavy-set man and a heavily made-up girl with a waist-length pony tail hairdo. Club employes moved to separate them as they began shoving each other, but before they could reach the pair, the man sank a knife into Levy's chest.

Police arrived within a few minutes and the band played on—at police direction.

Officers sealed off the night club for two hours while they questioned customers and employes.

The huge basement club was only about one-third full. Sunday is a slow night with many of the customers musicians on a busman's night off. Band leader Woody Herman, a customer, drew a cheer as he left in a taxi.

2 Negroes Killed in 2 Shootings

Two Negroes met violent death in separate South Dade shootings during the weekend, Metro detectives said.

The killing of Robert Davis, 33, of 640 NW 10th Ave., Florida City, was ruled a justifiable homicide in an on-the-spot inquest held in the home of Charles Stevens, 27, of 1328 NW Fifth Ct., Florida City.

Peace Justice Sylvester Adair ruled that Stevens acted in self defense when he pumped three .22 caliber slugs into Davis' chest after Davis drew a knife. Cause of the argument was unknown.

In the other case, James Edward Hill, 33, of 304 SW Fourth Ct., Homestead, was shot in the forehead after offering somebody else's girlfriend a drink in a Homestead bar, police said. Metro police said they are still seeking his slayer.

Catch a Pig At the Fair

Ever try to catch a greased pig? Or climb a slippery pole?

Your big chance is coming. The Dade County Youth Fair will feature both pig catching and pole climbing Jan. 29-Feb. 2.

The ninth annual fair will be held on new grounds at 9475 SW 88th St., just west of the South Dixie Highway. More than 500 exhibits—cattle, horses, pigs, and chickens—will be on display, according to Ralph Huffacker, chairman of the 4-H and Future Farmers of America event.

Calf roping, nail driving, talent competition are also on the program, Huffacker said.

Admission is free for students, 50 cents for adults.

Lindsay Units Offer All Fiberglass Tanks

LINDSAY AUTOMATIC water softener, with all fiberglass tanks, is made to give years of trouble-free performance.

A new dealer for Lindsay Water Softeners now is equipped to sell and service the well known Lindsay units in Dade County.

"We are anxious to please our new customers," said Earl P. Gaar, president, "as well as all of those who presently own Lindsay equipment. We know the soft water business . . . and it is our only business."

Gaar has been engaged in the soft water business since 1946 in Warsaw, Indiana. He was stationed in Miami during World War II and liked the area and climate. When he was offered a good price for his business in Indiana, he said he and his family decided to locate permanently in Miami so his daughter could attend the University of Miami.

The Gaar family now has a home in Miami, and, as Gaar put it, "We are here to stay!"

The water softeners sold by the firm are the Lindsay all-automatic units with "fiberglass tanks which are guaranteed for life!"

"Lindsay is the only water softener with lifetime fiberglass tanks," Gaar stated. "This means they are rust-proof throughout. We don't mean just one tank, either! The mineral tank and the brine tank both are 100 per cent fiberglass.

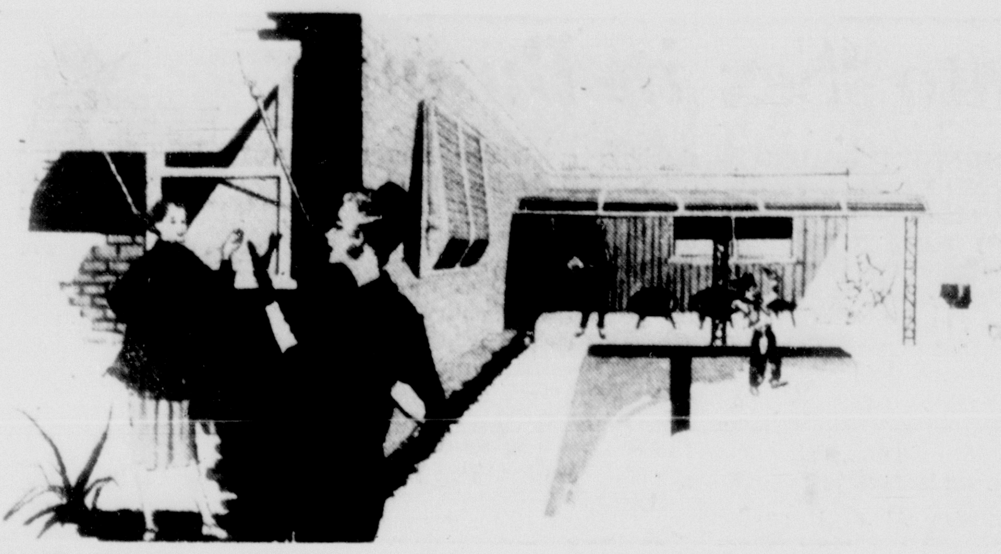
"To guard further against rust and corrosion, all fittings, valves and water-bearing parts are made of brass. To top all this efficiency with durable beauty, the cabinets of the de-luxe models are made of genuine porcelain.

"Now that you know how the Lindsay unit is made, what does it do? Lindsay gives you soft water as it should be . . . all automatic. There is no periodic removal and replacement of heavy or messy equipment. There is no waiting for a fresh supply of soft water. You get more soft water 'the Lindsay Way.'

"If you never have had soft water in your home, it may be difficult for you to understand the economy and convenience which it brings. Women like soft water because it gives them better beauty care, softer washes, and true rain water shampoos.

"We invite all of those interested in finding out more about the convenience and economy of soft water to call us for a free water analysis and estimate. The number to call is NEwton 3-3586. An appointment will be made at your convenience. Naturally there is no obligation."

Lindsay Water Conditioning main office is located at 452 NW 22nd Ave., Miami.



FLAIR AWNINGS and patio, as shown in the drawing above, are designed to add beauty to the home while offering protection from the sun, wind and rain. This attractive awning features an adjustable pitch.

Flair Awnings and Patios Feature Beauty and Comfort at Budget Price

"Flair Fold-Down awnings and patios give budget-minded home owners trouble-free service and year-round comfort," said Paul Rimmeir, president of SeaView Industries, Inc., manufacturers of the Flair line.

RIMMEIR

"Trouble-free because Flair awnings are all-aluminum," he added, "there's no rust, no rot, no warp. And Flair's self-cleaning step-down roof sheds the heaviest rainfall. It was designed by SeaView engineers to drain the water away from your windows, cleaning the awning as it drains. There's no clog, no build up of debris because of Flair's scientific design and excellent workmanship.

"Flair offers year-round comfort because of its easily adjustable arms, which allow you to decide the sun and shade requirements of your home.

"Flair awnings and matching patio are perfect partners for your home. They are quality constructed by SeaView to give lasting window and patio protection. Their modern simplicity complements the beauty of any home.

"Both Flair products are available in your choice of five decorator colors. Colors that will stay beautiful because of SeaView's exclusive 'Ferno Bake Roll Seal Process.' This process seals quality enamel to top-grade aluminum to achieve a durable finish that is not affected by the weather extremes or humidity of this tropical climate."

The Flair Fold-Down awning and the matching patio may be seen at the firms' showrooms at 1201 NW 54th St. A free estimate may be obtained, with no obligation, by calling PLaza 1-6571.

Gerstein's Agents Nab 3 Women In Raid on NW 79th St. House

By BOB HARDIN
Herald Staff Writer

Terry McDonald, 29, tawny, twice - convicted Miami bawdy house madam, is getting easier to find.

She and two companions were arrested Monday at a NW 79th St. house marked with a sign, "Terry Sales Co."

Raiders from the State Attorney's office made the arrests as one of the girls, a honey blond ex-model from North Carolina, accepted $20 in marked cash, they said.

Investigators speculated that somebody else is behind the operation.

Terry gave the name "Jeri Lathon," until one of State Attorney Richard Gerstein's men recognized her.

She's been convicted twice in the last 12 months, and jailed last June for 60 days.

A new, baby-pink Cadillac parked behind the house checked out to Terry McDonald.

As Gerstein's men identified themselves, a customer fled out a back door with one of the girls. Agents caught only the girl.

LINDA

The non-modeling model gave her name as Linda Carson, 28; the girl caught fleeing said she was Louise Barker, 24.

Gerstein said he believes all the names and addresses given by the girls are fake.

Linda and Louise were charged with prostitution and released on $500 bonds. Terry was charged with operating a house of prostitution and with prostitution and released on $1,500 bond.

Linda said: "I've been working here two weeks," and admitted, "I get fifty per cent of my take."

Terry was jailed for 60 days after she was charged with running a house of prostitution at 2919 SW 17th St.

She was fined $155 and ordered out of North Bay Village on similar charges in September.

Trujillo's New Jets Unarmed

WEST BEND, Wis. — (UPI) — The president of Fliteways Inc. said Monday the Dominican Republic has agreed to buy 12 "demilitarized" Vampire jets which the firm purchased from the Canadian government and has stored at Toronto.

Merle Zuehlke said he has asked the Canadian government for an export permit and requested permission from the U. S. State Department to fly the jets across the U. S. Neither request has been acted on, Zuehlke said.

Zuehlke said he and Victor Geib, West Bend, bought 26 of the Vampires from the Canadian government about a year ago. Thirteen of the planes have been sold to individuals in this country, and the 14th is in storage in Milwaukee. The Vampires went out of use in the Canadian Air Force about 10 years ago.

"These planes are completely demilitarized. All the armament has been stripped and even the radios removed. They're nothing but a frame and engine," said Zuehlke.

"We bought them denuded," he said.

Zuehlke, who said he had been buying and selling airplanes since 1935, said he had canvassed a number of Latin and South American countries by mail about buying the Vampires.

Both the State Department in Washington and Trade Minister Gordon Churchill in Ottawa, Canada, said Monday no decision had been reached on a request to permit 12 British-made jets to go to the Dominican Republic.

Union Hassle Halts Service From Airport to Lauderdale

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Licensed limousine passenger service between Miami International Airport and Fort Lauderdale was stopped abruptly Monday night after Dade Circuit Judge Harold R. Vann ruled that Red Top Cab Co. could not scrap the former operators' union drivers contract.

Greyhound Broward Limousine sold its franchise and cars to William Segal's Airport Limousine Service, an auxiliary of Red Top and Yellow Cab companies.

Greyhound's 33 union drivers and starters were discharged but offered non-union employment. They filed an injunction suit to force recognition of their union contract, which they contended was transferred with the franchise.

Judge Vann said he was not enjoining operation of the service, but ordering that if operated it must be with recognition of the union contract.

Segal's attorney, David Walters said the company would not operate at all.

W. O. Frazier, president of Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motorcoach Employes of America, Local 1267, instructed the 33 men to drive their own cars in a free courtesy service pending settlement of the dispute.

Segal said he will ask Broward county commissioners at a meeting today at 11:30 a.m. to approve his operation of the service between Fort Lauderdale and Broward county airport, stilled for two days pending commission approval.

That Little Something Extra Makes for a No. 1 Teacher

Prof. Hess shows you the marks of a top-notch applied psychologist in action. That's why he has such crowded classrooms and is much in demand by business corporations to conduct sales classes. "Significant trifles" are used by the pro to beat the amateur! Note Michelangelo's comment in this regard.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

PROF. Emerson G. Hess heads the psychology department at the Robert Morris School.

And he really can apply what he teaches. I laud him as the versatile type of educator whom students admire.

To prove my point, when he introduced me to a college convocation, he asked:

"Can you men and women at the back hear me clearly?"

Notice that simple question for it is a mark of a professional public speaker.

Professor Hess knew the loud speaker system was turned on, but he wanted to be doubly sure the rear rows could easily hear.

Most speakers never think of that little "plus" item, but are content just to find the loud speaker is working.

* * *

PROFESSOR HESS is a Dale Carnegie graduate and director of many sales training courses for leading industries, so he is tops in the practical field of psychology. And he holds a law degree, too.

Now notice his second query to the packed auditorium:

"If you men standing in the rear want to sit down, there are nine vacant seats here on the front row. Come on down and be comfortable."

Again, that shows an awareness fo the audience that many speakers do not demonstrate.

And it is in these little extras that a professional surpasses the amateur.

Some friends were once visiting the great Michelangelo as the latter was putting the finishing touches to a great statue.

They tried to coax him to go on a vacation with them, but he demurred.

Several weeks later, these friends again returned. The great sculptor was still working with the same statue.

"Why, what have you done in our absence?" one of his guests exclaimed.

"Oh, I've polished up the angle of the jaw and smoothed off the elbow," replied Michelangelo.

"Why, those are just trifles," the woman answered.

"True enough, replied Michelangelo, "but trifles make perfection and perfection is no trifle."

"Significant trifles" is a paradox, but many of you talented clergymen could evolve a wonderful sermon from that text.

Nasser Visit Is Pondered

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NEW YORK — A proposal for an official invitation to President Gamal Abdel Nasser to visit the U. S. has been sent to all members of Congress by Americans of Lebanese and Syrian origin.

The idea of a Nasser visit, already under study in the State Department, has come into the open in the wake of Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan's, nationwide tour.

IS YOUR ENGLISH HOLDING YOU BACK?

"Many intelligent men and women are held back in their jobs and social lives because they use poor English or can't speak and write effectively," says Don Bolander, director of English at Career Institute, Chicago.

"Adults who realize that their English is holding them back use our new home method to stop making embarrassing mistakes in English, to improve their writing, to increase their vocabularies, to speed up their reading, to acquire the techniques of fluent conversation. But the use of effective English pays off in unexpected ways," says Bolander, "because language is a tool of thought as well as a tool of expression.

"You use words with which to think. The more you learn about words and how to arrange them to express your ideas, the better your thinking becomes. The improvement of your English — including your thinking — can lead to amazing personal achievements."

Write today for free 32-page booklet, How to Speak and Write Like a College Graduate. It explains the importance of English in your personal, social and business life. It shows how the new Career Institute Method can help you achieve your special goals quickly in your spare time at home. Send a card or letter to Don Bolander, Dept. MH-14, Career Institute, 30 East Adams, Chicago 3, Illinois. The booklet will be mailed to you promptly.

PONCE DE LEON DISCOVERED THE REAL "FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH" IN THE FRUITS OF FLORIDA

Mr. Ponce tells Mr. and Mrs. Florida Visitor:

What made Great Aunt Florence flip!
How to make a Million Dollars!

LET us suppose that you have a maiden aunt or a lonely uncle and that said doddering relative has $1,000,000 to bequeath to a deserving kinfolk. Let us suppose, too, that in your visit to this fair Florida Sunland of ours, you've been sending flush Aunt Florence or affluent Uncle Frederick pretty picture postcards. Do you think that those perfunctory postals will alter that precious Will in your favor? Not one whit! The big boodle of cash will still probably go to your ne'er-do-well nogoodnik second-cousin, Marvin, whose only redeeming feature is his brown eyes (just like Aunt Flo's or Uncle Fred's).

BUT, on the other hand, let us suppose that instead of those well-meaning, yet inexpressive, postcards, you send the ultimate greeting form—a basket of Cobbs Florida Fruits. What do you suppose will happen when dear Aunt Flo or lovable Uncle Fred bite into that luscious, juicy, maddeningly delicious ambrosia? How do you suppose they'll feel about you, who were thoughtful (and devilishly clever) enough to send Cobbs Gift-Quality Fruit? Second-Cousin Marvin had best enroll in a proper vocational school and pursue a possible career as a cut-glass mallet maker. As for you, ...

CONGRATULATIONS! YOU'RE A MILLIONAIRE!

Note: Cobbs FRUITS are perfect for sending to fancy friends and plain ordinary relatives, too. Your thoughtfulness will earn you $1,000,000 worth of affection and gratitude.

Oh, yes, OUR MINIMUM standard for quality (5 out of every 100 boxes picked) is MORE than the MAXIMUM standard rating issued by the U.S. Govt. Dept. of Agriculture. a fable for doctors, lawyers and professional men

There is an old fable about the people of a small village in Portugal, who each agreed to contribute a sack of grain for those of their neighborhood who were ill or poor.

A large vat was put in the village square where the sacks were to be emptied. The day appointed for the opening arrived. The villagers assembled. The vat cover was lifted. It was empty.

Each villager, thinking: "My grain will not be missed"— had forgotten.

"Forgotten" can be terribly cruel.

None knows this better than a doctor who gives so much of his dedicated skill to relieve our distress. None knows this better than a lawyer, dentist, accountant, architect, engineer. They're intelligent men, big in heart and soul — just about as big as they come.

Yet the unbelievable has happened! Too many of these highly respected professional men and women, beset by their many activities, have seemingly "forgotten" . . . have either not given, or have given pitifully little to the United Fund of Dade County.

Their contributions have been missed . . . critically missed at a time when the United Fund must raise another three quarters of a million dollars to meet the most frugal requirements of 55 welfare agencies in Dade County.

The situation is desperate. Unless the United Fund reaches its goal of 3½ million dollars for 1959, many of our aged, handicapped, ill and tragedy-touched people — innocent childhood and burdened old age — will be forgotten and forsaken.

It must not happen! We appeal to all Dade County's professional men and women to take a few minutes from their busy lives and glance through their checkbook stubs. If you have already given — please try to give a bit more.

If you have "forgotten," won't you please — remembering the story of the empty vat — send your check now to UNITED FUND OF DADE COUNTY, 395 N.W. 1st STREET. If you can't mail a check today, mail your pledge or phone FRanklin 7-2501. And make your gift in keeping with your professional status.

The United Fund needs your generosity — and your help — more than ever this year.

Churches Interested In Unity

Pope's Plan OKd With Reservations

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Leaders of Protestant and Orthodox Christian churches expressed deep interest Monday in Pope John's announcement that he will call a council for church unity.

The Rev. Edward T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches which represents 33 major Protestant and Orthodox denominations, said "anything that will be a step toward unity of churches will be welcome, but it would have to be recognized that it would be a mutual coming together, not under conditions laid down by one church for all others."

Dahlberg stressed that Protestants will not countenance being looked upon as "separated Christians" returning to the church of Rome.

Metropolitan Antony Bashir, archbishop of the Syrian Antiochian Orthodox archdiocese here, said the "peoples of the East" are always willing to welcome such moves, providing they are sincere.

"I don't find any reason why the apostolic churches should be divided," Metropolitan Bashir said. "There is only one holy apostolic church. Its differences could be ironed out in ecumenical councils."

St. Augustine Restoration Plan OKd

ST. AUGUSTINE —(UPI)— The Florida Board of Parks and Historical Memorials Monday approved a report which recommended an initial outlay of $300,000 for restoration of Old Spanish St. Augustine.

It was the final action in a study which now goes to Gov. LeRoy Collins for approval. Collins originally asked the board to study the feasibility of such a plan last June.

The board named a committee to head the study, which in turn hired Dr. Verne Chatelain, University of Maryland history professor, to complete the report.

The lengthy paper went before the full board Monday and received wholehearted approval.

Chatelain's report also recommended that Collins appoint a committee of seven persons to carry out the restoration plan which includes rebuilding some of the historical forts and landmarks which stood when the ancient city was settled by the Spanish some 400 years ago.

Chatelain suggested the Legislature be asked to appropriate $250,000 toward restoration of the city and another $50,000 be raised locally by city and county governments through public subscriptions.

The board then authorized John Pennekamp, associate editor of The Miami Herald, to edit the report for publication in booklet form for presentation to Gov. Collins and other interested parties.

Agriculture Dept. Reorganization

South Florida Farm Leaders Like Plan to Save Taxpayer Dollars

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

South Florida farm leaders gave tentative approval Monday to a sweeping reorganization of Florida's Department of Agriculture which Sen. Tom Adams says will save "several million" taxpayer dollars.

The Orange Park senator headed a joint legislative-citizens committee which met at the Columbus Hotel to air the proposed reorganization and hear suggestions from South Florida farmers.

HERRELL

ADAMS

The committee takes its public hearings to West Palm Beach today for hearings beginning at 9:30 a.m. in Agriculture Center there.

Adams said it is too early to spell out in detail where the specific savings will be.

But, in response to questioning by Miami Rep. Cliff Herrell, Adams said he is certain that substantial savings, running into millions, will be achieved.

Herrell stressed that "too often alleged "reorganization" programs end up in expanded governmental agencies which hit the taxpayers harder rather than easing their burden.

Adams cited one specific saving of a million dollars.

"By eliminating the inspections of food stores as a function of the State Department of Agriculture, we can save this cost," he told The Miami Herald.

"The State Board of Health conducts this inspection now and what the Agriculture Department does is purely a duplication."

South Florida farm leaders such as George Cooper, Luther Chandler, Abney Cox, Robert Hall and others praised the reorganization outlined by the committee.

It calls for cutting the Department of Agriculture's 16 divisions to eight; transferring non-agricultural functions from that department to other state agencies which properly should handle them, and overhauling the entire machinery of the department to provide more efficient service statewide.

Adams said the committee will re-draft its final legislative recommendations upon conclusion of a series of statewide public hearings.

"From what I have heard from farmers, the major portion of the recommendations have their approval," Cox declared.

"We endorse the program in principle," commented Chandler, who heads the State Avocado and Lime Commission.

Following the West Palm Beach meeting, the committee goes to Orlando for a Wednesday session and concludes in Tampa on Thursday.

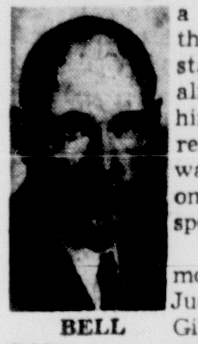
The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell



BELL

The traffic misfortunes of Circuit Judge George E. Holt are known throughout the state. The first almost cost him his life. And recently George was picked up on a slight speeding charge.

Well, Friday morning Circuit Judge Vincent Giblin and Mrs. Giblin were arrested in Coral Gables, on a speeding charge. Giblin protested violently and all Miami heard about it.

Friday night Mrs. Bell and I went over to see and hear Red Skelton (he's the mostes'). After the show we were on the lower steps waiting for our car. I heard a voice from the top step. There stood George and Mrs. Holt.

"We're waiting for Giblin to drive us home," Holt called. The laughter was as great as for anything Skelton did inside.

By the way, it seems Judge Giblin was right in claiming immunity while on his way to work. The law also applies to "anyone involved in a court hearing."

Really too Much

Here we go again, with massed entertainment. Van Cliburn plays Feb. 5. Variety Club's annual Show of Shows comes Feb. 5. Jose Greco, brilliant Spanish dancer and his company of 16, come Feb. 6 and 7. Fabien Sevitzky, with Ernst von Dohnanyi, 82, playing his own piano concerto in B minor, with University of Miami Symphony, comes Feb. 8-9. Add to those special events the stars in Beach supper clubs and you'll have yourself dizzy if you try to see even half of them.

Incidentally, Show of Shows is off to a running start, with Bob Hope listed as master of ceremonies. It'll be a top drawer revue, featuring only the best.

'Sign-or-Strike' Gun Aimed at Hotels

2 Unions Launch Assault

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A double-barreled "sign-or-strike drive was opened Monday by two unions against Gold Coast hotels, currently at the height of a money-reaping winter tourist season.

THE HOTEL EMPLOYES UNION reported it has signed a majority of the employes at Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel, long a major hurdle in the union's organizational campaign here.

The union already has asked the National Labor Relations Board to approve an election to certify it as the legal bargaining agent. But the hotel is expected to oppose the move.

THE INTERNATIONAL UNION of Operating Engineers announced the launching of an "extensive organizational campaign to include all hotels and motels in this area."

Composed of maintenance workers, the union is presently negotiating with 30 South Florida hotels.

Officials of both unions stated their drives were given impetus by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which lifted a picketing ban against 12 Greater Miami hotels.

In reference to the hotel union's Saxony battle, Local 255 President Dave Herman declared:

"We'll have an election or a picket line."

Max Sax, owner of the hotel, remarked, "We're not paying too much attention to it right now."

Ironically, the Saxony was the first hotel struck in April 1955 when the union started a 20-month fight to organize the area's 15,000 hotel workers.

Twenty-three Miami and Miami Beach hotels were struck during the drive, which was eventually slowed down by Florida court injunctions prohibiting picketing.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling of Jan. 12, however, put muscle back into the hotel union's strike threats.

"This is the opening shot in our new drive," Herman commented.

During the past several days there have been uncomfirmed reports that members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is made up of entertainers, have agreed to honor picket lines set up by the hotel union.

Oscar Kohsiek, business agent of Local 491 of the engineers, said that his union is seeking peaceful settlement with the hotels, "but the possible threat of picketing must always be considered by management."

He indicated the engineers union will respect picket lines formed by the hotel union.

Behind the scenes, however, there was a possibility that the two unions may be engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Both unions carry maintenance workers on their rolls.

"There might be a conflict of interest," Herman acknowledged, "but the engineers' union will find we have squatters' rights."

Slayer Gets 8-Year Term

Harold Aloysius Coan, 58-year-old unemployed plastic worker, was sentenced to eight years in state prison Monday for fatally shooting his landlady, Mrs. Mary Pearl Champion, 47, last Aug. 29.

He pleaded guilty to manslaughter and told Criminal Court Judge Ben C. Willard he had been having a friendly drink in her room at 92 NW 28th St. when the shooting occurred.

Her three elderly sisters sat in the courtroom to observe the proceedings but told Judge Willard they had nothing to say.

One Is Killed

Flash Fire Turns Two Men Into Human Torches

By EDDIE GONG
Herald Staff Writer

A flash fire which turned two men into "human torches," killed one Monday night, and left the other suffering third degree burns.

The dead man was identified as Nathaniel Washington, 35, of Goulds.

He burst through the window of a closed crane cab and staggered 25 feet before collapsing in a blazing heap.

The other man, Horace Emmett Morrison, 30, of 3535 NW 213th St., Opa-locka, pried open the cabin door and ran 60 yards, also blazing, until some firemen nearby beat out the flames.

He was in serious condition at Jackson Hospital. The entire lower half of his body was burned.

The fire flared in the crane cab at W. Fourth Ave. and 21st St., Hialeah, about 8 p.m.

The two were cleaning the cab of the crane, which was being used in highway construction.

They were using gasoline to clean up oil that spilled in the machine — owned by Andy's Truck Service, Inc., 16400 NW Red Rd.

"Apparently they were cleaning the inside of the cab with the windows closed and one of them lit a match," said Hialeah Detective Robert Vest.

A woman told Vest she was two blocks away and saw a small flicker of flame, "like somebody lighting a match," and then the flash of fire.

Washington's identity was learned only when his superintendent identified the shreds of remaining clothing as the uniform he was wearing.

The two men oiled and cleaned the equipment each evening, company officials said.

Morrison told police at Jackson Hospital he didn't remember what happened, except that there was "a terrible explosion."

Robber Captured In Chase

By HENRY RENO
Herald Staff Writer

A young bandit, fleeing in a stolen car with about $1,000 he had taken at gunpoint from a Supermarket, was captured Monday as he cowered in a utility room.

Police said the confessed robber identified himself as Michael David Leahey, 24, of Austin, Minn.

Leahey forced George Coyle, manager of the Kwik Chek store at 5299 NE Second Ave., to hand over $140 of his own money and more than $800 in company receipts.

Before the robbery early Monday afternoon, Leahey told the manager he wanted to discuss a returned check.

When the store manager took the young man into his office, Leahey pulled a gun, stolen in a break-in here Sunday, and said:

"I want all the money you've got. I've already killed one man this week."

Coyle handed over the money, police said, and Leahey took off in a car reported stolen only a few minutes earlier. Charles Harvey, 4010 NW Second Ave., was listed as owner of the car.

Police officers spotted the speeding car at NW Second Ave. and 36th St. and chased Leahey at speeds up to 70 miles an hour through residential and school districts.

At 1482 NW 46th St., Leahey slammed into a parked station wagon and, then careened into a yard.

He leaped from the smashed car, dropped his gun and fled into the utility room of another home.

After his arrest, Leahey was identified by Coyle in a lineup.

Leahey told police he committed the robbery because he needed money. When he broke into a home Sunday night and stole the gun, he said, he left rather suddenly and forgot his wallet and jacket.

Campbell Chided on 'Shakeup'

Metro Commissioner Alex Gordon chided County Manager O. W. Campbell and his staff Monday for "losing" the cost analysis made last September which Campbell said justified his shakeup of Dade Assessor John A. Gautier's office.

"Everyone in this county government seems allergic to putting things on paper," Gordon said at a fact-finding session with Campbell, Gautier and Metro's Tax Assessor's Advisory Committee.

Gordon and Gautier accepted the statement of Campbell's budget analyst, William Scoville, that the shifting of the assessor's IBM machines to a new "data processing" section will cut Metro's budget by $40,000 a year.

Gordon said he was satisfied that Gautier's control over his records is not hampered under the new setup, and that the county tax roll will be certified on schedule in mid-July, 1959.

Dade Job Count Goes Up Despite Airline Strikes

An economic shot-in-the arm provided by the winter tourist season offset strike losses last month and boosted Dade County employment 1.4 per cent, or 5,100 workers.

The Florida State Employment Service reported Monday that Dade employment rose from the November level of 285,900 to 291,000 in December.

On the other side of the ledger, unemployment jumped 3,800, from 26,400 to 30,200.

But contributing to the jobless toll were 2,000 strike-idled Eastern Air Lines workers, who returned to work after the 38-day walkout ended New Year's Eve.

Another 1,000 were composed of immigrant job-seekers who follow the sun to Miami in the winter. Only the remaining 800 are considered permanent residents.

Despite the brightening employment picture, the number of jobless in Dade is almost twice the level in December 1957 when 15,400 were out of work.

The recession — now on the wane — and a strike-punctuated labor situation are blamed for the climb in unemployment.

Harry L. Tyson, manager of the agency's industrial office, observed:

"Although workers participating in a labor dispute are not included in the unemployment estimate, those people temporarily laid off due to the strike are considered unemployed."

Employment increases were noted in the following industries from November to December: Service (hotels) 53,950 to 58,350; trade, 80,200 to 85,750; manufacturing, 37,700 to 38,050; government, 33,650 to 34,400, and finance, insurance and real estate, 16,600 to 16,700.

Transportation, communications and public utilities listed a drop in employment from 36,300 to 30,450. Construction slipped from 25,700 to 25,400.

Despite a drop of 300 workers in construction employemnt the December level of 25,400 is 2.8 per cent higher than the December 1957 figure of 24,700.

Bay Bottom Land Sought by County

State Expected To Grant Request

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

Dade takes the first step today toward asking the state for Biscayne Bay bottom land worth "hundreds of millions."

Indications are the answer will be "yes."

Metro commissioners see the gift as the key to a Miami-Keys causeway, parks and perhaps even a small airport where fish swim now.

"I think the Internal Improvement Board (which controls the state's bay bottoms) will accede to the request," Florida Attorney General Richard W. Ervin said.

Metro's plan is:

DADE WILL ASK that the board keep title to the land but not sell to private speculators.

PROJECTS, such as the causeway, will be drawn up by Metro.

REQUESTS for bottom land will be made as it is needed for the projects.

Private owners have been constantly turned down by the board when they asked to fill bay bottom lands.

"We have opposed this filling because the public would not enjoy the results," Ervin said. "But a request from the county government would be an entirely different matter."

He added: "We would support creation of public facilities in Biscayne Bay."

Metro Commissioners are expected to approve Commissioner Arthur Patten's resolution to ask the board to hold in trust all bay bottom from the Rickenbacker Causeway south to the Monroe County Line; and from the coastline east to the state's still undetermined "bulkhead line."

"It will be hundreds of square miles," Patten said, "worth hundreds of millions of dollars."

Patten is a member of a commission finance committee attempting to push through a huge north-south keys causeway.

Acquiring rights of way free from the state — "so we don't have to deal with private land speculators" — is the prime motive behind the resolution.

"Later, we could secure baybottom from the state without cost to build parks and possibly an airport for small privately-owned craft," Patten added.

He said the county has "a crying need" for a facility to replace Tamiami Airport. Patten called Tamiami "one of the poorest facilities in the country for private planes, in a locality which has one of the greatest demands anywhere for such an airport."

It's Not the Car, It's the Principle
. . . so Mrs. George Lewis winds up in jail

Gables Woman Prefers Jail Term To Paying Fine

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

A well-known and highly irate Coral Gables woman chose jail Monday rather than pay $20 after a traffic conviction.

Mrs. George T. Lewis, 54, past president of the Coral Gables League of Women Voters, and chairman of the legislative committee of the American Association of University Women, marched off to jail saying:

"I'd violate my conscience if I didn't go."

Her husband, a University of Miami professor, watched her ignore pleas by Coral Gables police that she pay the fine.

"Well," he shrugged. "She runs her own show."

As she began the five-day sentence a judge reluctantly imposed, Mrs. Lewis told confused observers:

"I'm doing this so small-car drivers can get a better break."

Mrs. Lewis told Gables city judge Charles Spooner that her little Fiat was parked behind a oil tanker truck, which backed into her.

The driver, Nevo Goodlak, 58, said that wasn't so.

Judge Spooner told Mrs. Lewis, "It defeats all reasoning that a man in a heavy tank truck would back up in heavy traffic to attempt to pull ahead."

He explained that the law says the second car in an accident, such as hers in the 5700 block of Maynada St., is automatically at fault unless he can prove the other vehicle was backing up.

"You didn't prove that," he said, fining her $15 and $5 costs.

"Is there a jail sentence?" demanded Mrs. Lewis, of 7930 SW 58th Ct.

Spooner hesitated. "Well, I can only go by what two witnesses tell me . . ."

Mrs. Lewis persisted.

"Very well," said Spooner, "in lieu of a fine, you could go to jail for five days . . ."

Mrs. Lewis went.

"It's the principle of the thing," she said. "Sports cars just generally don't get a break on the road."

She added: "I'm Scottish and stubborn."

The judge told her she can leave any time she pays the $20.

$5,000 Bond Set In Racing Case

Federal officials required $5,000 bond Monday for the release of Neil Garrett, accused of transmitting race results via radio from Hialeah race track.

Federal Communications Commission agents said Garrett first gave his name as Jack Johnson, of Baltimore, Md.

The suspect said he will enter a plea of not guilty, at a hearing to be held Feb. 6.

'Good for Greasy Hands'

Nabbed With 'Shine, But He's Got Alibi

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

Spilled moonshine was a-tricklin' through the street, so he "dipped up a little" to wash his greasy hands.

That was James Walden's story Monday — and it was good enough.

Police found five gallons of 'shine in a can, and more in a bottle at a filling station in the 300 block of NW 20th St.

With it, they found James.

Said Walden: "I heard the rumpus down the street (of state agents breaking moonshine bottles in a raid) and I said to my friend, Horace, those agents have jumped somebody big."

The whole block smelled of spilled 'shine, he said.

"So I told Horace . . . 'take a five-gallon can and dip up some . . . we'll use it to wash our hands with.' This place gets awful greasy."

The police sergeant who found James with the 'shine said, "It looked too clear to be dipped up."

But Alcohol Tax Unit Agent Charles Brown and U.S. Commissioner Roger Davis said the story had "a ring of truth."

They let him go.

Old and Sick, He Jumps To His Death

Four major illnesses were too much for 60-year-old Lawrence W. Leake. He jumped four stories to his death while three witnesses watched in horror.

Leake, a patient at Coral Gables Veterans' Hospital since September, was suffering from heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis and kidney trouble, hospital authorities said.

Shortly before 4 p.m. Monday, Leake opened the window of his fourth floor room, took the screen off, paused and then leaped to the concrete pavement below.

Witnesses to the suicide were two other patients, Melvin Coben, 91, of 1740 Bay Rd., and George Maier, of 310 SW 52nd Ave.; and Maier's wife, who was visiting him at the time.

Leake, who lived at 700 SW 31st Ave., died instantly, police said.

61-Year-Old Faces Charge

The state attorney's office Monday filed three counts of lewd and lascivious assault against a 61-year-old salesman for a Miami chemical firm.

Florida's Spirits

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago, you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.

CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.

RUM up 14 per cent.

CORDIALS down 21 per cent.

BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the year's out.

Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.

SYLVIA

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back.

"I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell.

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.

Your Income Tax: II

You, Too, Can Enjoy Many Happy Returns

This is the second in a series of six articles intended to help you avoid mistakes and save money in preparing your 1958 income tax return.

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Staff Writer

A lot of Americans pay Uncle Sam more taxes than they have to because they don't understand the four basic classes of income tax returns.

Two of the classes — the joint and the separate return — are more familiar than the others. The ones which remain an expensive mystery to many taxpayers are:

THE SPECIAL joint return for certain recent widows and widowers. This gives the same tax advantage as a regular joint return.

THE SPECIAL "head of household" return for certain single people or those legally separated from their husbands or wives. This gives about half the advantage provided by a joint return.

THE SEPARATE return is for single taxpayers or those married taxpayers who prefer to file individual returns. While married couples almost always pay a lower tax if they file jointly, they must file separate returns if:

1. Either the husband or wife was a nonresident alien at any time during 1958.

2. Husband and wife use different tax years, as when the wife pays taxes on a calendar year basis and the husband uses a fiscal year — July 1 to June 30, for example.

3. The husband and wife became divorced or legally separated during the year.

If separate returns are filed, each individual must report his own income and list his own exemptions and deductions. If one itemizes, the other must also itemize.

Many states have community property laws which credit the wife with half the family income even though she earns nothing herself.

Taxpayers in these states may split the family income if they file separate federal tax returns.

In all other states, however, the wife may report on her separate return only her own separate income.

In community property states, deductions paid out of community funds may be split equally if husband and wife file separately.

Separate returns may be filed either on form 1040 or 1040A, depending on which best fits your situation and, of course, provided you qualify to use form 1040A.

The joint return can be used by any couple married as of last Dec. 31. It doesn't matter whether the wife actually had any income. However, the return must list all income of both husband and wife and both must sign it.

If your husband or wife died during 1958, even on the first day of the year, you can still file a joint return and claim an exemption for your deceased spouse.

A joint filing saves money for most couples because it usually puts them in a lower tax bracket. In effect, the tax is calculated on only half of the family income, then is doubled. This is quite different, and cheaper, than calculating the tax on the full income to start with.

If in doubt about what you should do, figure your tax on both a joint and separate basis. Choose the method that gives you the lowest tax.

Normally there are only two situations in which a married couple can lower their tax bill by filing separately:

If both have capital losses of $1,000 or more. Since not more than $1,000 of capital losses can be deducted on any one return, separate filings permit deduction of $2,000.

If both husband and wife have income but only one has substantial medical expenses. Separate returns sometimes pay because, if you're under 65, you can deduct only those medical and dental costs which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

LOOK BABY--WE'VE BEEN IN ENOUGH JOINTS TOGETHER TO FILE A JOINT RETURN!
POST NO BILLS

The third class of tax return can be used if your husband or wife died during 1956 or 1957 and you meet certain qualifications.

This return must be filed on form 1040. You claim only your own exemption and deductions.

However, in figuring out your tax you use schedule two on page 15 of the instructions. This is the same schedule used in filing a regular joint return.

Here are the qualifications you must meet to get this tax break:

You must not have remarried through the end of 1958. If you have, you can file a joint return anyway.

You must have been entitled to file jointly with your deceased spouse at the time of death (he or she was not a nonresident alien, etc.)

Since then you must have furnished over half the maintenance of your home which is the principal living place of your child or stepchild for whom you're entitled to claim a dependency exemption.

If your husband or wife died before 1956, you still may qualify as a "head of household."

This return, which can be made only on form 1040, is for single, widowed, divorced or legally separated persons who maintain a household. It also applies to anyone married during 1958 to a nonresident alien.

The special tax rates which you use are given in schedule three on page 15 of the instruction booklet. These are the requirements you must meet:

You must furnish over half the cost of maintaining a home which is the principal residence of both you and your unmarried child, stepchild, or grandchild, even though not a dependent of yours, or any other relative whom you can claim as a dependent.

Or you must pay more than half the cost of maintaining a separate household for your father or mother, if either qualifies as your dependent. The test here is whether you pay more than half the cost of keeping the home, including such things as mortgage interest, rent, taxes, insurance on the home, etc.

Tomorrow: Your exemptions and your income.

START in '59?

YOU are invited to accept Spear & Staff's 1959 Forecast on Business and Stocks. It is the most unusual and perhaps the most important Forecast we have ever made...and should be read and re-read by every investor.

Section III of the Forecast is to prepare you in case emotions grab the market. It tells you the certain conditions which might develop to start stock prices toward fantastic heights. And you will also find the steps we think you should take to reap the safest advantages if "crowd psychology" should take over—as has happened many times in the past.

You will also find in this 1959 Forecast our selection of "19 Special Stocks for Large Potential Gains in 1959." We believe these stocks promise some of your best profit opportunities this year.

Send for your copy of this unique Forecast. We will also include 2 current issues of the weekly Spear Market Letter. Just $1.00. (New readers only.) Send $1.00 to Box S-21

IS NOW THE TIME TO SPECULATE
IN WARRANTS?

A well-timed speculation in warrants at very low prices can offer you big profits — even a small fortune — in a short time. Here are two examples of 'leverage' gains offered by warrants: while $100 in Tri-Continental's stock was growing to $1,623 in 48 months, $100 in Tri-Continental's warrants grew to $17,200 — or 10.6 times as much. And while $100 in Hoffman Electronics' stock was growing to $2,267 in 24 months $100 in Hoffman Electronics' warrants grew to $50,000 — or 22.1 times as much. As you can see, $100 in warrants (especially at low prices) can do the work of $1000 or even $2000 in growth stocks. Now many warrants are low-priced once again. And our Editors in a new Special Report select for you: "8 Very Low-Priced Warrants That Can Make You Big 'Leverage' Profits". A copy of this new Warrant Report is yours as a special bonus now when you send just $1 (new readers only) to try our unique advisory service 'The Growth Stock Letter' for the next two weeks. Mail this ad with your name and address and $1 today. Send to Dept. MH-3

WHEN F.D.R. MADE
"FIRESIDE CHATS"

1934 was a hopeful but not a happy year. The nation was still mired in the Great Depression.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt's courageous words, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself," had a hollow ring to the millions of unemployed.

Even nature seemed to conspire against economic recovery. The winter was blizzardy. New York City experienced its coldest day on record, February 9, 1934—14 degrees below zero. The Drought of 1934 was the most severe in the country's history, requiring government relief for midwest farmers made destitute. In Chicago a disastrous fire at the Union Stock Yards burned its way over eight square blocks.

1934 was a year to test a man's mettle. It was in April of this year that Chase opened its doors on Miami Beach, with funds of each saver insured-safe by an agency of the United States Government.

It required fortitude and optimism at a time when dollars were scarce, and the entire population of Miami Beach numbered less than 11,000.

Through a quarter of a century of economic changes, Chase Federal has consistently maintained a progressive policy of liberal and uninterrupted dividends, plus a conservative policy of substantial reserves beyond legal requirements.

Chase Federal has grown with Greater Miami—has invested upward of 124 million dollars in first mortgages on homes—and will continue to do its share in shaping Greater Miami's fabulous future.

OUR BASIC POLICIES - FOR INVESTORS

The customer's interest must come first.

We make no service charges of any kind.

We charge only the standard commissions of the New York Stock Exchange, or those of any other exchange on which an order is executed.

Our account executives are compensated on a salary and bonus basis rather than commission.

We are prepared to help investors, large and small. We welcome their requests for opinion or advice, and we offer the help of our Research Department, without cost.

Our officers and managers are available for consultation with all customers.

If the firm or its officers have an interest in the securities of a company, we disclose that interest and indicate its general size in any printed report we issue on that company.

No officer or employee is permitted to gain personal benefit from advance knowledge of any information that we publish about securities.

Before we sell a security owned by the firm, we disclose to the buyer that we are acting as a principal and not as a broker or agent.

Whenever we have a public offering of securities, no officer or employee can buy until customers' orders are filled.

To assure financial soundness, our capital will always exceed any requirements imposed on the firm.

We publish an annual report in which the facts about our operation are made public.

We aim to provide the most efficient physical facilities possible to assure fast and accurate handling of all orders.

Because we believe it is in the public interest for more people to own securities, we maintain a broad program of public education about share-ownership.

Are you standing still in the midst of growth?

- There's every indication that in the years ahead our nation's economy will grow as it has never grown before.

Will you share in that growth? You should be able to, by purchasing carefully selected common stocks. Of course, there are risks, for when you buy a common stock you become a part owner of the company and share in its fortunes. But, the rewards can be substantial.

How do you go about planning an investment program tailored to your particular needs? Our new booklet "Building a Second Income" is full of factual information which many have found to be of great help. For your complimentary copy, just fill out and mail us the coupon below.

It's Worst Drop Since Jan. 7

NEW YORK —(AP)— Late selling Monday drove stock market prices down to their worst loss since Jan. 7. Trading was active.

The decline clipped an estimated $1,800,000,000 from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York stock exchange.

Profit taking was general and came after an early rise failed to pierce the latest historic top established last week.

Steels were pacemakers in the initail rise. Reports of rising production and heightened demand to build up inventories brought buyers to this section of the market.

Zenith and Richfield Oil dropped 5, the latter after declaring its usual dividend. Eastman Kodak lost 4, Westinghouse Electric 3 and Sharon Steel 3⅛.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 3.70 to 592.37.

Volume was 3,980,000 shares compared with 3,600,000 on Friday.

The most active stock was Studebaker-Packard, up ¾ at 15⅛ on 160,400 shares. Second was American Motors, off at 36 5-8 on 87,100 shares.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular on heavy volume of 2,390,000 shares compared with 1,830,000 Friday.

Ernie Poe
. . . puzzle for Metro

Poe Back On Job but No Ponies

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

It's not that Ernie Poe hates ponies, it's just that he didn't feel up to walking one of the shaggy little animals around a 535-foot track at Crandon Park.

So, when a customer said, "Here, take my kid for a pony ride," Ernie said, "No!"

Thus, Ernie, 51, an employe of Dade County Parks division, drew a 15-day suspension and started a civil service hassle.

It began when Ernie's case was reviewed by the county's Personnel Advisory Board. The board decided that it has no jurisdiction in suspensions of 15 days or less.

But the board's vice chairman, Burton P. Nuckols, wasn't satisified with the treatment given non-pony-walking Poe.

Nuckols, who was one of Dade's top union leaders before becoming a U.S. Post Office supervisor, complained to the Metro Commission that Poe was "the object of unfair and discriminatory treatment" - possibly because he belonged to a union. Nuckols said the personnel board's no-jurisdiction rule should be repealed.

Said Robert Trowbridge, Dade personnel officer, "Poe was suspended because he refused a job without first informing his superiors and because he told one of our girls not to sell tickets."

According to Parks Director A. D. Barnes, Poe sat out two Fridays of pony detail in which not one ticket for the rides was sold on his time.

As for Poe, he's back on the job following his unpaid leave. "I'm not assigned to the ponies anymore," he said, "and, you know, I never did walk one."

New Move To 'Free' FEC OK'd

JACKSONVILLE —(AP)— A new move was approved Monday to get the Florida East Coast Railway out of the courts and back under private control.

The road has been in bankruptcy proceedings for 27 years and seven plans have gone before the Interstate Commerce Commission to settle its affairs.

Bondholders Monday gave approval of the seventh plan, which would turn the FEC over to the St. Joe Paper Co., a Florida DuPont concern, which holds a majority of the road's defaulted bonds.

The Atlantic Coast Line had been contesting for control. The ACL recently withdrew from the fight.

The only objection in U.S. District Court Monday to the new plan came from Edward J. Hickey Jr. and James L. Highsaw Jr., attorneys for the Railway Labor Executives' Association. They said the plan was unfair.

All parties to the reorganization plan had agreed there would be no objection to a specification there would be no dismissals; but the ICC said this would be contrary to public interest.

The ICC ordered four years job protection, saying that to guarantee jobs for life might become burdensome to the company if there was another severe depression.

The ICC said the company and its employes could reach agreement after the reorganization was effected.

The ICC said two-thirds of the bondholders would have to approve the latest plan and their agreement Monday appeared to clear the way for formal approval by Judge Bryan Simpson of U.S. District Court. Simpson gave Hickey and Highsaw until Wednesday to file a brief summarizing their statements.

Three other factors will enter into Judge Simpson's approval plans:

DETERMINATION of who, and in what amount, the unsecured creditors of the FEC are;

DETERMINATION of the amount of free assets of the railway, which include property owned by the railway not subject to the lien of the mortgage on the railway property; and

ACTION on an application, filed Monday by St. Joe that Judge Simpson name three members of a reorganization committee to begin informal work on reorganization plans.

At Senate Hearing

Psychiatrist to Air Views on Cold War

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — They've even put a psychiatrist into the act of a big show opening on Capitol Hill under the auspices of the Senate subcommittee on disarmament.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) an unabashed peacemonger and the chairman of the subcommittee, has invited Dr. Jerome Frank, a Stanford University psychiatrist, to testify on "the relation of arms control problems to problems of human behavior."

The Humphrey hearings, intended to make the American taxpayer disarmament conscious, open Wednesday and continue intermittently through February.

The witness list released by Humphrey shows a broad spectrum of opinion on the way to end the cold war.

At one extreme is George Kennan, the "disengagement man," a former U.S. diplomat with impressive credentials as an expert on the Soviet Union.

Kennan, one of the authors of the original policy of "containment" of the Soviet Union, has views for ending the cold war which give Secretary of State John Foster Dulles the nervous tremors.

But the State Department and the exponents of the "hard line" with the Soviet Union will be adequately represented in the Humphrey subcommittee hearings. The first witness Wednesday will be Philip Farley, special assistant to the secretary of state for disarmament and atomic energy policies.

Brochure A Bargain --McSherry

Port Authority Director George McSherry said Monday he considers the much-discussed publicity brochure on the new airport terminal a "bargain for the county."

The Port Authority paid $19,850 for 10,000 copies of the brochure, which will be used to publicize the terminal dedication Feb. 1.

Actual printing costs were $8,700, according to Arthur Ehrhardt, partner in the industrial design firm of Bogorad and Erhardt, which handled the project for the Port Authority.

Ehrhardt said he secured bids from "the only three printers in the county capable of producing the brochure" before awarding the job to Publishers Press.

Authorized by the Port Authority to spend exactly $19,850 for the project, Bogorad and Ehrhardt collect an art and design fee of $11,150.

McSherry said the brochure "is the best ever done on an airport anywhere."

PROGRESS REPORT

In reviewing 1958, we must realize that this was a year when the national economy began moving upward. The year was considered one of recovery from recession on the national scene. Here in South Florida, as has been the experience in the past decade, we lag behind the national economy so that our upswing was notably marked toward the end of the fourth quarter of 1958. After the serious tourist decline last winter due to inclement weather, there was great concern as to how far reaching this would be into our economy. However, our community proved it had a sufficiently stable economy to withstand the severe shock of a 30% tourist decline. Generally speaking, business was good here during the year of 1958. We have come to regard business as not being really good unless there is a substantial increase over the year before. However, this past year was good because the general level of prices remained fairly stable, and the growth we saw was real growth—not inflated by a sharply rising price level.

Thousands of new accounts opened by savers in 1958

Atlantic Federal has an unusual record in the annals of the savings and loan business, having experienced increases in all aspects of its business every year far in excess of the national averages and considerably in excess of other associations in Southeast Florida. During the past year, savings increased 18.7%. In dollars, this represented an increase to savings capital of $5,755,148. Savers have found in Atlantic Federal a friendliness, a helpfulness, and a security which is demonstrated by an increase in our savings accounts of 5611 new savings accounts during the past year for a total of 15,840 savings accounts.

Mortgage loans boost building and economy

Savings which are placed in the Atlantic Federal are immediately put to work primarily in what is considered by all economists to be the finest investment in the world, conservative first mortgage loans on homes in our community. It is noteworthy that the dollars placed in the Association primarily provide shelter for homeowners. But they do much more, too. They provide food and clothing to construction workers; and they bring business to local merchants. Thus, each dollar passes through the entire community business structure, leaving benefits at each point where it touches. That is why we at the Atlantic Federal are so dedicated to the growth of your association. It is the greatest source for economic growth for the community.

Dollarwise, our first mortgage loan investments in the community increased 26.5% or $6,573,516 over the previous year. At year's end, we held 3574 loans totaling $31,399,908. Actually the dollar volume of new loans made in 1958 was $11,805,772. This represented 1098 new mortgage loans.

In addition to this, we have been actively aiding our home owners in improving their properties by lending $275,903 in home improvement loans, which is another service of the Atlantic Federal.

Operating costs slashed —net profit up 24.8%

During this period of growth, we were able to effect economies that reduced our operating costs, percentage-wise, to 27.6% of income, which is a decrease of 6.8% over 1957's operating cost. In the expansion of our services to the community, we are ever mindful of operating costs. We effect economies constantly so as to operate more efficiently thus rendering the greatest service at the lowest possible cost. As a result, our net profit after operating expenses increased by 24.8% over 1957. By virtue of this, we were able to add $561,858 to our reserves. This represented an increase in reserves of 47.1% and brings the total in reserves to $1,755,164 which is approximately 5% in reserves to savings capital. We did this after paying a 3½% dividend, totaling $1,095,672 to our savers.

Assets now exceed $41 million

Total assets of the Association increased $8,066,628 or 24.2% over 1957. We are now a 41 million dollar Association.

The Association maintains at all times a high liquidity program in order to facilitate the demands for cash by savers, and our total cash and Government securities at the end of the year represented $7,906,361 of our total savings capital or 21.6%.

The staff of the Atlantic Federal can take great pride in these figures for they were achieved through the sincere day-to-day efforts of each and every member. The Board of Directors of your Association has, in recognition of the staff's efforts, paid a bonus to the employees of approximately 10% of their 1958 payroll. Also, effective January 1, 1959, employees with two years or more service will be eligible to become a part of the Association's pension plan. This was voted by the Directors to provide security in years to come for services rendered to the Association. You will be interested to know that the Association now employs 47 people, or 1.1 employee per million dollars of assets.

Looking ahead in 1959

It is evident from the figures I have just given you that the management team here at the Atlantic Federal held up well under the pressures of 1958 and that, with a concentration on weak spots, which occur in all operations, we were able to overcome them and make progress even during a recession. We now must, however, face 1959 with even greater resolve to expand services and benefits to the community. The fact is that "recovery" is proceeding very slowly and 1959 will no doubt have its soft spots. We must be ever alert in our planning to adjust quickly to overcome these events.

This year will see the new Congress trying to put into effect more radical and socialist programs. However, with the important committees chairmaned by conservatives, we can hope for compromise and no radical departure from the past in Congress as far as action is concerned on bills presented. Inflation, while actively fought, will not be eliminated but may be paced downward. The great problem will be increased taxation at the state and county level. We must also realize as citizens that, if we wish to protect our way of life, we must constantly guard against interference in private industry by Government. This must begin at the "grassroots." Communism is not a political body but a way of thinking and may be described as "Socialism without a home."

The American economy is about to embark on a level of productivity that will surpass anything that the world has ever seen. In the years immediately ahead, atomic power will be made available for peacetime production. If we fight to maintain the free enterprise system—we can expect more and better goods than most of us dream possible. Atomic power will place south Florida in a position to have many industries which heretofore were never thought possible in this area and through this, our year round payroll will swell to a point that will make our present levels seem insignificant.

This enormous increase in our standard of living will naturally bring with it serious problems which even now we must prepare to face. The number of working hours of each man will be decreasing and, within another ten years, we will probably be standardized at a 35-hour week with the ultimate being a 30-hour week. Much of our problem is going to center in what we do with our increased leisure time. This leisure time will bring thousands of people to south Florida more frequently and for longer periods of time than at present. This could create a problem and we must guard against this by planning creative activity for their leisure time.

There is nothing new or startling in this thought. For example, the Ford Foundation has, within the past few years, granted large sums of money to American universities to increase the salaries of professors in schools of arts and sciences, (rather than to increase salaries in professional fields such as law and medicine). These funds were to encourage training in the liberal arts and students could thus devote substantial leisure time to cultural creative living.

Home improvements protect residents

In a similar fashion, we can plan creative activity for all of us. Atlantic Federal is interested in preventing neighborhood disintegration which has been all too frequent an experience in American cities. Here, we can plan now to work at maintaining our neighborhoods by both community and individual action. The individual action can be the development and implementation of a program of house and home maintenance and beautification, much of which can be on a "do-it-yourself" basis. We, at Atlantic Federal, are ready to help you embark on a serious program of maintenance and beautification which will result in your neighborhood being better maintained while you protect your individual home investment.

In sponsoring the Ft. Lauderdale Symphony Pops Concert over the years, we feel we have contributed to a great measure in bringing to the community a healthy respect for the cultural aspects of living.

◆

My sincerest thanks go to the Directors, Officers and Employees of the Atlantic Federal Savings and Loan Association for their fine cooperative efforts during 1958. This generous support has helped make the Association's growth possible. Their continued effort to do all in their power to further the interests of the Association in every possible manner in 1959, I feel, is a certainty and we will be able to make that sound progress which has distinguished our operations for the past six years. To the savers and borrowers and to the community as a whole, we say thank you for your support and recommendation of the Atlantic Federal and we trust that we will continue to be worthy of your recommending us to your friends and neighbors, for it is only through your endorsement that we can better serve the community to the benefit of all.

Sincerely,

Audience Shines at Opera

MIAMI'S OWN OPERA STAR Patricia Cali, left, known locally as Nancy Firszt, found time to chat backstage with ardent opera supporters Mr. and Mrs. Walter Olson before the curtain rose Monday night on Rigoletto.

EARLY ARRIVALS at Dade County Auditorium for the opera opening were Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ryder. Her gown was of silver gray embroidered lace. The first performance was played to a capacity audience.

FIRST NIGHTERS John Astor and Ann Van Sciver await the overture. She wore a bouffant gown of pink net and a white fur for the glamorous opening.

TEN - YEAR - OLD Ann Coleman, decked out in a white formal, saw her first opera Monday evening.

Herald Society Editor

PERSON TO PERSON

The very young set turned out for the first opera of the season Monday evening — and it was the first opera ever for some. These cute young ladies wore long saucy dresses and couldn't have looked more adorable. Ten-year-old Ann Coleman was in white organdy embroidered with tiny pink flowers; Ellen Winton, also 10, was in white and her younger sister GeGe was in leaf green; Kathy Dyer was in blue.

Their mothers, who were on hand too for the opening performance of Rigoletto in the Dade County Auditorium, are Mrs. David Coleman, Mrs. Ernest Winton and Mrs. John M. Dyer.

But the young set didn't outshine the faithful opera go-ers who crowded the foyer of the auditorium, dripping with orchids, mink, fox, chinchilla and sweeping the floor with their long gowns.

Patrons of the Opera Guild Ida and Walter Olson, recently here in their Miami Beach home from Chicago, went backstage to see lovely Patricia Cali, who sings Gilda in the opera. She is a Miami girl who has made good.

Ida was wearing the magnificient golden re-embroidered lace gown and gold gloves which she wore at their 50th wedding anniversary celebration in Chicago. Her jewelry was diamonds and emeralds. Walter looked very sporty indeed as he topped off midnight blue dinner clothes with a wide felt hat he had bought in Canada. With them were his sister-in-law, Eleanor Olson and Mrs. George Hampton.

A group of the Young Patronesses acted as hostesses and wore white carnation corsages attached to a long green streamer which said "Young Patroness." In this group were Mrs. Frank Lubien, in emerald green which complemented the bright red taffeta worn by Mrs. Charles Pawley. Opera Guild director Arturo Di Fillipi was dignified in white tie and tails and his wife Lee floated around in red lace.

The opening performance was a sell-out. Rigoletto will be repeated Wednesday at Miami Beach Auditorium and at Dade County Auditorium again on Saturday night. After the performance, Opera Guild members gathered at the Top o' the Columbus for the annual glamorous Star Supper. Stars of the evening's performance joined them at the party.

Chairmen of the supper were Mrs. James Sottile, Dorothy White and Mrs. Tom Joyce. It was good to see Ethel (Mrs. George) Kennedy out and about again after her recent operation. Another opera lover was Mrs. Nelson Swift Morris, wearing white satin, a chinchilla wrap and glittering diamond and ruby jewelry.

Rose and Emil Veith, who arrived in their Miami Beach home three days ago, were saying "hello" to friends. They've spent the last eight months in Europe.

A threesome at the opening included Mrs. George Wight, Mrs. Theo Vanneman and a visitor from Chicago, good-looking Mrs. Murrell Kern. Caught a glimpse of Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. Warren Freeman in striking white and red greatcoat, Katie Heslop with a new hair-do.

Before curtain time Monday evening, Terry Felix entertained at a dinner party for her houseguests "Puss" and Bob Powell of New Britain, Conn., and Terry's brother Lou Hoeflin, his wife Berthe, and their two daughters Rachel and Martha from Virden, Ill. Mr. Hoeflin owns, runs and publishes a newspaper in Virden. Other guests of Terry's were Horace Cordes, former president of the Opera Guild, and Mrs. Cordes, the Dayton Fertigs, Lillian Claughton and Guillford Hall.

A Drive From the Far West

Second largest cattle ranch in the US, a mere million and a half acres, is the S Bar S ranch in Nevada. It is owned by Helen Marye Thomas whose late father was the last US Ambassador to Czarist Russia.

Mrs. Thomas, Phyllis Walsh and her mother, motored from their homes in Wordsworth, Nev. in Mrs. Thomas' old faithful Rolls which is well known in Nevada. They have been fishing aboard their houseboat in Key West and stopped in Miami on Monday en route home, to lunch with Ann and Neil Vanderbilt at the Surf Club.

Key West Flower Show Dates

Word from Anne and Gene Otto in Key West says that the flower show there is set for its opening at 6 p.m. Feb. 27th and will run over the weekend at the old fort, West Martello Towers. Gene's artistic genius is the guiding hand back of this beautiful show.

Ruth Surprised Her Friends

Surprise for friends of Ruth Robertson, widow of Charles M. Robertson, was her marriage on Sunday to Dr. John D. Milton, a past president of the Dade County and Florida Medical Associations.

Both live in Coral Gables where the ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. L. G. Strudivant.

Mrs. Marcley Healy attended the bride and Leslie Perkins was best man. After the ceremony there was a champagne breakfast at the Top O' the Columbus. The couple will divide their time between the Gables and Dr. Milton's new home in Lake Placid.

A performance of that old melodrama The Drunkard, will delight guests on Wednesday at a Gay 90s dinner dance at Coral Gables Country Club. There'll also be a bathing beauty contest in those fascinating bathing suits of the gas light era.

Celebrities Galore at PB Opening

PALM BEACH — Royal Poinciana Playhouse was a Tiffany window and a fashion show Monday night. Palm Beach society, its elegant grand dames, beautiful younger women, and the men who squire them, turned out for Noel Coward's "Private Lives," starring Eva Gabor and John Emery.

"Private Lives," to run all week, ushered in the Royal Poinciana Playhouse season.

So many noted guests were there that the curtain was more than 30 minutes late in rising. Nobody would be seated.

Famous folks were everywhere — actress Faye Emerson in emerald green chiffon; stage star Fay Bainter in pale pink with a white fur wrap around her shoulders; Jean Dalrymple of the New York City Center Opera in white brocade.

Playhouse impresario Frank J. Hale caused a sensation by wearing a white dinner jacket with black lapels. Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes, in pale green chiffon, had a bunch of violets at her waistline.

Women in the audience were wearing mostly floor length evening dresses, and there wasn't a feminine knee to be seen in the entire house.

Millie Considine, wife of the noted newsman Bob Considine, wore pink and silver. Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone was in steel blue satin; Mrs. Samuel Rinaker in green satin; slender blonde Mrs. George Henri Boutet chose steel gray. Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth, whose husband is president of the Society of the Four Arts in Palm Beach, wore a silk print in shades of red. Another stunning theater costume was the silk print gown with matching jacket worn by Mrs. Dodge Sloan.

The Edwardian luxury of the Playhouse set off to their best advantage the gorgeous gowns. And the crowd itself was as bubbly as the champagne fountain which sent up a sparkling spray in the plush Celebrity Room every time someone bought a bottle of the stuff.

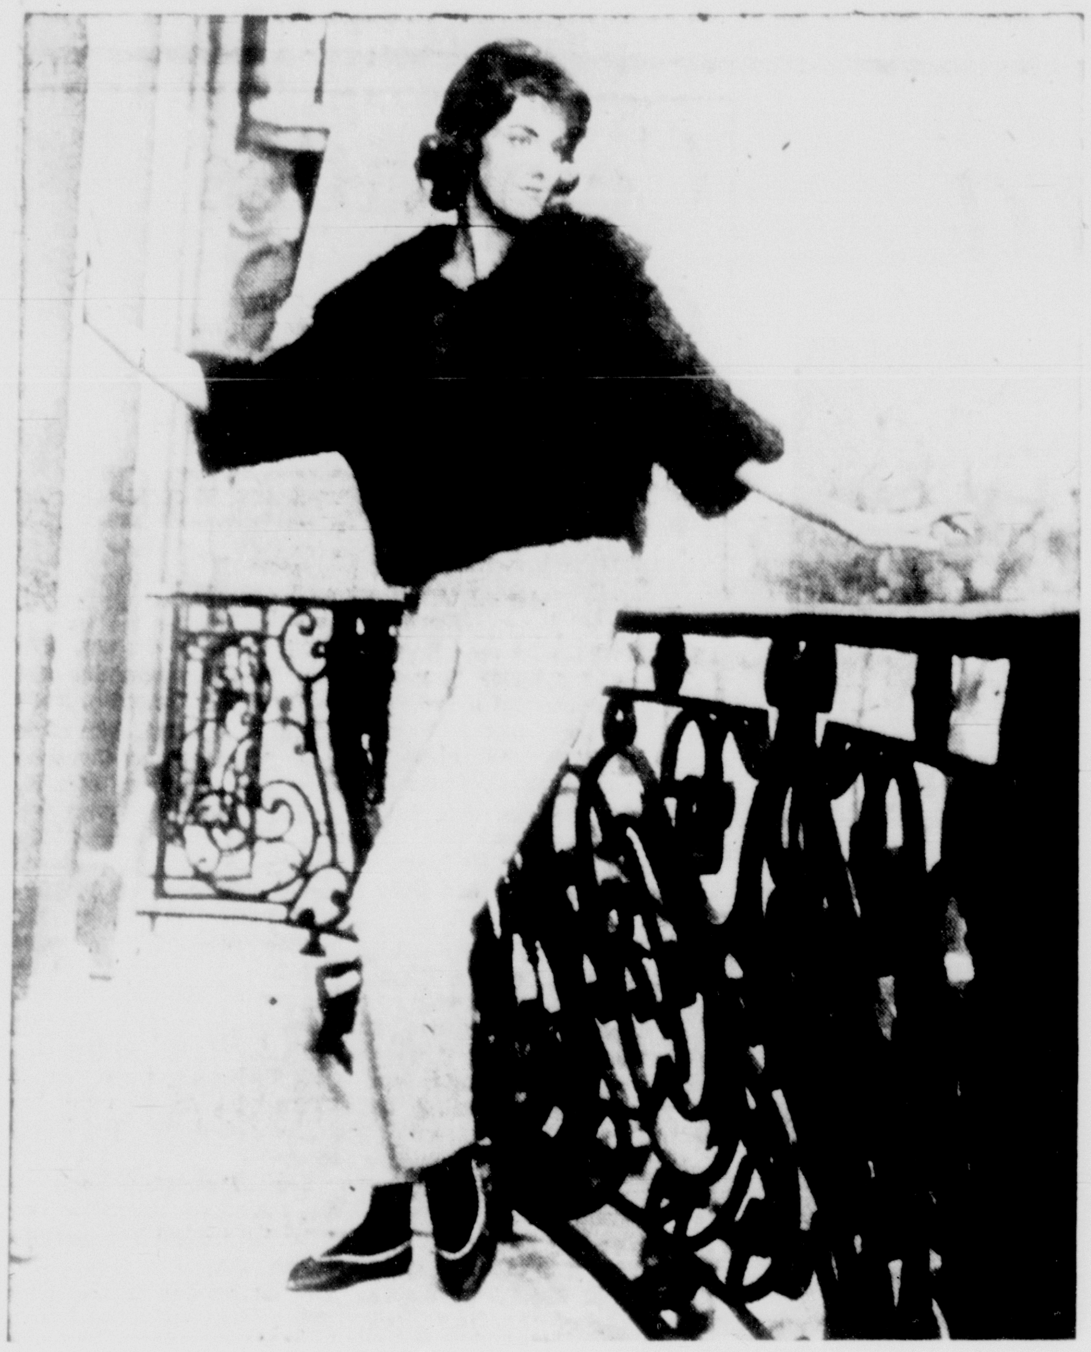
The Future of Our Clothing



SYNTHETIC FABRIC gets the glamor treatment. New separates for leisurely evenings a deux were designed by Paris couturier Hubert de Givenchy entirely of orlon. Short, bulky pullover with enormous collar is in a black, very shaggy orlon knit. He pairs it with turquoise pants in a soft looped fabric woven of orlon wool and mohair. Satin bow adds dressy touch to pullover.

By BEVERLEY WILSON
Herald Fashion Editor

Will women of the future shop for clothes as they do for food — in supermarkets? That's what one bright young dress manufacturer — New Yorker Richard Cole—thinks.

"Within 25 years, clothes will become supermarket stock. You'll put your money in a slot and a dress will come out packaged" is the eye - popping prediction he made in New York to a United Press International reporter.

"Synthetics are the coming trend, although we may not abandon pure fibers in our lifetime," he added. "Synthetics still don't have the snob appeal of wool and silk, because we haven't created the romance about them."

★ ★ ★

MEANWHILE, BACK IN PARIS, designers already seem to be creating the synthetic romance Mr. Cole is talking about.

A top Parisian couturier, Hubert de Givenchy, has just created an entire collection of glamorous sweaters and separates in orlon.

Many of the designs will be reproduced in this country, and should be available in limited quantity by March or April. The collection includes the debut of a new textured filament yarn of orlon, which gives sweaters the same sort of lustrous flat texture and luxurious hand that the finest European knits have.

We haven't yet seen any hints that Mr. Cole's fashion supermarket is the coming thing, but he's quite serious about it.

"We're already heading toward supermarket selling," he says.

"Look at fashionable Fifth Avenue stores. Customers used to remain seated while clothes were brought to them. Today, more and more stock is put on the racks for women to thumb through.

"Displays and decorations still are more elegant than in self - help stores, but the fashionable shops are basically the same as cut-rate stores."

★ ★ ★

MR. COLE — who likes to aim his own fashion collections at the girl who can't afford couturier prices, can't wear junior-size clothes, but still wants high fashion touches to her wardrobe — has another arresting idea for the future. He thinks there won't be any such thing as custom tailoring.

"Clothes will be vulcanized and seamed by machine, not hand sewn. When clothing becomes a grocery-store item, the emphasis will be on warmth and wearability, not style."

We can just see Givenchy reacting to this bit of news!

"But after all, the tangible thing in fashion is a woman's figure. Styles are a variation of what to do with the neckline, bustline, waistline, hips and hemline.

"In the future, clothes will be more functional. Space travel will affect all fashion. Even if a woman doesn't go to the moon, her clothes will reflect the demands of those who do."

What will space fashions look like?

"Who knows. Maybe pale blue one-piece jump suits of plastic. One thing is certain. Eventually all clothes will be made entirely of synthetics," he said.

"But you can bet your dollars there will be romance. Even with supermarket fashions, the dress business will be bigger than ever. And we might be clothing Mars."

MARY ASTOR: MY STORY

'I Knew Now--I Had Hit Bottom'

Mary Astor's third marriage, to Manuel del Campo ended in divorce and she prepared for her fourth marriage.

One
In a Series

I became Mrs. Thomas Gordon Wheelock on Dec. 24, 1945. Mother was there, and wished me happiness with a resigned air.

The idea of Tommy Wheelock being broke was treated as simply one of those absurdities that happen occasionally in life. And so I accepted it. But it was no joke that five years after our marriage I had exactly $192.86 in the bank and we were over $30,000 in debt.

I had blown up another pink balloon that burst in my face. I had told myself that I would slow down our drinking after we were married. But now it was no better.

I often walked in my sleep. I would awaken in total darkness, without the least idea of what part of the house I was in, completely disoriented, wailing tearfully for Tommy to come and get me. I began to suffer more from hang-overs, and learned the comfort of the quick shot in the morning.

★ ★ ★

ONE EVENING Tommy and I were entertaining a doctor who lived just up the road from us, and with whom we had become quite friendly. I hadn't had a great deal to drink, but I suddenly felt quite drunk — dizzy and completely disoriented.

The doctor took a close look at me and said, "This girl isn't drunk. She's ill." He took my temperature; it was 105. Immediately they drove me to Queen of Angels Hospital, where, after a great many tests, I was informed that I had cirrhosis of the liver.

After I got out of the hospital I had to make regular trips to see the doctor and have liver-function tests. He told me my liver had been badly damaged and I must never drink again. I was frightened enough to accept his ultimatum.

After three months passed before I was scheduled to see him again. When I took the routine tests, the results were excellent. He asked me how much I had been drinking, and I replied, "I haven't been drinking anything. You told me not to."

When he said, "You mean you haven't had a drop in three months?" the note of surprise in his voice meant to me that my condition was probably not so serious after all.

So when I got home I thought, "A bit of sherry now and then can't hurt me. He was just trying to scare me. He probably thought I drank a lot more than I did."

★ ★ ★

THE SHERRY PROGRAM didn't last long, however. I began to take straight shots of gin for relief from the cramps that seemed to be getting worse every month now. I also caught colds quite frequently, and of course that calls for a hot toddy of good, high-proof bourbon.

I read a number of articles in magazines and newspapers about alcohol and occasionally I read about a group of people who together find their answer in a fellowship based on spiritual principles. I learned that one of these fellowship groups met regularly in Studio City, right near Republic Studios.

The first time I went I was very much impressed — and also shocked by the stories some of the speakers told. I went several weeks in a row, listening with sympathy, but with no sense of identification, to speakers tell their stories.

"These people," I told myself, "are centainly to be commended for their ability to lick their problems. But they have really had problems: the sordidness of sanitaria, drunk driving (I mentally patted myself on the back for having learned not to get caught at that) — these people had — what did they call it? — 'hit bottom.' I haven't hit any kind of 'bottom' at all."

I just "drank heavily," but when I was working on a picture I stopped drinking. I had stopped drinking while I was attending the group meetings. It wasn't difficult, only boring. So I went back to my "rules about drinking."

★ ★ ★

I WANTED TO GET OUT of my contract with Metro. Everybody said I was foolish. Metro suggested that I take six months' sick leave — a year if necessary. But I didn't want that.

My pent-up bitterness had blown like the cork on a warm bottle of champagne. I was sick of supporting people — beginning with my parents. But now I was fed up. Between outbursts I would shut myself up in the library and sleep — and drink.

Out of the haze Tommy appeared one day with two men from the fellowship which I had previously rejected. Somehow they got through to me; I dimly remember one of them saying to me, "Wouldn't you like to get out of this rat race?"

I agreed that they should take me to a sanitarium run by the fellowship. In a few days the terrible shakes subsided, and the psychiatrist asked me if I'd like to "do a little work with him."

I took all the tests. When it was over he said, "You've got all your marbles, and very good ones, but you don't seem to have any aggressiveness at all."

"Should I?" I asked.

I caught a glimpse of some of the patients, haggard and repulsive. And the realization came to me that this was the kind of people the fellowship was for — and I was one of them. I had hit bottom.

Guide

Hunt some new ways with canned peas to use one of this month's most plentiful foods. They're reasonably priced, too.

A different way to serve them is in a hot pea salad. The salad doubles as salad and vegetable. Peas and potatoes are the mainstays of the salad. Seasonings are pickle relish, pimientos, onion and cheese.

Deep green spinach leaves make a nice bed for the salad.

The salad is quick to mix and heat—just 15 or 20 minutes in the oven.

HOT PEA SALAD

1 8-ounce can white potatoes
1/3 cup pickle relish
1 2-ounce can or jar pimientos
1 small onion, finely chopped
1/4 pound sharp Cheddar cheese, cubed
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Fresh spinach leaves
Garlic French dressing

Combine drained peas, drained and sliced potatoes, pickle relish, pimiento strips, onion, cheese and mayonnaise. Put in casserole. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes, until heated through. Serve on spinach which has been tossed with French dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Princess Line Makes Paris Comeback

By Herald Wire Services

PARIS — The fashion pendulum in Paris swung back Monday morning to a silhouette so normal that it hardly looks like high fashhion.

The collection was Jacques Heim's which opened a week of pace-setting fashion shows of styles for the coming summer season.

Heim said he borrowed his theme from the flower garden. He called his silhouette the "rose line."

But what it amounted to was our old friend the princess line. It shows a lady's attributes without exaggeration.

Skirts were slim and lower than last season, between upper and mid-calf. They tended to pare down hips.

* * *

BUSTS—again without exaggeration—were where nature put them. So were waists, with the aid of a three-to-four-inch belt-like panel at the midriff.

Heim's designer, Jean Pomerade, called it "a smooth intersection to bring the waist back to normal." The panel does just this.

The silhouette was tapered at the bottom. It blossomed out at the shoulder line with the help of interesting wide collars and set-in shoulders.

Heim's collection was young-looking and practical.

Models were not made up like the front line at the Folies Bergere. Their clothes were cut sensibly enough so they could walk instead of mince.

* * *

COLORS were clear and often brilliant. Heim gave them garden names like nasturtium, hibiscus and delphinium, and they fitted these labels.

Coats were called gardeners' smocks.

They were cut full at the top, tapering to mid-calf.

But evening news was the return to the ankle length skirt. One observer sighed with relief and said, "At last we can dress again for dinner."

'I Would Scrub Floors For My Children's Sake'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Tess' letter makes me mad. I know her kind. I am the mother of five and have a wonderful husband, but the very idea of this woman saying another woman's children should go to work and quit school for her!

Just because her marriage didn't work, why should she try to break up someone else's home? She may have gone to Catholic church but she's no Catholic.

Thank goodness, Florida laws say a man has to take care of his children. The only trouble is they aren't tough enough.

Any mother who has given birth to 11 children has worked. I only have five and I work hard, even though I have every modern convenience. And I would scrub floors, if necessary, to see my children got an education.

A child owes his parents love, honesty and to do the best for his parents by obeying the Ten Commandments. Tess probably doesn't even know them.

This husband is to blame and I hope his children never find out because they will lose their respect for him.

May the wife forgive him, and may God forgive him and Tess for what they have done.

EVELYN

* * *

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Tess had better open her eyes. After so many years of marriage, that man is going through a phase where another woman is stimulating, and if it had not been Tess, it would have been someone else.

His life is made, she cannot undo or take back. There would be too many interferences.

His children were there before her, and not one would accept her as mother. There are no substitutes in a case like this.

Tess, Get On The Right Track

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I would like to answer Tess.

1. You may have been given the name Catholic but you did not learn the teachings or you wouldn't scorn a woman quoting the Bible against divorce and re-marriage.

2. How could this mother with 11 children get out and work? I am sorry you cannot have children, but any mother who has borne and raised 11 is entitled to put on extra pounds!

3. God instituted marriage to increase the human race, and I'm sure this mother has earned a special seat in heaven.

4. I am a Catholic, and I'd like to invite you to one of the study courses at any of our Catholic churches.

Through this course, you cannot help but get on the right track and make a better life for yourself instead of the heartbreaking one you are living now.

What Will Remove Putty From Rug?

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Putty isn't pretty to Mrs. B. R. of South Miami. Not on her rug, anyway.

Her children were delighted with their new putty. They made all sorts of spectacular sculptures with it. But they also dropped a generous amount on Mama's rug. And Mama didn't know until next morning.

"It's ruined," she said. "How can I get it off?" Her rug is wool and she's already tried scraping and pulling it off.

It didn't help. "I haven't tried any solutions because I'm afraid of taking the color out." Can anyone help her?

How To Remove Fungus, Mildew

Mrs. M.A.K. of not only Miami, but Downtown Miami (she cheated, she wrote on "company time" — but bless her 40-hour heart), has the way to clean fungus from outdoor concrete furniture.

Her method: "Pour liquid bleach on and let stand. Then scrub with water and a stiff brush. Very easy." That's the kind of method we like. Very easy.

And Mrs. C.R.W. of Vero Beach suggests a commercial product for the cleaning which we'll pass along in exchange for the usual request a la self-addressed, stamped envelope. She says:

"On Mrs. H.F.'s question about mildew, a pine scented liquid detergent applied full-strength, allowed to set for about 5 minutes, then scrubbed with a good stiff brush and finally wiped with a clean sponge or damp cloth should eliminate all fungus or mildew.

"To keep concrete furniture nice, wax with any floor wax (liquid) and repeat every 3 months or so. This will also work with wall tile."

She says that she uses a liquid car wax for the area around the bath tub for a "spanking new look."

This is a Sunday, Tuesday and Friday column for the Florida homemaker. Hints, questions and answers may be mailed with full name and address to Readers' Exchange, The Miami Herald, Miami, 30. The Herald is not responsible for the safety or efficiency of methods recommended by our readers.

Stripper is Ex-UCLA Coed

MICKEY MANNERS and the Singapore have parted but the comedian will stick around through the season at other spots before heading to New York with a TV panel show idea . . . Ted Follows, who'll be in "As You Like It" at Barry College on Feb. 20 with the Canadian Players, has been "following" the theater professionally for many years since he graduated from Toronto University . . . Tom Ferris accompanied Jack Paar to Cuba—on loan-out from the Mackle Company. Wonder if a Sierra Maestra subdivision is in the making.

De-glamorizing news. Titian Dal, whose figure and dancing delight at the Gaiety, majored in bookkeeping and accounting at University of California at L.A. . . . Toni Ann Gargnilo, McArthur High School junior who'll be in "The Reluctant Debutante" at Hollywood Little Theater next month, was, we are told, "a McArthur talent show winner" recently. Was that McArthur Godfrey?

Black Steer restaurant in Hallandale is now the New Black Steer. New operators . . . Answer to query: Bobby Collins, emcee and comedian at the Aristocrat in Hollywood, is the former show partner of Ken Graham, who was killed in an auto crash some months ago. Bobby has been doing a single since.

Ex-Floridian Now Disc Exec

FORMER Floridian Kay Norton, who is a member of the Andros Bahamas Development Corporation, has been appointed vice-president in charge of administration of United Artists Records in New York. She is the wife of columnist Robert Sylvester.

Dates to remember: Feb. 10, preview of the newest Walt Disney animated movie, "Sleeping Beauty," as a Lend-a-Hand benefit, at Sheridan Theater; Feb. 12, opening of "The Black Orchid" at the Flamingo Theater; Jan. 31, sneak preview of "The Trap" at Lincoln Theater. It opens Feb. 4 at Lincoln, Paramount and Riviera.

One birthday cake wouldn't suffice—there had to be two at Leone's today. It is the restaurant's sixth and owner Celestine's 58th birthdays . . . Sorrento Hotel's International Festival series honored Hawaii and Israel back-to-back this week. Don't know whether dancer Olga Suarez will sport a ponytail for the event, but her next ballet stint will be at a luncheon for the Greater Miami Hairdressers Assn. at the Dupont Plaza on Feb. 8.

The Natale-Fields Trio (Bobby Fields, Frank Natale and Jerry Sherman) may soon establish squatters' rights in the Boom Boom Room of the Fontainebleau Hotel. The MGM recording group has been there for 30 months . . . Donn Arden treated several of the girls from his "Sky High" revue at the Latin Quarter to a night on the town at the Red Carpet to see Ray Bourbon and the Windsors. No! Clyde, NOT Eddie and the former Mrs. Simpson!

London Comic Eyes Talent Here

COMEDIAN AL BURNETT TWA'ed from London recently enroute to Miami to ogle talent for his London Place Pigalle and Stork Room. He has Davis and Reese at Place Pigalle for a Feb. 14 opening . . . Tony Regan, who was casting director with "A Hole in the Head" here is now playing the maitre de of Dino's in the Sunset 77 series. Dean Martin, who owns the real Dino's, wanted to walk through a scene of a segment — but his opposite network wouldn't let him!

A singing star well known in our town is balking at the community debt that her husband-to-be's alimony settlement to his ex will constitute! It might even cause the marriage to be called off!

Did you know that show-business ushering is becoming a big biz? Chicagoan named Andy Fraim has a regular booking office. Cavalcade Theater is one of the local franchise accounts.

Summerfield To Be Target

NEITHER RAIN, nor snow, nor gloom of night, or whatever it is that didn't slow that Greek messenger and isn't supposed to deter modern letter carriers from the completion of their appointed rounds will affect the annual Fall Guy luncheon of the Circus Saints and Sinners at the Carillon Club Siam on Feb. 21. Target for the day will be Postmaster-General Arthur J. Summerfield. The Lou Walters revue, designed for male-men, will be presented. Marion Colby (Mrs. Councilman B. Frank) and Noonan and Marshall will be featured.

Jean Carroll Is Cafe Cut-Up

THERE IS a tight little bit of sure-fire entertainment on tap at the Cafe Cristal of the Diplomat Hotel —through Thursday night, after which comedian Dick Shawn will take over the headline spot now held by comedienne Jean Carroll.

Just as Dick is possibly best known for his trademark "Massa' Richard" routine, so is Jean best remembered for her "buying a fur coat" routine. And with it she sends her audience at the Diplomat into stitches as effectively as she has in years past in "downtown Miami Beach."

Jean is one of the rarities in cafe business — a comedienne who relies on "material," as do Sam Levenson, Phil Foster and some others of the sort.

Supporting her at Cafe Cristal are Bobby Van, a pretty important fellow at MGM when musicals were their specialty, and the harmonizing Coronadoes. Bobby is a song and dance man of the old school although he himself is just past the starting-to-shave age. With the right B'way musical he could become another Ray Bolger.

WALTER WINCHELL

Actress Renay Paints Movie Stars

ROBERTA SHERWOOD did some discovering on her own. A handsome young male singer, appearing in "The Ice Capers," sang a solo. Roberta went back stage and counselled: "Young man, take off those skates and stick to singing," His name is Larry Ellis, now featured lark on the Sammy Kaye teevee show . . . Art and Dotty Todd's new disc, "Straight As An Arrow," is headed for the heights .

* * *

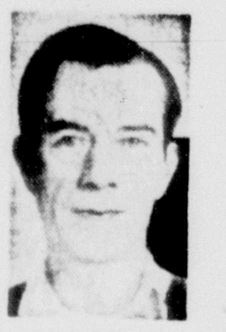
The Philly critics unanimously praised the new play, "A Majority of One." Stars Cedric Hardwicke and Gertrude Berg. Opens here in mid-Feb . . . Dick Sargent and June Blair re-kindled the blaze that went out 2 years ago . . . Carol Channing's gamin-like coiffure takes about 3 hours to disarray . . . Sound-alikes: "Gotta Travel" and "When You Wore a Tulip" . . . Also: The new import "Petit Fleur" (the middle section is note-for-note), and "Alone Together" . . . Liz Renay, who is a painter when she isn't making movies (or the front pages), is readying a composite of H'wood stars in oil . . . Edith Fellows of the shows is table-for-twoing with Til Match, son of the Austrian Ambassador to the UN . . . Scads of Cuban money is being offered around Miami at a discount. No takers.

* * *

THE DEVIL, who weaves strange tales out of darkness, has one of the most bizarre creations in the case of Mrs. Jean Iavarone. The widowed mother of seven children—and a grandmother—allegedly kidnaped a new-born infant in an effort to convince a man that he was the father, force him into marriage and thus provide a home for her youngsters. The pathos of the incident has aroused compassion for Mrs. Iavarone, despite the gravity of the crime. She appears to be a most unlikely criminal . . . Nevertheless, the perversity of human nature—and an iron web of circumstances—have frequently made a reality of the incredible. As a striking case in point, there's "The Mad Bomber." For many years he terrified New Yorkers by planting bombs in public places. "The Mad Bomber" was eventually nabbed and turned out to be Mister Milquetoast. He was George Metesky, a mild-mannered, sickly bachelor who quietly dwelled with two spinster sisters.

Liz Renay
. . . talent

Jean Iavarone
. . . trouble



Willie Sutton

* * *

THE MORE NOTABLE stickup artists are imaginative hoodlums who strive to anticipate everything. Everything, that is, except getting caught . . . Willie Sutton received heaps of publicity. He was described as a criminal mastermind, no less. The foregoing description, on the basis of the record, places such masterminds on the level of third-rate idiocy. Prior to his current life term, Willie Mastermind spent one-third of his life behind bars. This is criminal masterminding? . . . In common with other crooks, he never had an opportunity to spend the loot he swiped. He was a lonely man who lived in a cheap room and seemed almost grateful when the forces of lawnorder caught up with him.

* * *

The strangest criminals represent a fusion of the common and grotesque. There's a wild streak of depravity within those whose appearances are deceptively mild and average. The ultimate in this category was Henri Landru, who terrified Paris years ago. He massacred women for over five years. Within that period he murdered and mutilated over three hundred victims. Nevertheless during his entire ghoulish activity, Landru maintained a respectable home for his family. Fantastically, this killer was a generous father and a thoughtful husband.

* * *

THE WEIRD psychological patterns of criminals reflect their warped sense of morality. They are burdened with pre-historic minds — where monsters roam . . . Some years ago the front-pages were splashed with the lurid case of Robert Irwin. He killed three people in cold blood, including Ronnie Gideon, a lovely model. After committing the unspeakable crimes, Irwin took a small alarm clock from the room of one victim and put it in his pocket. Later, in detailing the murders to the police, Irwin displayed no remorse about killing three innocent people. But one thing bugged him. He said: "Do you know, there's one thing I'm ashamed of. Stealing that clock. To kill is one thing—to be a sneak thief is unforgivable."

Irwin also voiced an objection to the stories in the papers concerning his barbarity. He said "they were badly written."

Grade-A Cast Spelled

Witchery of 'Bell, Book, Candle' Is Chiefly of the Laugh Variety

By GEORGE BOURKE
Herald Amusement Editor

Movie Review

IN BRIEF—Lots of fun and high spirits as modern witch puts hex on modern him.

"Bell, Book and Candle," at the Carib, Miami and Miracle Theaters, is a polished production of John Van Druten's Broadway play which generated considerable humor from the premise that modern dress witches and warlocks exist today and that they are as clannish and envious a lot as are, let us say, Madison Ave. advertising men or interior decorators.

Van Druten's play, and now Dan Taradash's script, make the situation a believeable one for dramatic purposes by making the witchcraft prankish rather than vicious skullduggery stemming from an association and contractural agreement with the devil.

For instance, Witch Kim Novak is a reluctant practitioner who frowns on some of the activities of her aunt, Elsa Lanchester, a nosey sorceress, and her brother, Jack Lemmon, a bongo player by profession, who confines his spellbinding to objects rather than people—such as spelling out street lights much as a mischievious boy would with a stone.

But Kim is not averse to resorting to her "charms" to make the man upstairs, James Stewart, fall for her.

However, she is at heart (witches aren't supposed to lose them to anyone by falling in love) a good girl, which you learn when her fellow leaves her in the belief that she bewitched him for spite — and she sheds real tears. Witches aren't supposed to be able to cry either.

As you can see, Columbia has given this a swell cast. In addition there are Hermione Gingold, who has a jealous feud with Miss Lanchester, and Ernie Kovacs, a writer who writes about magic but doesn't believe in witches as much as he does the spirit powers in a bottle of scotch or bourbon — it doesn't matter which.

Director Richard Quine has extracted a lot of laugh-filled moments from all this nonsense, and the Greenwich Village and Central Park and other mid-town New York settings are eye-catching, as photographed in vivid color by James Wong Howe. Eliot Elisofsen assisted as color consultant.

We feel like a cad, but it is a fact that although Miss Novak fills the bill completely as any man's candidate for Girl I'd Rather Be Bewitched By—in appearance—she doesn't reflect the proper "spirit" spiritually.

If we remember the play correctly, her counterpart in it was enjoying her unique talent immensely, with some added laugh value, until the right man came along.

This is a minor matter, however. Kovacs, Lemmon and the Misses Lanchester and Gingold conjure up enough comedy on their own to satisfy. Bek Nelson and Janice Rule do nicely in brief supporting parts.

Gardner Well-Planted

NEW YORK —(AP)— David Gardner is one actor whose citizenship is a part of his program billing.

The situation arose when Gardner was cast in the Broadway play, "The Golden Fleecing." When he registered with Equity, the performing union, it was discovered that a Canadian player of the same name was already on the active list.

Equity ruled that both men could use the name, but that the local man would have "U.S.A." printed after his name on the playbill.

POLE STAR is the raccoon ensconced among the wires in St. Louis. Lineman Harry Williams tried to capture the animal, but his noose only knocked it from the pole to the ground. In two seconds it had recovered and fled only to be recaptured. It will be released in more congenial surroundings.

Dodges Sharks

He Swims 13 Hours For Help

CAPE CANAVERAL — An exhausted swimmer staggered ashore here Monday, claiming he swam 13 hours through shark-infested waters to get help for a 65-foot yacht which ran out of gas on a voyage from Charleston, S.C., to Fort Pierce.

Fred Leuze, 32, of Columbus, Ga. — a man who "never swam more than the length of the backyard swimming pool before" — said he fought high seas, felt ocean currents tugging at him and dodged at least two sharks during his ordeal.

An Air Force plane found the disabled yacht anchored 13 miles north of Leuzes' landing point and a missile recovery boat towed it here. The yacht's owner, James Bush of Columbus, rode it in.

Leuze said the yacht Cherokee had been "drifting out to sea and had taken a lot of water aboard" when he plunged in the ocean to swim for help about 10 p.m. Sunday.

Treated to his birthday wish of out-of-season watermelons rushed to his bedside by his uncle, Printer Gene Simmons of Naples, Michael "felt a little better."

Orange Memorial Hospital authorities listed his condition as "fair." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons of Winter Park.

Father of 6 Faces Death at Raiford

TALLAHASSEE — Dallas E. Withers, 35-year-old Panama City father of six, will go to his death in the electric chair at Raiford Prison next week.

Gov. LeRoy Collins Monday signed the death warrant, ordering Withers be executed the week of Feb. 2 for tossing two boys into the Gulf of Mexico after sexually abusing one of them.

He was convicted and condemned for the murder of Douglas Cecil Wilson, four, and his brother David Earl, seven, during a boat ride. The courts and later the pardon board rejected Wither's plea he was too drunk to be responsible for his crime.

WPB Cracks Down On Taxi Drivers

WEST PALM BEACH — The City Commission split 3-2 Monday on a move to curb a "fairly widespread" cabby-call girl ring allegedly operating here.

They voted to amend West Palm Beach's cab ordinance to provide that taxi licenses be forfeited if drivers are found guilty in Municipal Court of aiding and abetting call girls.

Commissioner L. W. Kelloway who voted against the amendment, first quipped "How will the girls get around?" He contended the city's present laws cover the subject and contended, "You can't legislate morals."

CAB OKs Airline Agreement

Strike Protection Deal Is Upheld

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The plan of six major airlines to share profits during labor strikes won government approval Monday.

The Civil Aeronautics Board voted, 4-1, to okay the pact as not being adverse to the public interest. It said it will issue a formal opinion later attaching certain conditions to the plan.

The airlines devised the plan last October during a rash of airline strikes. The six companies include American, Capital, Eastern, Pan American, Trans World and United.

They already have exchanged over four million dollars under the pact. It provides that when one of the six is struck the others will turn over any net profits earned as a result of extra business accruing from the walkout.

(Eastern received $550,420 from the pact for its 38-day shutdown during a strike of flight engineers and machinists.)

The airline labor unions bitterly protested the plan at a CAB hearing 10 days ago. They said it tended to violate the Railway Labor Act, which also applies to airlines, and maintained it would compel the unions to get together on industrywide strikes.

The airlines argued that the plan would help struck airlines withstand strikes, much as unions help each other during walkouts.

The CAB's brief announcement late Monday said the pact is not against public interest and should be approved.

It said its formal decision later will spell out conditions that the airlines must still adhere to their obligations under the Railway Labor Act, must route passengers from a struck airline to all alternative air carriers, and must report all pact operations to the CAB.

Voting to approve the pact were Chairman James R. Durfee, Vice Chairman Chan Gurney and Members Harmar D. Denny and Louis J. Hector. The lone dissent was by Member G. Joseph Minetti.

Konrad to Visit

EXPLORE YOUR MIND

I.Q. Isn't All

A HIGH I.Q. SUCCEEDS EVERY TIME!
TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐
2.
SHOULD CHILDREN BE ALLOWED TO HELP PREPARE MEALS?
YES☐ NO☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

FALSE. IT TAKES more than brains to succeed at anything. Take just one illustration — many studies through the years have shown, without question, that students with good intelligence often fail to get through college. A boy has to want to succeed to do well. His drive and ambition are often deciding factors in whether he succeeds or fails at whatever he's doing. His brains aren't much good if he doesn't want to use them.

2. Yes. The German psychologist, Ruth Salzman, feels that, if the children are allowed to help prepare, plan and serve food, they tend to develop a strong love for their homes. Such good results require parents who are kindly, patient and understanding, and who'll make allowances for the clumsiness and mistakes that children make. Your meals may not be as good, but your children will be a whole lot better.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Looking for a Sea Cow

FOR SEVERAL DAYS when coming to work I noticed this group of people on the South Miami Avenue bridge. Since they no longer allow fishing there, I knew they had to be looking at something.

Being the sort of fellow who looks up if he sees anyone else look up, or vice versa, I had to find out what was going on, and I finally took a walk to the bridge to find out.

About a dozen people were there and I took my place at the rail with them. We all looked down at the river. It was dirty.

Some paper floated from under the bridge, then some leaves of lettuce. We kept watching. A coconut bobbed by, and a few pieces of broken lumber. We kept looking. A couple of cans and a bottle came into view, and we continued to stare.

Then the current carried assorted garbage toward the bay, and we all concentrated on it.

It was, to tell the truth, a depressing spectacle, this once-proud and beautiful river reduced to a filthy sewer ditch.

After awhile I thought, this is silly. Nobody would stand here to see garbage and such things. That can't be why we're here.

By peering intently, I spotted several needle fish, but they are hardly stellar attractions. But since everyone else kept staring at the water, I kept staring at it, too.

Finally I turned to the man on my right.

"What are we looking at?" I asked.

He was embarrassed.

"I really don't know," he said. "There must be something down there, though."

The filth and the debris continued to flow by.

And then I saw a light mass under the surface of the water. It was noticeable because it contrasted to the muddy water. I kept watching this, and it seemed to move and get bigger. It was coming closer to the surface. There was a splash, as if a body had turned over.

"I saw it! I saw it!" I yelled, as excited as a kid who has seen his first fish.

"What did you see?" the man on my left asked, and the man on my right was listening.

"A sea cow," I said, because I couldn't think of anything else that it could have been unless it was a sea monster or a whale. I pointed excitedly to the place I had seen it, but there was nothing there by now except dark water and a cabbage head.

"Of course," said several others, who had known what we were looking for all the time.

After that I saw several sea cows. I never saw an entire body again, but I saw the noses of several cows. They poked them up from the river for a breath of air.

About all I could see was a nostril, but sometimes there would be three or four of noses showing at the same time.

Every now and then one of the cows would put most of its head above water, and it looked, as the head slowly emerged, as if it belonged to a hippopotamus.

Some of the people on the bridge said that some of the heads were those of baby sea cows, but I never saw enough of any of them to make sure. Usually by the time I looked, they already were submerging.

Anyway, despite the garbage and sewage, the river had become interesting and enchanting. I'm going back to the bridge tomorrow and look for those sea cows again.

It'll be much more fun now that I know what I am there for.

I AM INFORMED by Joe J. Cutter, Lake Worth, that Tennessee has adjoining towns named Ducktown and Turtletown.

And Minnie Sizemore, Miami, says that Bear Hole is right next to her home town of Myricks, Mass., while Buzzards Bay is down the road a piece.

USUALLY I REFUSE to use anonymous contributions, but I can't blame this lady for not signing her name, knowing how pigeon lovers react.

She writes: "Having spent winters here for many, many years, I love Miami, but I am utterly disgusted with the pigeons.

"I used to enjoy lovely Bayfront Park, but no more. I had a handsome hat ruined. But now they are flying all over downtown. There is no place to run from them. The sidewalks are filthy."

I'm a brave man. I'll come right out under my own name and say that I agree with the lady, although I don't think the pesky pests are quite as bad as that outside the park.

Unfortunately, they are becoming more numerous, and I'm a'gin 'em.

Critic Blast as Red Has No Foundation

A GENTLEMAN damns me as "pro Communist," because I suggested that the United States and Russia must either co-exist or blast each other into oblivion with hydrogen bombs. What else to do?

There is no way of transporting an entire nation to another planet.

We must live on this earth until the day of our dying comes.

So, that living will either be in peace, in the debilitating climate of cold war, or in attempting to destroy every man, woman and child on either side of the ideological fence.

My mind is open. If there's another way, I want to hear about it.

How this makes me a Red, I don't know. My correspondent did not bother to explain, apparently being satisfied to call names.

The Kremlin philosophy is as great a danger to the liberty and dignity of man as any dictatorship. To brand me as a advocate of such a philosphy, because I fail to see how we can do anything but admit its existence, while trying to keep it from poisoning our own land, or fight a devastating global war, puzzles me.

Probably the word "co-existence" was the spur which pricked my correspondent's hide.

It once was a respectable word, but now seems to have a dirty connotation to some people. Semantics have started more than one battle, and history seems to be repeating itself in this case.

* * *

IT'S PRETTY hard to win sometimes. Another reader accuses me of being anti-Catholic, because of opposition to Franco, of Spain. I am against any dictatorship.

Would this gentleman consider Castro, and the great mass of Catholic Cubans, anti-Catholic, because they hate Batista, and threw him out?

What would he say to the fact that I voted for Al Smith, when the brown derbied governor of New York ran for the presidency of the United States . . . or that my closest pal in each world war was of his faith?

A man's religion is his own, and I respect it, and his right to worship God in his own way.

NOT BEING a very big fellow, I'm always interested in athletic successes of little men. In jai alai it is more evident than in almost any other sport. At Dania, for instance, Laca, Ondarra, Zuru and Erdoza are among the most popular pelotaris, and the same is true at Miami, with Arritibel, Orbea, Carlos and Quintana. Of course, lack of size is a definite handicap, and they have to balance it with extra speed and skill.

THERE IS a warm touch to nostalgic musings. Some of mine have come alive with the appearance of "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville. Headliners assembled by Jackie Barnett for this captivating show includes Paul Whiteman, Harry Richman, Rudy Vallee, Buster Keaton, Fifi D'Orsay and Billy Gilbert.

These old timers have written a fascinating segment of show business, and prove that talent never withers on the vine.

They all emerged into the spotlight during prohibition . . . those mad, bath-tub gin days, when anything went. The 20s produced some of the greatest athletes of all time, Dempsey, Ruth, Bobby Jones, Tilden, Grange. They also brought into fruition stars of the entertainment world like the six "Newcomers."

Some of us old timers had a chance to cut up old touches with them at a party Morris Lansburgh threw, and it's delightful to see how well they carry the years.

They aren't clicking because their names are great, but because they are wonderful showman, and will be until they put away the grease paint for all time.

I AM HAPPY to have been invited to the wine tasting soiree of the Society of Winetasters at the Boca Raton Club Feb. 10. Unfortunately, my schedule calls for me to be out of town on that date, so all I can do is express regrets. However, it is apparent someone mislead the committee about my talents, or lack of them, in this field. It is true that I can tell the difference between Piper Heidsick and Liebfraumilch, but that lets me out. I am a rockhead about the juice of the grape, so actually the Society of Winetasters will be better off without me.

Knowing God Is Important

"God is the center of my personal life," Pat Boone affirms in an account of the influence of religion on his aspirations and successes. His views on religion in teenage character development and maturity are told in installment 17 of this exclusive serialization of his best-selling book, "'Twixt Twelve and Twenty."

BY Pat Boone

Twixt 12 And 20

When we began these talks I told you that I think our whole future, our sense of identity and purpose center around our faith. For me, God is not only the center of the entire universe, but the center of my personal life.

BOONE

What I mean is that during my trip through the teen age I got to know God in a more intimate, personal way than I ever had before. And you can do that too.

The teen age is such an important time in our spiritual growth because usually we arrive at our teens amidst environments that raise different problems. The environments or backgrounds fall roughly into three groups. You can pick out the group in which your surroundings and experience have placed you.

Group Number One knows about God, and right there it pretty much stops. That's not much practical value for comfort. Individuals in this group have often got attendance awards at church or can name the Books of the Bible just as they can recite the States of the Union.

If you ask them if they believe in God, they look hurt and say "of course." But then, if you ask me if I believe in the Einstein theory, I can say "yes" too although I am not one of the twelve people in the world who understand it!

This may be better than nothing, but not much better. Knowing about God is very different from knowing God. And somewhere in the teen age something usually comes up that cannot be solved by any facts about God. You need God Himself!

Group Number Two arrives in the early teens having known and felt God as very real in every way during their childhood; but now that faith is challenged.

I don't think there's anything wrong with wondering about such things. Actually, in searching out answers that satisfy us, we are getting to know Him better.

The danger is that if we don't seek answers and let the doubts grow, they can choke off our faith and we drift away from Him.

The trick is to face the doubts right on the spot while they're still small, and, by our own effort, weed them out, root and all, by searching for the answers that we need as the questions come up. This is to grow into a personal knowledge of Him that can't be shaken.

The Third Group arrives at the teen age with very little knowledge, teaching, example, or encouragement; perhaps not even much apparent interest.

But somewhere in here, either through trouble, or curiosity, or some person who "glows" for them, they begin to feel a need, or just to "doubt their doubts."

I remember overhearing two brothers one day sitting on a wall in deep discussion. They came from a non-religious home where there was a good deal of drinking and very little "glow" for kids. One was thirteen and the other eleven and the older one said to the younger: "Look, there ain't any God, just like there ain't any sky."

The younger one looked solemnly up at the blue above him and said: "Okay. Then what is that up there that ain't?"

This is a leading question. But following the lead is entirely an inner matter, because it is within ourselves that we have to find Him. It just isn't any good to argue and debate.

We all start our search with exactly the same equipment. It doesn't matter what our background is. Each of us has at his or her disposal identical means for finding God as the real center of life.

NEXT: The Conclusion.

Remarkable compound puts painful rectal nerves to sleep in minutes ... while it reduces swelling and promotes natural healing!

Pain, itching of swollen piles are torture. You may think there's no relief without an operation. Yet...thousands have discovered how to stop this nagging discomfort in minutes—and without surgery! A remarkable compound you use at home makes you feel worlds better, right away! Not only reduces swelling but stops pain at once, promotes healing of inflamed tissues too!

Spotlighting Sports
JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Looks like more general managers than players are changing clubs in the big leagues. John McHale, who left the Tigers for the Braves, is a personable and capable young executive. He probably figured he will have more security with Milwaukee than at Detroit, where the multiple owners are becoming impatient.

Miami Should Gamble, Wait For Chance to Get Into NFL

ONE FINDS few people enthused over the prospect of Miami becoming part of a proposed minor pro football league. Tne matter will be discussed Wednesday at a meeting called by Fred Canel of the Chamber of Commerce.

CANEL

My view is Miami should mark time until there is an opportunity to become affiliated with the NFL. This is by no means immediate, but waiting a few years will not hurt. Quite to the contrary, a wait would enhance the city's chances of making good, if and when a NFL team could be fielded here.

From what little that has been heard about it, the minor league involving Memphis, Birmingham, Atlanta and others is not too attractive.

The big point is that Miami would run a risk in being involved with another football flop like the now defunct All-America Conference. The Seahawks, Harvey Hester's local entry, expired before the league.

One of the big stumbling blocks here is the 15 per cent rental charged for the Orange Bowl. Friends in the NFL say that would have to be changed before Bert Bell would even consider a team here.

How Physical Fitness Helps

CHARLIE GOLDMAN, former trainer of Rocky Marciano, confided he takes his setting up exercises every morning, although he is now 70 years old. This impressed Fred Capossela, Hialeah announcer, who was giving us a lift in his automobile.

"You'll live to be a hundred doing that," said Capossela, admiring Goldman's healthy appearance.

"No," said Goldman. "Exercising won't make you live longer, but it'll help you enjoy life more."

3 Reasons for Sugar Ray to Fight

GOLDMAN ADVANCED three reasons why he thinks Middleweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson should accept an offer to fight Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore. They're talking about a $450,000 guarantee for each.

BASILIO

"First, Robinson would get more money for fighting Moore than any other opponent," said Goldman. "Second, Sugar Ray would not lose his middleweight title, and third, he could fight Carmen Basilio later."

The question was would Robinson still be able to fight after meeting Moore? Goldman had the answer for that, too. He said, "I think Robinson would beat Moore."

Big Names Help Sports

GOLDMAN AND Capossela added provocative views about big names in prize fighting and horse racing.

"Boxing needs a puncher like Marciano," said Goldman. "Rocky gave the heavyweight division a lot of class and in turn helped all boxing."

"The same is true in racing," Capossela added. "It takes a Nashua or Bold Ruler to attract the people to the tracks."

No Penalty for Hitting Fans

TWICE DURING the Doherty finals at Coral Ridge Sunday, Marlene Streit's shots hit spectators. Once the ball might have gone over the green. This led to arguments among spectators that there should be a penalty.

POOL

Ralph Y. Pool, advisor to the Doherty committee, recalled a hot day during a PGA tournament at the Biltmore, when he laid his coat at the edge of the green. A contestant's golf ball rolled onto the coat.

"One of the spectators told me the golfer would have to hit the ball off my coat," Pool recalled. "I told him that wasn't true. I shook the golf ball off, put on my coat and left."

Hagen Challenges Armour

A SPECTATOR at the tournament, Fred Corcoran, LPGA director and business advisor to Ted Williams and Stan Musial, revealed two golfing oldtimers may meet again.

ARMOUR

"Tommy Armour, now living at Boca Raton, had a telephone call from Walter Hagen the other day," Fred reported. "Walter said he was coming to Florida in a couple of weeks and wants to play golf with Tommy."

"Who'd win?" Corcoran was asked.

"I'd say Armour," Fred replied. "Hagen used to beat Tommy, but Tommy has been more active on the links in recent years than Walter."

It'd be much more interesting listening to these oldtime greats reminiscing at the 19th hole.

Hickox Steals Win For Miami Cagers

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Dick (The Menace) Hickox stole a basketball game from Kentucky Wesleyan Monday night at Beach Auditorium.

With Wesleyan leading 64-61 and only 1:50 remaining, Hickox stole the ball twice in rapid succession to bring fast-break layups which led University of Miami's sophomores to a 69-64 victory.

A turnout of 2,134 was still whooping approval of such thievery when Bullet Bob Wilson, the Kentuckians' veteran coach, simeld a smile he didn't feel and said:

"We had a three-point lead when (Kelly) Coleman let that little boy take the ball right out of his hands.

"He plain stole it. That wouldn't happen again on Coleman in 10 years. But it did tonight . . ."

Coleman, playing on nerve and a sprained left ankle (hurt earlier in the day on the beach), was attempting to set up a freeze when the nimble Hickox swiped the ball and streaked downcourt.

The Menace missed his full-speed crip shot but Ron Godfrey was there to rebound it through and carve Wesleyan's lead to one point.

Again the Panthers tried to go into their possession pattern. But this time the artful UM sophomore leaped to intercept a bounce pass and take off again for a lay-up which put Miami in charge, 65-64.

After that, Godfrey dropped a pair of foul shots and Harry Manushaw rebounded for two points to supply the final difference.

Gamblers who gave Wesleyan and six points almost had heart failure when the officials — Charlie Knighton and Joe Clemente — failed to allow a final-instant field goal by Miami's Joe Gardner, saying time had expired.

That was about the only decision by the officials in the roughouse game that Wesleyan's Wilson agreed with all night.

The Hurricanes, ahead 11-2 in the early going and 35-30 at halftime, could do nothing against Wesleyan's quick-moving zone when the second half began.

Within five minutes, the Kentuckians owned a 44-38 lead.

After Godfrey caged two free throws, Hickox went into his burglar act. In just 30 seconds, he broke for layups, two on his own thefts, one by Bruce Applegate. That made it 46-44, Miami.

The Hurricanes got as far in front as 53-46, only to have Weslyean fight back for the 64-

Carmen Rips Ray, OKs Welter Offer

ROCHESTER —(AP)— Carmen Basilio, former world welterweight and middleweight champion, said Monday he is ready to accept a $150,000 offer to fight in June for the welter crown against the winner of the Champion Don Jordan-Virgil Akins fight.

Continuing his war of nerves with Sugar Ray Robinson, Basilio roared: "Let Robinson go fight Archie Moore and get murdered. I'll get back the welterweight title and maybe we'll be able to get together with Robinson after that."

Replaces Departed McHale

Ferrell Named Tigers' Acting General Mgr.

DETROIT — (AP) — Rick Ferrell, one of baseball's all-time great catchers, Monday was named temporary general manager of the Detroit Tigers as the club moved quickly to replace John J. McHale.

McHale resigned suddenly Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves. Just 24 hours later the 53-year-old Ferrell, who has been director of minor league personnel under McHale, became at least an interim replacement.

Chairman of the Board John E. Fetzer, President Harvey Hansen and Executive Vice President Harry Sisson met with Ferrell Monday and an hour later made the announcement at a hastily called news conference.

Ferrell had his suitcases packed and planned to leave his home in Greensboro, N.C., Monday for Lakeland, Fla., where he was to join other Tiger personnel and instruct young baseball players. Instead he got word to catch a plane to Detroit.

Fetzer's announcement said Ferrell, who with his brother Wes formed one of the game's most famous brother batteries, will "assume all of the duties of the general manager as acting executive until such time as we name a general manager."

He did not rule out the possibility that Ferrell could make it a regular job.

Ferrell holds the American League's record for games caught with 1,806 and his lifetime batting average was .281. He coached four seasons with Detroit but was let out after the 1953 season.

He said the immediate aim of the fifth-place Tigers "is to finish in the first division — and I hope to do well enough in my new job so I will be considered for the full-time position."

Pio Brings Top Price At Auction

A total of 55 horses were sold for $292,300 Monday night at the second annual auction of the Florida Breeders Sales Association at Hialeah Race Track.

Some 750 persons were on hand, representing the top stables in America.

Top horse sold was Pio, consigned by Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath Farm and bought by $20,600 from A. Marone of Mt. Holley, N.J. Next was Cape Canaveral of Ocala Stud sold to J. LaCroix of Hollywood for $17,000.

Average price was $4,314. Last year 60 horses were sold for $294,700.

Van Brocklin in Line As Next Eagle Coach?

By Herald Wire Services

Quarterback Norman Van Brocklin is being groomed as the next head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, it was learned Monday.

A reliable source told the Associated Press that when Head Coach Buck Shaw decides to call it a career, Van Brocklin, one of the finest passing quarterbacks in the history of the aerial-minded pro league, will step into the job.

According to the best information, the 59-year-old Shaw plans to give up coaching once he gets the Eagles on the winning track. While Shaw is attending to his business on the west coast, Van Brocklin will spend the winter viewing game movies and helping to plan the strategy for next season.

Shaw himself says he wouldn't hesitate a minute to recommend Van Brocklin as his successor, if and when he retires.

Yardley Injured

GEORGE YARDLEY'S broken left hand was fitted with a new cast Monday and the Detroit Pistons' scoring ace will be sidelined for at least three weeks. Doctors said Yardley would have to wear a light cast when he returns to the National Basketball Association grind. They said he would have to wear a heavy cast for three weeks but possibly could play when it was removed. Yardley broke his hand Sunday in a scramble under the basket as the Pistons lost their sixth straight game, 119-118, in overtime to the Boston Celtics.

JACKIE JENSEN, who shows no fear at the plate, was recovering Monday from nervous exhaustion brought on by too many appearances at those along the banquet circuit.

"My doctor, Walton Prescott, said it is the result of too many banquets and not enough sleep," the Boston Red Sox star said Sunday at his Nevada home while describing how he had become ill in a plane last week. "I had a lot of early starting times in the Bing Crosby golf tournament this month and late banquets to attend."

Olmedo Just Tired

ALEX OLMEDO stands on the threshold of tennis greatness today, a tired and aching champion looking for new worlds to conquer. All he wants is peace and rest. "Now I take it easy for a while," said the 22-year-old Peruvian court sensation after adding the Australian National Championship to his recent Davis Cup conquests.

Although slowed by a strained stomach muscle, Olmedo crushed Neale Fraser, Australia's best remaining amateur, in the singles final Monday at the packed Memorial Drive Courts, 6-1, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. The victory sent the Australian title to the United States for the first time since Dick Savitt won in 1951.

Earl Buchholz, St. Louis high school senior, added to American prestige when he won the Australian junior title with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, victory over Martin Mulligan, Australia's best 18-year-old.

This triumph, added to the Wimbledon, French and United States championships, established the slender Yank as the best junior in the world.

The match was played following an hour-long clinic by the three women professional golfers.

Fruit, Beer Cans, Fine Jolt Cepeda

Orlando Cepeda
. . . a mad senor

SAN JUAN — (AP) — First Baseman Orlando Cepeda, the National League's rookie of the year last season with the San Francisco Giants, was charged with assault and released in $500 bond Monday then was fined $200 by the Puerto Rican League president as a result of Sunday's playoff game riot.

President Carlos Garcia Nocedas levied the fine "for conduct detrimental to the best interest of baseball." Cepeda threw a ball at the fans after they had bombarded him with fruit, beer cans and bottles.

The game, fifth in the semifinal playoffs, was halted and forfeited to Santurce in the eighth inning with Santurce leading, 4-0.

The fuss began when Ruben Gomez hit Joe Christopher, Mayaguez outfielder, in the first inning.

Gomez was booed every time he came to bat, and fans began to throw fruit on the field. In the eighth inning, Cepeda was bombarded with fruit, beer cans and bottles while trying to catch a foul fly near the bleachers. He picked up the ball and threw it at the crowd.

Fans then threw stones against the Santurce players bus and damaged Gomez' car. The players needed police protection to leave town.

2 Giants Fined

WILLIE KIRKLAND and Leon Wagner of the San Francisco Giants, who have been playing ball in Puerto Rico, were fined $250 each and suspended from winter ball for one year.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick took this unprecedented action, his first against players in winter ball, because he said the players "jumped their contracts without consent."

When the two left their teams Jan. 5, considerable fan resentment was reported.

61 lead that seemed sufficient—until The Menace got loose.

Actually, Hickox was the only Miamian capable of doing much against the zone. He scored 21 points while bagging 10 of Miami's 15 field goals.

Most of the customers came early to see Mike McCoy, the seven-foot transfer from Northwestern who'll enter UM next week.

Although sadly out-of-condition, McCoy didnt let the people down. He scored 26 points as his Opa-locka All-Stars surrendered to Miami's frosh, 85-84.

McCoy displayed an accurate soft hook, a better-than-average jump shot, rebounded when he felt like it and blocked a half-dozen shots.

Guard Chris Stavreti, a transfer from Western Michigan, jump-shot for 16 points while Julie Cohen, late of NYU, scored six and made several plays for the Opa-locka five.

TURLEY

BROWN

Turley Captures Pro Honor

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (AP) — Bob Turley, fireballing pitching star of the world champion New York Yankees Monday was named winner of the ninth annual S. Rae Hickok "Professional Athlete of the Year" award for 1958.

The 28-year-old hero of the World Series received the $10,000 diamond - studded, gold-buckled belt that goes with his selection by a national panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Turley was presented his trophy at the annual Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner for the polio fund.

The choice was no earth-shaking surprise, but the ease with which Turley dominated the voting was unexpected.

He finished far in front of Jimmy Brown, record-shattering back of the Cleveland Browns, and Old Archie Moore, the light heavyweight boxing king. Those two had a close battle for second and third with Johnny Unitas of the Baltimore Colts not too far behind in fourth place.

Redl Whips Russo in 10

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stefan Redl, German-born Passaic, N.J., welterweight, pounded Danny Russo of Brooklyn almost at will as he captured a lopsided unanimous decision in a 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Redl weighed 149½, Russo 151.

A 3-1 favorite, Redl punched faster, harder and more accurately than Russo.

Bowling Tourney Slated

A March of Dimes benefit bowling tournament, called officially the March of Dimes Happy Holiday Bowling Tournament, will be held Feb. 1-7 at 17 alleys in Dade County.

Roy Woodruff, Hialeah accountant who is chairman of the tournament said that the Dimes drive will receive all proceeds from entries.

There will be many prizes, including trips to Nassau for two.

The Dimes Tournament will be a handicap affair and each bowler will roll a three-game set in his regular league. Scores will determine the winners in each alley. The high two men and two women in each alley will go into a roll-off on Mar. 1 at an alley to be selected.

Any league secretary who obtains 75 percent participation in her league will be eligible for a drawing on a portable TV set.

Village Idiot Passes Picture Test With Flying Colors
. . . Mystic 2nd second, Waterford 2nd third at Hialeah

Village Idiot Sharp As a Tack in Feature

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Village Idiot, a four-year-old gelding which has been performing in stakes competition, dropped into allowance company Monday and posted the first winner of the season for the Alfred G. Vanderbilt stable.

It took a sharp ride by Sammy Boulmetis to get Village Idiot home a half-length ahead of the favored Mystic 2nd in Hialeah's mile-and-one-sixteenth feature on the turf.

This was the Vanderbilt gelding's first start on the grass but he is likely to take a crack at Hialeah's turf stakes after Monday's showing.

Breaking from the No. 2 post position in the field of 11, Village Idiot was in tight quarters at the start. However, Boulmetis managed to slip him through on the rail and gain the lead at the first turn.

He was hard put to edge Mystic 2nd and Waterford 2nd in the long stretch run, but held on gamely for the victory.

Mystic 2nd was a half-length in front of Waterford 2nd for the place award. Grey Monarch was fourth, while the 70-1 Golden Lark finished fifth.

Village Idiot paid $10.50 to his supporters in the crowd of 16,456.

BETTY LINN was the shortest-priced favorite of the afternoon and won by two lengths in the sixth race at seven furlongs. She paid $3.30 and gave evidence that she may be the one to beat in Hialeah's $20,000 Columbiana Feb. 11.

Bobby Ussery came up with another double in the saddle to move four ahead of Bill Hartack in the jockey standings. By the time Hartack returns from his 10-day suspension which began Sunday, the Ussery lad figures to be far in the lead.

Ussery's winners Monday were Judiciary and Paris Picnic, the latter refunding a $15.60 mutuel.

JESPER RETURNED $33 in capturing the third race in which Brother Coon, the third horse to cross the wire, was disqualified for bothering Supper Money was moved up from fourth to third.

Raising Cane, $14.80 in the first race, and Judiciary, $11.10 in the second, combined for a $53.50 daily double.

The mutuel handle totaled $1,421,495.

Gables, Beach Tangle

Miami Beach and Coral Gables, a pair of good defensive teams trying to find more scoring punch, meet tonight at Gables in the top Miami area prep basketball game of the evening.

Beach, 7-4, counts heavily on Art Slater for pointmaking. Wally Dale has been the most consistent shooter for Gables. The Cavaliers have a 5-4 record.

Jackson and Tech will be trying to rise above the .500 mark when they meet at Jackson. The host Generals have a 4-4 record while Tech is 3-3.

Catholic rivals Curley and St. Patrick's will play on the latter's court at Miami Beach. Southwest will be host to strong Key West in a southern division Gold Coast Conference game.

Norland will be host to Edison's B team in an "exam day" game starting at 2:45. The game originally was scheduled for night but changed because of the early dismissal hour at school.

Other games include:

Hialeah at Fort Lauderdale Central Catholic, North Miami at Fort Lauderdale, Winter Park at Cocoa, Titusville at Oviedo, Vero Beach at Lake Wales, Belle Glade at Stuart, McArthur at Forest Hills, Seacrest at Fort Pierce, Pahokee at Okeechobee and New Smyrna at Melbourne.

Light Heavy Bout

Bowdry, Hinnant At Beach Tonight

BOWDRY

HINNANT

Two young light-heavyweights, waiting for venerable old Archie Moore to run out the string, tune up on each other this evening in a 10-round bout at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

The match, expected to end short of the distance, features Jesse Bowdry, eighth-ranked contender from St. Louis, and Clarence Hinnant, 25-year-old veteran from Washington, D.C.

Bowdry, who decisioned Hinnant last April, is expected to go into the ring an 8-5 favorite.

Bowdry has won 23 of 26, 19 by knockout. Only one man has managed to solve Bowdry; Sonny Ray has beaten him once and stopped him twice.

Last year Bowdry twice halted Miami's Bobby Lane and also turned out the lights on Jerry Leudee.

Hinnant hasn't been active since being beaten by Bowdry, but takes this fight in an arena where no opponent has ever lasted the distance with him.

He won 25 of 38, 20 of that number via KO.

The 10-round semifinal pits Chico Velez, a young St. Nick's Arena discovery, against Waymon Dawson, a promising lightweight from Youngstown, Ohio. Velez is 17-6, Dawson 10-4.

In the other prelims Charlie Titone, Brooklyn, meets Ray Estepa, Puerto Rico, in a lightweight six; Dickie DiVeronica, Canastota, N.Y., takes on Joey Clements, Miami, in a lightweight four, and Silky Shelton, Miami, and Bobby Shaw, Miami, clash in a four-round welterweight contest.

E. B. Sargent, 74, chipped 30 yards from a sandtrap into the hole on No. 4 at Indian Creek Monday. Walking to the next tee, he commented, "That's the closest I've ever come to a hole-in-one." His next shot was a hole-in-one.

Sargent used a No. 5 wood on the 134-yard fifth for his ace. Playing companions were C. C. Rathgeb, R. C. McClure and R. B. Clark. Sargent had a 39-43—82.

Dania's U.S. Duo Eyes Win

The team representing the United States in the International Championship at the Dania Jai Alai Palace will try to get back into the title race with a win in the fourth round tonight.

Alex-Unamuno, mired in fourth place, 13 points behind Careaga-Ignacio, the leaders, should be favored to score a win tonight because of their advantageous number three post position.

Both members of this team are still youngsters. Alex is on the threshold of becoming one of the finest stars in the game. A win in this coveted title race might be just the thing that will give Alex the necessary confidence. He has everything else.

Orbea Menaced By Larranaga

Strictly a "one horse" race through the first three weeks the world singles championship at Miami Fronton now has four very definite contenders.

Orbea, 22-year-old Basque, has slumped off the torrid pace he set earlier and—while retaining his lead—has found himself suddenly seriously challenged.

Larranaga, defending singles champion, has closed to within 11 points of Orbea. And he's battling himself to hold back both Guarita and Churruca. guarita trails Larranaga by four points and is three points ahead of Churruca.

Turf Owners Form Tax Aid Service

The newly-formed American Thoroughbred Owners' Association has established a federal tax advisory service for its members.

Fred W. Hooper, the organization's president, said Lee A. Freeman, Chicago attorney and tax expert, has been retained to assist ATOA members, "in interpreting the very vague and complex federal tax code as it applies to their individual stables."

Hooper said Freeman has been directed to prepare to see the proper federal officials in an effort to bring about clarification of the code.

"It seems incredible," said Hooper, "that an industry as large and as important as ours could find itself year after year subject to such divergent rulings in regular tax affairs.

"We must and will provide expert guidance for our members and we will do everything possible in the months ahead to convince Congress and federal income tax officials that a fair and standard reference to racing stable operations be included in the next tax code."

Hooper said the organization will open an office in Miami within 10 days.

There are now approximately 300 members in ATOA, but Hooper said, "We will have at least 1,000 more as soon as we set up the offices and the staff to process the applications."

Flagler Posts $1,000 Double

Christmas came 337 days early for eight lucky persons Monday night at Flagler Kennel Club when a 25-1 shot and a 7-1 choice combined for the largest daily double in the track's history.

The 6-4 combination returned $1,002.40 for $2, and eight bettors had tickets on the pair. Maid O' The Sea ($59.40) and Vendor ($16.60) were the greyhounds involved.

Favored in 8th Tonight

Fay's Fayzie Goes at Beach

Fay's Fayzie, one of the better female greyhounds competing at Miami Beach Kennel Club, is a likely favorite in tonight's co-featured eighth race.

Fay's Fayzie won her first two starts in Grade A and has been in the money three times in the last four starts.

Chief rivals will be Pretentious, Remember Mama, Parnell Mary, Mar Tully, Big Lon, Ed's Tab Hunter and Perfect Zip.

The ninth race, like the eighth, is over the O. P. Smith course. It will be headed by Fable Greenbacks and will include Miss Monica, Lincoln Road, All Real, Canadian Husky, Sassy Zip, Kelvin Dee and J. R.'s Image.

Flagler Offers Twin Features

A pair of Grade-A tests over the 5-16 mile course will feature tonight's 10th race program at West Flagler Kennel Club.

Jotaway, an eighth-race starter, has won six times and finished in the money on 12 other ocacsions in 19 starts. His chief rival appears to be Mr. Etchen, five-time winner who recently tied the nine-year track record of 18.8 seconds for 3-16 mile.

In the ninth, Cri-Duchess will be after her fifth triumph in the ninth. She'll face Barter Point and Little Bride, each with five victories.

Jockey's Burial Listed Tuesday

Private services for Walter Flynn, 77, of 789 NW 13th Ave., who died Saturday, will be Tuesday at the Reed Funeral Home, with burial at Dade County cemetery. He was a retired jockey for Bradley farms.

Bud Jack Bids At Hollywood

Bud Jack bids for his eighth victory tonight at Hollywood Kennel Club in the marathon tenth race.

Bud Jack hasn't been beaten this year over the long 3-8ths mile distance. A flock of greyhounds already entered in the $10,000 Hollywood Silver Anniversary Stake opening Feb. 10 will face Bud Jack.

Warmed Over, the West Memphis Derby champion; Shadow Bug, a brother of Bud Jack; Runyonese, Run Best, Mar Rusty, Vam and Dark Sired make up the field.

How's Fishing? Met Records Say It's Fine

Vic Dunaway is on vacation. Today George Robey, Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament director, pinch hits for him.

By GEORGE ROBEY

To answer the ageless question voiced by fishermen, "How's fishing?" and the more venerable and subtle approach, "Any luck?" we find consolation in the records of the Herald-sponsored Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament.

Entries are running ahead of last year, and the Met's new slogan, SPORT INCREASES WITH FISH RELEASES, is paying off. Twice as many fish have been caught and released than were recorded in the first four weeks of the tourney last year.

ROBEY

This indicates that anglers are catching more fish than they need for food, mounting or entry in the heavyweight class. Only eight per cent of the increase in entries is traceable to fish killed. So the Met's release program forges ahead.

Fishing can always be described as spotty. When the Gulf Stream giants are passing up the trolled baits, the reef fish may be striking. Weather conditions have a surprisingly small effect on fishing. The fortitude of the angler and his use of right tackle and methods will outdo the weatherman every time.

* * *

Wind Direction Not Too Important

WHAT EFFECT do wind directions have on fishing? We checked this with Charlier Sulzberger who is on the spot every day at Sunny Isles Fishing Pier.

"Winds from the north and northwest are said to be the poorest for fishing in these parts, he said. "Yet, I've seen as many fish caught when the wind was out of the north or northwest as I have under more so-called favorable northeast breezes. The angler who fishes regardless of the discomforts of weather carries a permanent ticket to the fishing sweepstakes."

Charlie says early morning and evening fishing pays off at the piers. A few blues, mackerel, king and bonito are being taken. There's no bonanza yet in sight, but the kings may come in any day.

Met Officials on Panama Jaunt

LUKE GORHAM, president of the Met; Jack Mahony, treasurer; and Lee Cuddy, chairman of rules, are giving local waters a rest while they fish for records on a three-week jaunt to Panama. In the group also is Mac Miller. All are members of the Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club.

One of Cuddy's favorite local bonefish spots is Elliot Key where he has taken new Met records, weighed them on a boat scale and released them. Mahony is a Gulf Stream man, preferring the big sails and marlin, while Gorham fishes everything from light tackle off the Bay islands to the briny depths. All are master anglers.

Stu Apte, former airline pilot turned fishing guide, is operating out of Torch Key with a skiff and outboard. His specialty is fishing the Content Keys where he has taken many winners in the Met tourney before he became disqualified for prizes because of his registration with the Met as a charter captain.

As far as we can trace the facts, there are only two bonefish guides in Miami. One is J. T. Harron at Pier 5 who has guided Charles Finkelstein of Coral Gables to the Ted Williams Bonefish Release Trophy five straight years in the Met. The other is Jack Primack, official weighmaster in the Met at The Tackle Box, 2770 S.W. 27th Ave.

Indiana Anglers Leads All-Release

ARTHUR SCOTTO of Lakewood, N. J., is leading the Met with 82 tarpon releases. If he wins, he'll receive the Key Colony of Marathon Shore Tarpon Release Trophy.

John K. Howard of Miami has released 18 sailfish and is going for the Rod and Reel Club trophy. Earl Rosen of St. Louis is leading with 22 bonefish released. John Adams of Hammond, Ind., has 100 fish releases to his credit with an eye on the All-Release Trophy sponsored by Marco Island Inn.

Anglers who have been fishing the protected waters out of Blue Marlin Fisheries on the Oleta River at Sunny Isles Road are having fair luck on snappers with live shrimp, says Eddie Nappen.

Gar Wood, Jr., won WTVJ's fish of the week contest with a black tip shark weighing 80 lbs. Jack Cummins makes the award each Saturday evening on Channel 4. Gar's shark, caught on spinning gear, added up to 800 points by a system of scoring based on tackle strength.

Marlins Sign Marion-Type Shortstop

A lanky shortstop who "looks and fields like Marty Marion" is the latest acquisition of the Miami Marlins baseball club.

Marlin General Manager Joe Ryan said Monday he had signed Bill Hain, 6-4, 190-pound St. Louis product. Hain 24, was a star high school shortstop and basketball player at St. Louis.

He got out of the service last season in time to see limited duty with the Louisville Colonels of the American Association in 60 games.

Ryan said Hain resembles Marion, former "Mr. Shortstop" of the Cardinals, physically and on the field.

Woods Joins UM Mermen

Frank Woods, former Coral Gables High School All-America swimmer, becomes eligible for varsity competition at the University of Miami this week when the Hurricanes have a Saturday afternoon date with the Homestead Air Base in the Veterans Hospital pool in Coral Gables.

Woods is a threat in both the 50 and 100-yard free style events and will bolster the Hurricanes in the 400-yard medley relay and the 400-yard free style relay.

JOHN CROSBY—About TV

Live Challenge Taken By This Irish Lass

WOMEN-TYPE WOMEN are very rare in these United States of America (and there's a lead that's going to get me tossed out of the lodge), so the David Susskind organization sent clear to Ireland for Siobhan McKenna to play Maggie Wylie in the Dupont "Show of the Month," "What Every Woman Knows" (CBS—Wednesday night.)

The Sir James Barrie heroine is something pretty special in intelligent femininity and, with any luck, she could set a trend back toward the woman-type woman. Not immediately, of course. But eventually.

CROSBY

Actually, Miss McKenna is rapidly becoming the first commuter between here and Ireland.

She flew in earlier to play in "The Winslow Boy" and then skipped gaily back to Ireland. What with jets and all, it's a subway ride.

"I like live television acting," she declared the other day, the Irish brogue rattling the chandeliers in the palm court of the Plaza, "I know most theater people say they hate it. But I don't believe it. I don't think actors do what they hate.

★ ★ ★

"I'LL HATE it for awhile but it could be a wonderful art form. I didn't realize how important it was until a woman came backstage and said: 'Think of us in the hinterland. We can't get to the city often. You bring us theater on television.' She didn't say films or TV. She said 'theater.' On television I can stump all of America in one night."

Miss McKenna's special glow has been shed impartially in Ireland, England, and America. In Ireland, she was with the Abbey Theater for three years.

"I made a little film recently about the Abbey Theater, a documentary, a tribute. A lot of us who had been with the Abbey Theater appeared and just reminisced — Barry Fitzgerald, Maureen Delaney, Sean O'Casey."

The Abbey players are now playing in the Queen's Theater, which was built for melodrama, while their own theater is being rebuilt. "I think the acting is still good," she said, "but there aren't any young writers.

In the early great days, it was an author's theater and they evolved a style of acting for their plays. The authors were the important ones.

From the very first it was tremendously brave theater. The very opening night was 'Spreading the News' by Lady Gregory. After that every play became controversial."

★ ★ ★

AS FOR "What Every Woman Knows," a monstrously sentimental valentine to women who manipulate their husband's careers without ever appearing to, Miss McKenna admitted that: "If played quaintly, it won't hold up. Barrie is out of fashion. 'What Every Woman Knows' should be played for comedy. But Maggie says things that we know very well. She has something for a man in all her plainness."

Siobahn McKenna
. . . from Abbey Players

What, I asked her, would she really like to do on television?

"I've always wanted to do 'St. Joan' on television. I did a bit on the BBC in London," she said.

Her "St. Joan" by Shaw has won roars of approval on both sides of the Atlantic. However, just as she was ready to do it here, Julie Harris scored a triumph as St. Joan in "The Lark" and the feeling got about that the public might have had enough of St. Joan for one season.

★ ★ ★

"I'D LIKE to do an O'Casey play on TV, too. I don't care which one. 'Shadow of a Gunman' would be nice because it's short and it wouldn't have to be cut."

Miss McKenna has played in most of O'Casey's great plays, including "Juno and the Paycock" and "The Plough and the Stars."

"Also I'd like to do an original for television. I've never done anything new on television — always revivals of old plays."

The differences in technique she found fairly sweeping: "You should think your part almost rather than act it. The cameras come so close. In the theater you have to scale it up to be understood. There's a lack of focus there.

But on TV you must scale it way down. On television we can really literally talk to people, to one person at home."

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

One of the rarest of all squeezes is presented today. The play involves squeezing a defender down to the position where he must rid himself entirely of one suit. This is the key to the success of declarer's efforts despite the fact that defender holds no protection in that suit.

East eked out a one heart bid and South overcalled two clubs. North chose an aggressive course when he cue bid the hearts. The adverse bid should have had a deflating effect on his holding and we would have tic measures. South jumped to been inclined to adopt less drasfour clubs to show his solid holding and North contracted for slam.

West opened the jack of hearts. Declarer won with the ace as East followed with the three. The outlook for declarer was anything but happy inasmuch as East was marked with the high spades. With East discarding after the dummy it does not look as if any squeeze would be possible.

However, South visualized a holding which would permit fulfilment if West held four good diamonds in addition to the ten of hearts. At trick two, declarer led the queen of hearts forcing East to cover. There was the remote chance that this would smother West's ten and establish dummy's eight, but it did not come off. However the maneuver did accomplish the purpose of transferring the protection of that suit to West. Declarer then ran the clubs discarding all of dummy's spades.

All hands are now reduced to five cards. West must keep four diamonds and the ten of hearts, so he must give up all of his spades. Declarer then led his king and another diamond and West was compelled to split his honors. Dummy now exits with the eight of hearts to West's ten and dummy's ace-nine of diamonds scores the last two tricks on a finesse.

6 p.m.

2 — HABLEMOS INGLES — Expressions and vocabulary for "Food and Restaurant."

7

4 — SILENT SERVICE — A resourceful German U-boat commander slips into the anchorage at Scapa Flow and sinks the battleship Royal Oak.

7 — WOODY WOODPECKER — Woody tries to crash the gate at the circus.

10 — IF YOU HAD A MILLION — A million dollar gift proves to be the "power that corrupts" in the case of ambitious career girl.

7:30

2 — POSTAL PARADE — "First Class Mail."

4 — I LOVE LUCY — When Lucy is asked to do a story on Ricky for a fan magazine, she blackmails her husband into letting her appear on his TV program.

7 — DANGER IS MY BUSINESS — "Undersea Commando."

10 — CHEYENNE — Bronco reluctantly agrees to be a scout for a self-styled government agent searching Sioux territory for Indians accused of a massacre.

8

2 — INSIDE AMERICA — The first in a series of programs designed to acquaint you with man's most important "invention" and the foundation of our economic life in the 20th Century. Bob Lynn hosts.

4 — FLIGHT — A B-29 is hit by anti-aircraft fire from the deck of surfaced Nazi U-Boat off the coast of Cuba.

7 — GEORGE GOBEL — George can be a great social satirist when he sets his mind to it. He's doing a sketch on dropping in at the neighbors, plus a preliminary bit on getting ready to drop in at the neighbors, which should hit home in most homes. Guests are Peggy King (for a reunion with her ex-boss), Tony Randall and Eddie Fisher. Gobel, Randall and Peggy have an old-fashioned burlesque routine.

2 — CRIMINAL MAN — "The True Criminal."

4 — TO TELL THE TRUTH — film.

10 — WYATT EARP — Wyatt has to keep an old crony (Francis G. McDonald), a freighter, from carrying out primitive retribution against one of his workers who turns crooked.

9

2 — LAW AND GOVERNMENT—William Durden, administrative assistant to Governor Collins, will discuss the executive branch of Florida's government.

4 — ARTHUR GODFREY — live.

7 — GEORGE BURNS — The values inherent in live television as opposed to film are obvious when you compare George's filmed shows with live ones, like tonight's. Rosemary Clooney is around to sing and George tries, but every time he starts, Rosie's baby cries. The kid has taste. Burns' live shows have a fine flavor and are always worth seeing.

10 — RIFLEMAN — A tense story of the meeting in the Old West of a former prisoner of war and the former commander of a prisoner of war camp.

9:30

2 — RELIGIONS OF MAN — "Taoism."

4 — RED SKELTON — Red has Marilyn Maxwell and Lon Chaney as his guests when he, as George Appleby, discovers a cave man preserved in ice while exploring the North Pole country and brings him home to thaw out.

7 — BOB CUMMINGS — Bob and special guest, Art Linkletter, vie for the honor of emceeing the Models Guild dinner.

Bob Cummings and Art Linkletter
. . . tonight at 9:30 on Ch. 7

10 — NAKED CITY — James Barton, who can play a bum with distinction, plays a bum tonight, but that's about the best of it. This story, concerning a horse-loving bum among bums who do some killing, has its flaws, but Barton always does a fine job. There are some good shots of New York, as usual, with special attention to George Washington Bridge.

2—THE SCARECROW—This special show is the tale of abandoned woman's revenge on her cruel lover. Based on Nathaniel Hawthorne's short story, "Feathertop," the play is performed by members of the Boston University School of Fine and Applies Arts.

4 — GARRY MOORE — The show commences with a bullfight scene, and you'll be confronted by the small spectacle of Garrison Moore, torero. And the comes the parade of guests — Gordon and Sheila MacRae, Joey Bishop, The Dunhills and, of course, Marion Lorne. The MacRaes will do generous excerpts from their hit night-club act, which involves singing and from Mrs. MacRae, impersonations. "The Wonderful Year" this week is 1950, which brought Marilyn Monroe to the forefront and Sheila will do a devastating impersonation of MM, among others. Durward Kirby's delicious satire on Arthur Murray (he calls it Arthur Worry) was so well received it'll be done again, and probably will become a permanent fixture.

Best Bet

7 — CALIFORNIANS — Marshal Wayne investigates the practive of shanghaiing sailors in San Francisco.

10 — MIND STUDIES — An exploration of the strange happenings preceeding and surrounding the sinking of the Titanic, as well as a young English bride's terrifying dream.

10:30

7 — MIKE HAMMER — When a former girlfriend of Mike's is killed and her body claimed by a society matron, Mike's suspicions are aroused and he goes after a killer.

11:10

10 — MOVIE — "Hour of Decision," (1957), Jeff Morrow, Hazel Court. When a gossip columnist is killed, a magazine writer becomes involved because his wife was one of the dead man's girl friends.

11:20

7 — JACK PAAR — Actor Laurence Harvey, singer Earl Grant and Siobhan McKenna are guests tonight.

11:25

He Can't Duck It! Nixon Will Carry Conservative Ball

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The ledge is narrowing for Vice President Richard H. Nixon. He must head into 1960 as a "conservative" Republican.

LAHEY

Even if Nixon were wealthy enough to be a "liberal" like Nelson Rockefeller (which he isn't) the political developments since November have set Nixon on a "conservative" course from which he cannot very well deviate.

In the first place, Nixon is tied to President Eisenhower as a member of his team. And Eisenhower seems determined to wind up his public life as a card-carrying Republican conservative.

The GOP itself seems resolved not to try to carry water on both shoulders.

The most significant evidence of this trend was the election of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona as chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

Goldwater has never talked out of both sides of his mouth on the "conservative vs. liberal" discussion in the GOP. He is proud to be a hardshell conservative.

Goldwater can pick up a telephone in a campaign, call numbers in Fort Worth, Dallas and Houston, and get a bundle for the noble cause in no time from oil men who admire the absence of liberal equivocation in Goldwater's character.

The intellectual climate in the GOP, as suggested by Goldwater's high prestige, is a clue to the future that Nixon does not need. The vice president all along has had his firmest support among the comfortable conservatives of Southern California, who love and respect him.

The domestic issues already shaping up in Congress present the vice president with a right-hand drive chariot that he must help guide for Eisenhower.

These issues line up "liberals" vs. conservatives" on the matter of federal spending for the benefit of the economy.

The hearings on housing legislation have already joined the issue. The administration has also indicated that it wants to cut down on the amount of federal funds spent every year on developing local airports.

Democratic congressmen have taken the "spending" initiative in one instance, by announcing a fight to increase benefit payments to farmers.

In the field of labor legislation, the issue of "liberal vs. conservative" will also be drawn sharply, with the vice president carrying the ball for the administration.

One of the bitterest disputes in the field of labor legislation will center around an administration plan to cut down on the right of "organizational picketing," a right that has been sinfully abused by a couple of unions, including the teamsters.

The social and economic issues before Congress, quite apart from the separate debates over defense and foreign aid spending, will require nearly everyone on Capitol Hill to stand up somewhere along the line and be counted as a "liberal" or a "conservative."

And Vice President Nixon does not expect to quaver when it's his turn to take the badge which he will wear right into the 1960 convention of the Republican Party.

Use Found For TV Set

CHICAGO — (AP) — A couple dashed into the West North Ave. police station, waving their arms and shouting in panic stricken voices.

"Our boy is gone," they cried. Then they lapsed into Italian. Police, however, figured out what Omero Fuggiti, 32, and his wife, Louisa, were saying. They learned that the missing boy was Fuggitis' three-year-old son, Adriano.

Policeman Robert Star searched through the snow, questioned neighbors, and returned to the Fuggiti home with no lead, but a strong hunch. He told the Fuggitis: "Quite often a missing child is not really missing. He may be in an attic, or a buggy, or a basement. Let us look." They looked — and found Adriano, all cuddled up in the back of a console television set. He was warm and comfy and asleep.

Swedish Count Injured in Crash

LONDON — (AP) — Swedish Count Bertil Bernadotte and Mrs. Ofelia Mendoza, wife of the former Cuban ambassador in London, were injured in an auto accident here.

The 23-year-old count, a son of the late Count Folke Bernadotte, was driving with Mrs. Mendoza along London's fashionable Bond St., when his auto and another car collided at an intersection.

Firemen worked for 20 minutes to open the doors of the car and free the count and his passenger. They were taken to a hospital where a doctor reported their condition was satisfactory.

The best tobacco makes the best smoke

J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Camel outsells every other cigarette for 10th straight year

Latest published cigarette sales figures* prove that Camel continues its 10-year leadership over every other cigarette — every filter, every king-size, every regular. The reason is clear: Camel's costly blend of Turkish and domestic tobaccos has never been equalled. No other cigarette can bring you the rich flavor, the easygoing mildness, the downright comfort of Camels. Today as always, the best tobacco makes the best smoke.

Cuban Rebels Halt Trial-- No Defendant

What Makes a Revolution, Page 12A
Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

By Herald Wire Services

HAVANA, Cuba — The revolutionary government ordered a second "major war criminal" put on trial Monday but abruptly suspended the hearing when the defendant was not brought forth.

The revolutionary tribunal's president, Maj. Humberto Sori Marin ordered an investigation to determine why ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon Valdes was not produced.

Morejan was to have gone on trial in the Superior War Tribunal building at Camp Liberty, formerly Camp Columbia, on charges of participating in the killing of 200 farm workers in Oriente Province.

The courtroom seats about 200 persons. A court official said seating preference would be given to the press.

Fidel Castro, who was returning Monday from Caracas, Venezuela, previously cancelled radio and TV broadcasts of the trial of Morejon.

The trial of Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco before 30,000 hooting spectators in the Sports Palace has been broadcast.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco, who was convicted and sentenced to death in the first Havana revolutionary trial last Friday, and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia. He was accused of having been in contact with two ex-Batista gunmen now in the U. S.

Hernandez, described as a lieutenant in the rebel forces, was arrested by Socarras Trujillo, chief of the presidential palace police. Trujillo said Hernandez was charged with contacting ex-Police Col. Esteban Ventya, now in Florida, and ex-Sen. Rolando Masferrer, now in a U. S. immigration detention center in McAllen, Tex.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment —words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled stool pigeons and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

PERON

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrent comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawknosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment," said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

Draft Called Essential

4 More Years In the Cards

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Charles C. Finucane said Monday a four-year extension of the draft was absolutely essential to keep the nation's military strength geared to cold-war needs.

He estimated the armed forces would fall 700,000 to 800,000 men below their required strengths if the draft were allowed to lapse.

Finucane testified as the House Armed Services Committee took up the question of extending the Draft Act, now scheduled to die June 30.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) forecast swift committee approval of the proposal. He said the act was indispensable to U. S. security.

Vinson also announced he would question Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy about an administration decision to cut the Army to 870,000 men despite a congressional finding that its strength should be maintained at 900,000.

Vinson said the action might force Congress to "take a mandatory position" on Army strength.

Two dissents to the administration's draft proposals came from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Council Against Conscription.

The chamber urged a two-year instead of a four-year extension and sought an amendment which would put more draftees in the 18½-to-21½ age group. It contended younger men "make more efficient, enthusiastic soldiers."

The Council urged Congress to let the act die. In an appeal signed by churchmen, educators and others, it said Space Age weapons make even a standby selective service law of questionable value.

The administration's measure would extend to July 1, 1963, the drafting of eligible men between the ages of 18½ and 26 for two years service. It also would continue until the same date the draft of doctors and dentists up to the age of 35.

Vote Rights Dismissal Refused

AMERICUS, Ga. —(UPI)— A federal judge refused to rule Monday on a motion to throw out the first voter discrimination suit filed under the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

U.S. District Judge T. Hoyt Davis ordered attorneys for both the federal government and the Terrell County, Ga., board of registrars to submit written briefs to him for study. He gave the defense 20 days in which to file its briefs, and the government will have 15 days after that to answer them.

The Justice Department filed the action last Sept. 4 on behalf of five Negroes, all college graduates, who said the Terrell County board of registrars denied them the right to register to vote.

The registrars replied that they did not exercise any discrimination and that the Negroes failed tests given them to determine if their voter applications should be accepted. The registrars filed the motion to dismiss the suit, charging that the Civil Rights Act was unconstitutional.

Commuters Rebel

LONDON —(UPI)— A group of suburban commuters, aroused by what they said was slow and erratic public transportation, bought their own bus and put it into service Monday. No fares were charged.

Northwest Also Hit By Runoff

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather - caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

Credits Mikoyan's U.S. Visit

Party Congress Opens Today

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U. S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour of his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovetskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Prince, 6, Fights for Life As Gypsies Offer Prayer

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old prince fought for his life and a gypsy throne in Northshore Hospital Monday as chanting gypsies from all over the south converged on the hospital.

Outside the recovery room, the aged king of the gypsies — his grandfather — kept a tense and silent vigil.

The tiny, dark-haired lad — Larry Mitchell — was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday. Apparently he was a victim of a hit-run driver.

The youngster was discovered by playmates. But there were no witnesses to the accident.

His condition was critical Monday, but he was conscious and somewhat improved after surgery for a fractured skull.

Larry is heir to the tribal throne succeeding his grandfather, Steve Mitchell, 87 . . . reportedly the only male offspring of the king's 10 children.

The child-prince was rushed to Northshore Hospital. As if by magic, the news swept the south.

Caravans of gypsies converged on the hospital lawn to pray and chant for their future leader.

By Monday, some had come from as far away as Texas and North Carolina.

Sometimes they spoke in an unknown tongue — probably Romany, the Indo-Iranian language. Partially East Indian in origin, they descended from migrants from India centuries ago.

They were orderly and polite, but grief-stricken as they moaned their sorrowful songs and performed their rituals.

Only when a doctor finally spoke to them and told them the prince was better were they willing to go.

Even then a carload of closest relatives and friends hovered at the rear of the hospital — waiting. One woman held a bottle for her infant child, rocking him gently to and fro.

"It is very warm here in the sun," she explained, shielding him with a blanket.

Someone suggested a shadier spot.

She smiled sweetly.

"We want to stay here — very close," she explained.

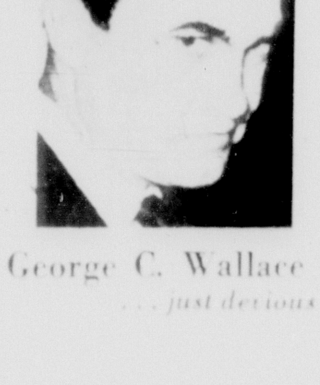
In Civil Rights Case

Alabama Official Spared Jail Term

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(UPI) —A federal judge refused Monday to jail an Alabama official whom he said tried to give the impression of defying the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. said that the defendant, former Alabama Circuit Judge George C. Wallace, used "devious means" but that his actions did not constitute defiance or disobedience.

He cleared Wallace of the first contempt of court charges brought under the new civil rights legislation. He said that although "accomplished through subterfuge" Wallace did, in fact, "comply with the order of this court" to produce voter records.



George C. Wallace
. . . just devious

Johnson, a former law school classmate of the Clayton, Ala., state judge who stood before him, conceded that Wallace may have been sincere in believing his methods were essential to proper discharge of his state court duties.

"This court feels it's sufficient to observe that if these devious means were in good faith considered by Wallace to be essential to the proper exercise of his state judicial functions, then this court will not and should not comment upon these methods."

Wallace had been ordered to turn over voter registration records of Barbour and Bullock Counties, Ala., to the Civil Rights Commission's agents.

Wallace had impounded the records on grounds of local election complaints. When Johnson issued his orders earlier this month, Wallace turned them over to hastily-summoned county grand juries. The grand juries then permitted civil rights agents to inspect them.

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Florida — and Miami — have a brighter outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

'Sign or Strike' Campaign Launched Against Hotels

Gold Coast Unions Take the Offensive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A double-barreled "sign-or-strike" drive was opened Monday by two unions against Gold Coast hotels, currently at the height of a money-reaping winter tourist season.

THE HOTEL EMPLOYES UNION reported it has signed a majority of the employes at Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel, long a major hurdle in the union's organizational campaign here.

The union already has asked the National Labor Relations Board to approve an election to certify it as the legal bargaining agent. But the hotel is expected to oppose the move.

THE INTERNATIONAL UNION of operating Engineers announced the launching of an "extensive organizational campaign to include all hotels and motels in this area."

Composed of maintenance workers, the union is presently negotiating with 30 South Florida hotels.

Officials of both unions stated their drives were given impetus by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which lifted a picketing ban against 12 Greater Miami hotels.

In reference to the hotel union's Saxony battle, Local 255 President Dave Herman declared:

"We'll have an election or a picket line."

Ironically, the Saxony was the first hotel struck in April 1955 when the union started a 20-month fight to organize the area's 15,000 hotel workers.

Twenty-three Miami and Miami Beach hotels were struck during the drive, which was eventually slowed down by Florida court injunctions prohibiting picketing.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling of Jan. 12, however, put muscle back into the hotel union's strike threats.

"This is the opening shot in our new drive," Herman commented.

During the past several days there have been uncomfirmed reports that members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is made up of entertainers, have agreed to honor picket lines set up by the hotel union.

Oscar Kohsiek, business agent of Local 491 of the engineers, said that his union is seeking peaceful settlement with the hotels, "but the possible threat of picketing must always be considered by management."

He indicated the engineers union will respect picket lines formed by the hotel union.

Behind the scenes, however, there was a possibility that the two unions may be engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Both unions carry maintenance workers on their rolls.

"There might be a conflict of interest," Herman acknowledged, "but the engineers' union will find we have squatters' rights."

The traffic misfortunes of Circuit Judge George E. Holt are known throughout the state. The first almost cost him his life. And recently George was picked up on a slight speeding charge.

Well, Friday morning Circuit Judge Vincent Giblin and Mrs. Giblin were arrested in Coral Gables, on a speeding charge. Giblin protested violently and all Miami heard about it.

Friday night Mrs. Bell and I went over to see and hear Red Skelton (he's the mostes'). After the show we were on the lower steps waiting for our car. I heard a voice from the top step. There stood George and Mrs. Holt.

"We're waiting for Giblin to drive us home," Holt called. The laughter was as great as for anything Skelton did inside.

By the way, it seems Judge Giblin was right in claiming immunity while on his way to work. The law also applies to "anyone involved in a court hearing."

Cuba than any previous leader.

He said that when he took over the government in 1952, "I found a great crisis.

"My accomplishments in the last seven years have been many. I hope they will be continued," Batista said.

Then he rolled out his facts and figures:

Establishment of 600 million dollars in new industries; construction of 11,000 miles of farm roads and 5,000 miles of public streets; awarding of 60 million dollars in new construction contracts each year; encouragement of construction of a number of luxury hotels and gambling casinos.

He went on to list: three underwater tunnels that opened new areas for development; six new arterial highways leading out of Havana eastward, where one formerly existed; built more than 25 hospitals; reestablished the TB sanatorium; erected many rural schools, and established a loan agency — "similar to your FHA, which increased by 20 per cent the number of home and land owners in Cuba."

His foes charge his projects were graft-laden.

Batista said he was especially gratified over solving the surplus sugar problem he "inherited in 1952.

"I found the country had produced seven million tons of sugar — two million tons more than were marketable," Batista explained.

With a giant loan from Cuban banks, he said, the government bought the surplus and within four years had sold it — above the regular quota — principally to England, Japan, France and Russia, he said.

"I saved Cuba from an economic disaster by so doing," Batista emphasized.

Sosa Blanco was condemned to death in a jam-packed sports arena trial last week, but he said he will exercise his right under the "rebel law code" and appeal his sentence to a superior war council. The council consists of Maj. Juan Almeida and four other officers.

The appeal will be heard today.

Hawaii Renews Battle

Statehood Vote Seen by Easter

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House might vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has earned the right to fair and equal treatment with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists." He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government."

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Mass. pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood as quickly as possible after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the rules committee.

Hawaii statehood supporters said fast action by the O'Brien group will allow time to force action on the measure if the rules committee attempts to block it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has yet to give a firm commitment for Senate action. But Senate leaders have indicated they also favor speed.

Supporters of Hawaiian statehood stepped aside last year to let the Alaskan bill ease through alone under a gentlemen's agreement which would give Hawaii the nod this year.

Reps. James A. Haley (D., Fla.) and Walter Rogers (D., Tex.) — both Hawaii statehood foes — were the only ones to challenge Seaton Monday. They suggested that Hawaiian statehood would open the door to requests for similar offshore areas.

Haley objected to including a recent subcommittee report in the record until he had read it, and he asked that Seaton be recalled for further questioning at another committee meeting.

"I realize the practical situation," he said, "but I think the chairman could move just a little slower here."

Rogers questioned Seaton about the possible subsequent admission of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other U.S. possessions.

Seaton said that in his mind no other American flag area is presently qualified, and he said he is not aware of any desire for statehood on the part of their residents.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Harrison To Enter Hospital

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Just two days back from the "dead," James E. Harrison made plans Monday to enter Veterans Hospital in Coral Gables for a thorough mental and physical examination, hoping to discover the secret of his 109-day disappearance.

Police in Tennessee and California are still holding two men implicated in a supposed slaying in Jacksonville on about Oct. 7, but have been unable to find the victim.

Harrison, 32, was believed at first to have been the man killed and buried after California convict Roy Olsen, serving time for a slaying, coned he and another hitchhiker abducted and killed Harrison.

As the puzzling case ground to a standstill Monday, police in Phoenix, Ariz., where Harrison turned up Friday, say no one has identified pictures of Harrison run in Phoenix papers.

Police said that since no one had reported seeing him they speculated he may have been there only a short time — perhaps less than a day.

Harrison said he cannot remember anything between Oct. 7, when he said he was slugged by a hitchhiker, and Friday, when he regained his memory in Phoenix. He had 67 cents in his pocket.

He was found about a 15-minute walk from the city's bus terminal.

"One thing I want to get straight," said Harrison, "I've never bleached my hair."

The forelock of his wavy auburn hair appeared to be a much lighter color, but he said it might have been caused by medicine applied to minor head wounds inflicted by a blow.

Detectives who examined him said they could find no apparent scar from any attack, and said it appeared his hair had been bleached.

National Summary

Warm air flowed over the south to raise temperatures to the 60s from east Texas to North Carolina by midday while cold winds probed deep into the country to extend freezing weather from Oklahoma across the mid Mississippi Valley to the mid Atlantic states.

Light snowfall over the plains reached scattered areas in the Mississippi Valley but the southern fringe of the cold mound developed freezing drizzle through Oklahoma and southern Kansas into Mossouri and along the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

The cold air will continue to crowd southward through the eastern and central states with freezing temperatures into Virginia and southern Appalachians and into the northern sections of the Gulf states on Tuesday morning.

Rain will precede north winds into the southeastern states with freezing spreading more ice in a band from Arkansas to the Chesapeake Bay area. The bulk of the cold air spread from the Great Lakes to the northern Rockies, will give 20 below readings in northern Minnesota and zeros into northern Iowa.

Wholly Terriers

The life of a Boston Terrier in Miami can be okay, these seven puppies, owned by Mrs. C. C. Laramore, of 426 E. 20th St., Hialeah, decided Monday. Only four days old, they've already been declared a "phenomena" by the Florida representative of the American Kennel Club, who said an ordinary litter of Boston Terriers only has two or three pups. Mom is Snooky II.

Novice Goes 11 Miles for Help

Sharks Convoy Sailor During 13-Hour Swim

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — An exhausted swimmer staggered ashore here Monday and touched off a successful air and sea search for a disabled yacht.

The yacht's only other crew member was found safe aboard the 65-foot craft which had run out of gas on a voyage from Charleston, S.C., to Fort Pierce.

Fred Leuze, 32, of Columbus, Ga. — a man who "never swam more than the length of the backyard swimming pool before" — fought high seas, felt ocean currents "tugging at" him and dodged sharks for 13 hours before he reached the Cape.

An Air Force plane found the disabled yacht anchored 13 miles north of Leuze's landing point although the swimmer thought he had traveled "only about two miles."

A Marine Salvage Inc. missile recovery boat picked up the yacht and towed in into Port Canaveral. The yacht's owner-skipper, James Bush of Columbus, rode it in.

Leuze said the yacht Cherokee had been "drifting out to sea and had taken a lot of water aboard — I don't know how much" — when he plunged into the ocean about 10 p.m. Sunday.

"We didn't know where we were but the skipper said, 'one of us will have to swim for it,' so I went."

He headed for the Cape Canaveral lighthouse, but Leuze said he didn't know where he was going because of fog.

The swimmer wore an insulated skindiving suit and a life preserver through the swim, "but the suit don't work and the water sure was cold."

"I had a little drum and a plank at first, but the sea took them away from me."

"Two shark fins crossed in front of me near the end, and I kicked something soft . . . I don't know what it was." The sharks didn't make any passes at the swimmer — that he knew of.

When he reached shore, Leuze collapsed in the surf.

"I fell down three or four times before I got going," he said. "I still didn't know where I was when I got to the highway, but I figured it must lead someplace so I turned south and followed it."

A few minutes walk brought him to the Cape's north gate where guards sounded an alarm for the disabled boat.

Leuze said Bush, of the Bush Development Co. of Fort Pierce, bought Cherokee recently from the Army.

Leuze and Bush refurnished the boat in Charleston, then set out for Fort Pierce Sunday afternoon.

They tried to enter the Intracoastal Waterway at New Smyrna Beach and Daytona Beach when their gas ran low, but were unable to find the harbor entrance.

"The fog was so thick we couldn't find the bouys," said Leuze, "so we tried following a fishing boat, but it gave up too and went back to sea."

'King Asked Lies,' Witnesses State

BARTOW — (AP) — A second prosecution witness testified Monday he lied to a Polk County Grand Jury in 1956 on instructions from former State Sen. Harry E. King.

Rollie Arnold said King told him what to tell the Grand Jury, which was investigating a $10,000 political payoff by King to Boone D. Tillett.

Tillett, a Lake Wales attorney, testified Wednesday King paid him to drop out of a State Senate race in which both were candidates. King says he made the payoff to catch Tillett at blackmail.

"Rollie, I'm going to need some help on this Tillett deal," Arnold quoted King as saying.

The 46-year-old witness, a deputy sheriff at the time, said King asked him to lie during a meeting at the Polk sheriff's office 24 days after the payoff.

Arnold said another deputy, James L. Busbee, 32, of Lake Wales, also was at the meeting.

The witness said King took him and Busbee to the payoff scene, near Babson Park where they worked out details of the story to be told the Grand Jury.

Arnold's testimony backed up earlier testimony by Busbee, who testified Saturday he lied to the Grand Jury upon King's instruction.

The two former deputies testified during the probe they saw King meet Tillett at the payoff scene. Arnold said his only knowledge of the payoff prior to his meeting with King and Busbee was by "rumor of it and what I read in the papers."

King, a 56-year-old Winter Haven attorney, is on trial for the second time in the widely-publicized 1956 perjury case.

The state is attempting to prove he induced Arnold and Busbee to give perjured testimony.

King specifically is charged with two counts of conspiracy to commit perjury and two counts of subornation of perjury. Conviction on all four counts carries a maximum penalty of 42 years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Hubby Backs Mom Who Lit Children

BARTOW — (AP) — A woman who tried to burn her two small children to death will have her husband's support in fighting a charge of attempted murder.

Grover Hamil of Emmett, Idaho, visited his wife, Juanita, 21, in her jail cell over the weekend and later held a reunion with the children, Sharon Kay, 4, and Olin Vivian, 3.

Police arrested Mrs. Hamil Jan. 18 and charged her with an attempt to burn the children after dousing them with gasoline. The little girl was burned critically, but the boy did not catch fire.

Sheriff Hagan Parrish said Mrs. Hamil told him she and William Clabo, 40-year-old pipeline worker, came here in December and she decided to kill the children because "they were getting on our nerves."

A communications operator at the jail said Hamil "was not bitter." He thinks his wife is mentally ill and will do all he can to help her," the operator said. "He's a real forgiving type of guy."

The screams of the children made her lose her nerve, she said, and she called for help. Neighbors rescued the children.

Death Date For Slayer Of Two Set

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Dalles E. Withers, 35-year-old Panama City father of six, will go to his death in the electric chair at Raiford Prison next week.

Gov. LeRoy Collins Monday signed the death warrant, ordering Withers be executed the week of Feb. 2 for tossing two little boys into a Gulf bay to drown after sexually abusing one of them. Executions usually are carried out on the Monday of the week set.

Withers was accused of the slaying of David Earl Wilson, 7, and his brother, Douglas Cecil Wilson, 4. He actually was convicted and condemned for the murder of the younger child.

In a confession, introduced at the trial, Withers said he took the youngsters for a boat ride, then hurled them overboard after forcing the elder into an unnatural sex act.

The courts, and later the state pardon board, rejected Withers' plea he was too drunk to be responsible for his crime.

Seeks Good Will in Race Relations

Collins: There Is A 'Middle-Ground'

DAYTONA BEACH—(UPI)—Gov. LeRoy Collins Monday called for a "constructive" solution to the race dilemma and criticized persons who would abolish public schools rather than submit to some integration.

Collins said he is convinced there is a "middle-ground" where Floridians can progress toward good will in race relations and "the goals of equality which Christianity and free men everywhere and of every race and creed espouse."

"Patience and understanding and, above all, constructive work will bring the solution," he told civic and business leaders at a joint meeting of civic clubs here.

He called "pettiness" one of the greatest stumbling blocks to constructive solutions.

"In our state," Collins said, "some legislators are unabashed about moving to aid their individual county interests even when, in the process, admittedly they do serious injury to the state interest."

The race issue will never be resolved by "big voices and little minds," he said.

A moderate on the race issue, Collins called it "tragic" that there are those in Florida who, because of emotionalism, timidity, crass indifference or political advantage, are willing to abolish public schools.

"Ignorance is the greatest enemy known to human progress," he declared; pointing out that in areas where schooling declines, so do the incomes and productive capacity of the citizens.

"All of our freedoms draw their strength and endurance from mass education and mass morality."

He said democracy "encourages the worst that is within us to come out in the open. It assures the availability of bad leadership. It makes absolutely certain that its enemies cannot be muted or purged. It therefore guarantees the continuance of the means by which it can be destroyed."

But, at the same time, he said "democracy also brings out the best that is within us . . . makes absolutely certain an environment in which good leadership can be born and grow and point the way for enlightened progress."

Gambler Starts Prison Sentence

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — A former lieutenant of Gambler Winston Reynolds entered the federal correctional institution here Monday to begin serving a six-month sentence for evading gambling tax laws.

W. D. Harrell of Quincy was sentenced in federal court at Jacksonville recently when he pleaded guilty to wilful failure to pay the federal excise tax on his gambling take from January to November, 1953.

Harrell was picked up in a raid on Reynolds' farm near Tallahassee in 1953. His case has been in and out of court since.

Reynolds, who reputedly headed a lottery ring which operated in Florida, Georgia and Alabama, began serving a 10-year prison sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta in July for violating gambling tax laws and bail jumping.

New Move To 'Free' FEC OK'd

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A new move was approved Monday to get the Florida East Coast Railway out of the courts and back under private control.

The road has been in bankruptcy proceedings for 27 years and seven plans have gone before the Interstate Commerce Commission to settle its affairs.

Bondholders Monday gave approval of the seventh plan, which would turn the FEC over to the St. Joe Paper Co., a Florida DuPont concern, which holds a majority of the road's defaulted bonds.

The Atlantic Coast Line had been contesting for control. The ACL recently withdrew from the fight.

The only objection in U.S. District Court Monday to the new plan came from Edward J. Hickey Jr. and James L. Highsaw Jr., attorneys for the Railway Labor Executives' Association. They said the plan was unfair.

All parties to the reorganization plan had agreed there would be no objection to a specification there would be no dismissals; but the ICC said this would be contrary to public interest.

The ICC ordered four years job protection, saying that to guarantee jobs for life might become burdensome to the company if there was another severe depression.

The ICC said the company and its employes could reach agreement after the reorganization was effected.

The ICC said two-thirds of the bondholders would have to approve the latest plan and their agreement Monday appeared to clear the way for formal approval by Judge Bryan Simpson of U.S. District Court. Simpson gave Hickey and Highsaw until Wednesday to file a brief summarizing their statements.

Three other factors will enter into Judge Simpson's approval plans:

DETERMINATION of who, and in what amount, the unsecured creditors of the FEC are;

DETERMINATION of the amount of free assets of the railway, which include property owned by the railway not subject to the lien of the mortgage on the railway property; and

ACTION on an application, filed Monday by St. Joe that Judge Simpson name three members of a reorganization committee to begin informal work on reorganization plans.

Mathews Says No Tax Hike Needed

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins' committee studying road rights-of-way costs said Monday it had agreed the State Road Department can assume responsibility for buying right-of-way for primary roads without increasing the seven cents a gallon gasoline tax.

President Eisenhower has recommended a one and one-half cent federal tax increase on gasoline. Both Gov. Collins and Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut have expressed opposition to this increase.

Committee chairman, Rep. John Mathews Jr. of Jacksonville, also revealed plans to try to curb speculators who buy up and build places of business on prospectively valuable road right-of-way.

Mathews said this could be done by repealing a law which allows property owners damages over and above "a fair and just price for the land," for estimated loss of business if they have been operating on the site for five years.

This could also be accomplished, Mathews said, in the opinion of the committee, by finding ways to step up construction and avoid long delays in building after road routes have been designated, particularly in large urban centers like Miami and Jacksonville.

The Duval County representative said the committee has not worked out formal proposals for rights-of-way procedures "but we believe a re-examination of present Road Department policy will enable the state to pay costs of rights-of-way out of primary road funds."

Under a long-standing Road Department policy, counties have been required to buy rights-of-way out of secondary gasoline tax money.

The state's big counties don't have enough secondary money to meet the demands for right-of-way and maintain their county road systems.

Mathews said the committee's proposal would not conflict with Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut's recommendation the Legislature permit counties to impose a local one-cent a gallon tax to provide additional funds for strictly county programs.

State road officials have stuck to the policy of requiring counties to buy right-of-way on grounds all primary funds are needed for actual road construction.

"This committee hopes to come up with some recommendations," Mathews said, "that will not only enable the state to buy right-of-way, but find more money available for primary construction without any increase in the gasoline tax."

Two cents of the seven cents a gallon tax now is distributed to counties under an antiquated constitutional formula, based on road mileage and land area with population increases having only a slight influence. A third cent is distributed on pretty much the same formula.

Mathews said he sees little chance for any change in the constitutional formula, but the committee's recommendations should result in more effective use of primary funds and, at the same time, give relief to counties hard-pressed for local road money.

St. Augustine Restoration Plan OKd

ST. AUGUSTINE —(UPI)— The Florida Board of Parks and Historical Memorials Monday approved a report which recommended an initial outlay of $300,000 for restoration of Old Spanish St. Augustine.

It was the final action in a study which now goes to Gov. LeRoy Collins for approval. Collins originally asked the board to study the feasibility of such a plan last June.

The board named a committee to head the study, which in turn hired Dr. Verne Chatelain, University of Maryland history professor, to complete the report.

The lengthy paper went before the full board Monday and received wholehearted approval.

Chatelain's report also recommended that Collins appoint a committee of seven persons to carry out the restoration plan which includes rebuilding some of the historical forts and landmarks which stood when the ancient city was settled by the Spanish some 400 years ago.

Chatelain suggested the Legislature be asked to appropriate $250,000 toward restoration of the city and another $50,000 be raised locally by city and county governments through public subscriptions.

The board then authorized John Pennekamp, associate editor of The Miami Herald, to edit the report for publication in booklet form for presentation to Gov. Collins and other interested parties.

Boca Rainfall Measured Up

BOCA RATON—Weather bureau officials did a doubletake Monday when reports of Sunday's scattered — and in places, heavy —rainfall came in. A station eight miles westnorthwest of Boca Raton reported 4.22 inches fell. West of the city, 4.06 inches was logged.

Other readings at stations around the city averaged near two inches.

Farmers Like Plan To Save $$

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

South Florida farm leaders gave tentative approval Monday to a sweeping reorganization of Florida's Department of Agriculture which Sen. Tom Adams says will save "several million" taxpayer dollars.

The Orange Park senator headed a joint legislative-citizens committee which met at the Columbus Hotel to air the proposed reorganization and hear suggestions from South Florida farmers.

The committee takes its public hearings to West Palm Beach today for hearings beginning at 9:30 a.m. in Agriculture Center there.

Adams said it is too early to spell out in detail where the specific savings will be.

But, in response to questioning by Miami Rep. Cliff Herrell, Adams said he is certain that substantial savings, running into millions, will be achieved.

Herrell stressed that too often alleged "reorganization" programs end up in expanded governmental agencies which hit the taxpayers harder rather than easing their burden.

Adams cited one specific saving of a million dollars.

"By eliminating the inspections of food stores as a function of the State Department of Agriculture, we can save this cost," he told The Miami Herald.

"The State Board of Health conducts this inspection now and what the Agriculture Department does is purely a duplication."

South Florida farm leaders such as George Cooper, Luther Chandler, Abney Cox, Robert Hall and others praised the reorganization outlined by the committee.

It calls for cutting the Department of Agriculture's 16 divisions to eight; transferring non-agricultural functions from that department to other state agencies which properly should handle them, and overhauling the entire machinery of the department to provide more efficient service statewide.

Adams said the committee will re-draft its final legislative recommendations upon conclusion of a series of statewide public hearings.

"From what I have heard from farmers, the major portion of the recommendations have their approval," Cox declared.

"We endorse the program in principle," commented Chandler, who heads the State Avocado and Lime Commission.

Following the West Palm Beach meeting, the committee goes to Orlando for a Wednesday session and concludes in Tampa on Thursday.

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago, you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.

CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.

RUM up 14 per cent.

CORDIALS down 21 per cent.

BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the hear's out.

Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.

SYLVIA

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back. "I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell.

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.

Cuba Opens New Trials In Quiet Air

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Says Castro, 16A

Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

HAVANA, Cuba — The Havana war crimes trials reopened Monday night in a small, decorous courtroom setting in striking contrast to the noisy, spectacular first trial scene in the Sports Palace last week. Also, TV and radio coverage now are banned.

The change was ordered by the Castro revolutionary regime after a deluge of foreign criticism over the circus character imparted by the 30,000 loud spectators at the first trial. It ended last Friday at dawn in a verdict of death for ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco for murder and other crimes against Castro rebels fighting the regime of ex-Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The first defendant at the resumed trials was a 15-year Cuban army veteran, ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon, 38, who like Blanco was charged with assassination, homicide and robbery.

A hitch developed at the outset late this afternoon when it turned out that someone had neglected to summon Morejon from La Cabana Fortress, about six miles from the courtroom, and the trial was recessed nearly two hours while he was brought to court.

The 200-seat Hall of Justice in the Superior War Court building at the edge of Camp Libertad (formerly Camp Columbia) was packed with witnesses, reporters and a few persons carrying special permits.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco, who was convicted and sentenced to death in the first Havana revolutionary trial last Friday, and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment—words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled stool pigeons and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Batista claims history will show that he did more for

Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

PERON

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrant comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawk-nosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment?" said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

Repairs Rushed On Dock

Wharf Slipping At Canaveral

More State News, Pages 1B, 1C, 12A

COCOA — Engineers worked swiftly Monday to keep a buckling wharf at Port Canaveral from slipping into the harbor.

The face of the fill-and-bulkhead wharf buckled until the dock facing was as curvy as a snake's back. Parts of it were more than 10 feet out of position.

Engineers Ted Jenson and Willard Arnold explained the buckling probably was the result of "hidden damage," caused by an early December accident in which the SS Tropicana struck the wharf.

After the accident, damage had appeared to be superficial. A few sheet piles, which had been smashed in, were promptly repaired. Later wharf paving collapsed and the dock facing began to buckle.

Jenson and Arnold were at the dock Monday, supervising emplacement of a maze of steel cables, which were intended to hold the buckling dock face temporarily.

They were also supervising excavation of the dock fill in a search for the hidden damage which led to the buckling.

The two said tie rods, which held the dock facing in place, may have been snapped by the collision. They said they didn't know yet what permanent repairs would cost.

The Canaveral Port Authority met on the wharf Monday and approved temporary repairs. Authority members agreed to call for bids on permanent repairs at the regular meeting Wednesday.

The damaged wharf is the only public dock at the 33-foot-deep harbor. The SS Tropicana — which carries orange juice to New York — uses it twice a week.

Oil tankers and freighters also use it three or four times a month.

Wandering Actor's Ex Files Plea

LOS ANGELES — (P) — Sterling Hayden's ex-wife Monday asked a judge to request prosecution of the Tahiti-bound actor on kidnaping, conspiracy and child-neglect charges.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Betty Ann Hayden filed with Superior Judge Emil Gumpert a petition asking:

That Hayden and all adults aboard his schooner Wanderer be held in contempt of court.

That the judge declare the four Hayden children wards of the juvenile court, thus removing them from control of either parent. The court recently denied custody of the three sons and a daughter to Mrs. Hayden.

Judge Gumpert on Jan. 16 warned the 42-year-old actor not to take his children with him on a voyage to Tahiti.

Nikita Voices Hopes For Cold War Thaw

Mikoyan's Visit Paved The Way, Red Chief Believes

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour by his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovietskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Onslaught of Piercing Cold Hampers Flood Recovery

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather-caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

In Milwaukee, where two men died of heart attacks shoveling snow, the January depth was 24.3 inches — the most since 1951.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sun and a Gentle Wind

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Miami has a brighter outlook for today and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

Where there's a whale, there just seemed no way for these residents of Brigantine, N.J., who tried to pull the beached mammal back into the sea. Gypsies Pray for Prince, 6

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old Gypsy prince fought for life and a throne Monday while tribesmen from all over the south chanted and prayed on the hospital lawn outside.

As the rythmic cries died away, little Larry Mitchell returned to consciousness after a hit-and-run accident — and skull surgery.

Outside his room, the aged king of the gypsies Steve Mitchell—Larry's 87-year-old grandfather—kept a tense and silent vigil.

On the hospital grounds grief turned to hope and even joy as gaily-clad gypsies awaited the child's fate.

They are from the 800-member Russian Gypsy tribe.

"The man hit him and didn't even stop," a soft-voiced woman explained. "But God will punish him. God knows and he will punish."

A stout woman with heavy necklaces and dangling earrings nodded quick agreement.

"We will stay," she said "until he is out of the hospital."

The tiny, dark-haired lad was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, by playmates.

Police and hospital spokesmen theorized he could have suffered lacerations and skull fracture in a hard fall, but he

'Sign or Strike' Campaign Launched Against Hotels

Gold Coast Unions Take the Offensive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A double-barreled "sign-or-strike" drive was opened Monday by two unions against Gold Coast hotels, currently at the height of a money-reaping winter tourist season.

THE HOTEL EMPLOYES UNION reported it has signed a majority of the employes at Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel, long a major hurdle in the union's organizational campaign here.

The union already has asked the National Labor Relations Board to approve an election to certify it as the legal bargaining agent. But the hotel is expected to oppose the move.

THE INTERNATIONAL UNION of operating Engineers announced the launching of an "extensive organizational campaign to include all hotels and motels in this area."

Composed of maintenance workers, the union is presently negotiating with 30 South Florida hotels.

Officials of both unions stated their drives were given impetus by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which lifted a picketing ban against 12 Greater Miami hotels.

In reference to the hotel union's Saxony battle, Local 255 President Dave Herman declared:

"We'll have an election or a picket line."

Ironically, the Saxony was the first hotel struck in April 1955 when the union started a 20-month fight to organize the area's 15,000 hotel workers.

Twenty-three Miami and Miami Beach hotels were struck during the drive, which was eventually slowed down by Florida court injunctions prohibiting picketing.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling of Jan. 12, however, put muscle back into the hotel union's strike threats.

"This is the opening shot in our new drive," Herman commented.

During the past several days there have been uncomfirmed reports that members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is made up of entertainers, have agreed to honor picket lines set up by the hotel union.

Oscar Kohsiek, business agent of Local 491 of the engineers, said that his union is seeking peaceful settlement with the hotels, "but the possible threat of picketing must always be considered by management."

He indicated the engineers union will respect picket lines formed by the hotel union.

Behind the scenes, however, there was a possibility that the two unions may be engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Both unions carry maintenance workers on their rolls.

"There might be a conflict of interest," Herman acknowledged, "but the engineers' union will find we have squatters' rights."

Harrison To Enter Hospital

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Just two days back from the "dead," James E. Harrison made plans Monday to enter Veterans Hospital in Coral Gables for a thorough mental and physical examination, hoping to discover the secret of his 109-day disappearance.

Police in Tennessee and California are still holding two men implicated in a supposed slaying in Jacksonville on about Oct. 7, but have been unable to find the victim.

Harrison, 32, was believed at first to have been the man killed and buried after California convict Roy Olsen, serving time for a slaying, confessed he and another hitchhiker abducted and killed Harrison.

As the puzzling case ground to a standstill Monday, police in Phoenix, Ariz., where Harrison turned up Friday, say no one has identified pictures of Harrison run in Phoenix papers.

Police said that since no one had reported seeing him they speculated he may have been there only a short time — perhaps less than a day.

Harrison said he cannot remember anything between Oct. 7, when he said he was slugged by a hitchhiker, and Friday, when he regained his memory in Phoenix. He had 67 cents in his pocket.

He was found about a 15-minute walk from the city's bus terminal.

"One thing I want to get straight," said Harrison. "I've never bleached my hair."

The forelock of his wavy auburn hair appeared to be a much lighter color, but he said it might have been caused by medicine applied to minor head wounds inflicted by a blow.

Detectives who examined him said they could find no apparent scar from any attack, and said it appeared his hair had been bleached.

Auto Derails Diesel Train

ELK RIVER, Minn. — (AP) — A Seattle-bound Great Northern passenger train derailed Monday after striking a car on an Elk River crossing. The car driver was killed but none of the train passengers or crewmen was reported hurt.

Derailed were the three unit diesel locomotive, a mail-baggage car and three passenger coaches of the 10-car train.

The dead man was identified as Steve Toth Sr., 69, of Elk River.

Four More Years of Draft Loom

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Charles C. Finucane said Monday a four-year extension of the draft is absolutely essential to keep the nation's military strength geared to cold-war needs.

He estimated the armed forces would fall 700,000 to 800,000 men below their required strengths if the draft were allowed to lapse.

Finucane testified as the House Armed Services Committee took up the question of extending the Draft Act, now scheduled to die June 30.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) forecast swift committee approval of the proposal. He said the act is indispensable to U. S. security.

Vinson also announced he would question Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy about an administration decision to cut the Army to 870,000 men despite a congressional finding that its strength should be maintained at 900,000.

Vinson said the action might force Congress to "take a mandatory position" on Army strength.

TARANTO, Italy —(AP)— The 449-ton Italian freighter Laura Gabriella sank Monday in heavy seas between this South Italian port and the Greek island of Baxos. Eight of its crew are missing.

The vessel, which operated between Italy and other Mediterranean countries, carried a crew of 16. The French tanker Rousillo reported picking up eight crewmen.

Gypsies Await Fate Of Little Prince

appeared to have been victim of an auto accident.

The child-prince was rushed to North Shore Hospital. As if by magic, word swept the South.

Caravans of gypsies converged on the hospital lawn, praying and chanting. There were some 100 of them.

They were orderly and polite, but grief-stricken as they moaned their sorrowful songs.

Only when a doctor finally spoke to them and told them Larry was improved were most of them willing to go, leaving a smaller group to keep watch.

By Monday, some had come from as far away as Texas and North Carolina.

"Our tribe reaches as far as Indiana," one handsome, mustached man explained. He lay propped on an elbow, thoughtfully chewing a blade of grass.

Around him some 30 others sat cross-legged, talking in low tones. Still others slept or rested in late model cars.

Sometimes they spoke in an unknown tongue — probably Romany, the Indo-Iranian language. Partially East Indian in origin, gypsies are descendants of people who migrated from India centuries ago.

Some are Catholic — some Greek Orthodox.

"But whatever, if you lift a prayer together, He hears," said a woman sweetly.

There were varying stories on the sick lad's royal standing—but that he was royalty there was no doubt—grandson of King Steve Mitchell—"the old and wise one."

One account had it that the elderly king had 10 children but no male heirs. Another that all the king's 10 children were males — with little Larry's father the eldest.

Children danced on the sidewalk. There was light laughter. The hospital's soft-drink machine got heavy business. And there was coming and going to a nearby restaurant for food.

Though still in critical condition, the prince was better.

Airports Ask More Federal Aid

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Operators of major U.S. airports told Congress Monday that the nation's air transportation system can bog down unless more federal funds are poured into airport facilities.

George Dement, director of public works for Chicago and vice president of the Airport Operators Council, said the cities are in a critical situation in their efforts to meet airport financing problems.

Dement told the Senate aviation subcommittee that the council, including all leading U.S. airports, strongly supports the 575 million dollar federal grant bill sponsored by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D. Okla.).

The Chicago official said a proposal by President Eisenhower for 200 million dollars in grants is welcome because it shows recognition that the airport program should continue, but that the funds are inadequate.

Hawaii Renews Battle

Statehood Vote Seen by Easter

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House might vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has earned the right to fair and equal treatment with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists." He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government."

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Mass. pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood as quickly as possible after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the rules committee.

Hawaii statehood supporters said fast action by the O'Brien group will allow time to force action on the measure if the rules committee attempts to block it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has yet to give a firm commitment for Senate action. But Senate leaders have indicated they also favor speed.

Supporters of Hawaiian statehood stepped aside last year to let the Alaskan bill ease through alone under a gentlemen's agreement which would give Hawaii the nod this year.

Reps. James A. Haley (D., Fla.) and Walter Rogers (D., Tex.) — both Hawaii statehood foes — were the only ones to challenge Seaton Monday. They suggested that Hawaiian statehood would open the door to requests for similar offshore areas.

Haley objected to including a recent subcommittee report in the record until he had read it, and he asked that Seaton be recalled for further questioning at another committee meeting.

"I realize the practical situation," he said, "but I think the chairman could move just a little slower here."

Rogers questioned Seaton about the possible subsequent admission of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other U.S. possessions.

Seaton said that in his mind no other American flag area is presently qualified, and he said he is not aware of any desire for statehood on the part of their residents.

Soviet Subs Can't Top Us Boat for Boat, Navy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Navy is satisified that Russia's submarines cannot match the performanceof American subs, "boat for boat."

But the great and growing number of submarines that Russia could throw into action worries the Navy considerably.

This two-sided picture was given to the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations. They testified in a closed briefing session.

Part of the testimony was made public, It included the appraisal of the submarine situation and a discussion of the Navy's growing nuclear power. Burke especially sounded alarmed about the Red subs.

Gates said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with a nuclear punch, both from Polaris submarines able to launch missiles from under water and from carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

The Admiral said the Navy will have 113 active submarines by next July 1, but Russia will have about four times as many.

"Of greatest concern to the Navy is their submarine force numbering about 450," Burke said.

"Since World War II the submarine has progressed faster than the anti-submarine warfare capability to combat it," he said.

Burke, said that both major powers knew the other had "the capability of inflicting unacceptable damage on the other."

He said world warfare still was possible, but remote, and predicted that "limited wars would be instigated by or exploited by the Soviets to further the policy of constant probing and pressure which characterizes their expansionist efforts."

In Civil Rights Case

Ex-Alabama Judge Spared Jail Term

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(UPI)— A federal judge refused Monday to jail an Alabama official, an old friend who shouted defiance at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, saying he was only trying to create an impression of being defiant.

George C. Wallace
. . . 'risk my freedom'

Actually, District Judge Frank M. Johnson said, the defendant in contempt proceedings — former Circuit Judge George C. Wallace — helped civil rights agents.

Johnson said that "judicially" he did not know why Wallace resorted to "devious means" in attempting to "give the impression that he was defying this court's order . . ."

Wallace claimed the conflict was a test of state vs. federal authority. He said he had been willing to "risk my freedom" in the test.

"These characters from the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall — they were defied and backed down," Wallace said.

But Johnson said that while Wallace, a former schoolmate, used "devious means" in throwing up a smokescreen around efforts to inspect voter records, his actions did not constitute defiance or disobedience.

In Americus, Ga., meanwhile, another federal judge told attorneys for the Justice Department and the Terrell County, (Ga.) board of registrars to submit written briefs in another civil rights case.

The Georgia litigation is the first voter discrimination suit to be filed under the civil rights legislation.

The Georgia county registrars attorneys argued against the constitutionality of the act Monday before Judge T. Hoyt Davis.

Just Work And No Pay

HONG KONG—(AP)—Spokesman for 116 Chinese fishermen who escaped from a people's commune in Kwangtung Province earlier this month said Monday they fled communism because they were underpaid and overworked.

They said they worked at least 18 hours a day and had been paid six JMP ($2.30) per month since the commune was organized in September.

Their entire catch, they said, went to the government, whereas before the communes they were allowed to keep 30 per cent. The group escaped in six boats over a two-week period.

Wholly Terriers

The life of a Boston Terrier in Miami can be okay, these seven puppies, owned by Mrs. C. C. Laramore, of 426 E. 20th St., Hialeah, decided Monday. Only four days old, they've already been declared a "phenomena" by the Florida representative of the American Kennel Club, who said an ordinary litter of Boston Terriers only has two or three pups. Mom is Snooky II.

Martin Hurt By Turnpike?

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

STUART — Fifteen miles of the Florida Sunshine Parkway runs through Martin County. Approximately 10 million dollars of the turnpike's cost was spent on this 15 miles.

Businesses, including restaurants, motels, gasoline stations, and fruit stands along U.S. 1 through the county claim they have taken a beating and great loss of revenue, because of the flow of traffic which once went on the highway, is now diverted to the turnpike.

This is the opinion of city officials, chamber of commerce members, and business places along U.S. 1.

"We would all feel this loss of revenue more," said Grover King, of King Pontiac, "but for the fact that we in the Stuart area are experiencing a rapid growth."

King added that business men along U.S. 1 had felt the sharp decline of business for the past two years, and that it also was reflected in business places off the highway.

In September 1951 the Stuart City Commission adopted a resolution opposing any survey or any action on the proposed toll road.

Ernest Tyner, who was mayor of the city at the time, headed a delegation composed of the late L. B. Eurit, city manager; R. V. Johnson, president then of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, and Chamber Director John M. Law Jr., at a meeting held in Daytona Beach. The delegation opposed the turnpike and recommended that U.S. 1 be four-laned through the county.

The Stuart Retail Merchant's Association endorsed the City Commission action.

As Stuart opposed the turnpike, the Jensen Beach area Chamber of Commerce endorsed the project. The Jensen Beach chamber became the first chamber to endorse the project from Daytona Beach to Miami.

Highway U.S. 1 formerly ran through the heart of Jensen Beach. When the road was relocated some three miles west, the road became A1A.

County Commission Chairman Marvin H. Rowell, who owns and operates his furniture store just off U.S. 1, said:

"The turnpike has devalued, real estate along U.S. 1, and has depressed business."

County Commissioner Charles Leighton of Palm City said:

"The turnpike has been a boon to the Palm City area. Our population has tripled since it was constructed, due to subdivisions coming into existence.

Growers of vegetables, citrus and other products, particularly the large dairy interests, have expanded their facilities. The turnpike gives a short and fast market to these businesses, Leighton added.

Metropolitan Area Plan Is Advanced

MELBOURNE — Is there a chance the municipal governments of South Brevard County might be consolidated into a single metropolitan government.

During a joint meeting of the Melbourne City Commission and the Eau Gallie City Council Monday, Melbourne Mayor J. J. (Jeff) Spitznogle strongly encouraged the formation of a metropolitan government unit.

"No matter what the cost," the mayor said, "I'd like to see this whole area consolidated into a metropolitan government. And I mean Melbourne, Eau Gallie, Indialantic, Melbourne Beach and Palm Bay."

In stressing the importance of such a move, Spitznogle repeated: "No matter what the cost might be, I think this should be done."

And then the mayor told the officials of both cities: "Think of the power we'd have when we went to Tallahassee."

After Mayor Spitznogle spoke, Eau Gallie councilman did not raise a single voice in opposition. In fact, City Manager Clark Maxwell of Eau Gallie agreed with the Melbourne mayor, adding:

"This certainly would have many advantages, and the purchasing power of such a governmental unit is one."

Spitznogle made his big pitch for consolidation after Eau Gallie Councilman Vance Bell asked whether the two city boards "couldn't get together more often. There are so many mutual problems."

The consolidation discussion ended when both Spitznogle and Mayor Milton McGrath of Eau Gallie agreed to name liason committees, and expressed a desire that the two boards meet on important matters.

New Start For Water Approved

MELBOURNE—A last-minute attempt by the Melbourne City Commission was successful Monday in keeping Eau Gallie from completing a deal with a private concern for supplying that city with water.

The Melbourne commission and the Eau Gallie City Council, in a rare joint meeting, agreed to start all over on trying to work up a deal for 25 million to 30 million gallons of Melbourne water per month.

Eau Gallie had asked for five million gallons a month. But, during the eight months since that request was made, it found it would need a larger amount of water to stave off an expected shortage late in 1959.

Besides, Eau Gallie did not like the rate and other provisions in the original Melbourne proposal.

Eau Gallie's answer to Layne-Atlantic Co. of Virginia, the firm bidding against Melbourne, will be postponed until a new Melbourne deal is prepared.

This firm offered to build a complete new water system that would be tied in with the city's present system. Melbourne water would come from a new multi-million dollar water system, supplied from Lake Washington.

The boards agreed Eau Gallie should study Melbourne's original proposal, and say what it doesn't like about the contract.

After Eau Gallie reports, Melbourne's water engineers will work up a new deal.

Melbourne Advised To Build Now

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — A feasibility report, turned in Monday by Alfred LeFabar and Associates of Cincinnati, advised Melbourne spend two and one-half million dollars to enlarge its sanitary sewer system to meet current and future needs.

LaFaber recommended the city finance the improvements over a 30 to 40-year period, and pay the debt from sewer revenues.

The city would be ahead to enlarge the Crane Creek treatment plant, the report said because the great amount of water in the creek is ideal for carrying away the discharge.

It was further suggested sewers be extended into all residential areas not now receiving service. Lift stations would permit lines to all area.

The new sewer line work, LaFaber reported, should be on a priority basis — with the sections with the most urgent need getting service first.

City officials hired LaFaber to make the sewer study because lack of adequate sanitary sewerage facilities has slowed construction here.

The State Board of Health told Melbourne no more large residential projects can be launched until sewage treatment plant facilities are expanded.

The Crane Creek plant operates at capacity, and the Airport treatment plant is said to be considerably above its capacity.

FHA Grants Loan Help On Houses

WASHINGTON — The Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal government Monday approved mortgage insurance and other benefits for 75 low cost homes at Cocoa.

Senators Spessard L. Holland and George Smathers and Rep. Sydney Herlong Jr. were advised of the action. The agency approved use of FHA section 221 for the 75 private homes.

The action was necessitated by displacement of families through highway construction and site acquisition for low rent housing projects. Under Section 221 mortgages may be given 100 per cent insurance, to a maximum of $9,000, and 40-year amortization.

The only cash requirement is $200, or equivalent, to cover closing costs.

FORT PIERCE — A damage suit for an unspecified amount has been filed against the City of Fort Pierce for Leslie Wolfrey, 20, of Fort Lauderdale, by his guardian and mother, Ella Wolfrey.

Wolfrey charges he was assaulted and beaten in the Fort Pierce city jail by police officers on the night of Dec. 22. He asks compensatory and punitive damages and a jury trial.

Disabled Vessel Brought To Cape

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — An exhausted swimmer staggered ashore here Monday and touched off a successful air and sea search for a disabled yacht.

The yacht's only other crew member was found safe aboard the 65-foot craft which had run out of gas on a voyage from Charleston, S.C., to Fort Pierce.

Fred Leuze, 32, of Columbus, Ga. — a man who "never swam more than the length of the backyard swimming pool before" — fought high seas, felt ocean currents "tugging at" him and dodged sharks for 13 hours before he reached the Cape.

An Air Force plane found the disabled yacht anchored 13 miles north of Leuze's landing point although the swimmer thought he had traveled "only about two miles."

A Marine Salvage Inc. missile recovery boat picked up the yacht and towed in into Port Canaveral. The yacht's owner-skipper, James Bush of Columbus, rode it in.

Leuze said the yacht Cherokee had been "drifting out to sea and had taken a lot of water aboard — I don't know how much" — when he plunged into the ocean about 10 p.m. Sunday.

"We didn't know where we were but the skipper said, 'one of us will have to swim for it,' so I went."

He headed for the Cape Canaveral lighthouse, but Leuze said he didn't know where he was going because of fog.

The swimmer wore an insulated skindiving suit and a life preserver through the swim, "but the suit don't work and the water sure was cold."

"I had a little drum and a plank at first, but the sea took them away from me."

"Two shark fins crossed in front of me near the end, and I kicked something soft . . . I don't know what it was." The sharks didn't make any passes at the swimmer — that he knew of.

When he reached shore, Leuze collapsed in the surf.

"I fell down three or four times before I got going," he said. "I still didn't know where I was when I got to the highway, but I figured it must lead someplace so I turned south and followed it."

A few minutes walk brought him to the Cape's north gate where guards sounded an alarm for the disabled boat.

Leuze said Bush, of the Bush Development Co. of Fort Pierce, bought Cherokee recently from the Army.

Leuze and Bush refurnished the boat in Charleston, then set out for Fort Pierce Sunday afternoon.

They tried to enter the Intracoastal Waterway at New Smyrna Beach and Daytona Beach when their gas ran low, but were unable to find the harbor entrance.

"The fog was so thick we couldn't find the bouys," said Leuze, "so we tried following a fishing boat, but it gave up too and went back to sea."

No Shott, Just Shoo

MELBOURNE — Police received a telephone call to rush out to Melbourne Airport and "shoot some birds."

When officers arrived at the municipal field they saw hundreds of Sea Gulls resting on runways. In fact, there were so many of them that pilots were afraid to land their planes.

However, police were able to shoo them away — without shooting a single bird.

Marathon Man Held in Shooting

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — A Marathon man, Warren Lewis Adams, 38, is being held here in connection with the shooting Saturday of Myrtle Ingraham, 34, also of Marathon.

The Ingraham woman, shot in the left side with a .22 caliber revolver, was reported in good condition Monday at Monroe General Hospital.

Cape's Pamela Dies

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (UPI) — Pamela Tomolak, 7, who had three Christmas celebrations last year and a special flight home to South Bend in an Air Force transport from Florida, died Monday.

She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tomolak. Her father in June took a position as a missile instrumentation technician at Cape Canaveral, and some weeks later, at an Orlando hospital, doctors found the child was a cancer victim.

She had become ill just before leaving South Bend, where her father formerly was employed by Bendix.

She was given only six weeks to live. Friends in Florida arranged an early Christmas party, and the parents decided to take her home to South Bend, where she had more friends. A three-man crew from Patrick Air Force Base flew the child here.

At Thanksgiving time Pamela was still alive and another Christmas party was given for her at her grandparents' home here.

She clung stubbornly to life, and when Christmas Day came, there was another party.

At the time of her death, Pamela had 21 dolls, 31 religious statues, and over 1,400 greeting cards from all parts of the country in her room.

24 Lots Sold At Auction As Ordered

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Twenty four lots between State Rd. A1A and the Intracoastal Waterway belonging to Highland Beach Realty Co. were knocked down at public auction here Monday for $70,500.

The public sale at the courthouse was under an order in a mortgage foreclosure suit issued by Circuit Judge Joseph S. White last Dec. 30.

Purchasers were identified as E. L. Montgomery, of Montgomery Dredging Co., and Zinke-Smith, Inc. of 750 NW 31st Ave., Fort Lauderdale.

1. The foreclosure suit was brought last July by Carl R. and Beulah Warner. It named as defendants Highlands Realty, Zinke-Smith, Montgomery Dredging and several others who claimed mechanic liens on the property.

The Warners bid $70,453 in the public sale but were topped by the Montgomery-Zinke-Smith bid. Under the court order the original plaintiffs and others named in the suit will receive funds they claimed against the property.

The lots involved in the sale are located in the highlands beach area and the general vicinity of Boca Raton in Palm Beach County.

He is survived by his wife. Service will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Wylie Funeral Home, with burial in Pinecrest Cemetery.

Florida's Spirits

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.
CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.
RUM up 14 per cent.
CORDIALS down 21 per cent.
BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the year's out.

Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.

SYLVIA

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly, and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back. "I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell."

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.

My Answer

Sin Is Condition Of Man's Heart

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Will you explain the verses in Matthew 18:8-9 where Jesus said that if your hand offends thee, cut it off, or if your eye offends thee, pluck it out? I have often wondered why He would say that, because I don't see how such action would solve any problem.

ANSWER: Our Lord had many ways of teaching. Sometimes He spoke in parables, sometimes He employed the dialectic method, and sometimes He would teach truth by mentioning the impossible.

GRAHAM

Anyone would know, when listening to a statement such as the one mentioned, that a person with sinful tendencies would never eliminate them by cutting off a part of the body. If sin can be localized, then it would be well to do it that way.

But sin is a condition of man's heart. Even when there is no outward appearance of sin, a person may have a very wicked heart. His desires may be totally evil, but lacking either courage or opportunity he may outwardly avoid outbroken wickedness.

The Bible says that, "A man's heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." (Jeremiah 17:9) That is why God must give a new heart to the wicked, and in so doing, make them disposed to do good and not evil.

God said, "I will take the stony heart out of the flesh and will give them a heart of flesh that they may walk in my statutes." (Ezekiel 11:19-20).

Citrusmen Plan Fight On Decline

LAKELAND — (AP) — Florida Citrus Mutual's Legislative Committee Monday studied a recommendation that the governor be given more flexibility in appointing members of the Florida Citrus Commission.

The legislative proposal, which is still under consideration, would insure adequate grower representation and give the concentrate industry more recognition on the 12-member commission.

The committee recommended that seven members of the commission shall be simon pure growers "not connected as a paid officer or employe of a citrus packing, shipping, processing or marketing organization or association." However, directors of such groups could be appointed.

Of the remaining five members, two would be shipper-growers and three could be either-or concentrators and canners.

Under the Florida Citrus Code, the commission is presently made up of seven growers, two canners, two shipper-packers and one concentrate member.

Many of the grower members have dual roles in that they are also connected with a packing house, concentrate plant or some other phase of the industry.

The Mutual committee said it would discuss the proposal Thursday with the commission's legislative committee before hammering out a recommendation for the Legislature.

The committee did, however, approve a proposal that the governor, when he appoints the commission, shall announce the actual classification and the district represented by each member.

The committee also tentatively approved, subject to review by Mutual's board of directors, a program to combat spreading decline.

It would ask the Legislature for one million dollars to finance a program for the next two years.

The last Legislature appropriated $1,380,000 for such a program but a circuit court decision has stalled it. The decision, now before the State Supreme Court, placed a $1,000 an acre limit on compensation and the State Budget Commission took one million dollars of the money from the program.

Under the proposed program, owners of infested groves which threaten to infest other groves would have two choices. They could cooperate with the program and have the State Plant Board "push and treat" the infestation and a margin of healthy trees. The grower would receive no compensation under this alternative.

Growers refusing to cooperate would have a 100 to 200 foot buffer strip bulldozer in the grove, usually adjacent to the uninfested area being threatened. The grower would be paid for loss of profits from the healthy trees. The buffer strip would be treated with both a fumigant to kill burrowing nematodes and a herbicide to kill weeds.

Growers with infestations not threatening other groves could volunteer for a clean-up by the plant board. If such a grower wanted to establish a buffer within his own property, the board would fumigate it, but the grower would have to pay for the bulldozing of the trees and would not receive compensation.

Hubby Backs Mom Who Lit Children

BARTOW — (AP) — A woman who tried to burn her two small children to death will have her husband's support in fighting a charge of attempted murder.

Grover Hamil of Emmett, Idaho, visited his wife, Juanita, 21, in her jail cell over the weekend and later held a reunion with the children, Sharon Kay, 4, and Olin Vivian, 3.

Police arrested Mrs. Hamil Jan. 18 and charged her with an attempt to burn the children after dousing them with gasoline. The little girl was burned critically, but the boy did not catch fire.

Sheriff Hagan Parrish said Mrs. Hamil told him she and William Clabo, 40-year-old pipeline worker, came here in December and she decided to kill the children because "they were getting on our nerves."

A communications operator at the jail said Hamil "was not bitter." He thinks his wife is mentally ill and will do all he can to help her," the operator said. "He's a real forgiving type of guy."

The screams of the children made her lose her nerve, she said, and she called for help. Neighbors rescued the children.

What is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as the "Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astonishing Booklet which is a great step forward toward the answer to this question. The search for clues led to a prolonged study of all the great religions of the world, until at last a surprising new light was thrown upon the entire subject of prayer.

In this new light, even the well known Lord's Prayer acquires astonishing new meanings. Hidden between the lines are deep significances and wonderful truths that do not appear in the words alone. The free booklet points these out and is entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer."

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement of power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise. These strange methods were found in the Far East, where in ancient times all the great religions and philosophies of the world originated.

He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats.

He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition as a leading geographer and map-maker of the Far East.

He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the wisest mystics he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants many others to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

For your free copy of the amazing free booklet entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer," together with other free literature regarding this remarkable system, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 So. Hobart Blvd., Dept. 127R, Los Angeles 4, California. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Towns Pop up Everywhere

Shake A Bush in Brevard And Out Jumps A Mayor!

First in a Series

By BILL BUNGE

Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — "Every time you shake a palmetto bush, you scare out a mayor. Believe me, we've got a lot of 'em here," Melbourne Mayor J. J. (Jeff) Spitznogle commented recently.

And for every mayor there must be a town. So there are a lot of towns in South Brevard, too. Most of them popped up during the last five years, and were the first municipal "babies" in Brevard County for more than 50 years.

For years there were only three incorporated cities in South Brevard — Melbourne and Eau Gallie on the mainland, and Melbourne Beach on a narrow island across the Indian River.

This list now includes eight towns, and it may become even longer. On the mainland there are the new towns of Palm Bay and Melbourne Village, and on the island there are Satellite Beach, Indialantic, and Indian Harbor Beach.

The next new South Brevard town may be formed south of Patrick Air Force Base on the island. Some 2,500 residents in South Patrick Shores and Sea Park Homes are working toward municipal status.

They have informed the legislative delegation they probably will have a special act for the Legislature, the official move in becoming a city.

This area runs from the north limits of Satellite Beach to a line south of PAFB. There are about 720 homes and a new shopping center in this area.

These missile base workers are being led by the Sea Park Residents Association and the South Patrick Home Owners Association, two civic groups whih claim they have studied the pros and cons of the incorporation move.

They plan to launch an educational program to cover both sides of the issue. County officials said they would aid the proposed program.

If these folks south of the missile base do form a new town, it will make a total of five beach towns along 10 miles of the island — between Patrick and the southern boundary of Melbourne Beach.

This packs that stretch of the island — across the river from Melbourne and Eau Gallie — pretty tight, considering the numerous rural communities between each of the towns, except in the case of Melbourne Beach and Indialantic. They share a common boundary line.

Most of this beach growth has been caused by the air base. Housing developers spent millions, and soon there were thousands of new residents, so missile workers can live close to their jobs.

The construction was concentrated in various places along the 10-mile stretch, and this seemed to encourage formation of municipal governments. There still are a few places where homes are consolidated in large rural areas, making it possible for at least a couple of more new towns to pop up.

William F. Grossfred

FORT PIERCE — William F. Gossfred, 55, of Brocksmith Rd., owner and operator of the Circle A Ranch, died Sunday in a hospital at Bethesda, Md. Mr. Gossfred is survived by his wife, Agnes; a son William Jr., on duty at Fort Monmouth, N.J., with the Army; a grandson and four sisters. Services and burial will be here, with Yates Funeral Home in charge.

Walter E. Ellis

FORT PIERCE — Walter E. Ellis, 72, of 3121 Okeechobee Rd., died Sunday. He had lived here eight years, coming from Brooklyn, N.Y. Survivors include his wife, Louise, a son, W. E. Jr., and three grandchildren. Services and burial will be in Brooklyn, with the Baird Funeral Home in charge here.

Alex L. Morrison

VERO BEACH — Alex L. Morrison, 72, Granada Apartments, died Sunday. He had been a winter resident here for three years, coming from North Canton, Ohio. He is survived by his wife, Florence, a daughter, and three sisters. Services and burial will be in Canton, Ohio, with the Floyd Funeral Home in charge here.

Roy R. Hayes

VERO BEACH — Roy R. Hayes, a retired stationary engineer, died Monday. He came here seven months ago from Cleveland, Ohio. He is survived by his wife, Ruth, and a brother. Services and burial will be in Cleveland, with the Floyd Funeral Home in charge here.

'King Asked Lies,' Witnesses State

BARTOW — (AP) — A second prosecution witness testified Monday he lied to a Polk County Grand Jury in 1956 on instructions from former State Sen. Harry E. King.

Rollie Arnold said King told him what to tell the Grand Jury, which was investigating a $10,000 political payoff by King to Boone D. Tillett.

Tillett, a Lake Wales attorney, testified Wednesday King paid him to drop out of a State Senate race in which both were candidates. King says he made the payoff to catch Tillett at blackmail.

"Rollie, I'm going to need some help on this Tillett deal," Arnold quoted King as saying.

The 46-year-old witness, a deputy sheriff at the time, said King asked him to lie during a meeting at the Polk sheriff's office 24 days after the payoff.

Arnold said another deputy, James L. Busbee, 32, of Lake Wales, also was at the meeting.

The witness said King took him and Busbee to the payoff scene, near Babson Park where they worked out details of the story to be told the Grand Jury.

Arnold's testimony backed up earlier testimony by Busbee, who testified Saturday he lied to the Grand Jury upon King's instruction.

The two former deputies testified during the probe they saw King meet Tillett at the payoff scene. Arnold said his only knowledge of the payoff prior to his meeting with King and Busbee was by "rumor of it and what I read in the papers."

King, a 56-year-old Winter Haven attorney, is on trial for the second time in the widely-publicized 1956 perjury case.

The state is attempting to prove he induced Arnold and Busbee to give perjured testimony.

King specifically is charged with two counts of conspiracy to commit perjury and two counts of subornation of perjury. Conviction on all four counts carries a maximum penalty of 42 years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Short and Busy Is Description For Next Month

By FLORENCE RABON
Herald Correspondent

KEY WEST — With January nearing a close, a look at the February calendar is startling. Although it is the shortest month, it seems this season it will also be one of the busiest.

Mrs. Rabon

As a grand finale to January comes the Community Concert Association attraction, the "Concert-Opera group." Composed of six singers of renown, the group will present Mozart's supreme musical comedy, "Cosi Fan Tutte," in English. Artists include Phyllis Curtin and Dolores Wilson, sopranos; Mac Morgan, baritone; Jane Hobson, mezzo-soprano; Kenneth Smith, bass-baritone, and David Lloyd, tenor.

The entertaining masterpiece will be presented at the high school auditorium Friday with curtain time 8:30 p.m. On Feb. 12 the Ballet Quartet will be presented.

On the dramatic scene, February will open with the Key West Players' production of "The Traitor," by Herman Wouk. Opening night is slated Feb. 2, with performances to continue for a week. The cast includes 15 men and three women. Director is Emily (Mrs. Lee) Goddard. Prexy of the Players is Jack Clarke.

With the March of Dimes continuing through the first part of February, three of the biggest affairs are being planned.

One of the outstanding social events of the annual drive is the card party. This year, with Rita (Mrs. Paul) Sawyer as general chairman, it will be held at the Casa Marina Hotel. Reservations chairman is Elonia Gato. The date is Feb. 5, and plans call for an entertaining show, in addition to card playing.

Another fund raising event, the Mothers' March will be on Feb. 9, with Mrs. George F. Curry and Mrs. Howard Wilson as general chairmen. The coffee for captains and leaders will be Jan. 31 at the Yacht Club, with Dolice and Charlotte as hostesses. The National Foundation film "The Challenge" will be shown.

Mrs. John Spottswood will be chairman of the elegant benefit March of Dimes Ball which will be given on Feb. 9. It will wind up the drive. The locale of the invitation dress affair will be the Key West Yacht Club.

Other members of the ball committee are Barbara (Mrs. Ray) Schoneck, Betty (Mrs. Gordon) Keene, co-chairmen; Dorothy (Mrs. Robert W.) Reid, Gwen (Mrs. Walter) McCook, Sylvia (Mrs. Jeff, Jr.) Knight, and Mrs. W. C. Rabon, Jr.

Dancing, buffet, cocktails and a floor show will be the order of the evening, and the March of Dimes "Queen of Queens" will be crowned. She will be the member of the younger set who raises the most funds for the drive. This event is sponsored by Xi Alpha Theta Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Between Semesters Jaunt

DOWN FROM Albany, N. Y. for a-between-semesters visit are the Bruce Clewleys' and their tiny tot, David Kevin. They are here for a visit with Adelle's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Lewis M. Smith. It is the first time the Smith's have seen their new grandson. Bruce is a senior law student at the University of Albany.

Busy women this week have been members of the Key West Garden Club, which sponsored a flower show school and workshop. The school was held at the Woman's Club, on Duval St., with the workshop being conducted at the garden center, West Martello Tower. Instructors were Mrs. Alma Funk of Tampa, and Mrs. Lilburn Railey.

Mrs. Funk conducted classes in horticulture and Mrs. Railey conducted the workshop. Floral arrangements by students, displayed during the workshop, which were judged on the flower show point system. About 30 persons attended. Mrs. Thomas Chandler was general chairman.

Humane Society Picks Feb. 20

THE HUMANE SOCIETY has set its annual dance for Feb. 20. As in the past, this top-drawer affair will be at the East Martello Gallery. Games, with prizes, and a fashion show sponsored by Herman's will be the featured entertainment. Dancing and cocktails are also on the program.

Those assisting her will include, ViAnn (Mrs. Robert) Youmans, Helene (Mrs. Marvin) Schenker, Janiece (Mrs. Louis) Signorelli, Elizabeth (Mrs. Charles) Lear, Betty Ann (Mrs. Maury) Kornick, Dot (Mrs. Cliff) Gordon, Jackie (Mrs. Tony) Barrera, Arlene (Mrs. John) Schacht and Dot (Mrs. Lee) Lawler.

UPPER KEYS

Fish Fry Friday The 13th

By CAROLYN V. COHEN
Herald Correspondent

UPPER KEYS: February promises to be a busy month and already Valentine's Day weekend is well filled.

MRS. COHEN

Defying superstition, Upper Keys Kiwanians have named Friday the 13th for their fish fry at the Elks Club, Tavernier. There will be hush puppies, crawfish salad and all the trimmings too.

Saturday, Feb. 14, members of Burton Memorial WSCS hold another of their bake sales in front of Tavernier post office. Better get there early for those home cooked pies and cakes.

The grounds of San Pedro Church, Plantation Key, will be filled for their bazaar Sunday, Feb. 15. Everyone looks forward to this annual event that carries a Valentine motif.

For a luscious pot roast dinner go to Tavernier Fire House on Saturday Jan. 31 where ladies of the Methodist Church WSCS will have this noted specialty of theirs.

Postmaster Paul E. Albury says that a representative of the State Service Officer, Florida Department of Veterans Affairs, will be at his office on Feb. 5 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Matters pertaining to veterans, their dependents or survivors can be discussed at that time.

Upper Keys Flower Show dates have been announced as Feb. 21 and 22 at Coral Shores School Auditorium. You won't want to miss this.

The next Coral Shores PTA meeting, which is Founders Day, will be Feb. 3, at 8 p.m. Feature of this meeting will be open house in the beautiful new school addition. PTA members donated lovely new furniture for the recently installed teachers' lounge.

Irene and Mari Kovach, Long Key, were hostesses to Immanuel Lutheran Church Ladies Aid last week. Rev. Albert Dede told of missionary work in Ceylon and India. Next meeting is Feb. 26 at the home of Dagne Johnson, Tavernier.

The cafeteria staff of Coral Shores School, headed by Annie Maloney, entertained at lunch for 50 members of the Florida School Food Service Association on Saturday. Among those who enjoyed this organization's first visit to the Upper Keys were President Angela Mackie; President-Elect June Knowles; Secretary Fay Soloman and Treasurer Lorraine Johnson, all of Key West.

We apologize for an error in last week's column. Frank and Florence Lenz live in St. Charles, Illinois . . . not Missouri. However, we felt better when we learned that not long ago the Ted Mitchells, now in residence in Islamorada, looked all over St. Charles, Missouri (there's one there too) and failed to locate Frank and Florence.

King of Siam

Opera Star William Chapman of "Candide," "Maria Golovin" and other hits will play the ruler of Siam in "The King and I," which will open the Palm Beach Musicarnival season Feb. 10 with a benefit performance for the Cancer Society.

Don't Be Frightened of Glandular Fever--It's Mostly an Annoyance

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: Would you give me some information on the disease called "infection of the nucleus," or is it sometimes called "gland fever" in adults?

Also I would like to know if it is catching and if there's a cure for it. Is it a lifetime disease?

Mrs. B.C.

DEAR DR. MOLNER:

Two of my children have had infectious mono-nucleosis. So far we haven't been able to find out much about this so-called blood disease, or what causes it.

We have had several alarming facts told to us, and would like to know the truth. Is there such a thing, or are we having our legs pulled?

No one seems to be willing to discuss the subject or tell us about it.

Mrs. L.R.

* * *

Two letters out of quite a lot! But these two ask the questions which are echoed, week after week.

Dr. Joseph Molner

First off the bat: Dismiss from your mind any "alarming facts," which have been flung at you. They are, to borrow an expressive term from my fifth-grade days, a lot of bushwa.

I do not say this disease is to be ignored. On the other hand, if you understand it, you won't be frightened. Just annoyed.

Call it infectious mononucleosis, or call it glandular fever. It's the same thing.

It is, temporarily, a weakening disease. The victim is tired and I've known of young people who appeared to become unaccountably "lazy" until the true fact was learned; they were ill!

Symptoms vary; usually lethargy and some moderate fever; sometimes swelling of the glands (hence "glandular fever"); maybe sore throat and the like, headache, chills, cramps, soreness, sweating.

Never forget this: The disease is "self-limiting," like measles or chickenpox or a cold in the head. There's nothing to do to "cure" it, but it wears itself out. Rest is adviseable, just as it is for those other diseases. Antibiotics are good, not to stop the disease itself, but to avoid other secondary infections.

It is "catching." It's just as well to sterilize dishes used by the patient.

We think — but we haven't yet proved — that it is a virus disease and hence something like flu. Maybe someday we'll trap the virus (if it is a virus) and concoct a vaccine for it. So far, we haven't.

Gabor and Emery In Playhouse Hit

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

PALM BEACH — Palm Beach playhouse season opened Monday night. The offering is Noel Coward's "Private Lives." Stars are Eva Gabor and John Emery. Featured are Margaret Phillips and Bert Thorn with Suzanne Caubaye making a brief but unforgettable appearance. Romney Brent is the expert director. Luxurious sets are by Jim Riley.

The play? Park or hang your cares on a hickory limb or a palm frond. Relax and enjoy it.

The sophisticated farce concerns two tangled twosomes. Eva and John, once married to each other, now divorced, have each embarked on new honeymoons. Eva has married Bert Thorn. John has married Margaret Phillips. The two couples meet at Deauville, where their apartments have twin terraces.

Memories, moonlight, and music from Noel Coward hits prove too much for Eva and John. They take French leave.

The manner in which marital history repeats itself is told as only Noel Coward can tell it and only as two such adroit performers as Eva Gabor and John Emery can interpret it.

Eva Gabor may look like a French doll, a cream puff, or a georgeously gowned bit of fluff, but she is an actress with a divine spark and a built in sense of timing.

John Emery, long a distinguished figure in the theater, proves himself a comedian of stature. Suave and handsome, in this play he suggests John Barrymore with Errol Flynn overtones. His knock-down-drag-out fight scene with Eva is a classic. He also plays nicely on the great gold grand piano.

Miss Phillips and Bert Thorn don't have much to do, except to be proper, good looking, and well mannered, if a bit on the stuffy side. But Suzanne Caubaye! If the history of Troy was written on the eyelids of Iphigenia, then the history of all French serving women is limned in the stoop and the walk of Suzanne Caubaye.

During intermissions six musicians play Coward music and three top-hatted boulevardiers and three pretty girls in silver gowns sing songs from Coward hits.

The fashionable first night audience loved the play. And so will you.

The Future of Our Clothing

SYNTHETIC FABRIC gets the glamor treatment. New separates for leisurely evenings a deux were designed by Paris couturier Hubert de Givenchy entirely of orlon. Short, bulky pullover with enormous collar is in a black, very shaggy orlon knit. He pairs it with turquoise pants in a soft looped fabric woven of orlon wool and mohair. Satin bow adds dressy touch to pullover.

By BEVERLEY WILSON
Herald Fashion Editor

Will women of the future shop for clothes as they do for food — in supermarkets? That's what one bright young dress manufacturer — New Yorker Richard Cole—thinks.

"Within 25 years, clothes will become supermarket stock. You'll put your money in a slot and a dress will come out packaged" is the eye-popping prediction he made in New York to a United Press International reporter.

"Synthetics are the coming trend, although we may not abandon pure fibers in our lifetime," he added. "Synthetics still don't have the snob appeal of wool and silk, because we haven't created the romance about them."

* * *

MEANWHILE, BACK IN PARIS, designers already seem to be creating the synthetic romance Mr. Cole is talking about.

A top Parisian couturier, Hubert de Givenchy, has just created an entire collection of glamorous sweaters and separates in orlon.

Many of the designs will be reproduced in this country, and should be available in limited quantity by March or April. The collection includes the debut of a new textured filament yarn of orlon, which gives sweaters the same sort of lustrous flat texture and luxurious hand that the finest European knits have.

We haven't yet seen any hints that Mr. Cole's fashion supermarket is the coming thing, but he's quite serious about it.

"We're already heading toward supermarket selling," he says.

"Look at fashionable Fifth Avenue stores. Customers used to remain seated while clothes were brought to them. Today, more and more stock is put on the racks for women to thumb through.

"Displays and decorations still are more elegant than in self-help stores, but the fashionable shops are basically the same as cut-rate stores."

* * *

MR. COLE — who likes to aim his own fashion collections at the girl who can't afford couturier prices, can't wear junior-size clothes, but still wants high fashion touches to her wardrobe — has another arresting idea for the future. He thinks there won't be any such thing as custom tailoring.

"Clothes will be vulcanized and seamed by machine, not hand sewn. When clothing becomes a grocery-store item, the emphasis will be on warmth and wearability, not style."

We can just see Givenchy reacting to this bit of news!

"But after all, the tangible thing in fashion is a woman's figure. Styles are a variation of what to do with the neckline, bustline, waistline, hips and hemline.

"In the future, clothes will be more functional. Space travel will affect all fashion. Even if a woman doesn't go to the moon, her clothes will reflect the demands of those who do."

What will space fashions look like?

"Who knows. Maybe pale blue one-piece jump suits of plastic. One thing is certain. Eventually all clothes will be made entirely of synthetics," he said.

"But you can bet your dollars there will be romance. Even with supermarket fashions, the dress business will be bigger than ever. And we might be clothing Mars."

Canned Peas Served a Fresh, New Way — in a Hot Salad

Hot Pea Salad Is Thrifty And Easy To Prepare, Too

By JEANNE VOLTZ

Hunt some new ways with canned peas to use one of this month's most plentiful foods. They're reasonably priced, too.

Daily Food Guide

A different way to serve them is in a hot pea salad. The salad doubles as salad and vegetable. Peas and potatoes are the mainstays of the salad. Seasonings are pickle relish, pimientos, onion and cheese.

Deep green spinach leaves make a nice bed for the salad.

THRIFTY SUPPER
Braised Beef Liver
Buttered Carrots
Hot Pea Salad

The salad is quick to mix and heat—just 15 or 20 minutes in the oven.

MARY ASTOR: MY STORY

'I Knew Now--I Had Hit Bottom'

Mary Astor's third marriage, to Manuel del Campo ended in divorce and she prepared for her fourth marriage.

One In a Series

I became Mrs. Thomas Gordon Wheelock on Dec. 24, 1945. Mother was there, and wished me happiness with a resigned air.

The idea of Tommy Wheelock being broke was treated as simply one of those absurdities that happen occasionally in life. And so I accepted it. But it was no joke that five years after our marriage I had exactly $192.86 in the bank and we were over $30,000 in debt.

I had blown up another pink balloon that burst in my face. I had told myself that I would slow down our drinking after we were married. But now it was no better.

I often walked in my sleep. I would awaken in total darkness, without the least idea of what part of the house I was in, completely disoriented, wailing tearfully for Tommy to come and get me. I began to suffer more from hang-overs, and learned the comfort of the quick shot in the morning.

* * *

ONE EVENING Tommy and I were entertaining a doctor who lived just up the road from us, and with whom we had become quite friendly. I hadn't had a great deal to drink, but I suddenly felt quite drunk — dizzy and completely disoriented.

The doctor took a close look at me and said, "This girl isn't drunk. She's ill." He took my temperature; it was 105. Immediately they drove me to Queen of Angels Hospital, where, after a great many tests, I was informed that I had cirrhosis of the liver.

After I got out of the hospital I had to make regular trips to see the doctor and have liver-function tests. He told me my liver had been badly damaged and I must never drink again. I was frightened enough to accept his ultimatum.

After three months passed before I was scheduled to see him again. When I took the routine tests, the results were excellent. He asked me how much I had been drinking, and I replied, "I haven't been drinking anything. You told me not to."

When he said, "You mean you haven't had a drop in three months?" the note of surprise in his voice meant to me that my condition was probably not so serious after all.

So when I got home I thought, "A bit of sherry now and then can't hurt me. He was just trying to scare me. He probably thought I drank a lot more than I did."

* * *

THE SHERRY PROGRAM didn't last long, however. I began to take straight shots of gin for relief from the cramps that seemed to be getting worse every month now. I also caught colds quite frequently, and of course that calls for a hot toddy of good, high-proof bourbon.

I read a number of articles in magazines and newspapers about alcohol and occasionally I read about a group of people who together find their answer in a fellowship based on spiritual principles. I learned that one of these fellowship groups met regularly in Studio City, right near Republic Studios.

The first time I went I was very much impressed — and also shocked by the stories some of the speakers told. I went several weeks in a row, listening with sympathy, but with no sense of identification, to speakers tell their stories.

"These people," I told myself, "are centainly to be commended for their ability to lick their problems. But they have really had problems: the sordidness of sanitaria, drunk driving (I mentally patted myself on the back for having learned not to get caught at that) — these people had — what did they call it? — 'hit bottom.' I haven't hit any kind of 'bottom' at all."

I just "drank heavily," but when I was working on a picture I stopped drinking. I had stopped drinking while I was attending the group meetings. It wasn't difficult, only boring. So I went back to my "rules about drinking."

* * *

I WANTED TO GET OUT of my contract with Metro. Everybody said I was foolish. Metro suggested that I take six months' sick leave — a year if necessary. But I didn't want that.

My pent-up bitterness had blown like the cork on a warm bottle of champagne. I was sick of supporting people — beginning with my parents. But now I was fed up. Between outbursts I would shut myself up in the library and sleep — and drink.

Out of the haze Tommy appeared one day with two men from the fellowship which I had previously rejected. Somehow they got through to me; I dimly remember one of them saying to me, "Wouldn't you like to get out of this rat race?"

I agreed that they should take me to a sanitarium run by the fellowship. In a few days the terrible shakes subsided, and the psychiatrist asked me if I'd like to "do a little work with him."

I took all the tests. When it was over he said, "You've got all your marbles, and very good ones, but you don't seem to have any aggressiveness at all."

"Should I?" I asked.

I caught a glimpse of some of the patients, haggard and repulsive. And the realization came to me that this was the kind of people the fellowship was for — and I was one of them. I had hit bottom.

Cuba Opens New Trials In Quiet Air

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Says Castro, 16A

Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

HAVANA, Cuba — The Havana war crimes trials reopened Monday night in a small, decorous courtroom setting in striking contrast to the noisy, spectacular first trial scene in the Sports Palace last week. Also, TV and radio coverage now are banned.

The change was ordered by the Castro revolutionary regime after a deluge of foreign criticism over the circus character imparted by the 30,000 loud spectators at the first trial. It ended last Friday at dawn in a verdict of death for ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco for murder and other crimes against Castro rebels fighting the regime of ex-Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The first defendant at the resumed trials was a 15-year Cuban army veteran, ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon, 38, who like Blanco was charged with assassination, homicide and robbery.

A hitch developed at the outset late this afternoon when it turned out that someone had neglected to summon Morejon from La Cabana Fortress, about six miles from the courtroom, and the trial was recessed nearly two hours while he was brought to court.

The 200-seat Hall of Justice in the Superior War Court building at the edge of Camp Libertad (formerly Camp Columbia) was packed with witnesses, reporters and a few persons carrying special permits.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco, who was convicted and sentenced to death in the first Havana revolutionary trial last Friday, and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment —words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled stool pigeons and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Batista claims history will show that he did more for

Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

PERON

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrant comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawk-nosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment?" said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

Repairs Rushed On Dock

Wharf Slipping At Canaveral

More State News, Pages 1B, 1C, 12A

COCOA — Engineers worked swiftly Monday to keep a buckling wharf at Port Canaveral from slipping into the harbor.

The face of the fill-and-bulkhead wharf buckled until the dock facing was as curvy as a snake's back. Parts of it were more than 10 feet out of position.

Engineers Ted Jenson and Willard Arnold explained the buckling probably was the result of "hidden damage," caused by an early December accident in which the SS Tropicana struck the wharf.

After the accident, damage had appeared to be superficial. A few sheet piles, which had been smashed in, were promptly repaired. Later wharf paving collapsed and the dock facing began to buckle.

Jenson and Arnold were at the dock Monday, supervising emplacement of a maze of steel cables, which were intended to hold the buckling dock face temporarily.

They were also supervising excavation of the dock fill in a search for the hidden damage which led to the buckling.

The two said tie rods, which held the dock facing in place, may have been snapped by the collision. They said they didn't know yet what permanent repairs would cost.

The Canaveral Port Authority met on the wharf Monday and approved temporary repairs. Authority members agreed to call for bids on permanent repairs at the regular meeting Wednesday.

The damaged wharf is the only public dock at the 33-foot-deep harbor. The SS Tropicana — which carries orange juice to New York — uses it twice a week.

Oil tankers and freighters also use it three or four times a month.

Wandering Actor's Ex Files Plea

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Sterling Hayden's ex-wife Monday asked a judge to request prosecution of the Tahiti-bound actor on kidnaping, conspiracy and child-neglect charges.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Betty Ann Hayden filed with Superior Judge Emil Gumpert a petition asking:

That Hayden and all adults aboard his schooner Wanderer be held in contempt of court.

That the judge declare the four Hayden children wards of the juvenile court, thus removing them from control of either parent. The court recently denied custody of the three sons and a daughter to Mrs. Hayden.

Judge Gumpert on Jan. 16 warned the 42-year-old actor not to take his children with him on a voyage to Tahiti.

Onslaught of Piercing Cold Hampers Flood Recovery

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather - caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

In Milwaukee, where two men died of heart attacks shoveling snow, the January depth was 24.3 inches — the most since 1951.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sun and a Gentle Wind

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Miami has a brighter outlook for today and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

Whale of a Tale

Where there's a whale, there just seemed no way for these residents of Brigantine, N.J., who tried to pull the beached mammal back into the sea. Ten men threw a lasso around the whale's tail and tugged, but had to give up the struggle. The New York aquarium planned to pick up the animal, which has a gash in its right side apparently made by a ship's propeller.

Mikoyan's Visit Paved The Way, Red Chief Believes

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour by his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovietskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Train Detoured, Engineer Lost

LONDON — (UPI) — The Norwich-London express stopped at Tottenham Monday and the engineer walked back through the cars to inform the passengers: "Sorry, folks, I'm lost."

The train had been shunted onto a detour and the engineer stopped because he was not familiar with the detour. Passengers waited until another train took them aboard. The engineer's name was not made public.

Cyprio Woman Gets 12 Years

NICOSIA, Cyprus — (UPI) — A Greek Cypriot woman was sentenced to 12 years in prison by a British court here Monday after she plead guilty to charges of possessing 79 bombs, five land mines and a large quantity of other explosives.

Mrs. Athina Koumida, 34, admitted ownership of the big cache of explosives.

Gypsies Pray for Prince, 6

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old Gypsy prince fought for life and a throne Monday while tribesmen from all over the south chanted and prayed on the hospital lawn outside.

As the rythmic cries died away, little Larry Mitchell returned to consciousness after a hit-and-run accident — and skull surgery.

Outside his room, the aged king of the gypsies Steve Mitchell—Larry's 87-year-old grandfather—kept a tense and silent vigil.

On the hospital grounds grief turned to hope and even joy as gaily-clad gypsies awaited the child's fate.

They are from the 800-member Russian Gypsy tribe.

"The man hit him and didn't even stop," a soft-voiced woman explained. "But God will punish him. God knows and he will punish."

A stout woman with heavy necklaces and dangling earrings nodded quick agreement.

"We will stay," she said "until he is out of the hospital."

The tiny, dark-haired lad was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, by playmates.

Police and hospital spokesmen theorized he could have suffered lacerations and skull fracture in a hard fall, but he

'Sign or Strike' Campaign Launched Against Hotels

Gold Coast Unions Take the Offensive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A double-barreled "sign-or-strike" drive was opened Monday by two unions against Gold Coast hotels, currently at the height of a money-reaping winter tourist season.

THE HOTEL EMPLOYES UNION reported it has signed a majority of the employes at Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel, long a major hurdle in the union's organizational campaign here.

The union already has asked the National Labor Relations Board to approve an election to certify it as the legal bargaining agent. But the hotel is expected to oppose the move.

THE INTERNATIONAL UNION of operating Engineers announced the launching of an "extensive organizational campaign to include all hotels and motels in this area."

Composed of maintenance workers, the union is presently negotiating with 30 South Florida hotels.

Officials of both unions stated their drives were given impetus by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which lifted a picketing ban against 12 Greater Miami hotels.

In reference to the hotel union's Saxony battle, Local 255 President Dave Herman declared:

"We'll have an election or a picket line."

Ironically, the Saxony was the first hotel struck in April 1955 when the union started a 20-month fight to organize the area's 15,000 hotel workers.

Twenty-three Miami and Miami Beach hotels were struck during the drive, which was eventually slowed down by Florida court injunctions prohibiting picketing.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling of Jan. 12, however, put muscle back into the hotel union's strike threats.

"This is the opening shot in our new drive," Herman commented.

During the past several days there have been uncomfirmed reports that members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is made up of entertainers, have agreed to honor picket lines set up by the hotel union.

Oscar Kohsiek, business agent of Local 491 of the engineers, said that his union is seeking peaceful settlement with the hotels, "but the possible threat of picketing must always be considered by management."

He indicated the engineers union will respect picket lines formed by the hotel union.

Behind the scenes, however, there was a possibility that the two unions may be engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Both unions carry maintenance workers on their rolls.

"There might be a conflict of interest," Herman acknowledged, "but the engineers' union will find we have squatters' rights."

Harrison To Enter Hospital

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Just two days back from the "dead," James E. Harrison made plans Monday to enter Veterans Hospital in Coral Gables for a thorough mental and physical examination, hoping to discover the secret of his 109-day disappearance.

Police in Tennessee and California are still holding two men implicated in a supposed slaying in Jacksonville on about Oct. 7, but have been unable to find the victim.

Harrison, 32, was believed at first to have been the man killed and buried after California convict Roy Olsen, serving time for a slaying, confessed he and another hitchhiker abducted and killed Harrison.

As the puzzling case ground to a standstill Monday, police in Phoenix, Ariz., where Harrison turned up Friday, say no one has identified pictures of Harrison run in Phoenix papers.

Police said that since no one had reported seeing him they speculated he may have been there only a short time — perhaps less than a day.

Harrison said he cannot remember anything between Oct. 7, when he said he was slugged by a hitchhiker, and Friday, when he regained his memory in Phoenix. He had 67 cents in his pocket.

He was found about a 15-minute walk from the city's bus terminal.

"One thing I want to get straight," said Harrison. "I've never bleached my hair."

The forelock of his wavy auburn hair appeared to be a much lighter color, but he said it might have been caused by medicine applied to minor head wounds inflicted by a blow.

Detectives who examined him said they could find no apparent scar from any attack, and said it appeared his hair had been bleached.

Auto Derails Diesel Train

ELK RIVER, Minn. —(AP)— A Seattle-bound Great Northern passenger train derailed Monday after striking a car on an Elk River crossing. The car driver was killed but none of the train passengers or crewmen was reported hurt.

Derailed were the three unit diesel locomotive, a mail-baggage car and three passenger coaches of the 10-car train.

The dead man was identified as Steve Toth Sr., 69, of Elk River.

Four More Years of Draft Loom

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Charles C. Finucane said Monday a four-year extension of the draft is absolutely essential to keep the nation's military strength geared to cold-war needs.

He estimated the armed forces would fall 700,000 to 800,000 men below their required strengths if the draft were allowed to lapse.

Finucane testified as the House Armed Services Committee took up the question of extending the Draft Act, now scheduled to die June 30.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) forecast swift committee approval of the proposal. He said the act is indispensable to U. S. security.

Vinson also announced he would question Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy about an administration decision to cut the Army to 870,000 men despite a congressional finding that its strength should be maintained at 900,000.

Vinson said the action might force Congress to "take a mandatory position" on Army strength.

Freighter Sinks, 8 Men Missing

TARANTO, Italy —(AP)— The 449-ton Italian freighter Laura Gabriella sank Monday in heavy seas between this South Italian port and the Greek island of Baxos. Eight of its crew are missing.

The vessel, which operated between Italy and other Mediterranean countries, carried a crew of 16. The French tanker Rousillo reported picking up eight crewmen.

appeared to have been victim of an auto accident.

The child-prince was rushed to North Shore Hospital. As if by magic, word swept the South.

Caravans of gypsies converged on the hospital lawn, praying and chanting. There were some 100 of them.

They were orderly and polite, but grief-stricken as they moaned their sorrowful songs.

Only when a doctor finally spoke to them and told them Larry was improved were most of them willing to go, leaving a smaller group to keep watch.

By Monday, some had come from as far away as Texas and North Carolina.

"Our tribe reaches as far as Indiana," one handsome, mustached man explained. He lay propped on an elbow, thoughtfully chewing a blade of grass.

Around him some 30 others sat cross-legged, talking in low tones. Still others slept or rested in late model cars.

Sometimes they spoke in an unknown tongue — probably Romany, the Indo-Iranian language. Partially East Indian in origin, gypsies are descendants of people who migrated from India centuries ago.

Some are Catholic — some Greek Orthodox.

"But whatever, if you lift a prayer together, He hears," said a woman sweetly.

There were varying stories on the sick lad's royal standing—but that he was royalty there was no doubt—grandson of King Steve Mitchell—"the old and wise one."

One account had it that the elderly king had 10 children but no male heirs. Another that all the king's 10 children were males — with little Larry's father the eldest.

Children danced on the sidewalk. There was light laughter. The hospital's soft-drink machine got heavy business. And there was coming and going to a nearby restaurant for food.

Though still in critical condition, the prince was better.

Airports Ask More Federal Aid

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Operators of major U.S. airports told Congress Monday that the nation's air transportation system can bog down unless more federal funds are poured into airport facilities.

George Dement, director of public works for Chicago and vice president of the Airport Operators Council, said the cities are in a critical situation in their efforts to meet airport financing problems.

Dement told the Senate aviation subcommittee that the council, including all leading U.S. airports, strongly supports the 575 million dollar federal grant bill sponsored by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D. Okla.).

The Chicago official said a proposal by President Eisenhower for 200 million dollars in grants is welcome because it shows recognition that the airport program should continue, but that the funds are inadequate.

Hawaii Renews Battle

Statehood Vote Seen by Easter

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House might vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has earned the right to fair and equal treatment with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists." He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government."

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Mass. pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood as quickly as possible after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the rules committee.

Hawaii statehood supporters said fast action by the O'Brien group will allow time to force action on the measure if the rules committee attempts to block it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has yet to give a firm commitment for Senate action. But Senate leaders have indicated they also favor speed.

Supporters of Hawaiian statehood stepped aside last year to let the Alaskan bill ease through alone under a gentlemen's agreement which would give Hawaii the nod this year.

Reps. James A. Haley (D., Fla.) and Walter Rogers (D., Tex.) — both Hawaii statehood foes — were the only ones to challenge Seaton Monday. They suggested that Hawaiian statehood would open the door to requests for similar offshore areas.

Haley objected to including a recent subcommittee report in the record until he had read it, and he asked that Seaton be recalled for further questioning at another committee meeting.

"I realize the practical situation," he said, "but I think the chairman could move just a little slower here."

Rogers questioned Seaton about the possible subsequent admission of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other U.S. possessions.

Seaton said that in his mind no other American flag area is presently qualified, and he said he is not aware of any desire for statehood on the part of their residents.

Their Supply Imposes Threat

Soviet Subs Can't Top Us Boat for Boat, Navy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Navy is satisified that Russia's submarines cannot match the performanceof American subs, "boat for boat."

But the great and growing number of submarines that Russia could throw into action worries the Navy considerably.

This two-sided picture was given to the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations. They testified in a closed briefing session.

Part of the testimony was made public. It included the appraisal of the submarine situation and a discussion of the Navy's growing nuclear power. Burke especially sounded alarmed about the Red subs.

Gates said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with a nuclear punch, both from Polaris submarines able to launch missiles from under water and from carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

The Admiral said the Navy will have 113 active submarines by next July 1, but Russia will have about four times as many.

"Of greatest concern to the Navy is their submarine force numbering about 450," Burke said.

"Since World War II the submarine has progressed faster than the anti-submarine warfare capability to combat it," he said.

Burke, said that both major powers knew the other had "the capability of inflicting unacceptable damage on the other."

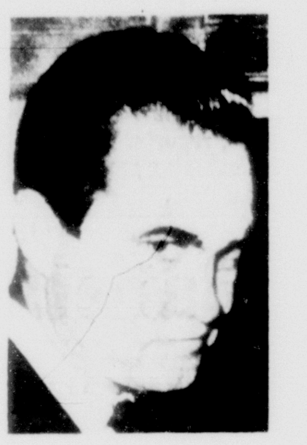
He said world warfare still was possible, but remote, and predicted that "limited wars would be instigated by or exploited by the Soviets to further the policy of constant probing and pressure which characterizes their expansionist efforts."

In Civil Rights Case

Ex-Alabama Judge Spared Jail Term

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(UPI)— A federal judge refused Monday to jail an Alabama official, an old friend who shouted defiance at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, saying he was only trying to create an impression of being defiant.

Actually, District Judge Frank M. Johnson said, the defendant in contempt proceedings — former Circuit Judge George C. Wallace — helped civil rights agents.



George C. Wallace
. . . 'risk my freedom'

Johnson said that "judicially" he did not know why Wallace resorted to "devious means" in attempting to "give the impression that he was defying this court's order . . ."

Wallace claimed the conflict was a test of state vs. federal authority. He said he had been willing to "risk my freedom" in the test.

"These characters from the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall — they were defied and backed down," Wallace said.

But Johnson said that while Wallace, a former schoolmate, used "devious means" in throwing up a smokescreen around efforts to inspect voter records, his actions did not constitute defiance or disobedience.

In Americus, Ga., meanwhile, another federal judge told attorneys for the Justice Department and the Terrell County, (Ga.) board of registrars to submit written briefs in another civil rights case.

The Georgia litigation is the first voter discrimination suit to be filed under the civil rights legislation.

The Georgia county registrars attorneys argued against the constitutionality of the act Monday before Judge T. Hoyt Davis.

They said they worked at least 18 hours a day and had been paid six JMP ($2.30) per month since the commune was organized in September.

Their entire catch, they said, went to the government, whereas before the communes they were allowed to keep 30 per cent. The group escaped in six boats over a two-week period.

Rocks in Bay Costing $600,000 a Year

Shrimpers Shy of Naples

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — Rocks in Naples Bay channel are knocking Naples out of about $600,000 a year in shrimping business. Shrimpers won't risk a $1,500 overhaul job on a valuable shrimp boat just for the right to tie up here.

Bob Combs of the Combs Fish Co. confirmed Monday his firm's 14 boats are now working out of Everglades and four or five other craft have moved to Fort Myers.

"It's the rocks in the channel," said Combs, "but Gordon Pass is all right."

A $25,000 dredging job, financed by local contributions, last summer cleaned out the pass to the Gulf of Mexico, but there have been recent reports it is again filling in. At least one fishing guide agreed with Combs there is as yet no problem in the pass.

A U.S. Corps of Engineers project to clean out the bay channel, at an estimated cost of $331,000, awaits further hearings before government bodies. Estimated time required for government approval was about three years.

Several years ago the channel was cleared by local contributions and further local aid has been promised by a group of Neapolitans headed by J. G. Sample when the federal project is approved.

Developers along the bay have also pumped out large amounts of fill for their subdivisions but have been unable to remove the channel rocks.

Tax Office Error Blamed

Collier Schools in Jam: Budget $57,000 Short

Can't Pay For Naples School Site

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

EVERGLADES — The Collier County School Board is short $57,000 and things look like they'll get worse before they get any better.

Spt. W. D. Reynolds told the board Monday that as a result of an error in the tax assessor's office the board will receive $2,000 less taxes than it budgeted. Furthermore, he said, the same error has given the county commission a bad case of fund shortage so it has indicated it may not pay $35,000 it had pledged the school board under a permissive local act.

The act gave the school board $175,000 to be paid at a rate up to $40,000 a year as replacement for funds pledged for a school in Everglades but used elsewhere in school construction. The school board could not recover the money in increased taxes since it is already levying all the millage it can.

This year the county board asked to cut the gift from $40,000 to $35,000 and the school board budgeted that amount which it may not now get.

Reynolds explained the problem is worse because $34,500 of that sum was planned as the second half payment on a new high school site behind the golf driving range in Naples. The deed is in escrow until the sale is completed.

Board members protested they didn't see how they could get by without the county gift after Reynolds explained the budget's $19,000 contingency fund will now have to go towards the school's own $22,000 and $3,000 more will have to be sought besides.

To make matters a little worse, it is doubtful if an extension on the property payment can now be obtained since it is being held without interest, which the school can't pay anyway. The proposed school can't even have a contract let for tis construction until the county schools have the property deed

When the board began consideration of the site with engineer Bob Wilson they found the 26.5 acres had shrunk by two acres. Wilson explained the total included a 60 foot access strip from the Tamiami Trail "and somebody seems to have included the railroad right of way."

Then Wilson put the topper on the bad news. The City of Naples has been requiring extension of the three north-south streets in the school site area and, if carried out, these would have to be deducted from the total.

As a last blow, Architect Bolton McBryde said there were indications the state may require a $24,000 sand filter sewer system at Immokalee's Bethune School in place of present septic tanks.

Autopsy Awaited

Fisherman Found, Companion Held

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The body of a missing fisherman has been discovered and his companion in a reputed boating accident was taken to Miami Monday by sheriff's investigators for a lie detector test.

The sheriff's office confirmed that a body found Saturday about a half-mile south of Key West was that of the missing Joe Allen Ganey, 25, of 110 Hutchison Lane.

Ganey was reported missing Jan. 17 by a companion, Prince Gabriel, 27, of Fort Village Apts. He told investigators at that time that he and Ganey were fishing when their skiff capsized.

Gabriel clung to the overturned boat and was rescued later about 700 yards off the beach near the Naval Station here.

A sheriff's spokesman said Monday he could not say if foul play were involved in the case until an autopsy report has been received.

He admitted, however, that Gabriel is again being held for investigation. Gabriel was picked up and questioned after the accident was first reported, but released shortly after.

Metro officers in Miami said Monday night that Gabriel had not been given a polygraph examination but would probably be questioned today.

Melons Helped

Michael Lives for Birthday

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — A "mercy trip" from Immokalee Sunday may have helped leukemia victim Michael Simmons live through his seventh birthday.

Michael was reported in fair condition late Monday at Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando, where doctors did not expect him to live through his birthday.

Out-of-season watermelons were rushed to the boy's bed from Carl Washington's fields Sunday by Michael's uncle, Gene Simmons, a Naples printer.

Simmons and another printer, Harold Stewart, drove through the fog Sunday to reach the hospital shortly after midnight with the melons Michael wanted.

"The boy felt a little better when he had the melons," Stewart said when he returned to Naples Monday afternoon. "But the family is just waiting. They do not doubt that Michael will not leave the hospital alive."

Doctors gave up on the leukemia victim once before and said he would not live to see Christmas. But he made it to his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons, Michael's parents, live in Winter Park.

Pamela Dies In Indiana

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (UPI) — Pamela Tomolak, 7, who had three Christmas celebrations last year and a special flight home to South Bend in an Air Force transport from Florida, died Monday.

She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tomolak. Her father in June took a position as a missile instrumentation technician at Cape Canaveral, and some weeks later, at an Orlando hospital, doctors found the child was a cancer victim.

She had become ill just before leaving South Bend, where her father formerly was employed by Bendix.

She was given only six weeks to live. Friends in Florida arranged an early Christmas party, and the parents decided to take her home to South Bend, where she had more friends. A three-man crew from Patrick Air Force Base flew the child here.

At Thanksgiving time Pamela was still alive and another Christmas party was given for her at her grandparents' home here.

At the time of her death, Pamela had 21 dolls, 31 religious statues, and over 1,400 greeting cards from all parts of the country in her room.

Paratrooper Re-Enlists Aboard Sub

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — Without a doubt Sgt. George M. Thomas of Miami is the first paratrooper to reenlist in the Army aboard a submarine.

The 25-year-old paratrooper from the 101st Airborne Division signed up for six more years in the Army Monday aboard the Key West-based sub USS Trutta.

He was officially sworn in by First Lt. Jonathan Nottingham of Company B, 326th Airborne Engineer Battalion of the "Screaming Eagle" division stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky.

A fire-team leader in the division's best rifle squad, Sgt. Thomas is here for a weeks vacation along with more than a hundred other winners of a small unit competition held at Fort Campbell.

After reenlisting, Lt. Nottingham and Sgt. Thomas were taken on a tour of the Trutta and were issued cards making them members of the submarine's Illustrious Order of Submarine Inspectors.

Sgt. Thomas enlisted in the Army in January 1957 and was assigned to the 101st Airborne Division in October of that year.

The Ingraham woman, shot in the left side with a .22 caliber revolver, was reported in good condition Monday at Monroe General Hospital.

KEY WEST — Police Officer Harry Sawyer Monday was designated the outstanding law enforcement officer of the county by the Monroe County Juvenile Council.

A trophy engraved "for distinguished service to the children of Monroe County" was presented to the Key West patrolman in recognition of his work during 1958.

Sawyer, 32, a city policeman since 1954, has worked closely with the juvenile court in the handling of cases involving youngsters. He is married and has three children of his own.

The trophy, 10 inches tall, carries the figure of a child with arms outstretched. It bears the inscription, "A man never stands so straight as when he stoops to help a child."

Wanted in Louisiana

Safecracker Suspect Arrested by Deputy

Herald Bureau

FORT MYERS — A safecracker wanted in Lafayette, La., was picked up at Bonita Springs south of here Sunday when a sheriff's deputy made a routine check on the man's car and found he was wanted.

Sheriff Flanders Thompson said Deputy Bill Sheffield became suspicious of a 1958 Chevrolet convertible driven by Delbert O'Neal, 47, and called for a check on the number. The car and man turned out to be on the Highway Patrol's wanted listed for the Louisiana safe robbery.

Deputy Sheffield and Trooper Bill Payne arrested O'Neal and found he was accompanied by a locksmith from Valparaiso, Fla. The sheriff said the locksmith, Eugene A. Holzhaver, had no idea of the company he was keeping.

In the car the sheriff said was a bag of O'Neal's full of dice and cards, "some of them not straight," and a "magnetized apron," for influencing the spin of a roulette wheel or other wheel of chance.

Sheriff Thompson said Holzhaver reported meeting O'Neal several years ago at Fort Walton Beach when there was gambling in that area.

The sheriff quoted Holzhaver as saying he believed O'Neal was a professional gambler. Holzhaver said he had gotten a ride from Hollywood to the West Coast with O'Neal on Sunday.

The pair had stopped at Bonita Springs to look over the dog track and the beach when the deputy checked the car.

Negro Nursery Sought in Naples

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Plans for establishment of a day nursery for children of working Negro mothers will be considered by the City Council on Wednesday.

The nursery would provide better care for children under school age and keep them from accompanying older brothers and sisters to school. It would also prevent their brothers and sisters having to drop out of school to act as baby-sitters.

The nursery would use the Negro recreation center building behind Carver Negro School and would charge mothers about 75 cents a day for caring for the children. Soup and milk or juice and milk would be provided through help by donations.

Mrs. Eleanor DeWilde of the Naples Welfare Association said plans now call for employment of a Negro woman to handle the nursery at $50 a week, plus a 20 cents a child commission. Contributions from civic groups might be sought to aid the work.

Working with Mrs. DeWilde in planning for the center were Dr. Ethel H. Trygstad, Mrs. Pearl Edwards, health unit nurse, Mrs. Valera Barker, elementary reading consultant, and Bill Clarke, county sanitarian.

A similar nursery is privately operated in Immokalee for children of migrant workers.

FHA Grants Loan Help On Houses

WASHINGTON — The Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal government Monday approved mortgage insurance and other benefits for 75 low cost homes at Cocoa.

Senators Spessard L. Holland and George Smathers and Rep. Sydney Herlong Jr. were advised of the action. The agency approved use of FHA section 221 for the 75 private homes.

The action was necessitated by displacement of families through highway construction and site acquisition for low rent housing projects. Under Section 221 mortgages may be given 100 per cent insurance, to a maximum of $9,000, and 40-year amortization.

Cigaret Tax Pledged to Sewers

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Another step in the process to issue perhaps one million dollars in sanitary sewer revenue certificates was taken Monday by the City Council in a special session.

The council approved an agreement between its present fiscal agent, Chester A. Lucas, of Stein Bros. and Boyce, St. Louis, and Ernest S. Stevens of Sincere and Co., New York.

The agreement pledged all city cigaret tax revenue to sewer revenue certificate use and rescinds the previous cigaret tax pledges to water revenue bonds.

It also rescinded an agreement that Stein Brothers made last month and named Sincere and Co. to handle the new issue at $12.50 for each $1,000 bond.

The certificate issue is planned to refund an old $200,000 issue, pay off $136,000 owed by the sewer fund to the general revenue fund and provide for additional new sewers.

Estimates on the new sewer construction run from $400,000 to 1.25 million dollars. However, the cigaret tax pledge, it was said, would only guarantee a $600,000 revenue issue.

The new sewers would serve a shopping center, planned by Dudley R. Gallahue. Dr. Francis Ford insisted he wanted a written agreement from Gallahue that the shopping center would be built as announced.

The council also received notice "in the most friendly spirit" from C. O. H. Enterprises that the firm was establishing a possible future claim in case the city's proposed public beach lake should contribute to damage to adjoining property in case of storms. C. O. H. Enterprises owns a cooperative apartment and several lots adjoining the beach site.

Jordan, Warren Named by Collins

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins Monday appointed Claude Jordan of Marathon and Leonard Warren of Key West as members of the board of the Monroe County Mosquito Control district.

Jordan replaces Arthur W. Baker and Warren succeeds Edelmire Morales. Baker and Morales resigned, the latter having been appointed Jan. 9 by Collins to fill the unexpired Justice of the Peace for Monroe District 1 of the late Ira Albury.

Sailor Safe After 13-Hour Ordeal

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — An exhausted swimmer staggered ashore here Monday and touched off a successful air and sea search for a disabled yacht.

The yacht's only other crew member was found safe aboard the 65-foot craft which had run out of gas on a voyage from Charleston, S.C., to Fort Pierce.

Fred Leuze, 32, of Columbus, Ga. — a man who "never swam more than the length of the backyard swimming pool before" — fought high seas, felt ocean currents "tugging at" him and dodged sharks for 13 hours before he reached the Cape.

An Air Force plane found the disabled yacht anchored 13 miles north of Leuze's landing point although the swimmer thought he had traveled "only about two miles."

A Marine Salvage Inc. missile recovery boat picked up the yacht and towed in into Port Canaveral. The yacht's owner-skipper, James Bush of Columbus, rode it in.

Leuze said the yacht Cherokee had been "drifting out to sea and had taken a lot of water aboard — I don't know how much" — when he plunged into the ocean about 10 p.m. Sunday.

"We didn't know where we were but the skipper said, 'one of us will have to swim for it,' so I went."

He headed for the Cape Canaveral lighthouse, but Leuze said he didn't know where he was going because of fog.

The swimmer wore an insulated skindiving suit and a life preserver through the swim, "but the suit don't work and the water sure was cold."

"I had a little drum and a plank at first, but the sea took them away from me."

"Two shark fins crossed in front of me near the end, and I kicked something soft . . . . I don't know what it was." The sharks didn't make any passes at the swimmer — that he knew of.

When he reached shore, Leuze collapsed in the surf.

"I fell down three or four times before I got going," he said. "I still didn't know where I was when I got to the highway, but I figured it must lead someplace so I turned south and followed it."

A few minutes walk brought him to the Cape's north gate where guards sounded an alarm for the disabled boat.

Leuze said Bush, of the Bush Development Co. of Fort Pierce, bought Cherokee recently from the Army.

Leuze and Bush refurnished the boat in Charleston, then set out for Fort Pierce Sunday afternoon.

Yacht Sinks, Man Adrift 34 Hours

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Investigation is continuing into the sinking of the $65,000 yacht Whimpy II early Saturday morning off Gomez Key near Cape Romano. The captain, Glenn Roberts of Fort Myers, was rescued after 34 hours on a life raft in the Gulf of Mexico.

Details of the sinking are unclear. Roberts said he left Everglades at 3 p.m. Friday on a trip to Fort Myers, home of the boat's owner, John D. Brooks.

Roberts said he tied up for the night in a mangrove thicket and awoke at 2 a.m. to find the boat awash. He could give no reason for the sinking.

He was rescued by the cruiser Jigmil II about nine and a half miles south of Caxambas light.

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago, you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.
CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.
RUM up 14 per cent.
CORDIALS down 21 per cent.
BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the year's out.

Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.

SYLVIA

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back. "I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell.

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.

Cuba Opens New Trials In Quiet Air

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Says Castro, 16A

Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

HAVANA, Cuba — The Havana war crimes trials reopened Monday night in a small, decorous courtroom setting in striking contrast to the noisy, spectacular first trial scene in the Sports Palace last week. Also, TV and radio coverage now are banned.

The change was ordered by the Castro revolutionary regime after a deluge of foreign criticism over the circus character imparted by the 30,000 loud spectators at the first trial. It ended last Friday at dawn in a verdict of death for ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco for murder and other crimes against Castro rebels fighting the regime of ex-Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The first defendant at the resumed trials was a 15-year Cuban army veteran, ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon, 38, who like Blanco was charged with assassination, homicide and robbery.

A hitch developed at the outset late this afternoon when it turned out that someone had neglected to summon Morejon from La Cabana Fortress, about six miles from the courtroom, and the trial was recessed nearly two hours while he was brought to court.

The 200-seat Hall of Justice in the Superior War Court building at the edge of Camp Libertad (formerly Camp Columbia) was packed with witnesses, reporters and a few persons carrying special permits.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco, who was convicted and sentenced to death in the first Havana revolutionary trial last Friday, and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment —words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled stool pigeons and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Batista claims history will show that he did more for

Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

PERON

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrant comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawk-nosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment?" said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

Broward To Fight Erosion

Legislators Plan Action

More Broward News, Pages 1B, 1C, 12A

By HENRY KINNEY
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Broward County's legislative delegation will attempt to mount a statewide attack on beach erosion in the forthcoming session, according to Rep. A. J. Ryan, but will also be prepared to put through a local bill if necessary.

Erosion is a state problem, he contended, but added: "Our situation here is as critical as any, and we may have to come up with a local bill."

The bill probably will include regulations on construction and zoning along the ocean, Ryan said, as well as applying to protective measures such as seawalls.

He suggested also that an erosion survey of the county by the Coastal Engineering Laboratory of the University of Florida probably should be undertaken, an action which he said "would not be drastically expensive." A survey would indicate what sort of anti-erosion plan the county needs.

"It's really a threat to our economy," Rep.-elect Emerson Allsworth said. "We're losing feet now, not inches.

"There's no question that some action will be taken."

The legislators have not reached a decision, Allsworth said, on the proposal by the Broward League of Municipalities for a county erosion district.

"It would be a separate taxing district," he pointed out, "and for that reason some arguments immediately arise against it."

The question of what aid can be obtained from the state doubtless will be explored, Allsworth indicated.

The city of Pompano Beach already has put the university laboratory to work on a study of its critical erosion problem.

First report on the study, issued last Friday, stated that the city had lost an average of 48 feet between February, 1954, and October, 1957, and at one point as much as 112 feet.

Wandering Actor's Ex Files Plea

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Sterling Hayden's ex-wife Monday asked a judge to request prosecution of the Tahiti-bound actor on kidnaping, conspiracy and child-neglect charges.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Betty Ann Hayden filed with Superior Judge Emil Gumpert a petition asking:

That Hayden and all adults aboard his schooner Wanderer be held in contempt of court.

That the judge declare the four Hayden children wards of the juvenile court, thus removing them from control of either parent. The court recently denied custody of the three sons and a daughter to Mrs. Hayden.

Judge Gumpert on Jan. 16 warned the 42-year-old actor not to take his children with him on a voyage to Tahiti.

Onslaught of Piercing Cold Hampers Flood Recovery

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather-caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

In Milwaukee, where two men died of heart attacks shoveling snow, the January depth was 24.3 inches — the most since 1951.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sun and a Gentle Wind

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Miami has a brighter outlook for today and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

Whale of a Tale

Where there's a whale, there just seemed no way for these residents of Brigantine, N.J., who tried to pull the beached mammal back into the sea. Ten men threw a lasso around the whale's tail and tugged, but had to give up the struggle. The New York aquarium planned to pick up the animal, which has a gash in its right side apparently made by a ship's propeller.

Mikoyan's Visit Paved The Way, Red Chief Believes

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour by his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovietskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Train Detoured, Engineer Lost

LONDON — (UPI) — The Norwich-London express stopped at Tottenham Monday and the engineer walked back through the cars to inform the passengers: "Sorry, folks. I'm lost."

The train had been shunted onto a detour and the engineer stopped because he was not familiar with the detour. Passengers waited until another train took them aboard. The engineer's name was not made public.

Cyprio Woman Gets 12 Years

NICOSIA, Cyprus — (UPI) — A Greek Cypriot woman was sentenced to 12 years in prison by a British court here Monday after she plead guilty to charges of possessing 79 bombs, five land mines and a large quantity of other explosives.

Mrs. Athina Koumida, 34, admitted ownership of the big cache of explosives.

Gypsies Pray for Prince, 6

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old Gypsy prince fought for life and a throne Monday while tribesmen from all over the south chanted and prayed on the hospital lawn outside.

As the rythmic cries died away, little Larry Mitchell returned to consciousness after a hit-and-run accident — and skull surgery.

Outside his room, the aged king of the gypsies Steve Mitchell—Larry's 87-year-old grandfather—kept a tense and silent vigil.

On the hospital grounds grief turned to hope and even joy as gaily-clad gypsies awaited the child's fate.

They are from the 800-member Russian Gypsy tribe.

"The man hit him and didn't even stop," a soft-voiced woman explained. "But God will punish him. God knows and he will punish."

A stout woman with heavy necklaces and dangling earrings nodded quick agreement.

"We will stay," she said "until he is out of the hospital."

The tiny, dark-haired lad was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, by playmates.

Police and hospital spokesmen theorized he could have suffered lacerations and skull fracture in a hard fall, but he

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago, you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.

CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.

RUM up 14 per cent.

CORDIALS down 21 per cent.

BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the year's out.

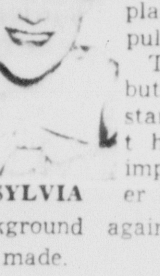
Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.



SYLVIA

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back. "I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell.

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.

Cuba Opens New Trials In Quiet Air

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Says Castro, 16A

Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

HAVANA, Cuba — The Havana war crimes trials reopened Monday night in a small, decorous courtroom setting in striking contrast to the noisy, spectacular first trial scene in the Sports Palace last week. Also, TV and radio coverage now are banned.

The change was ordered by the Castro revolutionary regime after a deluge of foreign criticism over the circus character imparted by the 30,000 loud spectators at the first trial. It ended last Friday at dawn in a verdict of death for ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco for murder and other crimes against Castro rebels fighting the regime of ex-Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The first defendant at the resumed trials was a 15-year Cuban army veteran, ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon, 38, who like Blanco was charged with assassination, homicide and robbery.

A hitch developed at the outset late this afternoon when it turned out that someone had neglected to summon Morejon from La Cabana Fortress, about six miles from the courtroom, and the trial was recessed nearly two hours while he was brought to court.

The 200-seat Hall of Justice in the Superior War Court building at the edge of Camp Libertad (formerly Camp Columbia) was packed with witnesses, reporters and a few persons carrying special permits.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco, who was convicted and sentenced to death in the first Havana revolutionary trial last Friday, and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment —words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled stool pigeons and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Batista claims history will show that he did more for

Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

PERON

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrant comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawk-nosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment?" said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

Broward To Fight Erosion

Legislators Plan Action

More Broward News, Pages 1B, 1C, 12A

By HENRY KINNEY
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Broward County's legislative delegation will attempt to mount a statewide attack on beach erosion in the forthcoming session, according to Rep. A. J. Ryan, but will also be prepared to put through a local bill if necessary.

Erosion is a state problem, he contended, but added: "Our situation here is as critical as any, and we may have to come up with a local bill."

The bill probably will include regulations on construction and zoning along the ocean, Ryan said, as well as applying to protective measures such as seawalls.

He suggested also that an erosion survey of the county by the Coastal Engineering Laboratory of the University of Florida probably should be undertaken, an action which he said "would not be drastically expensive." A survey would indicate what sort of anti-erosion plan the county needs.

"It's really a threat to our economy," Rep.-elect Emerson Allsworth said. "We're losing feet now, not inches.

"There's no question that some action will be taken."

The legislators have not reached a decision, Allsworth said, on the proposal by the Broward League of Municipalities for a county erosion district.

"It would be a separate taxing district," he pointed out, "and for that reason some arguments immediately arise against it."

The question of what aid can be obtained from the state doubtless will be explored, Allsworth indicated.

The city of Pompano Beach already has put the university laboratory to work on a study of its critical erosion problem.

First report on the study, issued last Friday, stated that the city had lost an average of 48 feet between February, 1954, and October, 1957, and at one point as much as 112 feet.

Wandering Actor's Ex Files Plea

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Sterling Hayden's ex-wife Monday asked a judge to request prosecution of the Tahiti-bound actor on kidnaping, conspiracy and child-neglect charges.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Betty Ann Hayden filed with Superior Judge Emil Gumpert a petition asking:

That Hayden and all adults aboard his schooner Wanderer be held in contempt of court.

That the judge declare the four Hayden children wards of the juvenile court, thus removing them from control of either parent. The court recently denied custody of the three sons and a daughter to Mrs. Hayden.

Judge Gumpert on Jan. 16 warned the 42-year-old actor not to take his children with him on a voyage to Tahiti.

Onslaught of Piercing Cold Hampers Flood Recovery

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather-caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

In Milwaukee, where two men died of heart attacks shoveling snow, the January depth was 24.3 inches — the most since 1951.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sun and a Gentle Wind

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Miami has a brighter outlook for today and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

Mikoyan's Visit Paved The Way, Red Chief Believes

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour by his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovietskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Gypsies Pray for Prince, 6

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old Gypsy prince fought for life and a throne Monday while tribesmen from all over the south chanted and prayed on the hospital lawn outside.

As the rythmic cries died away, little Larry Mitchell returned to consciousness after a hit-and-run accident — and skull surgery.

Outside his room, the aged king of the gypsies Steve Mitchell—Larry's 87-year-old grandfather—kept a tense and silent vigil.

On the hospital grounds grief turned to hope and even joy as gaily-clad gypsies awaited the child's fate.

They are from the 800-member Russian Gypsy tribe.

"The man hit him and didn't even stop," a soft-voiced woman explained. "But God will punish him. God knows and he will punish."

A stout woman with heavy necklaces and dangling earrings nodded quick agreement.

"We will stay," she said "until he is out of the hospital."

The tiny, dark-haired lad was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, by playmates.

Police and hospital spokesmen theorized he could have suffered lacerations and skull fracture in a hard fall, but he

'Sign or Strike' Campaign Launched Against Hotels

Gold Coast Unions Take the Offensive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

A double-barreled "sign-or-strike" drive was opened Monday by two unions against Gold Coast hotels, currently at the height of a money-reaping winter tourist season.

THE HOTEL EMPLOYES UNION reported it has signed a majority of the employes at Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel, long a major hurdle in the union's organizational campaign here.

The union already has asked the National Labor Relations Board to approve an election to certify it as the legal bargaining agent. But the hotel is expected to oppose the move.

THE INTERNATIONAL UNION of operating Engineers announced the launching of an "extensive organizational campaign to include all hotels and motels in this area."

Composed of maintenance workers, the union is presently negotiating with 50 South Florida hotels.

Officials of both unions stated their drives were given impetus by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which lifted a picketing ban against 12 Greater Miami hotels.

In reference to the hotel union's Saxony battle, Local 255 President Dave Herman declared:

"We'll have an election or a picket line."

Ironically, the Saxony was the first hotel struck in April 1955 when the union started a 20-month fight to organize the area's 15,000 hotel workers.

Twenty-three Miami and Miami Beach hotels were struck during the drive, which was eventually slowed down by Florida court injunctions prohibiting picketing.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling of Jan. 12, however, put muscle back into the hotel union's strike threats.

"This is the opening shot in our new drive," Herman commented.

During the past several days there have been uncomfirmed reports that members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is made up of entertainers, have agreed to honor picket lines set up by the hotel union.

Oscar Kolsiek, business agent of Local 491 of the engineers, said that his union is seeking peaceful settlement with the hotels, "but the possible threat of picketing must always be considered by management."

He indicated the engineers union will respect picket lines formed by the hotel union.

Behind the scenes, however, there was a possibility that the two unions may be engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Both unions carry maintenance workers on their rolls.

"There might be a conflict of interest," Herman acknowledged, "but the engineers' union will find we have squatters' rights."

Harrison To Enter Hospital

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Just two days back from the "dead," James E. Harrison made plans Monday to enter Veterans Hospital in Coral Gables for a thorough mental and physical examination, hoping to discover the secret of his 109-day disappearance.

Police in Tennessee and California are still holding two men implicated in a supposed slaying in Jacksonville on about Oct. 7, but have been unable to find the victim.

Harrison, 32, was believed at first to have been the man killed and buried after California convict Roy Olsen, serving time for a slaying, confessed he and another hitchhiker abducted and killed Harrison.

As the puzzling case ground to a standstill Monday, police in Phoenix, Ariz., where Harrison turned up Friday, say no one has identified pictures of Harrison run in Phoenix papers.

Police said that since no one had reported seeing him they speculated he may have been there only a short time — perhaps less than a day.

Harrison said he cannot remember anything between Oct. 7, when he said he was slugged by a hitchhiker, and Friday, when he regained his memory in Phoenix. He had 67 cents in his pocket.

He was found about a 15-minute walk from the city's bus terminal.

"One thing I want to get straight," said Harrison. "I've never bleached my hair."

The forelock of his wavy auburn hair appeared to be a much lighter color, but he said it might have been caused by medicine applied to minor head wounds inflicted by a blow.

Detectives who examined him said they could find no apparent scar from any attack, and said it appeared his hair had been bleached.

Four More Years of Draft Loom

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Charles C. Finucane said Monday a four-year extension of the draft is absolutely essential to keep the nation's military strength geared to cold-war needs.

He estimated the armed forces would fall 700,000 to 800,000 men below their required strengths if the draft were allowed to lapse.

Finucane testified as the House Armed Services Committee took up the question of extending the Draft Act, now scheduled to die June 30.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) forecast swift committee approval of the proposal. He said the act is indispensable to U. S. security.

Vinson also announced he would question Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy about an administration decision to cut the Army to 870,000 men despite a congressional finding that its strength should be maintained at 900,000.

Vinson said the action might force Congress to "take a mandatory position" on Army strength.

Gypsies Await Fate Of Little Prince

appeared to have been victim of an auto accident.

The child-prince was rushed to North Shore Hospital. As if by magic, word swept the South.

Caravans of gypsies converged on the hospital lawn, praying and chanting. There were some 100 of them.

They were orderly and polite, but grief-stricken as they moaned their sorrowful songs.

Only when a doctor finally spoke to them and told them Larry was improved were most of them willing to go, leaving a smaller group to keep watch.

By Monday, some had come from as far away as Texas and North Carolina.

"Our tribe reaches as far as Indiana," one handsome, mustached man explained. He lay propped on an elbow, thoughtfully chewing a blade of grass.

Around him some 30 others sat cross-legged, talking in low tones. Still others slept or rested in late model cars.

Sometimes they spoke in an unknown tongue — probably Romany, the Indo-Iranian language. Partially East Indian in origin, gypsies are descendants of people who migrated from India centuries ago.

Some are Catholic — some Greek Orthodox.

"But whatever, if you lift a prayer together, He hears," said a woman sweetly.

There were varying stories on the sick lad's royal standing—but that he was royalty there was no doubt—grandson of King Steve Mitchell—"the old and wise one."

One account had it that the elderly king had 10 children but no male heirs. Another that all the king's 10 children were males — with little Larry's father the eldest.

Children danced on the sidewalk. There was light laughter. The hospital's soft-drink machine got heavy business. And there was coming and going to a nearby restaurant for food.

Though still in critical condition, the prince was better.

Airports Ask More Federal Aid

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Operators of major U.S. airports told Congress Monday that the nation's air transportation system can bog down unless more federal funds are poured into airport facilities.

George Dement, director of public works for Chicago and vice president of the Airport Operators Council, said the cities are in a critical situation in their efforts to meet airport financing problems.

Dement told the Senate aviation subcommittee that the council, including all leading U.S. airports, strongly supports the 575 million dollar federal grant bill sponsored by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D. Okla.).

The Chicago official said a proposal by President Eisenhower for 200 million dollars in grants is welcome because it shows recognition that the airport program should continue, but that the funds are inadequate.

The dead man was identified as Steve Toth Sr., 69, of Elk River.

Hawaii Renews Battle

Statehood Vote Seen by Easter

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House might vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has earned the right to fair and equal treatment with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists." He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government."

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Mass. pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood as quickly as possible after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the rules committee.

Hawaii statehood supporters said fast action by the O'Brien group will allow time to force action on the measure if the rules committee attempts to block it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has yet to give a firm commitment for Senate action. But Senate leaders have indicated they also favor speed.

Supporters of Hawaiian statehood stepped aside last year to let the Alaskan bill ease through alone under a gentlemen's agreement which would give Hawaii the nod this year.

Reps. James A. Haley (D., Fla.) and Walter Rogers (D., Tex.) — both Hawaii statehood foes — were the only ones to challenge Seaton Monday. They suggested that Hawaiian statehood would open the door to requests for similar offshore areas.

Haley objected to including a recent subcommittee report in the record until he had read it, and he asked that Seaton be recalled for further questioning at another committee meeting.

"I realize the practical situation," he said, "but I think the chairman could move just a little slower here."

Rogers questioned Seaton about the possible subsequent admission of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other U.S. possessions.

Seaton said that in his mind no other American flag area is presently qualified, and he said he is not aware of any desire for statehood on the part of their residents.

Their Supply Imposes Threat

Soviet Subs Can't Top Us Boat for Boat, Navy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Navy is satisified that Russia's submarines cannot match the performanceof American subs, "boat for boat."

But the great and growing number of submarines that Russia could throw into action worries the Navy considerably.

This two-sided picture was given to the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations. They testified in a closed briefing session.

Part of the testimony was made public. It included the appraisal of the submarine situation and a discussion of the Navy's growing nuclear power. Burke especially sounded alarmed about the Red subs.

Gates said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with a nuclear punch, both from Polaris submarines able to launch missiles from under water and from carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

The Admiral said the Navy will have 113 active submarines by next July 1, but Russia will have about four times as many.

"Of greatest concern to the Navy is their submarine force numbering about 450," Burke said.

"Since World War II the submarine has progressed faster than the anti-submarine warfare capability to combat it," he said.

Burke said that both major powers knew the other had "the capability of inflicting unacceptable damage on the other."

He said world warfare still was possible, but remote, and predicted that "limited wars would be instigated by or exploited by the Soviets to further the policy of constant probing and pressure which characterizes their expansionist efforts."

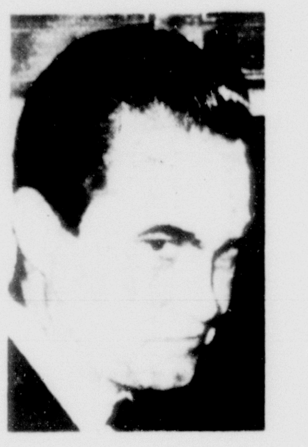
In Civil Rights Case

Ex-Alabama Judge Spared Jail Term

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(UPI)— A federal judge refused Monday to jail an Alabama official, an old friend who shouted defiance at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, saying he was only trying to create an impression of being defiant.

Actually, District Judge Frank M. Johnson said, the defendant in contempt proceedings — former Circuit Judge George C. Wallace — helped civil rights agents.

Johnson said that "judicially" he did not know why Wallace resorted to "devious means" in attempting to "give the impression that he was defying this court's order . . ."



George C. Wallace
. . . 'risk my freedom'

Wallace claimed the conflict was a test of state vs. federal authority. He said he had been willing to "risk my freedom" in the test.

"These characters from the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall — they were defied and backed down," Wallace said.

But Johnson said that while Wallace, a former schoolmate, used "devious means" in throwing up a smokescreen around efforts to inspect voter records, his actions did not constitute defiance or disobedience.

In Americus, Ga., meanwhile, another federal judge told attorneys for the Justice Department and the Terrell County, (Ga.) board of registrars to submit written briefs in another civil rights case.

The Georgia litigation is the first voter discrimination suit to be filed under the civil rights legislation.

The Georgia county registrars attorneys argued against the constitutionality of the act Monday before Judge T. Hoyt Davis.

LONDON — (UPI) — John Trevelyan, secretary of the British board of film censors, said Monday he was passing scenes now which would have been banned a few years ago.

"I just love the little frolics of Brigitte Bardot," he said. "But nudist camps? No."

Just Work And No Pay

HONG KONG—(AP)—Spokesman for 116 Chinese fishermen who escaped from a people's commune in Kwangtung Province earlier this month said Monday they fled communism because they were underpaid and overworked.

They said they worked at least 18 hours a day and had been paid six JMP ($2.30) per month since the commune was organized in September.

Their entire catch, they said, went to the government, whereas before the communes they were allowed to keep 30 per cent. The group escaped in six boats over a two-week period.

National Summary

Warm air flowed over the south to raise temperatures to the 60s from east Texas to North Carolina by midday while cold winds probed deep into the country to extend freezing weather from Oklahoma across the mid Mississippi Valley to the mid Atlantic states.

Light snowfall over the plains reached scattered areas in the Mississippi Valley but the southern fringe of the cold mound developed freezing drizzle through Oklahoma and southern Kansas into Missouri and along the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

The cold air will continue to crowd southward through the eastern and central states with freezing temperatures into Virginia and southern Appalachians and into the northern sections of the Gulf states on Tuesday morning.

Rain will precede north winds into the southeastern states with freezing spreading more ice in a band from Arkansas to the Chesapeake Bay area.

The bulk of the cold air spread from the Great Lakes to the northern Rockies will give 20 below readings in northern Minnesota and zeros into northern Iowa.

An Answer For a Quirk

The Social Security law has some interesting quirks. A man who is a self-employed consultant on electrical construction complained the other day that, although he's past 65, he couldn't draw Social Security payments except at the end of each year, by proving that he had not earned more than $1,200 that year.

It's not exactly that way, Manager Paul Byrley at the local SS office says. The man may draw monthly benefits during the year if he wants to; however, if by the end of the year he has earned more than he should, he has to pay back the benefits.

The office recommends that in such casses the individual wait until the year is up and then apply for benefits for the months in which he did not earn anything. This policy is based on the reasoning that it's easier for an ordinary human being to collect money than to pay it back. Moreover, if he should die while owing the SS office money, his widow couldn't start collecting benefits until she paid what he owed . . .

* * *

There Must Be an Answer for This

IN THE COURSE of this little investigation, another little-known fact about old age benefits was brought out:

The person who is self-employed or owns a business may earn as much money as he pleases if he works only part of the year, and collect benefits for the rest of the year. For example, a man who owns a South Florida restaurant which is open only during the winter may earn $50,000 while it's open, but after it closes he starts getting benefits again.

There are several hundred Broward countians in this category . . .

Vets Could Help Foot Chapel Cost

AS SOME ONE REMARKED a few days ago, what would Fort Lauderdale have ever done without the War Memorial Auditorium? Raising the money and getting it built was quite a task for the community of 1949—with about 35,000 people.

The war veterans can hardly be blamed for becoming impatient over the chapel. Almost from the day it was opened, they've been trying to get one small corner of it set off and furnished as a sanctuary honoring the war dead.

Maybe the City Commission would be more sympathetic if the veterans' organizations were to offer to raise part of the cost . . .

Top-Notch Harmony on Tap

WARFIELD PARK in Fort Lauderdale was named for S. Davies Warfield, who was president of the Seaboard Railroad during the 1920's, in gratitude for lands which he gave to the county school system, Harley Cram recalls. Here again memory is dim, but Harley thinks the railroad gave the county a quarter of a section of land, which would have been 160 acres, for school purposes . . .

There'll be two former International champion quartets on the bill when the Fort Lauderdale barbershoppers hold their 10th annual Festival of Harmony at the War Memorial March 3. One will be the Mid-States Four of Chicago and the other the Confederates from Memphis. All told there'll be six quartets, Chief Leidig reports, plus the district championship Fort Lauderdale chorus . . .

20 Zoom to Death: Quail Latest Victims

Suicidal Birds Bombard Concrete Home

By RICK TUTTLE
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Charles Weber of 1138 Johnson St. has bird trouble.

Not the ordinary kinds — birds waking him up at 6 a.m. . . . birds eating his grass seed . . . birds being birds.

He has a first-class mystery on his hands.

The west side of his house has become a target for apparent suicide flights.

The latest one occurred Sunday at dusk.

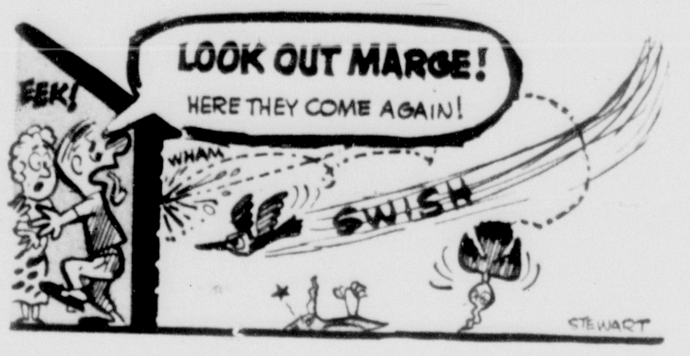
He was eating supper and strange thumping sounds came from the west wall. Nothing had fallen inside the house, so he stepped outside to investigate.

There, beside the west wall, lay six dead quail.

They had smashed themselves to death, apparently by flying directly into the wall.

Weber wasn't overly surprised.

Dead birds have been turning up beside the same wall ever since he moved in six months ago. There have been about 20 "suicides" so far.



LOOK OUT MARGE! HERE THEY COME AGAIN!
EEK!

"We never found this many at one time," he said.

This was the first time the white, concrete-block home had bagged quail, too.

The other dead birds were mostly sparrows and mocking birds.

Vacant lots flank Weber's home to the east and West, but no birds have done away with themselves on the east side.

Weber hadn't heard the birds crash into the wall until Sunday.

The Webers had discovered the other suicides while carrying out garbage or laundry.

"That is strange," said Dr. Henry Leigh, chairman of the Zoology Department, University of Miami.

"There are a lot of theories about this sort of occurrence but I don't believe anyone has proven the cause."

Frank J. Ligas, of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said the birds might be mistaking the white wall for a patch of light sky.

But why not other white houses?

Dr. Leigh said he would refer the suicides to Oscar Owre, university ornitholgist, as soon as the bird expert returns from an African expedition he is leading.

Meanwhile, Weber will have to bat around his own theories.

194,400 Eggs Spilled Out As This Tractor Trailer Hit Ditch

Trailer Crash Pans Out OK; No 190,000 Egg Omelet

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two men and about 190,000 eggs escaped injury Monday when a tractor-trailer plunged into a ditch on State Rd. 7 just south of Sunrise Blvd.

Trooper H. C. Lockwood said the truck, on its way to Miami from Lakeland, swerved off the road to avoid hitting a car in front. It landed on its side.

Driver Robert Perrine, 26, clambered out unhurt just before leaking gas ignited, setting fire to the front end.

The truck carried 540 cases, Lockwood said, with 30 dozen eggs in each — a total of 194,000.

Although some of the cases burst open, the warmth of the sun appeared likely to harm them more than the upset.

The Plantation and Rock Island Volunteer Fire Departments controlled the fire in about 30 minutes, preventing a gas tank explosion.

Guy Williams of Pompano Beach was the driver of the car ahead. Lockwood said no one would be charged.

The accident occurred about 9:15 a.m. Lockwood estimated the truck's speed at 20 to 25 miles an hour.

Owned by Hill and Hill, of Lakeland, it was written off as an $18,000 loss. The eggs were valued at $8,100.

Troopers Complain of Intersection

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — Highway Patrol Sgt. John Hicks said Monday that the State Road Department has been asked to make a safety survey of the State Rd. 7 and Sunrise Blvd. intersection.

"It's a bad corner," he said.

Two women were killed there last month in a three-vehicle collision. Nearby residents said they've called in about 25 accidents in the last year.

"We ask the SRD in Tallahassee to act whenever we feel there's a need for an engineering improvement," Hicks said. "We've already pointed out the need for this intersection."

Bookie Cases Are Dropped

FORT LAUDERDALE — Court of Crimes Judge Thomas Tompkins ruled Monday that bookmaking suspect Eddie Page, 37, of 1014 NW 15th St., could not be tried here on the same charge he'd already faced in Palm Beach County.

The ruling also freed Clarence Roubik, 59, of 515 W. Las Olas Blvd. Both men were charged with conspiracy.

Knapp Awaits Decision

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

MIRAMAR—Charles Knapp, who bowed out as mayor after four days in office, said Monday he would reconsider his resignation if the Town Council requested it.

Meanwhile, Knapp's return from a weekend in the Keys, sparked a growing movement for his reinstatement.

Residents backing his remaining in office, charged that he was "high-pressured" into resigning by a small minority of "sour losers."

Knapp resigned last week and drove to the Keys with his wife. He could not be reached for an explanation of the surprising course he chose.

Monday he told The Herald: "I would like to see this controversy die out. It has brought adverse publicity to Miramar and created an atmosphere that is unhealthy for the town."

He said he resigned because the heated battle that followed his municipal appointments threatened to "completely disrupt the work of the new council."

"If my resignation ends the dispute I prefer to stay out," Knapp said.

He added that he had taken his wife to the Keys for the weekend because of the talk of a recall against him and Councilman P. D. Kennedy. He said it had been "injurious to Mrs. Knapp's health." He said his wife had not been well for some months.

Last Monday's installation ceremonies exploded when Knapp appointed David Mericle to replace Buddy Arbuckle as building inspector.

Two council members opposed the appointments, along with residents in the audience.

"It's up to the council now to stop Knapp's resignation," said Carl F. Elliot, treasurer of the Miramar Committee for Good Government.

The council will consider Knapp's resignation next Monday at its first meeting.

One of Knapp's opponents in the mayoralty race, Manuel Meritzer, who is also a leader in the Good Government Committee, said:

"There has been too much bold intimidation of the new council by a small group of sour losers."

"I've talked to a large number of people — most of them well-known leaders in our community — and they all want to see Knapp reconsider. I believe he will."

Warrant Too Late; Suspect's Long Gone

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Embezzlement suspect Allen S. Fowler had left for Detroit when Sheriff's Deputy Sam Hartland arrived at his North Andrews Gardens home at noon Monday to arrest him.

Fowler's attorney, Ken Stevens, said later that his client will voluntarily face arraignment in Detroit this morning.

A warrant charging the retired credit union manager with embezzlement was issued in Detroit Friday. It did not get here until Monday.

Some $125,000 in union funds is reported missing. Fowler, 69, who managed the union for 18 years, declared he is innocent. His home is at 4761 NE First Ave.

Detroit police criticized local law officers for not picking Fowler up Friday.

Ben Grigsby, sheriff's chief criminal investigator, criticized them in return for not flying an officer down with the warrant the same day.

Limousine Firm Quits At Airport

By DUANE JONES and ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writers

FORT LAUDERDALE — Miami's Red Top Cab Co. retreated under fire Monday and suspended plans to operate a limousine service to Broward International Airport.

The company pulled out Monday after Miami Circuit Court Judge Harold Vann told Red Top it would have to honor a union contract Greyhound Limousine Service had with its drivers. Greyhound sold Red Top its operating certificate last week.

A union official, W. O. Frazier, immediately instructed Greyhound's old union drivers to go back to work, using their own cars and giving free courtesy service. Frazier is president of local 1267 of the Amalgamated Street Car and Motor Coach Employes of America.

He said that on Feb. 9 the union will file an objection to transfer of the title to Red Top before the State Railroad Commission.

Meanwhile County Commission Chairman George B. Petersen predicted a local concern will be given the franchise vacated by Greyhound.

Petersen said the board's airport committee has several applications from local firms on file, and asserted one will get the job.

He indicated that Red Top, which assumed the service Saturday when Greyhound canceled its franchise, won't be considered.

"We want to retain good relations with Dade County, but this is a matter in which Broward County firms should be given first priority," Petersen added.

Lee Wagener, airport manager, is to review the matter at a commission meeting today.

Petersen said the Red Top firm would have to go through proper channels — that it would have to file an application with the airport committee.

2 Cab Firms 'Interested'

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two local cab companies said Monday they are "interested" in securing the franchise to operate limousine service to Broward International Airport.

Spokesmen for the White Top Cab Co. and the Independent Taxi Owners Association said they will have representatives present at the county commission meeting today to discuss the franchise.

S. C. Bond, president of Independent, said, "we're definitely interested in bidding for the franchise."

Legislator Tackles Loophole

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Law enforcement officials are finding it hard to prosecute a man who incorporates his business, even when he's the sole owner and only officer.

"It is extremely difficult to convict an officer of a corporation for what he does when acting for his corporation," said County Solicitor Thomas W. Coker Monday.

The difficulty became apparent again last week when Criminal Court Judge Louis Weissing ordered a directed verdict of acquittal for a contractor, Robert M. Ludwig.

State Rep. Emerson Allsworth said Monday that a legislative interim committee is preparing legislation which will make a contractor criminally responsible when he fails to use money paid him by a home buyer to pay off subcontractors and materials suppliers on the buyer's home.

Allsworth is sure such legislation will make a contractor liable even when he has incorporated his business. If this doesn't plug the loophole, he said he will introduce another bill on the subject.

A Plantation Park home buyer, Robert Hellyer, said Ludwig failed to pay bills from subcontractors and suppliers amounting to more than $17,000. Ludwig's company, Ludco Builders Inc., has since gone into bankruptcy. Hellyer and the subcontractors are unable to recover money from him.

In granting a motion for a directed verdict, Judge Weissing ruled that Ludco, not Ludwig, was the contractor. Judge Weissing was following a ruling made in November by the District Court of Appeals in Lakeland involving another Broward builder, Leo Fiske of Lighthouse Point.

$30,000 Loot Recovered

Wide Search Pressed For Theft Suspect

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Mrs. Minnielou Yerk Terrere Dietsch, 43, 1516 Garfield St., Hollywood, was charged Monday with receiving stolen property after a police search of the Dietsch home turned up $30,000 worth of furs and jewelry.

Her husband, Jack Dietsch, 42, fled the house through the back door after inviting detectives in to search it late Sunday night. A statewide alarm has been broadcast for him. He is charged on two counts of breaking and entering to commit grand larceny.

Mrs. Dietsch is free from County Jail under $2,000 bond.

Dietsch has been under surveillance for several weeks by Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale police. The latter suspect he is linked with a large number of four and jewelry thefts here.

Jack Dietsch
. . . object of manhunt

The search Sunday turned up about $12,000 worth of furs and jewelry stolen here Sunday. They were received before the owners reported their loss.

C. R. Hudson, 2508 SE 21st St., and Walter L Jaeckel, 2504 SE 21st St., identified property taken from their homes. Also recovered were $1,640 worth of furs and jewelry stolen earlier Sunday from the Pompano Beach apartment of H. P. Pratt, Palm Club, State Rd. A1A, and other as yet unidentified property.

Hollywood detectives went to the Dietsch home Sunday after a call from Dade Metro Detective Bill Jackson who said two men suspected of robbing the Chateau Resort Motel, Collins Ave., were believed living at the address.

Dietsch is described as being five feet, 11 inches tall, weighing 185 pounds, and having hazel eyes. No description was given of his accomplice.

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago, you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.
CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.
RUM up 14 per cent.
CORDIALS down 21 per cent.
BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the year's out.

Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.

SYLVIA

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back.

"I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell.

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.

My Answer

Sin Is Condition Of Man's Heart

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: Will you explain the verses in Matthew 18:8-9 where Jesus said that if your hand offends thee, cut it off, or if your eye offends thee, pluck it out? I have often wondered why He would say that, because I don't see how such action would solve any problem.

ANSWER: Our Lord had many ways of teaching. Sometimes He spoke in parables, sometimes He employed the dialectic method, and sometimes He would teach truth by mentioning the impossible.

GRAHAM

Anyone would know, when listening to a statement such as the one mentioned, that a person with sinful tendencies would never eliminate them by cutting off a part of the body. If sin can be localized, then it would be well to do it that way.

But sin is a condition of man's heart. Even when there is no outward appearance of sin, a person may have a very wicked heart. His desires may be totally evil, but lacking either courage or opportunity he may outwardly avoid outbroken wickedness.

The Bible says that, "A man's heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." (Jeremiah 17:9) That is why God must give a new heart to the wicked, and in so doing, make them disposed to do good and not evil.

God said, "I will take the stony heart out of the flesh and will give them a heart of flesh that they may walk in my statutes." (Ezekiel 11:19-20).

Why Not Steal Things? It's Their Own Factory

BUDAPEST — (UPI) — The Hungarian Communist Party organ Nepszabadsag has frowned on the view of many workers that they can steal as much as they want because the factories belong to them.

The newspaper said the investigation of large-scale thefts and embezzlements recently showed the heads of companies not only condoned the stealing but even tried to cover up for it when legal action was taken.

Loss Rate on Driving Permits Still Gaining

Chronic Violators Under Fire

By HENRY KINNEY
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Some 537 Broward County motorists lost their drivers' licenses by revocation or suspension during November and December, and the rate of loss is climbing.

In November, 182 licenses were taken away, and in December, 355.

Moreover, Sgt. John Hicks of the Florida Highway Patrol office said an increasing number of drivers are getting longer suspension periods.

The first suspension usually is for three months; most of these cases involve motorists who have been convicted of moving, hazardous violations within a period of 12 months.

However, anyone who has had a three-months suspension and is convicted of two more traffic violations of any kind within the next six months may lose his license for up to five months.

"We're getting the repeaters now," Hicks commented.

Nearly all of the revocations were for driving while intoxicated.

A November list supplied by the State Department of Public Safety shows 126 suspensions and 56 revocations. The December figure, on file at the local office, is not broken down as to suspensions and revocations. Hicks said, however, that the proportions probably would be about the same as in November.

This indicates that there were about 375 suspensions during the two months.

Case Studied

FORT LAUDERDALE police said they will confer today with County Solicitor Thomas M. Coker Jr. about filing two charges of receiving stolen property against Donald (Porky) Baines, 31, 3939 N. Federal Hwy. The charges involve the alleged sale by Baines of two stolen television sets.

Answer Due On Salvino

Herald Bureau

HOLLYWOOD — City Manager Joseph W. Watson and Mayor E. L. McMorrough are expected to report today on applications the city has received for the job of coordinator on the Sheridan St. bridge project.

McMorrough recommended former County Commissioner Tony Salvino for the job last Tuesday, but the commission did not appoint him.

Watson said he had received two applications, one from Col. A. B. Jones, an engineer who has worked with the U.S. Corps of Engineers in this district; the other from Paul C. Vyff, also an engineer.

What is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as the "Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astonishing Booklet which is a great step forward toward the answer to this question. The search for clues led to a prolonged study of all the great religions of the world, until at last a surprising new light was thrown upon the entire subject of prayer.

In this new light, even the well known Lord's Prayer acquires astonishing new meanings. Hidden between the lines are deep significances and wonderful truths that do not appear in the words alone. The free booklet points these out and is entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer."

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement of power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise. These strange methods were found in the Far East, where in ancient times all the great religions and philosophies of the world originated.

He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats.

He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition as a leading geographer and map-maker of the Far East.

He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the wisest mystics he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants many others to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

For your free copy of the amazing free booklet entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer," together with other free literature regarding this remarkable system, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 So. Hobart Blvd., Dept. 127R, Los Angeles 4, California. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Dropoff In Payroll Recorded

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — For the first time in nine years, Broward County employment last month dropped off from the previous year.

The monthly report of the Florida State Employment Service, released Monday, said an estimated 65,450 persons were on non-farm payrolls here in mid-December.

It was a 2 per cent drop from December 1957, when an estimated 66,400 persons were working.

At the same time, however, the size of the surplus labor pool — those unemployed but wanting to work — shrank to the lowest level since December 1957. An estimated 4,800 persons were unemployed.

Of those seeking work, about half were newly-arrived in the area.

Leading the decline in employment from 1957 were contract construction workers. The report said about 3,000 fewer construction workers were on the job last month than a year ago.

Showing the greatest gains were hotel workers, 4,100 working in December 1958, compared to 3,550 in 1957; and manufacturing employes, 5,750 in 1958, and 5,200 in 1957.

Pound Critic Answered

FORT LAUDERDALE — Robert Waller, county dog pound manager, said Monday he does not favor a proposal to merge his unit with the Humane Society.

The consolidation was suggested by Hal Bowen, Society president, in reply to charges that his group is not answering calls on injured animals. Both men criticized each other's operation.

Waller quoted a letter from Joan Nelson, 1420 SW Ninth St., saying that the Society refused to pick up an injured puppy. Other complaints are on file with the county commission, he said.

"The pound picks up any sick animal," Waller declared. "We pick up injured animals only after the Humane Society has refused to."

Negro Unit Seeks Civic Fixup

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH—A dozen Negroes met in an atmosphere of harmony with the City Commission Monday night to discuss ways the northwest section could be made a section the city would be proud of.

James Oglesby, president of the Northwest Voters League, presented an obviously well researched list of requests, most of them centering around the downtown business district bordering Hammondville Rd.

The group requested: more traffic lights, 15 miles per hour school zones, sidewalks on on Hammondville Rd., and the cleaning of vacant lots.

The city commissioners approved a resolution to the State Road Department, through the County Commission, requesting a traffic light at Fourth Ave. and Hammondville.

They also agreed to eliminate diagonal parking on Hammondville between Dixie Hwy. and Fourth Ave., in an effort to eliminate traffic hazards.

The city also agreed to paint pedestrian crosswalks on Hammondville in the vicinity of the State Farmer's Market, where many school children cross daily.

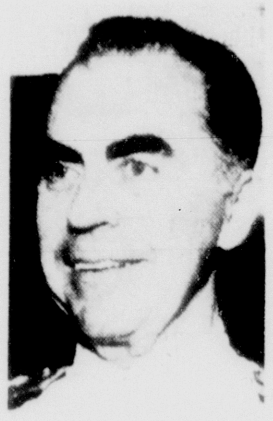
Brass Recalls 'Middie' Days During Warship's Visit Here

FORT LAUDERDALE — Days when they were "middies" together at Annapolis were recalled Monday afternoon when Rear Adm. Lewis S. Parks of the USS Newport News, Hamilton Love and Charles McKinney reunioned over cocktails at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Love on Isle of Palms.

MRS. PARKS



ADM. PARKS

The admiral and his attractive wife are staying at the Galt Ocean Mile Hotel during the visit of the Navy's heavy cruiser at Port Everglades. Several hundred Lauderdaleans were piped aboard at a reception Friday.

Group at the Loves Monday included Mr. and Mrs. McKinney, the Donald Bathricks and Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Augustus.

When the admiral retires from active duty, he and Mrs. Parks will have their home site waiting for them in Pompano Beach. They selected a lot five years ago, and come down to see it — and some friends — whenever possible. The Parks have been living in Japan for the past year and a half.

Sunday afternoon they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart L. Moore of Boca Raton at the Boca Raton Polo Club matches. That evening they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hale in Pompano Beach. Other friends there were Rear Adm. (Ret.) and Mrs. James Weiler of Lighthouse Point.

Today Adm. and Mrs. Parks will go to Key West for a holiday before the admiral's next assignment in Panama. With headquarters in Balboa, they plan a visit in South America . . . "But we'll be back here eventually," said Mrs. Parks.

Artist at Work

"I WANTED TO BRING my favorite hippo with me, but I was afraid I might not get him back to the Philadelphia Zoo safely," said the famous sculptor, Henry Mitchell, as he unloaded a station wagon full of his beautiful work Monday at the Fort Lauderdale Art Center.

Mr. Mitchell drove down with 35 pieces of sculpture, some drawings and panels which will be included in the third exhibit to be shown this season at the Junior Service League-sponsored center on Las Olas. It opens to the public Wednesday.

Animals become amazing and wonderful things at the hand of Mr. Mitchell, one of the country's outstanding young sculptors. For instance, a giraffe he modeled for a Philadelphia playground has holes in his bronze hide denoting spots.

Children adore to crawl and slide over fabulous frames of horses, hippos and hyenas . . . "They are exciting and interesting," saud Mr. Mitchell's hostess here, Miss Alice Goudy.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell (Mrs. M. is head of the Philadelphia Museum's slide library and was too busy to accompany her husband this time) and Miss Goudy became friends when she headed public relations for the museum a number of years ago.

Mr. Mitchell will be honor guest at a dinner party to be hosted this evening by the Jack Coultons before the exhibition preview for members of the Fort Lauderdale Art Center.

During his several days stay here, the sculptor will also be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Baird Tewksbury Jr., longtime friends of his family.

Stillwell Guests

AMONG OUT-OF-TOWN guests at the cocktail preview will be Tom Stilwell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Ullery of Madison, N.J., who are vacationing at the Lauderdale Beach Hotel. The Ullerys and the Stilwells will be dinner party guests of the Richard Landrums and will go on to the exhibit together.

Tom and Dodie Stilwell are planning a party in honor of the Ullerys later on.

Nun Enrolls In University

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector — A nun of the French Order of Notre Dame de Sion has been unanimously elected "Our Favorite Coed" at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Sister Georgine, 34, is the first nun to enroll at the university. Her charm, engaging personality and fluent command of modern colloquial Hebrew have helped to boost her popularity with the boisterous Israeli students.

Her roommates are two Israeli Army girls.

"We've become great friends," she says. "I picked up modern Hebrew slang from them, and I'm trying to teach them French in return."

UPPER KEYS

Fish Fry Friday The 13th

By CAROLYN V. COHEN
Herald Correspondent

UPPER KEYS: February promises to be a busy month and already Valentine's Day weekend is well filled.

MRS. COHEN

Defying superstition, Upper Keys Kiwanians have named Friday the 13th for their fish fry at the Elks Club, Tavernier. There will be hush puppies, crawfish salad and all the trimmings too.

Saturday, Feb. 14, members of Burton Memorial WSCS hold another of their bake sales in front of Tavernier post office. Better get there early for those home cooked pies and cakes.

The grounds of San Pedro Church, Plantation Key, will be filled for their bazaar Sunday, Feb. 15. Everyone looks forward to this annual event that carries a Valentine motif.

For a luscious pot roast dinner go to Tavernier Fire House on Saturday Jan. 31 where ladies of the Methodist Church WSCS will have this noted specialty of theirs.

Postmaster Paul E. Albury says that a representative of the State Service Officer, Florida Department of Veterans Affairs, will be at his office on Feb. 5 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Matters pertaining to veterans, their dependents or survivors can be discussed at that time.

Upper Keys Flower Show dates have been announced as Feb. 21 and 22 at Coral Shores School Auditorium. You won't want to miss this.

The next Coral Shores PTA meeting, which is Founders Day, will be Feb. 3, at 8 p.m. Feature of this meeting will be open house in the beautiful new school addition. PTA members donated lovely new furniture for the recently installed teachers' lounge.

Irene and Mari Kovach, Long Key, were hostesses to Immanuel Lutheran Church Ladies Aid last week. Rev. Albert Dede told of missionary work in Ceylon and India. Next meeting is Feb. 26 at the home of Dagne Johnson, Tavernier.

The cafeteria staff of Coral Shores School, headed by Annie Maloney, entertained at lunch for 50 members of the Florida School Food Service Association on Saturday. Among those who enjoyed this organization's first visit to the Upper Keys were President Angela Mackie; President-Elect June Knowles; Secretary Fay Soloman and Treasurer Lorraine Johnson, all of Key West.

We apologize for an error in last week's column. Frank and Florence Lenz live in St. Charles, Illinois . . . not Missouri. However we felt better when we learned that not long ago the Ted Mitchells, now in residence in Islamorada, looked all over St. Charles, Missouri (there's one there too) and failed to locate Frank and Florence.

King of Siam

Opera Star William Chapman of "Candide," "Maria Golovin" and other hits will play the ruler of Siam in "The King and I," which will open the Palm Beach Musicarnival season Feb. 10 with a benefit performance for the Cancer Society.

Don't Be Frightened of Glandular Fever--It's Mostly an Annoyance

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: Would you give me some information on the disease called "infection of the nucleus," or is it sometimes called "gland fever" in adults?

Also I would like to know if it is catching and if there's a cure for it. Is it a lifetime disease?

Mrs. B.C.

DEAR DR. MOLNER:

Two of my children have had infectious mono-nucleosis. So far we haven't been able to find out much about this so-called blood disease, or what causes it.

We have had several alarming facts told to us, and would like to know the truth. Is there such a thing, or are we having our legs pulled?

No one seems to be willing to discuss the subject or tell us about it.

Mrs. L.R.

* * *

Two letters out of quite a lot! But these two ask the questions which are echoed, week after week.

First off the bat: Dismiss from your mind any "alarming facts" which have been flung at you. They are, to borrow an expressive term from my fifth-grade days, a lot of bushwa.

Dr. Joseph Molner

I do not say this disease is to be ignored. On the other hand, if you understand it, you won't be frightened. Just annoyed.

Call it infectious mononucleosis, or call it glandular fever. It's the same thing.

It is, temporarily, a weakening disease. The victim is tired and I've known of young people who appeared to become unaccountably "lazy" until the true fact was learned; they were ill!

Symptoms vary; usually lethargy and some moderate fever; sometimes swelling of the glands (hence "glandular fever"); maybe sore throat and the like, headache, chills, cramps, soreness, sweating.

Never forget this: The disease is "self-limiting," like measles or chickenpox or a cold in the head. There's nothing to do to "cure" it, but it wears itself out. Rest is adviseable, just as it is for those other diseases. Antibiotics are good, not to stop the disease itself, but to avoid other secondary infections.

It is "catching." It's just as well to sterilize dishes used by the patient.

We think — but we haven't yet proved — that it is a virus disease and hence something like flu. Maybe someday we'll trap the virus (if it is a virus) and concoct a vaccine for it. So far, we haven't.

Gabor and Emery In Playhouse Hit

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

PALM BEACH — Palm Beach playhouse season opened Monday night. The offering is Noel Coward's "Private Lives." Stars are Eva Gabor and John Emery. Featured are Margaret Phillips and Bert Thorn with Suzanne Caubaye making a brief but unforgettable appearance. Romney Brent is the expert director. Luxurious sets are by Jim Riley.

The play? Park or hang your cares on a hickory limb or a palm frond. Relax and enjoy it.

The sophisticated farce concerns two tangled twosomes. Eva and John, once married to each other, now divorced, have each embarked on new honeymoons. Eva has married Bert Thorn. John has married Margaret Phillips. The two couples meet at Deauville, where their apartments have twin terraces.

Memories, moonlight, and music from Noel Coward hits prove too much for Eva and John. They take French leave.

The manner in which marital history repeats itself is told as only Noel Coward can tell it and only as two such adroit performers as Eva Gabor and John Emery can interpret it.

Eva Gabor may look like a French doll, a cream puff, or a georgeously gowned bit of fluff, but she is an actress with a divine spark and a built in sense of timing.

John Emery, long a distinguished figure in the theater, proves himself a comedian of stature. Suave and handsome, in this play he suggests John Barrymore with Errol Flynn overtones. His knock-down-drag-out fight scene with Eva is a classic. He also plays nicely on the great gold grand piano.

Miss Phillips and Bert Thorn don't have much to do, except to be proper, good looking, and well mannered, if a bit on the stuffy side. But Suzanne Caubaye! If the history of Troy was written on the eyelids of Iphigenia, then the history of all French serving women is limned in the stoop and the walk of Suzanne Caubaye.

During intermissions six musicians play Coward music and three top-hatted boulevardiers and three pretty girls in silver gowns sing songs from Coward hits.

The fashionable first night audience loved the play. And so will you.

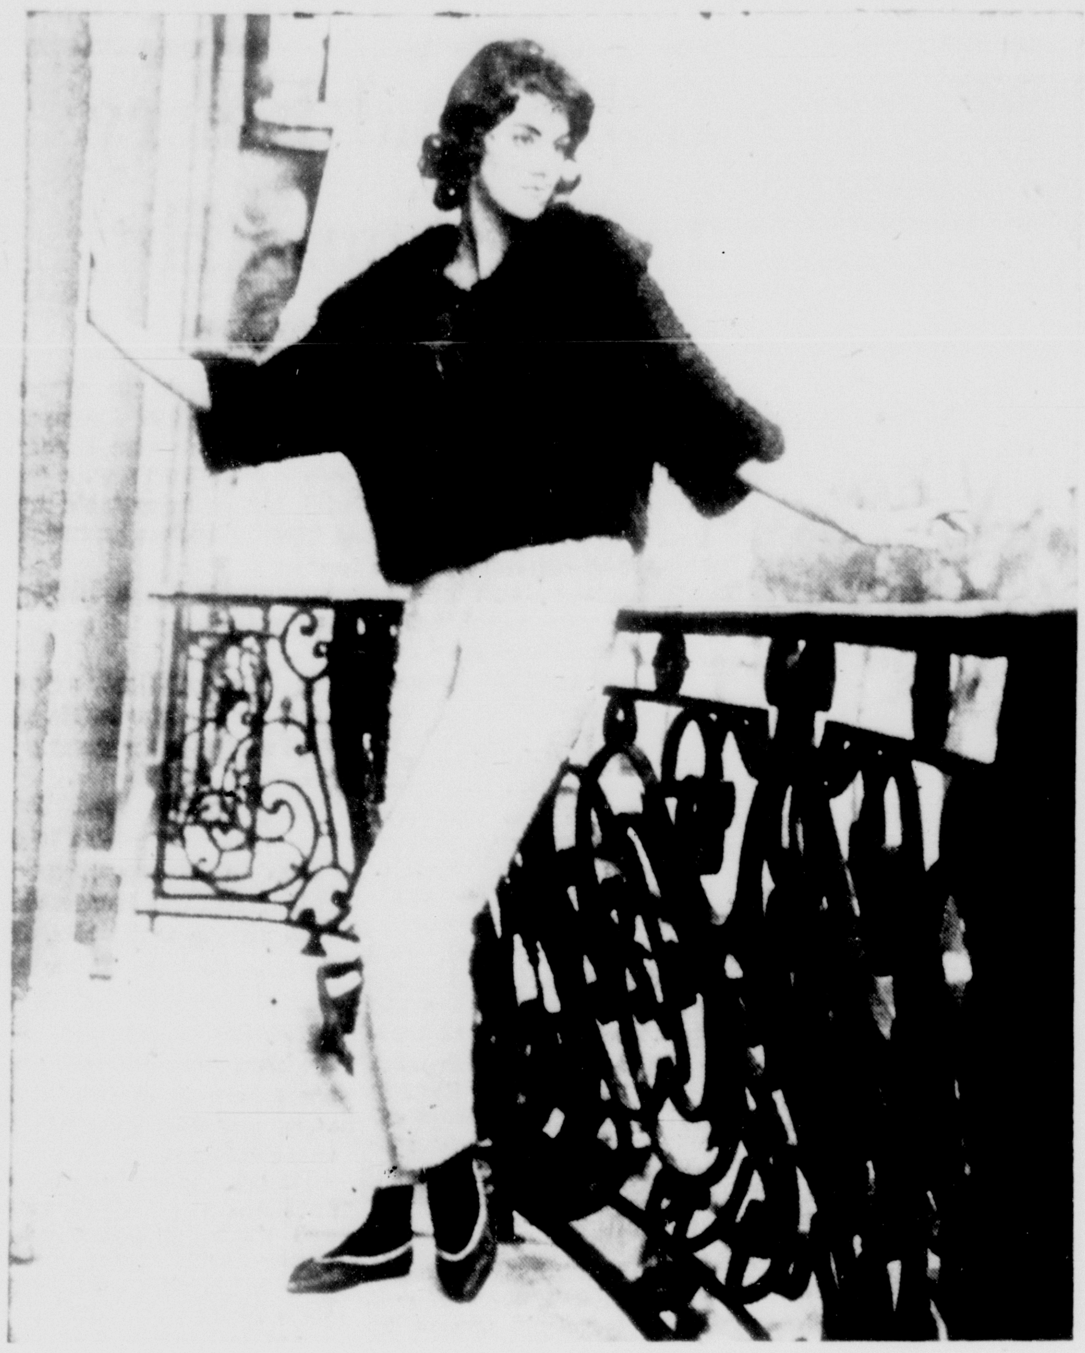
The Future of Our Clothing



SYNTHETIC FABRIC gets the glamor treatment. New separates for leisurely evenings a deux were designed by Paris couturier Hubert de Givenchy entirely of orlon. Short, bulky pullover with enormous collar is in a black, very shaggy orlon knit. He pairs it with turquoise pants in a soft looped fabric woven of orlon wool and mohair. Satin bow adds dressy touch to pullover.

By BEVERLEY WILSON
Herald Fashion Editor

Will women of the future shop for clothes as they do for food — in supermarkets? That's what one bright young dress manufacturer — New Yorker Richard Cole—thinks.

"Within 25 years, clothes will become supermarket stock. You'll put your money in a slot and a dress will come out packaged" is the eye-popping prediction he made in New York to a United Press International reporter.

"Synthetics are the coming trend, although we may not abandon pure fibers in our lifetime," he added. "Synthetics still don't have the snob appeal of wool and silk, because we haven't created the romance about them."

* * *

MEANWHILE, BACK IN PARIS, designers already seem to be creating the synthetic romance Mr. Cole is talking about.

A top Parisian couturier, Hubert de Givenchy, has just created an entire collection of glamorous sweaters and separates in orlon.

Many of the designs will be reproduced in this country, and should be available in limited quantity by March or April. The collection includes the debut of a new textured filament yarn of orlon, which gives sweaters the same sort of lustrous flat texture and luxurious hand that the finest European knits have.

We haven't yet seen any hints that Mr. Cole's fashion supermarket is the coming thing, but he's quite serious about it.

"We're already heading toward supermarket selling," he says.

"Look at fashionable Fifth Avenue stores. Customers used to remain seated while clothes were brought to them. Today, more and more stock is put on the racks for women to thumb through.

"Displays and decorations still are more elegant than in self-help stores, but the fashionable shops are basically the same as cut-rate stores."

* * *

MR. COLE — who likes to aim his own fashion collections at the girl who can't afford couturier prices, can't wear junior-size clothes, but still wants high fashion touches to her wardrobe — has another arresting idea for the future. He thinks there won't be any such thing as custom tailoring.

"Clothes will be vulcanized and seamed by machine, not hand sewn. When clothing becomes a grocery-store item, the emphasis will be on warmth and wearability, not style."

We can just see Givenchy reacting to this bit of news!

"But after all, the tangible thing in fashion is a woman's figure. Styles are a variation of what to do with the neckline, bustline, waistline, hips and hemline.

"In the future, clothes will be more functional. Space travel will affect all fashion. Even if a woman doesn't go to the moon, her clothes will reflect the demands of those who do."

What will space fashions look like?

"Who knows. Maybe pale blue one-piece jump suits of plastic. One thing is certain. Eventually all clothes will be made entirely of synthetics," he said.

"But you can bet your dollars there will be romance. Even with supermarket fashions, the dress business will be bigger than ever. And we might be clothing Mars."

MARY ASTOR: MY STORY

'I Knew Now--I Had Hit Bottom'

Mary Astor's third marriage, to Manuel del Campo ended in divorce and she prepared for her fourth marriage.

One In a Series

I became Mrs. Thomas Gordon Wheelock on Dec. 24, 1945. Mother was there, and wished me happiness with a resigned air.

The idea of Tommy Wheelock being broke was treated as simply one of those absurdities that happen occasionally in life. And so I accepted it. But it was no joke that five years after our marriage I had exactly $192.86 in the bank and we were over $30,000 in debt.

I had blown up another pink balloon that burst in my face. I had told myself that I would slow down our drinking after we were married. But now it was no better.

I often walked in my sleep. I would awaken in total darkness, without the least idea of what part of the house I was in, completely disoriented, wailing tearfully for Tommy to come and get me. I began to suffer more from hang-overs, and learned the comfort of the quick shot in the morning.

* * *

ONE EVENING Tommy and I were entertaining a doctor who lived just up the road from us, and with whom we had become quite friendly. I hadn't had a great deal to drink, but I suddenly felt quite drunk — dizzy and completely disoriented.

The doctor took a close look at me and said, "This girl isn't drunk. She's ill." He took my temperature; it was 105. Immediately they drove me to Queen of Angels Hospital, where, after a great many tests, I was informed that I had cirrhosis of the liver.

After I got out of the hospital I had to make regular trips to see the doctor and have liver-function tests. He told me my liver had been badly damaged and I must never drink again. I was frightened enough to accept his ultimatum.

After three months passed before I was scheduled to see him again. When I took the routine tests, the results were excellent. He asked me how much I had been drinking, and I replied, "I haven't been drinking anything. You told me not to."

When he said, "You mean you haven't had a drop in three months?" the note of surprise in his voice meant to me that my condition was probably not so serious after all.

So when I got home I thought, "A bit of sherry now and then can't hurt me. He was just trying to scare me. He probably thought I drank a lot more than I did."

* * *

THE SHERRY PROGRAM didn't last long, however. I began to take straight shots of gin for relief from the cramps that seemed to be getting worse every month now. I also caught colds quite frequently, and of course that calls for a hot toddy of good, high-proof bourbon.

I read a number of articles in magazines and newspapers about alcohol and occasionally I read about a group of people who together find their answer in a fellowship based on spiritual principles. I learned that one of these fellowship groups met regularly in Studio City, right near Republic Studios.

The first time I went I was very much impressed — and also shocked by the stories some of the speakers told. I went several weeks in a row, listening with sympathy, but with no sense of identification, to speakers tell their stories.

"These people," I told myself, "are centainly to be commended for their ability to lick their problems. But they have really had problems: the sordidness of sanitaria, drunk driving (I mentally patted myself on the back for having learned not to get caught at that) — these people had — what did they call it? — 'hit bottom.' I haven't hit any kind of 'bottom' at all."

I just "drank heavily," but when I was working on a picture I stopped drinking. I had stopped drinking while I was attending the group meetings. It wasn't difficult, only boring. So I went back to my "rules about drinking."

* * *

I WANTED TO GET OUT of my contract with Metro. Everybody said I was foolish. Metro suggested that I take six months' sick leave — a year if necessary. But I didn't want that.

My pent-up bitterness had blown like the cork on a warm bottle of champagne. I was sick of supporting people — beginning with my parents. But now I was fed up. Between outbursts I would shut myself up in the library and sleep — and drink.

Out of the haze Tommy appeared one day with two men from the fellowship which I had previously rejected. Somehow they got through to me; I dimly remember one of them saying to me, "Wouldn't you like to get out of this rat race?"

I agreed that they should take me to a sanitarium run by the fellowship. In a few days the terrible shakes subsided, and the psychiatrist asked me if I'd like to "do a little work with him."

I took all the tests. When it was over he said, "You've got all your marbles, and very good ones, but you don't seem to have any aggressiveness at all."

"Should I?" I asked.

I caught a glimpse of some of the patients, haggard and repulsive. And the realization came to me that this was the kind of people the fellowship was for — and I was one of them. I had hit bottom.

Hot Pea Salad Is Thrifty And Easy To Prepare, Too

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

Hunt some new ways with canned peas to use one of this month's most plentiful foods. They're reasonably priced, too.

Daily Food Guide

A different way to serve them is in a hot pea salad. The salad doubles as salad and vegetable. Peas and potatoes are the mainstays of the salad. Seasonings are pickle relish, pimientos, onion and cheese.

Deep green spinach leaves make a nice bed for the salad.

THRIFTY SUPPER
Braised Beef Liver
Buttered Carrots
Hot Pea Salad
Cornmeal Muffins
Fruit Gelatin

The salad is quick to mix and heat—just 15 or 20 minutes in the oven.

HOT PEA SALAD

1 16- or 17-ounce can peas
1 8-ounce can white potatoes
1/3 cup pickle relish
1 2-ounce can or jar pimientos
1 small onion, finely chopped
1/4 pound sharp Cheddar cheese, cubed
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Fresh spinach leaves
Garlic French dressing

Combine drained peas, drained and sliced potatoes, pickle relish, pimiento strips, onion, cheese and mayonnaise. Put in casserole. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes, until heated through. Serve on spinach which has been tossed with French dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Medical Group Forms New Unit

Cuba Opens New Trials In Quiet Air

Sosa Blanco Must Die, Says Castro, 16A

Hotels Glad to Get 'No-Tippers,' 16A

HAVANA, Cuba — The Havana war crimes trials reopened Monday night in a small, decorous courtroom setting in striking contrast to the noisy, spectacular first trial scene in the Sports Palace last week. Also, TV and radio coverage now are banned.

The change was ordered by the Castro revolutionary regime after a deluge of foreign criticism over the circus character imparted by the 30,000 loud spectators at the first trial. It ended last Friday at dawn in a verdict of death for ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco for murder and other crimes against Castro rebels fighting the regime of ex-Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The first defendant at the resumed trials was a 15-year Cuban army veteran, ex-Capt. Pedro Morejon, 38, who like Blanco was charged with assassination, homicide and robbery.

A hitch developed at the outset late this afternoon when it turned out that someone had neglected to summon Morejon from La Cabana Fortress, about six miles from the courtroom, and the trial was recessed nearly two hours while he was brought to court.

The 200-seat Hall of Justice in the Superior War Court building at the edge of Camp Libertad (formerly Camp Columbia) was packed with witnesses, reporters and a few persons carrying special permits.

Morejon, who shared powers with Sosa Blanco in Oriente, is rated by the revolutionists as one of Batista's three top hatchet men. The other two are Sosa Blanco, who was convicted and sentenced to death in the first Havana revolutionary trial last Friday, and Lt. Col. Ricardo Luis Grau, who will be tried next.

War crimes trials were continuing throughout Cuba simultaneously, but most executions were halted temporarily and reports from the interior indicated that they would be postponed for 24 or 48 hours.

Revolutionary authorities Monday announced the arrest of Heriberto Hernandez Esponda, chauffeur for Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Batista in Exile Turns to Words To Battle Castro

Last of Three Articles

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Fulgencio Batista, his glory days and gory days behind him, has replaced the sword with a pen in his continuing assault on his arch foe, rebel Fidel Castro.

Castro has brought disaster and discredit upon the former Cuban president, who now fights back from exile here with the only weapon at his command at the moment —words.

Batista says he is sure the world doesn't realize:

1. That Fidel Castro wrecked a Batista program that had "brought my country to its greatest peak of prosperity."

2. That Castro and many of his aides have been much too chummy with the Communists for the good of Cuba, and

3. That while he (Batista) is a staunch believer in a free press, he clamped a censorship on news during the last two years "to relieve the Cuban press of pressure from rebels to use inflammatory releases against the government."

His assertions are open to violent challenge from the powers that be in Cuba, as well as the Inter American Press Association, which has loudly condemned Batista for his suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Batista also is smarting under charges by the Castroans that he has been a "ruthless butcher."

Said the exiled strongman: "Fidel Castro says my government killed 20,000 people. His brother, Raul, says we killed 10,000 people. They should get together.

"I charge they are responsible for most of the deaths in the recent crisis through terrorism, bombings and torture. People who liked my government and didn't choose to join Castro, were labeled stool pigeons and dealt with severely.

"If the people were all for Castro, as he claims, why did his calls for general strikes both fail so miserably?" Batista said in an angered voice, biting hard into one of the last of his favorite Cuban cigars he brought with him to exile.

He continued: "Castro has said he will kill or exile anyone who had relationship — moral, political or economic — with the Batista government."

The chunky ex-president says he can account for four million registered voters who were on his side. Cuba has a population of some 6,250,000. "Castro will empty the country if he carries out his threat," he said.

Castro last week boasted six million supporters.

Batista claims history will show that he did more for

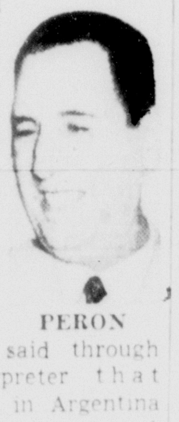
Juan Just Wants to Be Alone

By GEORGE BEEBE
Herald Managing Editor



PERON

CUIDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — Juan Peron is just one of the boys these days.

The deposed dictator of Argentina is ensconced in the noisy Hotel Paz and he doesn't want to talk to any newspapermen on any subject.

His secretary, whose name sounded like Amerio Barrio, said through a bellhop interpreter that "things going on in Argentina are just too silly to warrant comment."

The boss, he said, just wants to be left alone to live like a normal person.

Living normally for Juan in his exile includes frequent public appearances, always accompanied by a Dominican Republic army colonel.

Observers say he looks bored, except when in company of good looking women.

Barrio, a bald-headed, hawk-nosed first assistant to the man who ran out of steam on the pampas in 1955, said his boss had not made any comment on the Argentine political situation in "a long time."

"He's out of politics now. So why should he comment?" said Barrio when asked what Peron thought of the Peronista-led strike of last week that fell flatter than Juan's excuse for not talking.

There are few local prize fights that Peron misses. Just to prove that he is a regular fellow, Juan a few months back walked briskly the full length of the Day of Restoration parade.

An American who knows his Dominicans said: "People here wish he'd keep right on walking."

Broward To Fight Erosion

Legislators Plan Action

By HENRY KINNEY
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Broward County's legislative delegation will attempt to mount a statewide attack on beach erosion in the forthcoming session, according to Rep. A. J. Ryan, but will also be prepared to put through a local bill if necessary.

Erosion is a state problem, he contended, but added: "Our situation here is as critical as any, and we may have to come up with a local bill."

The bill probably will include regulations on construction and zoning along the ocean, Ryan said, as well as applying to protective measures such as seawalls.

He suggested also that an erosion survey of the county by the Coastal Engineering Laboratory of the University of Florida probably should be undertaken, an action which he said "would not be drastically expensive." A survey would indicate what sort of anti-erosion plan the county needs.

"It's really a threat to our economy," Rep.-elect Emerson Allsworth said. "We're losing feet now, not inches.

"There's no question that some action will be taken."

The legislators have not reached a decision, Allsworth said, on the proposal by the Broward League of Municipalities for a county erosion district.

"It would be a separate taxing district," he pointed out, "and for that reason some arguments immediately arise against it."

The question of what aid can be obtained from the state doubtless will be explored, Allsworth indicated.

The city of Pompano Beach already has put the university laboratory to work on a study of its critical erosion problem.

First report on the study, issued last Friday, stated that the city had lost an average of 48 feet between February, 1954, and October, 1957, and at one point as much as 112 feet.

Wandering Actor's Ex Files Plea

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Sterling Hayden's ex-wife Monday asked a judge to request prosecution of the Tahiti-bound actor on kidnaping, conspiracy and child-neglect charges.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Betty Ann Hayden filed with Superior Judge Emil Gumpert a petition asking:

That Hayden and all adults aboard his schooner Wanderer be held in contempt of court.

That the judge declare the four Hayden children wards of the juvenile court, thus removing them from control of either parent. The court recently denied custody of the three sons and a daughter to Mrs. Hayden.

Judge Gumpert on Jan. 16 warned the 42-year-old actor not to take his children with him on a voyage to Tahiti.

Onslaught of Piercing Cold Hampers Flood Recovery

PITTSBURGH — (UPI) — Biting cold and snows up to a half-foot deep slowed the monumental task of recovery in Pennsylvania and Ohio flood disaster areas Monday.

Refugees returned to their homes by the thousands and states of emergency had been lifted in most flood-stricken cities.

But northwest Pennsylvania, the state's worst-hit area, had snows one to six inches deep and temperatures at a shivery 11 degrees above zero. A three-inch snow hit Fremont, Ohio, where 1,500 persons were still homeless and a state of emergency remained in effect.

The new snow storms and cold wave boosted the toll of dead since the worst storm of the winter started its sweep of the midcontinent last Tuesday.

At least 126 deaths were blamed on weather - caused traffic accidents, exposure, exhaustion, tornadoes and floods. There were 19 in both Ohio and Wisconsin, 14 in Michigan, 13 in Illinois, 10 in both Indiana and New York State, eight in Pennsylvania, five in both Kentucky and Kansas, four in Iowa, three in both Missouri and Oklahoma, two each in Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington, and one in North Dakota.

Across the midlands, a hard freeze stretched from Oklahoma to the mid-Atlantic states and a band of freezing drizzle moved from Oklahoma and Kansas all the way to Cincinnati.

Temperatures stayed near zero all day in northeast Montana and hit bone-chilling lows in upstate New York. Unofficial readings included 45 degrees below zero at Owls Head, N.Y., and 30 below at Wankena. It was officially 24 below at Massena, N.Y., 17 below at Lone Rock, Wis., and 15 below at Wausau, Wis.

The warmest spot in Michigan was Detroit, where it was three above.

Fresh snows added to the Midwest's miseries and approached record depths.

The 32 inches of snow which have fallen on Chicago this January were the deepest since 1943 and almost equal to the average for an entire winter. A new three-inch fall choked traffic with drifts and illegally parked cars and slowed rush hour speed to five and 10 miles per hour.

In Milwaukee, where two men died of heart attacks shoveling snow, the January depth was 24.3 inches — the most since 1951.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, snow closed some Philadelphia area schools and coated most highways. Highway police cut the speed limit from 65 to 35 miles per hour on the east-west Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Sun and a Gentle Wind

'A Great Beach Day,' Says the Weatherman

Drizzle-weary Miami has a brighter outlook for today and Wednesday.

The sun will shine, the clouds disappear, a gentle easterly wind blow and the temperatures sneak into the lower 80's during the day, weathermen said.

A low of about 66 was predicted for the night hours.

"Tuesday will be great for the beach," said a forecaster, "with water temperatures in the lower 70's."

Last year at this time, Miami had recovered from a couple of history-making cold spells and was bracing for another. Temperatures were 10 degrees lower a year ago, according to records.

Mikoyan's Visit Paved The Way, Red Chief Believes

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said Monday relations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union might improve as the result of Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to America.

"From his report to us we get the idea that the possibility of a thaw in our relations is not excluded," Khrushchev said.

It was Khrushchev's first comment on the 17-day tour by his first deputy prime minister and he said he will have such a long report to make on the subject today his listeners "had better bring some food."

Today is the opening of the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist Party. More than 1,000 delegates plus another 1,000 foreign Communists and Soviet guests representing industry, science, arts and letters and the armed forces will attend.

Khrushchev made his statement Monday replying to a toast proposed by Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon at an Indian National Day reception at the Sovietskaya Hotel.

Khrushchev said that even though Mikoyan's talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles did not lead to any concrete measures "I am still an optimist."

He said the Soviets are willing to show more friendship to the U. S. but U. S. leaders are difficult to negotiate with because "they say, 'You stand there.'"

"But they have a big stick in their hands and a knife under their jacket," Khrushchev said. "How is it possible to talk about confidence?"

Khrushchev put his hand inside his jacket and went on.

"To play at cold war now is a very dangerous business. Too many means have been invented which are dangerous to humanity (a gesture of tapping his forehead) and the greater we make them the more possibility there is of surprises."

Khrushchev complained again that the U. S. has built bases all around the Soviet Union and is flying planes with atom bombs and "some one may lose his head, anything may happen."

He said "in our case we have plenty of rockets in position. It doesn't take much to make a rocket fly. I think it is a time when no one should lose his head."

Khrushchev praised Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru for having "confidence" in the Soviet Union. He attacked West German officials as "unreasonable."

He said negotiations with the West would be much easier if the West took the same approach as India.

Gypsies Pray for Prince, 6

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

A six-year-old Gypsy prince fought for life and a throne Monday while tribesmen from all over the south chanted and prayed on the hospital lawn outside.

As the rythmic cries died away, little Larry Mitchell returned to consciousness after a hit-and-run accident — and skull surgery.

Outside his room, the aged king of the gypsies Steve Mitchell—Larry's 87-year-old grandfather—kept a tense and silent vigil.

On the hospital grounds grief turned to hope and even joy as gaily-clad gypsies awaited the child's fate.

They are from the 800-member Russian Gypsy tribe.

"The man hit him and didn't even stop," a soft-voiced woman explained. "But God will punish him. God knows and he will punish."

A stout woman with heavy necklaces and dangling earrings nodded quick agreement.

"We will stay," she said "until he is out of the hospital."

The tiny, dark-haired lad was found lying along the roadside at NW 26th Ave. and 68th St. at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, by playmates.

Police and hospital spokesmen theorized he could have suffered lacerations and skull fracture in a hard fall, but he

'Sign or Strike' Campaign Launched Against Hotels

Gold Coast Unions Take the Offensive

A double-barreled "sign-or-strike" drive was opened Monday by two unions against Gold Coast hotels, currently at the height of a money-reaping winter tourist season.

Harrison To Enter Hospital

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Just two days back from the "dead," James E. Harrison made plans Monday to enter Veterans Hospital in Coral Gables for a thorough mental and physical examination, hoping to discover the secret of his 109-day disappearance.

Police in Tennessee and California are still holding two men implicated in a supposed slaying in Jacksonville on about Oct. 7, but have been unable to find the victim.

Harrison, 32, was believed at first to have been the man killed and buried after California convict Roy Olsen, serving time for a slaying, confessed he and another hitchhiker abducted and killed Harrison.

As the puzzling case ground to a standstill Monday, police in Phoenix, Ariz., where Harrison turned up Friday, say no one has identified pictures of Harrison run in Phoenix papers.

Police said that since no one had reported seeing him they speculated he may have been there only a short time — perhaps less than a day.

Harrison said he cannot remember anything between Oct. 7, when he said he was slugged by a hitchhiker, and Friday, when he regained his memory in Phoenix. He had 67 cents in his pocket.

He was found about a 15-minute walk from the city's bus terminal.

"One thing I want to get straight," said Harrison. "I've never bleached my hair."

The forelock of his wavy auburn hair appeared to be a much lighter color, but he said it might have been caused by medicine applied to minor head wounds inflicted by a blow.

Detectives who examined him said they could find no apparent scar from any attack, and said it appeared his hair had been bleached.

Auto Derails Diesel Train

ELK RIVER, Minn. — (AP) — A Seattle-bound Great Northern passenger train derailed Monday after striking a car on an Elk River crossing. The car driver was killed but none of the train passengers or crewmen was reported hurt.

Derailed were the three unit diesel locomotive, a mail-baggage car and three passenger coaches of the 10-car train.

The dead man was identified as Steve Toth Sr., 69, of Elk River.

THE HOTEL EMPLOYES UNION reported it has signed a majority of the employes at Miami Beach's Saxony Hotel, long a major hurdle in the union's organizational campaign here.

The union already has asked the National Labor Relations Board to approve an election to certify it as the legal bargaining agent. But the hotel is expected to oppose the move.

THE INTERNATIONAL UNION of operating Engineers announced the launching of an "extensive organizational campaign to include all hotels and motels in this area."

Composed of maintenance workers, the union is presently negotiating with 30 South Florida hotels.

Officials of both unions stated their drives were given impetus by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which lifted a picketing ban against 12 Greater Miami hotels.

In reference to the hotel union's Saxony battle, Local 255 President Dave Herman declared:

"We'll have an election or a picket line."

Ironically, the Saxony was the first hotel struck in April 1955 when the union started a 20-month fight to organize the area's 15,000 hotel workers.

Twenty-three Miami and Miami Beach hotels were struck during the drive, which was eventually slowed down by Florida court injunctions prohibiting picketing.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling of Jan. 12, however, put muscle back into the hotel union's strike threats.

"This is the opening shot in our new drive," Herman commented.

During the past several days there have been uncomfirmed reports that members of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which is made up of entertainers, have agreed to honor picket lines set up by the hotel union.

Oscar Kolsiek, business agent of Local 491 of the engineers, said that his union is seeking peaceful settlement with the hotels, "but the possible threat of picketing must always be considered by management."

He indicated the engineers union will respect picket lines formed by the hotel union.

Behind the scenes, however, there was a possibility that the two unions may be engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Both unions carry maintenance workers on their rolls.

"There might be a conflict of interest," Herman acknowledged, "but the engineers' union will find we have squatters' rights."

Four More Years of Draft Loom

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Assistant Defense Secretary Charles C. Finucane said Monday a four-year extension of the draft is absolutely essential to keep the nation's military strength geared to cold-war needs.

He estimated the armed forces would fall 700,000 to 800,000 men below their required strengths if the draft were allowed to lapse.

Finucane testified as the House Armed Services Committee took up the question of extending the Draft Act, now scheduled to die June 30.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) forecast swift committee approval of the proposal. He said the act is indispensable to U. S. security.

Vinson also announced he would question Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy about an administration decision to cut the Army to 870,000 men despite a congressional finding that its strength should be maintained at 900,000.

Vinson said the action might force Congress to "take a mandatory position" on Army strength.

Freighter Sinks, 8 Men Missing

TARANTO, Italy —(AP)— The 449-ton Italian freighter Laura Gabriella sank Monday in heavy seas between this South Italian port and the Greek island of Baxos. Eight of its crew are missing.

The vessel, which operated between Italy and other Mediterranean countries, carried a crew of 16. The French tanker Rousillo reported picking up eight crewmen.

Gypsies Await Fate Of Little Prince

appeared to have been victim of an auto accident.

The child-prince was rushed to North Shore Hospital. As if by magic, word swept the South.

Caravans of gypsies converged on the hospital lawn, praying and chanting. There were some 100 of them.

They were orderly and polite, but grief-stricken as they moaned their sorrowful songs.

Only when a doctor finally spoke to them and told them Larry was improved were most of them willing to go, leaving a smaller group to keep watch.

By Monday, some had come from as far away as Texas and North Carolina.

"Our tribe reaches as far as Indiana," one handsome, mustached man explained. He lay propped on an elbow, thoughtfully chewing a blade of grass.

Around him some 30 others sat cross-legged, talking in low tones. Still others slept or rested in late model cars.

Sometimes they spoke in an unknown tongue — probably Romany, the Indo-Iranian language. Partially East Indian in origin, gypsies are descendants of people who migrated from India centuries ago.

Some are Catholic — some Greek Orthodox.

"But whatever, if you lift a prayer together, He hears," said a woman sweetly.

There were varying stories on the sick lad's royal standing—but that he was royalty there was no doubt—grandson of King Steve Mitchell—"the old and wise one."

One account had it that the elderly king had 10 children but no male heirs. Another that all the king's 10 children were males — with little Larry's father the eldest.

Children danced on the sidewalk. There was light laughter. The hospital's soft-drink machine got heavy business. And there was coming and going to a nearby restaurant for food.

Though still in critical condition, the prince was better.

Airports Ask More Federal Aid

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Operators of major U.S. airports told Congress Monday that the nation's air transportation system can bog down unless more federal funds are poured into airport facilities.

George Dement, director of public works for Chicago and vice president of the Airport Operators Council, said the cities are in a critical situation in their efforts to meet airport financing problems.

Dement told the Senate aviation subcommittee that the council, including all leading U.S. airports, strongly supports the 575 million dollar federal grant bill sponsored by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D. Okla.).

The Chicago official said a proposal by President Eisenhower for 200 million dollars in grants is welcome because it shows recognition that the airport program should continue, but that the funds are inadequate.

Hawaii Renews Battle

Statehood Vote Seen by Easter

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton formally opened the administration's fight for Hawaiian statehood Monday amid reports the House might vote by Easter to add a 50th star to the flag.

Describing Hawaii as a "showplace of democracy," Seaton said the island served its "apprenticeship" for 59 years and has earned the right to fair and equal treatment with the other 49 states.

He flatly rejected arguments that Hawaii is "susceptible to control by Communists." He said the people of Hawaii "time after time have utterly rejected the Communist philosophy and every attempt of Communists to influence their government."

Seaton testified at a crowded hearing before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee as supporters of the Hawaiian statehood bill set March 29 as a tentative goal for House passage.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Mass. pledged cooperation in scheduling a House vote on statehood as quickly as possible after the committee acts.

Acting Committee Chairman Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to have ready by Feb. 8 a committee bill which then must go to the rules committee.

Hawaii statehood supporters said fast action by the O'Brien group will allow time to force action on the measure if the rules committee attempts to block it.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has yet to give a firm commitment for Senate action. But Senate leaders have indicated they also favor speed.

Supporters of Hawaiian statehood stepped aside last year to let the Alaskan bill ease through alone under a gentlemen's agreement which would give Hawaii the nod this year.

Reps. James A. Haley (D., Fla.) and Walter Rogers (D., Tex.) — both Hawaii statehood foes — were the only ones to challenge Seaton Monday. They suggested that Hawaiian statehood would open the door to requests for similar offshore areas.

Haley objected to including a recent subcommittee report in the record until he had read it, and he asked that Seaton be recalled for further questioning at another committee meeting.

"I realize the practical situation," he said, "but I think the chairman could move just a little slower here."

Rogers questioned Seaton about the possible subsequent admission of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and other U.S. possessions.

Seaton said that in his mind no other American flag area is presently qualified, and he said he is not aware of any desire for statehood on the part of their residents.

Soviet Subs Can't Top Us Boat for Boat, Navy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Navy is satisified that Russia's submarines cannot match the performanceof American subs, "boat for boat."

But the great and growing number of submarines that Russia could throw into action worries the Navy considerably.

This two-sided picture was given to the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations. They testified in a closed briefing session.

Part of the testimony was made public. It included the appraisal of the submarine situation and a discussion of the Navy's growing nuclear power. Burke especially sounded alarmed about the Red subs.

Gates said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with a nuclear punch, both from Polaris submarines able to launch missiles from under water and from carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

The Admiral said the Navy will have 113 active submarines by next July 1, but Russia will have about four times as many.

"Of greatest concern to the Navy is their submarine force numbering about 450," Burke said.

"Since World War II the submarine has progressed faster than the anti-submarine warfare capability to combat it," he said.

Burke, said that both major powers knew the other had "the capability of inflicting unacceptable damage on the other."

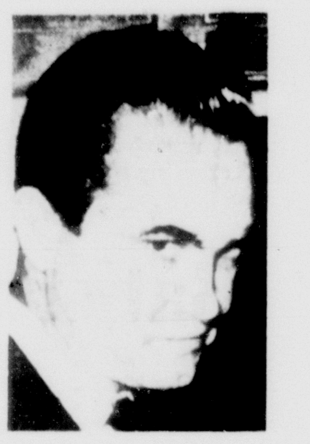
He said world warfare still was possible, but remote, and predicted that "limited wars would be instigated by or exploited by the Soviets to further the policy of constant probing and pressure which characterizes their expansionist efforts."

In Civil Rights Case

Ex-Alabama Judge Spared Jail Term

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(UPI)— A federal judge refused Monday to jail an Alabama official, an old friend who shouted defiance at the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, saying he was only trying to create an impression of being defiant.

Actually, District Judge Frank M. Johnson said, the defendant in contempt proceedings — former Circuit Judge George C. Wallace — helped civil rights agents.



George C. Wallace
. . . 'risk my freedom'

Johnson said that "judicially" he did not know why Wallace resorted to "devious means" in attempting to "give the impression that he was defying this court's order . . ."

Wallace claimed the conflict was a test of state vs. federal authority. He said he had been willing to "risk my freedom" in the test.

"These characters from the Civil Rights Commission and Justice Department were backed to the wall — they were defied and backed down," Wallace said.

But Johnson said that while Wallace, a former schoolmate, used "devious means" in throwing up a smokescreen around efforts to inspect voter records, his actions did not constitute defiance or disobedience.

In Americus, Ga., meanwhile, another federal judge told attorneys for the Justice Department and the Terrell County, (Ga.) board of registrars to submit written briefs in another civil rights case.

The Georgia litigation is the first voter discrimination suit to be filed under the civil rights legislation.

The Georgia county registrars attorneys argued against the constitutionality of the act Monday before Judge T. Hoyt Davis.

British Censor Likes Brigitte

LONDON — (UPI) — John Trevelyan, secretary of the British board of film censors, said Monday he was passing scenes now which would have been banned a few years ago.

"I just love the little frolics of Brigitte Bardot," he said. "But nudist camps? No."

Just Work And No Pay

HONG KONG—(AP)—Spokesman for 116 Chinese fishermen who escaped from a people's commune in Kwangtung Province earlier this month said Monday they fled communism because they were underpaid and overworked.

They said they worked at least 18 hours a day and had been paid six JMP ($2.30) per month since the commune was organized in September.

Their entire catch, they said, went to the government, whereas before the communes they were allowed to keep 30 per cent. The group escaped in six boats over a two-week period.

200 Lose Homes In Flash Fire

LYON, France —(UPI)— A flash fire swept through wooden shacks in a shantytown on the outskirts of Lyon Monday, making homeless more than 200 Algerian immigrants.

Firemen managed to bring the blaze under control after it had raged for 1½ hours through the tinderbox structures.

Light snowfall over the plains reached scattered areas in the Mississippi Valley but the southern fringe of the cold mound developed freezing drizzle through Oklahoma and southern Kansas into Mossouri and along the Ohio River to Cincinnati.

The cold air will continue to crowd southward through the eastern and central states with freezing temperatures into Virginia and southern Appalachians and into the northern sections of the Gulf states on Tuesday morning.

Rain will precede north winds into the southeastern states with freezing spreading more ice in a band from Arkansas to the Chesapeake Bay area. The bulk of the cold air spread from the Great Lakes to the northern Rockies, will give 20 below readings in northern Minnesota and zeros into northern Iowa.

Telephone Bill List Disclosed

City Pays for Home Service For Fifteen WPB Employes

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — The names of municipal employes who have had their home telephone bills paid by the city were disclosed Monday by members of the city commission.

Listed were 15 employes, two of them from City Hall, the balance from other departments. Seven were from the Water and Sewer Department.

The subject was not mentioned at the regular meeting of the Commission Monday.

But Mayor Horace S. Miller directed City Manager James J. Mott — who provided the commissioners with the list — to put the subject on the agenda for discussion at the Feb. 2 meeting.

The list provided to each member of the commission contained only the last names of whose phone bills were paid directly by the city.

Names on the list apparently were those of City Treasurer and former Manager Keith R. Chinn, Police Chief R. W. Milburn, Fire Chief J. H. Witherspoon, License Inspector Clyde Ellis, Public Works Supt. Dave Faust and Garage Foreman C. Earnest Molly.

Other last names listed were those of Sexton, Easterbrook, Hardwick, Messer, Clift, Christie, Craig, Fitzgerald and Kartrude.

The city directory list municipal employes as those names as:

Cameron Easterbrook, manager, City Water Department; Harold G. Hardwick, an operator; William Messer, construction superintendent; Russell E. Clift, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Christie, both of whom were listed as employed by the Water Department; Edward J. Craig, pipeman; Henry C. Fitzgerald, public works driver, and Gordon R. Kartrude, Water Department maintenance.

The only comment on the disclosure came after the lengthy Commission meeting ended.

Mayor Miller said, "I think it is a matter that should come out. That is the reason I asked to have it on the agenda for next Monday."

Commissioner W. P. Holland commented he "could see nothing wrong with the system."

He said it was his understanding that water company employes charged their bills to the city department because they obtained a discount, and that they reimbursed the department.

There was nothing to indicate that all the employes couldn't have followed that practice.

When The Herald disclosed last week that City Manager Mott was investigating city payment for private phones of municipal employes, it was said at the time that they would probably claim they used the phones largely for the transaction of city business after regular hours.

Whatever the situation, more details may be made available at next week's meeting if the board goes through with Mayor Miller's request to have it brought out in the open.

13 Hours Amidst Sharks

Sailor's Swim Ends Happily

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — An exhausted swimmer staggered ashore here Monday and touched off a successful air and sea search for a disabled yacht.

The yacht's only other crew member was found safe aboard the 65-foot craft which had run out of gas on a voyage from Charleston, S.C., to Fort Pierce.

Fred Leuze, 32, of Columbus, Ga. — a man who "never swam more than the length of the backyard swimming pool before" — fought high seas, felt ocean currents "tugging at" him and dodged sharks for 13 hours before he reached the Cape.

An Air Force plane found the disabled yacht anchored 13 miles north of Leuze's landing point although the swimmer thought he had traveled "only about two miles."

A Marine Salvage Inc. missile recovery boat picked up the yacht and towed in into Port Canaveral. The yacht's owner-skipper, James Bush of Columbus, rode it in.

Leuze said the yacht Cherokee had been "drifting out to sea and had taken a lot of water aboard — I don't know how much" — when he plunged into the ocean about 10 p.m. Sunday.

"We didn't know where we were but the skipper said; 'one of us will have to swim for it,' so I went."

He headed for the Cape Canaveral lighthouse, but Leuze said he didn't know where he was going because of fog.

The swimmer wore an insulated skindiving suit and a life preserver through the swim, "but the suit don't work and the water sure was cold."

"I had a little drum and a plank at first, but the sea took them away from me."

"Two shark fins crossed in front of me near the end, and I kicked something soft . . . I don't know what it was." The sharks didn't make any passes at the swimmer — that he knew of.

When he reached shore, Leuze collapsed in the surf.

"I fell down three or four times before I got going," he said. "I still didn't know where I was when I got to the highway, but I figured it must lead someplace so I turned south and followed it."

WPB Moves to Curb Cabbie-Call Girl Ring

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The City Commission split, 3 to 2, Monday on a move to curb a "fairly widespread" cabbie-call girl ring, allegedly operating in West Palm Beach.

On a motion by Sylvan Burdick, commissioners voted to amend the cab ordinance to provide that taxi licenses be forfeited if drivers are found guilty in Municipal Court of aiding and abetting call girls.

Commissioners Perry McCampbell and L. W. Kelloway voted against the measure.

Kelloway, first quipping, "How will the girls get around? declare the matter was a police problem.

He also contended present laws covered the subject and added, "You can't legislate morals."

Burdick said he had received reports of the "fairly widespread operation of call girls" and contended there must be "some truth in reports cabs are being used to move these ladies of ill-fame around our fair city."

Mayor Horace E. Miller and Commissioner W. P. Holland sided with Burdick on the issue.

The cabbie-call girl racket charge cropped up in the wake of a controversial hearing on Ace Taxi Co.'s request for two more cab permits.

The Ace request was opposed by Yello Cab, which owns and operates three other taxi firms and holds a total of 46 permits.

Represented by Phil O'Connel, Yello contended there was no "public need" for the two extra cab permits and charged Ace with pirating passengers from its "exclusive" taxi stands.

Ace shot back with a charge Yello held a monoply and complained its own operation was "hamstrung." Ace has five permits.

City Attorney Egbert Beall finally called a halt to the charges and counter-charges, contending they were "extraneous."

The commission directed City Manager James J. Mott Jr. to investigate the Ace request and make recommendation.

In other business, the commission heard Herb Lewis of Brandon Transfer Co., brand the proposed ordinance on truck routes an "iron clad trap" to prosecute truckers. He likened trucks to a garbage dump—"a necessity, but no one wants it around."

Commissioners assured Lewis the ordinance would be revamped and truckers in the city consulted.

To Pay off Bonds

Millage Increase Proposed by City

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A city millage increase to pay off a 19-year-old bond issue was proposed Monday by two city officials.

City Attorney Egbert Beall and Finance Director Keith Chinn both recommended that the city spread a "nominal" millage increase over a two-year period to pay off a 1-million-plus bond issue which comes due in 1961.

Beall urged an early decision on how the city wants to refund the bonds. Both he and Chinn as well as City Commissioner L. W. Kelloway contended the city could save thousands in interest by paying off the bonds through a millage increase.

Commissioner Sylvan Burdick suggested commissioners work out a program of "educating" the public on the possible need for a tax hike.

On Burdick's motion, the commission instructed City Manager James L. Mott Jr. to work out a 'public relations' program which would be carried out before the commission took any action.

Burdick contended that the "public education" was particularly necessary because two commissioners — Mayor Horace Miller and Kelloway—come up for re-election this spring. He said it was "unfair" to burden them with a defense of the possible tax hike.

Commissioners indicated the tax boost would come to less than two mills over a two-year period. The city already has a sizeable chunk in its sinking funds for retiring the 1939 bond issue.

Earlier in the meeting, a taxpayer, Walter C. Giese, complained that taxes in Florida is going to prompt the "greatest exodus out of this state you've ever seen."

He said residents in the Rutland Blvd. and Gregory Place area were being billed for sewer services when the sewers were not hooked into the new system yet.

He also blasted the 75-cent rental fee on water meters, saying, "in 10 years, I will pay $99 in meter rental and I won't even own a d--- screw in it."

Giese contended the 10 per cent utility tax was also applied to the meter rental. He said his neighborhood was considering forming a "vigilante" committee.

In other business, the City Commission voted to delay any attempt to annex Palm Beach Air Force Base. The county has opposed any "premature" city move towards annexation of the big airport tract.

City Commissioner Kelloway Monday also presented fellow commissioners with a copy of a bill which calls for a referendum on a mayor-commission form of government instead of the present city manager form. No action was taken.

Market Safe Found in Lot

WEST PALM BEACH — A safe, stolen from a Lake Worth food market Sunday, was found in an empty lot in Lantana Monday, the sheriff's office here reported.

Gene Ellis, chief of the Sheriff's Indentification Bureau, said the door had been pried open and $1,200 in cash and $400 in checks removed. Other papers were untouched.

Stiff License Law Is Urged For Builders

'Laxity' In Trade Charged

By ROSE ALLEGATO
WPB Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County commissioners were urged Monday to support a plumbing, electrical and building trades license law clamping down on incompetent contractors.

In other business, county commissioners:

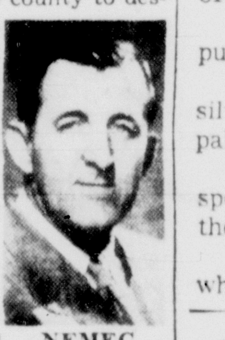
SPIKED rumors that they would ask the State Legislature for an act to provide a metro government in Palm Beach County.

ADOPTED a resolution making their intentions about Palm Beach Air Force Base, once deactivated, official.

Commissioners said they would offer no objections to a legislative bill which would enable the county to create a system for licensing plumbers, electricians, and building contractors.

James Nemec, attorney representing plumbers and electricians, asked the county to seek the bill through the legislative delegation.

The special act, he said, would permit the county to designate a licensing board. At present, licenses are issued by the tax collector. There are no requirements other than a fee.



NEMEC

Nemec contended the present system was inadequate and failed to conform with the City of West Palm Beach and other east coast areas.

Charles Harris, electrical union representative, charged there was a "little laxity" and, "We're getting a lot of people in here who have no knowledge of the trade."

Harris also claimed that the county's inspection was lax. Commissioners advised the proponents of the licensing law to seek the bill themselves and said they would offer no objections.

Nemec brought up the rumor about a metro government for Palm Beach County. He said he had heard reports commissioners were going to ask for an enabling act to provide for a home-rule countywide government.

Glades Commissioner Paul Rardin answered for the board with an emphatic no.

In its resolution on the Air Base, commissioners urged cities and towns bordering on the huge airport tract to keep hands off.

They declared they would oppose any move to incorporate or annex part of the air base property. The land reverts to the county after deactivation. The county said it intended to operate the air base as a commercial airport until a new air terminal is constructed.

Meanwhile, it plans a study to determine the best use for the property. Eventually it will sell the tract using the funds to build a new jet age airport.

Hocus Pocus Not for Rardin

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — County Commissioner Paul Rardin holds no truck with crystal balls and tea leaves.

"A fortune-teller can't tell you what's going to happen before the sun goes down tomorrow," he declared and promptly voted against approving licenses for two crystal ball gazers in Palm Beach County.

A commissioner from the Glades district for 14 years, Rardin consistently votes against the future-tellers.

"I've never seen the proof and I don't intend to be a party to foisting them off on the public," the commissioner said. Rardin charged that fortune tellers take away the "hard earned cash" of the "unsuspecting sort of person."

"Oh, a few educated people go, I guess," he added. But mostly, he continued, the person goes with "an air of expectancy" and is completely "unsuspecting."

To Rardin, crystal balls, tea leaves and palms are pure poppycock.

"If you cross their palms with a certain amount of silver," he said of fortune tellers, "they'll read your palm."

Each time a license comes up, Rardin "makes a little speech" and votes "No." Each time the vote is 4 to 1 and the license is granted.

And without a crystal ball, you can predict that's what will happen next time too.

Burdick, Burns Fight Over Ad Commission

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Two prominent attorneys tangled in a "verdict is yours" performance before Monday's City Commission session.

The attorneys — Robert Burns, a member of the City Advertising Commission and president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Sylvan Burdick, city commissioner.

The subject: the Advertising Commission.

Without benefit of judge, jury or points of law, the two lawyers engaged in a heated argument.

Burdick again charged the city was "dragging its feet" on creating a City Advertising Department and hiring a publicity man.

Burns said the Ad Commission was working on the publicity man angle and in an angry voice complained of the "constant" criticism heaped on the ad group. He charged that the "person who makes the loudest noise never has been to a meeting."

He was referring to Burdick. Firing another salvo at the commissioner, Burns accused Burdick of turning "rumor into half-baked fact." He contended Burdick, by his comments and his request for an audit of the Ad Commission spending, was assailing the integrity of those who served on the group.

24 Lots Sold As Ordered At Auction

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Twenty four lots between State Rd. A1A and the Intracoastal Waterway belonging to Highland Beach Realty Co. were knocked down at public auction here Monday for $70,500.

The public sale at the courthouse was under an order in a mortgage foreclosure suit issued by Circuit Judge Joseph S. White last Dec. 30.

Purchasers were identified as E. L. Montgomery, of Montgomery Dredging Co., and Zinke-Smith, Inc. of 750 NW 31st Ave., Fort Lauderdale.

1. The foreclosure suit was brought last July by Carl R. and Beulah Warner. It named as defendants Highlands Realty, Zinke-Smith, Montgomery Dredging and several others who claimed mechanic liens on the property.

The Warners bid $70,453 in the public sale but were topped by the Montgomery-Zinke-Smith bid. Under the court order the original plaintiffs and others named in the suit will receive funds they claimed against the property.

United Nations Contest Offers Students Trip to Europe, Bonds

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — National and local awards are available to high school students through the annual high school contest examination on the United Nations, the Palm Beach County chapter announced Monday.

Local students can join with an estimated 70,000 others to win awards by answering a series of questions on the U.N. and the position within it of the U.S.

In addition to many local awards, the first national award is a trip to Europe, or $500; the second, a trip to Mexico, or $200.

Sixteen winners will be eligible to receive a scholarship in the International School of America, spending a year studying while traveling around the world.

Local awards include $100, $50 and $25 U.S. savings bonds. The examination will be held March 5.

The contest was originally announced in October. It is accredited by the National Association of Secondary High School principals.

Students register for the contest through one teacher in each of the county's high schools. The examination is based on a study kit sent to each school upon registration.

Although no Palm Beach county students have yet entered, they still have time to get in for the examinations.

The contest is sponsored by the American Association for the U.N., a non profit educational organization which seeks to answer U.S. citizens' questions about the U.N.

Vodka Zooms In a Record Liquor Year

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

Six years ago, you could almost put in a thimble the amount of vodka sold in Florida. Or in the nation, for that matter.

Last year, vodka sales in the state zoomed to around 620,000 gallons.

The increased popularity of Mr. Khrushchev's favorite beverage helped push overall liquor sales in Florida for 1958 to a record total of 7,550,000 gallons. Nationally, there were 216,000,000 gallons sold.

These figures were obtained Monday from the Distilled Spirits Institute through local liquor industry sources.

* * *

Florida's consumption of vodka — which is seriously challenging gin as the favorite base for martinis and tall, cool hot weather drinks — was up 17 per cent over 1957's total.

While vodka was on the rise, bonded bourbon suffered a 10 per cent decline and Scotch and straight bourbons showed moderate gains.

Gin consumption dropped some three per cent to a 1958 total of around 840,000 gallons.

What's responsible for the big boom in vodka, which once was little more than a strange sounding European drink generally associated with photographs of diplomatic receptions at the Russian embassy?

"It's all drinks to all people," says Felix Wolf, regional manager for the General Wine and Spirits Co. who pushes his own special brand of vodka. "The mixed drink made with vodka retains only the flavor of the mixer."

Most of the vodka sold in the U.S. is American-made. Wolf says American distillers make better vodka than the Russians "because Americans have put to work their technological know-how and developed new processes."

The total liquor consumption in Florida in 1958 is up 5.5 per cent over the previous year.

The past year saw the emergence of liquor price wars in Florida but some industry leaders discount them as a factor in the consumption increase.

Some are disturbed by the price-cutting because, as one put it, "it has enabled problem drinkers to buy and consume more liquor for the same amount of money."

"We can do without the problem drinkers altogether," he said. "We don't want their money."

* * *

The 5.5 per cent rise is attributed mainly to the increase in population rather than an increase in the amount of liquor consumed per drinker.

Among other Florida whisky sales statistics from 1958 are these:

SCOTCH up nine per cent.
CANADIAN whisky up 12 per cent.
RUM up 14 per cent.
CORDIALS down 21 per cent.
BLENDED whisky, about the same as the previous year.

And what's ahead for liquor sales here in 1959?

If the present trend continues — and if we don't discover it's a Russian secret weapon — vodka should outsell Scotch and Canadian before the year's out.

Are You Over 35?

There's a New Look in Stocks

By SYLVIA PORTER
Financial Analyst

"No one over 35 can make money out of this market!"

This exquisitely apt remark was made by Bernard B. Robinson, a retired multimillionaire, to his friend, Arthur Wiesenberger, head of the Wall Street firm bearing his name, a short while ago. Wiesenberger quoted it in a widely publicized speech — and now, it is becoming "the" comment among the pros in the stock market.

"I've heard it repeated over and over as I've made the rounds," I said to Wiesenberger when I called to tell him of his latest claim to fame. "It's the sort of cryptic sentence that cries out for explanation. Let's pull it apart."

SYLVIA

This we did—but to understand fully what the comment implies, consider first the background against which it was made.

* * *

Just in the last 11 months, the Dow-Jones average of industrial stock prices has skyrocketed almost 160 points, the sharpest upsurge in so short a period in history. The boom in stock prices began during the worst months of the 1957-58 recession, at a time when corporation profits were slumping, and it has persisted with virtually no interruption since.

So high have prices risen in many instances that a buyer of some stocks at today's levels is getting dividends equivalent to return of only 2 to 3 per cent a year on his investment. In contrast, a buyer of U.S. Government bonds in the open market can get a yearly income of well over 4 per cent. In terms of history during most of this century, the relationship between stock and bond prices is fantastically upside-down.

This is the background against which to weigh the remark that "no one over 35 can make money out of this market." Now, what does it mean?

It means that the real skeptics about today's stock market are those old enough to remember how it was in the '20s and in the '30s.

* * *

These older adults in Wall Street recall what a depression is. They are not convinced and they never will be convinced that the boom-bust cycle is dead. They remember the stock market crash of 1929-32. They remember the brutally severe stock market slump of 1937-38.

* * *

It means that increasing numbers of newcomers to the stock market are following new ways of investing. They think not in terms of buying and selling, but in terms of buying regularly and holding for the long, long pull.

They put their savings into shares of mutual funds and trust professional managers to invest the cash profitably. They participate in the stock market through corporation stock purchase plans, through their pension or union funds, through investment clubs, etc.

"Is it a new era?" I asked Wiesenberger.

"Every era is a new era," he answered. "And actually, I think the average level of stock prices will double by 1962. But as far as the stock market is concerned, I wish I wasn't so much older than 35. I'd feel a lot more comfortable on the way to the doubled price level."

'Now I Know I Can Sell'; Junior Achievement Did It

By EVELYN DeTARDO
Herald Staff Writer

Scoff, if you will, but Miami teenagers today take their rock 'n' roll while they discuss business stock sales and production problems.

What's holding their rapt, if somewhat fledgling, business interest is Junior Achievement, a program of self-managed, self-owned, self-operated teenage businesses selling products and stock to adults.

One youngster, 17-year old Sunny Smith, of 1701 SW 72nd Ct., admits, "I joined Junior Achievement because my best girl friend joined."

That was last year, and Sunny's company didn't do so well. They were producing earrings, then switched to toy blocks.

As Sunny tells it: "When we liquidated the company we could only pay back 15 cents for each 50-cent share of stock."

But this year Sunny is back. "I took bookkeeping, typing and short hand in school," she explains.

"This year I think we'll make it. I know now I can sell.

Junior Achievement was organized here when a group of civic leaders got together with the Miami Kiwanis Club in 1956. They listened to JA youngsters from Atlanta tell their story.

The group raised $27,000 for operating expenses and formed a board of directors, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as honorary chairman.

Since then, there have been 37 companies formed with 850 youngsters ages 15-19 participating.

Last year teenagers from four high schools volunteered. This year students applied from seven high schools.

Fifteen businesses were chosen to advise the achievers.

This year's 19 companies meet one night a week for two hours at the JA Center, 261 SW Sixth St.

The JA program runs from October until May. Each company applies for a charter, negotiates a lease, pays three dollars a month for shop fees, elects officers and chooses the product it plans to manufacture.

Every member of a company is a director. And every company has production, sales and personnel managers picked from the local business which sponsors a group.

The public will have its chance to evaluate the JA products during the Junior Achievement Trade Exposition Friday and Saturday at the DuPont Plaza Center. The exposition is open from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

A typical company is Sockettes, sponsored by Sears Roebuck. The 13 teens in the group manufacture and sell a sock doll for $1.94.

Stock for all JA companies sells at 50 cents a share, with a five-share limit per buyer.

Sockettes voted to pay 25 cents to themselves as workers, and 30 cents to officers, and when they sell the product, the board voted to give itself a five per cent commission as salesmen.

The minimum wage is 20 cents an hour.

In May, regardless of how many products have been sold, produced, whether they are in the red or the black financially the companies will have an annual stockholders report, and liquidate the companies — after, of course, they have paid their income taxes.

And why is business so interested in JA?

According to Durand W. Fisher, of Eastern Air Lines, "It's a good training program for our company executives who act as advisors. And we want our youth to find interest in business."

One Day's Pay To United Fund

Miami's teenage businessmen — and women — have voted 100 per cent to contribute a fair share to the United Fund.

The 300 active members of Junior Achievement draw a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour and work a two-hour day. The individual contributions of 40 cents or more resulted in a $90 check, which will be sent to United Fund offices.

On-Car Tire Prices Up; May Be a Trend

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

Major rubber companies have raised the price of original equipment tires by from 1 to 2½ per cent.

The increase, the first big one since 1957, is likely to be a forerunner of retail tire price increases for consumers later this year, Dow Jones said.

Original equipment tires are those that come with new cars, trucks, busses and other vehicles. Their prices are subject to direct negotiation with vehicle manufacturers and are not publicly announced.
